[illegible]

THE LOWELL SUN

6 O'CLOCK

ESTABLISHED 1878 LOWELL MASS. TUESDAY SEPTEMBER 2 1924 14 PAGES TWO CENTS

Superior Criminal Court Opens Here

BELIEVE LOWELL MAN DROWNED

Wholesale Conscription in China

SUPERIOR COURT OPENS HERE FOR TRIAL OF CRIMINAL CASES

Judge Irwin on the Bench—Invocation Pronounced by Rev. John T. Ullom—Arson Case First on Trial List—Court Will Adjourn to Cambridge Tomorrow

The fall term of the superior court for the transaction of criminal business opened at the county court house in Lowell this forenoon and after the trial of one case will adjourn tomorrow at 10 a. m. to East Cambridge for the remainder of the session.

Judge Richard T. Irwin was on the bench today and court was opened by Sheriff John R. Fairbairn, with invocation pronounced by Rev. John T. Ullom, pastor of the Matthews Memorial P. M. church.

The case to go to trial today was that of John Tsaffaras and Peter J. Courembis, both of Lowell, the former charged with arson and the latter with being an accessory before the fact to the same complaint. A jury was empaneled shortly before noon and 13 witnesses were sworn in for the government which was represented by Assistant District Attorney Bushnell.

Tsaffaras is indicted on a charge of attempting to wilfully destroy by fire on the morning of March 6, this year, a building in Race street owned by Courembis and the latter is charged with full prior knowledge and with enticing and hiring Tsaffaras to commit arson.

The government will argue that the motive behind the alleged crime was the collection of $4000 insurance money by Courembis. Attorney Bushnell

Continued to Page Three

SHERIFF JOHN R. FAIRBAIRN

TO WITHDRAW STATE TROOPS

Guardsmen on Duty at Herrin, Ills., Prepare to Return to Springfield

Called Following Clash Between Klansmen and Deputies—Six Men Killed

HERRIN, Ills., Sept. 2.—(By the Associated Press) State troops on duty here since Saturday, when six men were killed in a clash between members of the Ku Klux Klan and the county sheriff and his deputies, prepared early today to return to Springfield.

Seventeen troopers, under command of Captain H. M. Bigelow, were under orders to remain in Herrin until released by Sheriff George Galligan.

Today, Dr. J. T. Black, superintendent of the Herrin hospital, and John Craig, held under $10,000 bond in connection with the slayings Saturday were to be arraigned in the Herrin city court on murder charges before Judge E. N. Bowen, against whom a murder warrant also has been issued.

Included in yesterday's developments was a statement issued by the Ministers' association of Williamson county, in which the state's attorney and sheriff were classed as incompetents and their removal from office suggested as the remedy for a situation that has long harassed the townspeople of Herrin and cost the lives of many men and the money of the state.

PAYMENT BY GERMANY

Initial Installment of 20,000,000 Gold Marks Under the Dawes Plan

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Germany today made her initial payment of 20,000,000 gold marks under the Dawes plan. The payment was received here by Leon Frazier, assistant to Owen D. Young, agent-general ad interim for reparations payments.

EPIDEMIC OF SLEEPING SICKNESS SPREADS

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The epidemic of sleeping sickness which began in England and Wales at the beginning of the year shows little signs of abating and its seriousness has been brought home to everybody by the deaths of several well known persons.

The epidemic has extended without a break from the beginning of February until now, the only redeeming feature being the comparatively low death rate. During this period the number of cases in England and Wales amounted to more than 4000.

The death rate was 12 to 21 per cent, as compared with 40 per cent. of the cases in former epidemics.

CRUISER RALEIGH TO UNDERGO REPAIRS

BOSTON, Sept. 2—With her two starboard propellers torn away in battling ice floes in northern waters, the cruiser Raleigh was bound for this port today for repairs, according to word received at the Charlestown navy yard. The Raleigh met with her mishap while acting with other navy vessels as a convoy to the round-the-world flight. She is expected here tomorrow or Thursday.

"ON GUARD" GOES TO BERKSHIRE ATHENAEUM

BOSTON, Sept. 2—By the will of Thomas Allen, member of the Boston Artillery commission, filed today, a picture painted by him entitled "On Guard" is given to the Berkshire Athenaeum of Pittsfield.

ISLAND LAID WASTE BY STORMS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The island of St. John, in the Virgin Island group, was practically laid waste by the second hurricane within [illegible] of four days, according to a despatch today to the navy de[illegible]. So far five deaths have been reported at St. John, but there were many minor casualties.

[illegible]RNE COAL CO.
[illegible]LLS NEW ENGLAND COKE
Telephone 284

Warlords in Chinese Provinces Raise Armies Large Enough to Last Through Long Campaign

McCOY FACES EIGHT CHARGES

Alleged Slayer of Mrs. Mors to Appear in Superior Court at Los Angeles Today

To Plead to Murder Charge, Four Charges of Robbery and Three of Assault

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Kid McCoy, alleged slayer of Mrs. Theresa Mors, was to appear in superior court today to plead to a murder charge and four charges of robbery and three of assault with intent to murder, growing out of the death of Mrs. Mors, Aug. 12, and a shooting affray in and near her antique shop the next day.

The former pugilist's pleas have been twice postponed on technical grounds, but Dist. Atty. Keyes was confident that there would be no further postponement today. Keyes was prepared to follow McCoy's expected pleas of "not guilty" on all counts of the indictments with a determined effort to have him brought to trial on the murder charge before Oct. 1.

BROADWAY FIRE CASE GIVEN TO GRAND JURY

The Middlesex county grand jury in session here today was presented facts in the alleged arson case resulting from a threatening fire in a grocery and fruit store at 179 Broadway early in the morning of July 23. State officers conducted an inquest at Lowell fire headquarters two weeks ago and the state fire marshal after reviewing the case decided to give it to the grand jury.

The jury will adjourn to East Cambridge tomorrow morning and after further deliberations on other cases will report findings on Friday. The murder charge against Dr. Raymond L. Thierry of Somerville is among the cases to be considered.

The jury was sworn in before Judge Richard T. Irwin this forenoon and then went into session in the civil court room, with the government being represented by Assistant District Attorney Bishop.

MAKE YOUR NEXT VACATION
BIGGER, BETTER
AND EASIER
JOIN THE
VACATION CLUB
NOW FORMING
LOWELL INSTITUTION
FOR SAVINGS
18 SHATTUCK ST., Lowell, Mass.

NO CURE
NO PAY
DOWS DIARRHOEA AND CHOLERA SYRUP
ALL DRUGGISTS 25c and 50c

Dr. Jas. F. Loughran
Is now at his old office,
FISKE BUILDING,
219 Central St.

JUROR WAS NOT CITIZEN OF THE UNITED STATES

Nils D. Gustafson of Arlington, one of 40 traverse jurors called this morning at the opening of the fall session of the superior criminal court in this city, was found not to be a citizen of the country, in fact, had only made application for his first papers. He was excused without delay, the court expressing some surprise and considerable wonderment as to how his name had been placed upon the jury [illegible]. It was the first case of its exact nature within the memory of the oldest court officers present.

TWO WOMEN HELD IN SHOOTING

Unidentified Man Shot to Death Early Today at W. Philadelphia House

Mrs. Helen Mayhew, Former Actress and Hazel Benson Held for Homicide

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—An unidentified man was shot and killed early today on the porch of a West Philadelphia house occupied by Mrs. Helen Mayhew, 46, and Hazel Benson, 30. Both women were arrested and held on a homicide charge.

Mrs. Mayhew is said to have admitted to police she had threatened the man and three companions with a pistol when they attempted to force their way into the house. According to detectives she is said to have stated she "didn't intend to shoot the man." Mrs. Mayhew was once an actress. She declared she did not know the slain man. The initials "J.D.R." were found on the back of an old fashioned watch in his pocket.

DIES OF HER INJURIES

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 2.—Anna Pascone, 63, wife of John Pascone, 36 Woodbridge street, Hartford, injured in a collision of motor car and electric car in Olneyville square on Sunday, died this morning at 2.50 in the Rhode Island hospital.

Auto license fees paid during the first six months of 1924 amounted to $195,821,622.

Jackson
FOR GOVERNOR
Meeting in LIBERTY HALL
TUESDAY, SEPT. 2
At 8.15 p. m.
Speakers:
Hon. James Jackson
Gen. Clarence R. Edwards
John L. Hurley, Esq.
U. S. Cartridge Co. Band
Admission Free All Welcome
Adv. CHARLES A. STEVENS, 277 Wilder St.

MAJOR CONFLICT MAY BE ON

Shanghai Cut Off—Reports Major Military Conflict Has Begun

Every Man Able to Carry Gun Called — Houses Seized by Troops

SHANGHAI, Sept. 2.—(By The Associated Press)—Shanghai has been cut off from railway and telegraph communication with the inland since morning, but it is impossible to confirm numerous reports that a major military conflict has begun.

The Blue express train for Peking left at midnight last night and is known to have arrived at Quinsan but whether it proceeded northward is not known. The Nanking express due here at 7 o'clock this morning, has not been heard from.

Railway officials are without authentic information, but express a belief that no fighting had occurred up to noon.

One train was started out this morning to go as far as Nausing to transport to Shanghi about a thousand refugees who had gathered there.

It is believed that the telegraph lines have been cut by the forces of Lu Yung Hsiang in Chekiang province to prevent the dispatching of trains which it is reported, the northern forces have been seizing and converting into troop carriers.

Wholesale Conscription

SHANGHAI, Sept. 2.—(By The Associated Press)—The hostilities in

Continued to Page Three

HUSBAND IN COURT WIFE IN HOSPITAL

A Saturday night assault on his 20-year-old wife, Helen, landed Frank Wojcik in district court this morning and the wife in St. John's hospital with painful injuries to her face and head. She was removed to that institution, following an alleged brutal beating by her husband, who is charged with assault and battery. When arrested Saturday night, he was bailed in $200, but upon learning the circumstances, Judge Enright increased the bail to $500 this morning, and continued the case to Thursday.

YOUR FAILURES
Are usually due to lack of knowledge. Before investing ask your Bank about the investment.
This Bank is always willing to give you any information it may have.
May we help you?
MERRIMACK RIVER
SAVINGS BANK
228 [illegible] Street

FEAR B. & M. SECTION FOREMAN WAS DROWNED IN RIVER

George L. Dickey Started Out in Rowboat Yesterday Forenoon and Disappeared—Capsized Boat Found in Stream Near Boulevard Shore

The discovery of a capsized rowboat in which George L. Dickey of 31 Cascade avenue, a section foreman in the Boston & Maine railroad yards, Middlesex village, was last seen alive, his failure to reach his designation or to return to his home since he started to cross the Merrimack river in a water-soaked craft about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, have caused his relatives and the police to conclude that he was drowned when the boat overturned in the stream. It was found 100 yards from the Pawtucket boulevard shore.

The mysterious disappearance of the man was reported to the police this morning and Patrolman John L. Huse was detailed to investigate. He learned that Mr. Dickey requested Joseph P. Mason of 1575 Middlesex street, to accompany him across the river yesterday morning. The two went to the water's edge near the Middlesex village railroad station, where two rowboats were anchored. One of them was well-filled with water, but Dickey volunteered to row it across the stream if Mason would follow in the second boat. The missing man said he wished to visit a friend on the other side of the river.

Rain began to fall before the two men had proceeded far, and Dickey became obscured in the fog. Mason felt that he reached the opposite shore safely, however, and returned to his home. It was not until this morning that Dickey's relatives became anxious concerning his whereabouts, as he had not appeared at the home of the friends he had set out to visit. Neither had he returned to his home.

The finding of the upturned boat this morning added to the theory that he had been drowned and the police were notified. Volunteers were dragging the river this afternoon.

REVOLT IN MEXICO

56,000 Men, Including 25,000 Traitors, Took Part in La Huerta Uprising

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—Fifty-six thousand men, including 25,000 traitors from the army, took part in the recent revolt headed by Adolf de La Huerta and the cost to the Mexican government of suppressing the movement was approximately sixty million pesos, President Obregon declared in his final presidential message to congress last evening.

Outlining the accomplishments of his administration for the last four years, President Obregon declared that peace had been consolidated throughout the country, the government had fostered equitable distribution of the national resources, the position of the working classes had been visibly bettered through increased wages, more efficient union organization and wider education and the liberty of the press had been sustained.

His full desires for the full aggrandizement of the nation had not been realized owing to the reactionary influences culminating in the de La Huerta rebellion, but the way was clearing and he urged congress to pursue the work of national reconstruction.

TRIAL OF SHIP PILOTS INVOLVED IN CRASH

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 2—Trial of the masters of the steamer Boston and tanker Swiftarrow, the collision of which July 21 off Point Judith resulted in the death of four of the Boston's passengers, will be begun before the United States steamboat inspectors here September 22. Captain Alfred W. McCall of the Boston is charged with having signalled that his engines were working full speed reverse when the two ships were not in sight of each other and with traveling at a fast rate under the conditions. Captain Jose Gomes of the Swiftarrow, is charged with having signaled that his engines were working full speed astern when not in sight of the other boat, signalling that his boat was stopped and failing to stop his engines when he heard a fog whistle on his beam.

FARNUM'S
HOME BAKERY
59 Westford Street
REOPENED

For State Treasurer
NOMINATE
KEITH of BROCKTON
Ex-Mayor Roger Keith, 45 South St., Brockton.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Driver of Car in Which Man Was Killed Arraigned Here Today

John Sinkevitch of 7 South street, Nashua, was arraigned in district court this morning on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Ezra Avard, of South Main street, Nashua, after an automobile accident in Mammoth road late Saturday evening. The case was continued pending the inquest report and Sinkevitch bailed in $2000.

The accident resulting in Avard's death also resulted in injuries to four other occupants of the machine. The

Continued to Page Three

ANOTHER DRUNKEN DRIVER SENTENCED

Louis Larouche, who was arrested in Merrimack street by Traffic Officer Daniel Brennan on August 4, was fined $100 and sentenced to serve 15 days in the house of correction when he was found guilty in district court this morning, of operating an automobile while he was under the influence of liquor. He was also fined $5 for drunkenness, and $20 for operating a motor vehicle without a license. Appeals were taken and Larouche was ordered to recognize in $500 for his appearance in superior court.

The only other drunken driver case to come before the court this morning was that involving Arthur H. Nadeau of 67 Beech street, who was continued to Sept. 13. He was arrested last night by Patrolmen Francis O'Loughlin and Joseph Clark in Rogers square.

N. Y. AND BOSTON CLEARINGS

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Exchanges $693,000,000; balances $83,000,000.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Exchanges, $51,000,000. Balances, $23,000,000.

MEMBER
FEDERAL RESERVE
SYSTEM
SAVINGS DEPOSITS
MADE TODAY
DRAW
INTEREST
FROM SEPT. 1
Middlesex National Bank
Under Supervision of the United States Government
Merrimack cor. Palmer

MATRIMONIAL

Cullen—Flynn

A pretty September wedding and one which was of interest to many local and out of town folk was solemnized this morning at a nuptial mass celebrated at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock when Miss Alice Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Flynn of 86 School street and Mr. John Cullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cullen, were united in the bonds of matrimony by Rev. John J. McGarry, D.C.L. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion, the altars being arranged with a profusion of gladioli interspersed with lighted candles, which combination made a fitting and pleasing background. The bride wore a handsome gown of white crepe Ramaine trimmed with point applique lace. Her veil was of point lace caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and lilies of the valley. Miss Ruth Murphy, a classmate of the bride, Lowell State Normal school, class of '17, wore honeydew georgette crepe with hat to match and carried tea rosebuds. Mr. William J. Cullen, brother of the bridegroom acted as best man. During the mass Miss Frances Tighe sang "Ave Maria" and "O Salutaris" while Mr. Joseph D. Lannan rendered "Salve Regina." Following the ceremony a reception and dinner were held at the home of the bride's parents at which guests were present from Boston, New York and Quincy. The house was prettily decorated with gladioli and asparagus fern. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a gold bracelet, to the best man a K. of C. ring, and to the ushers, gold cuff links. The bride's gift to the bridegroom was a pair of gold cuff links and to the bridesmaid a gold acquamarine ring. The ushers at the church and the home were: Joseph P. Condrey, Everett M. Mahoney, James I Kelley and Edward J. Barrett. The bride, a former school teacher, is well and popularly known locally. The bridegroom was captain of the Lowell high school football team, 1913-14. Mr. and Mrs. Cullen left on an extended wedding tour to the White Mountains, New York and Atlantic City and upon their return will make their home at 86 School street.

Lemke—Burke

Mr. Arthur Leo Lemke and Miss Catherine G. Burke were married at a nuptial mass celebrated yesterday morning at St. Michael's church by Rev. A. Madden. Miss Marietta F. Burke and Mr. Edward C. Murphy attended the couple. The bride was attired in white georgette trimmed with Spanish lace and wore a veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried white roses. The bridesmaid wore pink georgette with picture hat and carried American beauty roses. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in 18th street, following which Mr. and Mrs. Lemke left on an extended wedding tour to New York and Philadelphia. Upon their return they will make their home at 51 15th street.

Bradford—Thomas

Mr. Paul Bradford of South Lancaster and Miss Frances L. Thomas were married yesterday afternoon at the Seventh Day Adventist church by Elder W. C. Moffett. Miss Annie Thomas and Mr. William Bradford attended the couple. The bride wore a gown of white marinette with veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried white roses. The bridesmaid wore orchid crepe de chine with picture hat to match and carried white roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Tolman avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Bradford will make their home in Vienna, Va.

Erdis—Cass

Mr. Robert M. Erdis and Miss Helen L. Cass of Chelmsford were married last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Cass by Rev. John C. Lovell. The bride wore a handsome gown of powder blue georgette and carried American beauty roses. Miss Leona Duclose, the bridesmaid, wore cocoa brown crepe and carried Ophelia roses. Mr. Donald Erdis, brother of the bridegroom was best man. The bride's gift to her attendant was a gold mesh bag while the bridegroom presented the best man a pair of gold cuff links. Mr. and Mrs. Erdis left on an extended wedding tour and upon their return they will make their home at 169 Merrimack street where they will be at home after October 1.

Washburn—Koehler

Mr. John M. Washburn, Jr., and Miss Ruth P. Koehler were united in marriage Saturday evening at the church of Our Savior, Roslindale, by Rev E. Gordon Carey. The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with chantilly lace and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Barbara M. Ferno, the maid of honor wore orchid georgette. The bridesmaids, the Misses Mary A. Washburn, Dorothy A. Spear, Muriel Leach and Lucille Washburn were attired in orchid and peach georgette. Mr. Burton W. Marsh was best man. The ushers at the church and home were Mr. Dean Symmes, Dr. Ralph W. Short, Mr. Arthur Goosetrey and Mr. George Jenkins. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls and the bride's gift to the bridegroom was a watch fob. The maid of honor was presented a bar pin; the bridesmaids, vanity cases, the best man, a gold pencil and the ushers, billfolds. Mr. Washburn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Washburn of Princeton street this city.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH THEATRE

Lowell's B. F. Keith theatre is especially fortunate in being able to present the Meistersingers as a headline act this week. Known throughout New England and in many other parts of the country as one of the most capable male singing organizations now in concert work, the 12 Boston men who comprise the group present a program of harmony that is unsurpassed and although usually heard only on the concert stage, they are equally at home on a vaudeville tour such as the present one.

Yesterday's holiday audiences liked the Meistersingers and gave them every incentive and encouragement to prolong their program. Their selections included choral selections of the best grade, with here and there a more swinging later-day melody. Their opening was the Hunting Song from "King Arthur" and was followed by "Hula Hula Dream Girl" with solo by Arthur F. Cole; "Morning" and an arrangement of "Songs of Long Ago." There were several solos effectively worked into the choruses. The members of the organization are Harold S. Tripp, Allan C. Prescott, W. C. Johnson, Robert MacKenzie, Arthur F. Cole and L. M. Bartlett, tenors, and Franklin C. Field, John R. Jones, W. F. Clapp, T. C. Phillips, A. C. Steele and W. E. Davidson, basses.

Comedy is the foundation of the act of Johnny Sully and Muriel Thomas, with the former carrying most of the bright lines and the latter helping out with pep and personality. Miss Thomas also dances well and the whole act is good entertainment from start to finish.

Other acts on the bill are Smith and Duane, singers and dancers; Jack Handley, comedy pantomime juggler; Bert Wilcox and Josephine LaCroix, who present "The White Collar Man," and Jackie and Billie, a pair of conversational cockatoos.

The motion picture feature for the week is "The Code of the Wilderness," starring John Bowers, Alan Hale, Alice Calhoun and Otis Harlan.

LOEW'S RIALTO

Evidently the makers of "After the Ball," which packed the Rialto theatre to capacity yesterday despite the terrific heat, left nothing to chance when they undertook this masterpiece. Realizing that no one knew better than Charles K. Harris, author of this world-famous song, the depth of pathos back of his ballade, they went to him for the story itself. The cast is "balance" at its perfection, with Gaston Glass, Miriam Cooper, Edna Murphy and Robert Frazer combining in as fine a piece of dramatic artistry as the screen has seen in many a day. The Rialto management announces that "After the Ball" is but the first of a series of big first run productions that will be shown during the coming season.

Love that defies the world-love that holds a woman's heart faithful to the verge of utter ruin, love that braves prison walls and the censure of the brilliant social world, love that emerges triumphant and exulting—this is the theme of "After the Ball," as the story is built around that charming melody known to millions for two-score years. The plot is startling in its development. Arthur Trevelyan, son of a retired New York millionaire, a lovable, care-free fellow, becomes involved in a series of escapades that send him to prison under another name, with a big jewelry robbery apparently fastened to him beyond hope of legal escape—an innocent man accepting ruin rather than reveal his identity and disgrace his family. Arthur has a sister, Lorraine, beautiful, talented, a society pet, whose love for her brother is maternal in its passion. Then Arthur "disappears" into prison and is reported dead to his family, who are abroad. This message also goes to his wife, a former Follies girl, whose marriage to Arthur caused the father to disinherit him. Lorraine returns from abroad, falls in love with a deputy district attorney, and Arthur escapes from prison. He goes to find Lorraine, meets her on the veranda at a fashionable ball, and brother and sister are surprised in each other's arms by Lorraine's lover, to whom Arthur is unknown. Arthur is recaptured and tried for murder, with Tom the lover, as prosecutor.

At this point the story takes a novel and unexpected twist. There is much pathos, with a little sprinkling of humor, just enough to give you a chance to wipe away the tears. Don't miss "After the Ball;" it's a big production in every way.

Kenneth McDonald, in "Yankee Speed," a melodrama chock full of excitement and action, another round of H. C. Witwer's "Fighting Blood," a Buddy Messenger comedy and a Fox News are included in this splendid holiday program which will be shown today and tomorrow.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The motion picture masterpiece, "The Covered Wagon," depicting American history in the making and admittedly a great human document in its wonderful picturing of the romance and tragedy of that great western "trek" to a beckoning El Dorado, is attracting a host of patrons to Merrimack Square theatre this week. Marvels never cease, but "The Covered Wagon" is stupendous in its way—depicting as it does the rugged country of the far west and the excitement and catastrophes attendant upon the march of pioneers over unknown trails with attendant dangers besetting them upon every turn and forward advance.

The wonderful production is a Paramount, made by the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, and directed by James Cruze which, of course, insures its success. The late Emerson Hough wrote the original story, which has been adapted by Jack Cunningham. More than 3000 actors and actresses spent three months in the Utah desert, 80 miles from any railroad, working daily to complete "The Covered Wagon."

All scenes are depicted "true to life." In fact, few motion picture presentations of real life have ever caught the public attention so quickly and held that attention so closely. Theatregoers see "The Covered Wagon" once and go again. The time of the story is in the year 1848. The film depicts the start of the rough caravan of covered wagons, with wives and children of the pioneers seated within the vehicles and the husbands and sons walking beside the caravan, bearing arms to protect their loved ones from Indian assaults. There are spectacular attacks by the redskins, nevertheless, shown with every sordid phase.

The cast for "The Covered Wagon" was carefully selected. The principal characters and the players are as follows: J. Warren Kerrigan, as Will Banion; Lois Wilson, as Molly Wingate; Ernest Torrence, Jackson; Charles Ogle, Jesse Wingate; Ethel Wales, Mrs. Wingate; Alan Hale, Sam Woodhull; Tully Marshall, Bridger; Guy Oliver, Joe Dunstan; John Fox, Jed Wingate.

A feud of bitter sordidness runs through the story of "The Covered Wagon." The love story has its attractive scenes and holds the interest of the audiences all. The perilous fording of the river by the wagon train is depicted with startling effect. A buffalo hunt is also shown, a prairie fire set by Indians in vengeful mood, then the end of the journey, but with depleted ranks. Mollie and Banion, the latter successful in the gold rush, are united in wedlock at last and the story reaches the end of the rainbow.

MOTHERS PRAISE BABY TABLETS

Remedy Well Known in Canada Is Successfully Introduced in This Country

Baby's Own Tablets for infants and young children, which have met with an extremely large sale in Canada, have been introduced in the United States and because of their efficiency and entire safety are declared to be a great help to mothers. The tablets have no drug taste and are guaranteed to be free from narcotics or opiates. Their use is increasing rapidly in this country for mothers who once try them will not be without them in the house.

From a Dover Mother

Mrs. William Hamilton of No. 6 Everett street, Dover, N. H., says: "Baby's Own Tablets are my remedy when the little ones are constipated. Their action is gentle, they are easy to take and the children like them. They are also useful for colds and to correct sour stomach. Baby's Own Tablets have made my baby bright, strong and healthy and I would not be without them."

Recommends Them to Others

Mrs. H. C. Thayer of No. 46 Middle street, Lewiston, Me., has found Baby's Own Tablets so reliable that she has recommended them to her neighbors. "When my boy had a cold," she says, "I gave him the tablets at night and in the morning he was all right. He was also constipated but the use of the tablets have made him regular. I can recommend Baby's Own Tablets to any mother."

Used During Teething

Mrs. Angelia Karaquaine of No. 34 Hedley street, Central Falls, R. I., says: "My experience with Baby's Own Tablets has been, that they reduce the fever caused by teething and give the baby healthy sleep. My little boy was sickly and could not eat. He got thin, was completely run down and was constipated. Before I had used half a box of Baby's Own Tablets he was regular. In a short time his appetite returned and he grew stronger and better in every way."

Book on Care of Baby

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, twenty-five cents per box, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. With every package is wrapped a booklet, "The Care of the Baby in Health and Sickness."—Adv.

BAND CONCERTS ON THE SOUTH COMMON

Two band concerts were given on the South common yesterday afternoon in connection with the Labor day observance and were enjoyed by a crowd estimated at 15,000 which had gathered to enjoy the sports program.

The first concert began at 1 o'clock and continued to 3, and was given by the Lowell Cadet band under the direction of John J. Giblin. The program follows:

March, Second Regiment, Connecticut National Guard
Overture, Nabucodonosor
Pops numbers
June Night
Maytime
Irish selections, The Humors of Donnybrook
Waltz Intermezzo, Novelette
Selection from The Comic Opera
Pops numbers
Chili Bom Bom
What'll I Do.
Selection from Robin Hood
Pops numbers
There's Yes, Yes, in Your Eyes
It Had to Be You
Southern Plantation Songs
March, New England's Finest.

The second concert, from 3 to 5 o'clock, was given by Regan's Military band, William Regan, director. The program follows:

March, Grandioso ....Seitz
Overture, Sicilian Vespers ......Verdi
Pops
Follow the Swallow..........Remick
Mr. Radio Man ....Feist
Selection, Romeo and Juliet...Gounod
Pops
Where the Lazy Daisies Grow, Remick
Can You Bring Back the Heart, Forster
Selection, Spanish Dance, Rosita, Missud
Selection, American Fantasia ..Bendix
The Star Spangled Banner.

CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Dr. Johan de la Parra filed papers at the office of the election commissioners today as independent candidate for representative in the state legislature from the 15th district. Dr. de la Parra's papers contained well over 400 signatures.

ORPHEUS CLUB OUTING

The annual outing of the Orpheus club was held Sunday at Mr. Georgiou's farm. More than a hundred young men left Lowell in automobiles preceded by the well organized Hellenic band which played the national airs. On arrival at the farm dinner was served and in the afternoon a series of field events was staged. The mile run was won by Jim Christos with Arthur Fipeas second. George Sarris took the shot-put. George Frangoudis was first in the running broad jump while Peter Manousos won the running high jump. Arthur Fipeas came in second in three events. The party returned to Lowell about 6 o'clock.

YESTERDAY'S FIRE ALARMS

But two alarms for fire were received at the Central fire station yesterday and both were for minor blazes in dumps. At 11.30 a. m. a telephone alarm was founded for fire in the First street dump and a 3.40 p. m. a similar alarm was sounded for fire in the Textile school dump.

Performance Continuous From 1 to 10.15.

LOWELL IS THE FIRST CITY IN NEW ENGLAND TO SEE "THE COVERED WAGON" AT THE FOLLOWING PRICES:

ORCHESTRA and FRONT BALCONY 50c 500 BALCONY SEATS 35c

CHILDREN At All Matinees 25c BOXES AND LOGES SEVENTY-FIVE

JESSE L. LASKY presents

'The COVERED WAGON'

Founded upon EMERSON HOUGH'S splendid story of love on the Oregon trail — Adapted by Jack Cunningham — Directed by James Cruze

A Paramount Production

NOTE—Other Features Including A Special Gang Comedy, "It's a Bear," Will Be Shown on the Same Program With "The Covered Wagon." BRING THE CHILDREN.

MERRIMACK SQ.

Performance Continuous From 1 P. M. to 10.15 P. M.

Five Hundred Good Evening Seats At Twenty Cts.

E. M. LOEW'S RIALTO

NOW PLAYING

Despite Yesterday's Intense Heat—This Picture Played to Capacity Houses!

After — THE — Ball

By Chas. K. Harris

With a Cast Including
GASTON GLASS and MIRIAM COOPER

— ALSO —

"YANKEE SPEED"

An Action Melodrama with KENNETH McDONALD

"FIGHTING BLOOD"

Buddy Messenger Comedy

Fox News

B. F. KEITH'S

TWICE DAILY, 2 and 8. Tel. 28

Big Holiday Bill of Stars!

Sixteenth Annual Tour

— THE — MEISTERSINGERS
Boston's Famous Singing Organization

SULLY & THOMAS
"Beauty, Youth and Folly"

WILCOX & LACROIX
"The White Collar Man"

JACK HANLEY
A Distinct Novelty

SMITH & DUANE
Two Southern Harmony Fools

JACKIE & BILLIE
Thinking and Talking Birds

Pathe News | Topics | Fables

Screen Presentations
"THE CODE OF THE WILDERNESS"
With an All Star Cast

The Bon Marché
DRY GOODS CO.

Boys' Suits

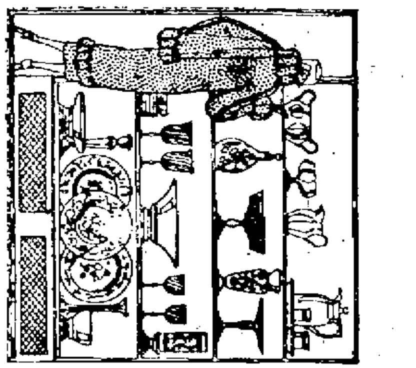
Jersey Pants and Waist Top— Sizes 3 to 8, at.............. $3.95
Sweaters to match the pants, at $2.95
A wonderful school combination.
Boys' Shop—Street Floor

Boys' Sweaters

Genuine Scotch Wool. Just the weight for fall............... $5.25
Pullover—Roll collar
Boys' Shop—Street Floor

For The Home

Desk Sets
Bookends
Student Lamps
Desk Lamps
Pollychromes
Candy Jars
Vases and Bowls
Compote Sets



THE BEST IN SILVER
Community
Rogers Bros. 1847
Wm. Rogers
Holmes and Edwards
All the most popular patterns. Service and satisfaction guaranteed.

NOW VACATIONS ARE OVER—and your wants for the Home are easily filled—for we are especially prepared as perhaps never before.
PICTURES AND MIRRORS that are so necessary to the attractive appearance of any room; are here in all sizes and styles, at very reasonable prices.
COLORED GLASSWARE, POTTERY, BRIDGE LAMPS and many other unusual things await your selection.
OVER FIFTY BEAUTIFUL DECORATIONS IN OPEN STOCK DINNERWARE for you to choose from. Fancy China and Tea Sets at tempting prices.
TABLE LAMPS AND BOUDOIR LAMPS that are delightfully different.
CRYSTAL GLASSWARE—that is practical and different.
SILVERWARE that is guaranteed to give satisfaction—beautiful in shape and exquisite in design.

The Gift Section—Third Floor
Pictures and Gifts—Silver and Glassware—China and Lamps

Special Values in Genuine UNIVERSAL
THE TRADE MARK KNOWN IN EVERY HOME

KETTLES and ROASTERS
For Preserving

Paring Knives
"Universal" "Resistain" Steel 3-inch blade, Cocobold handle.
Special at .... 25¢

Preserving Kettles

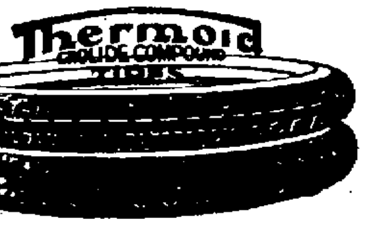
Seamless and Leak Proof. Bail handle set to stand at any angle. Smooth pouring lip. Extra large, tightly rolled bead.
10 Quart Size—Regularly $2.40— Sale Price $1.85
12 Quart Size—Regularly $2.80— Sale Price $2.20
14 Quart Size—Regularly $3.25— Sale Price $2.60
18 Quart size—Regularly $4.25— Sale Price $3.40
Covers can be furnished to fit all sizes.

Roasters

Heavy Seamless Aluminum, self-basting covers, have tightly rolled beads—
Large roomy handles; accommodate jars for cold pack method of canning.
Small size—holds 7 pint jars— Regularly $4.90. Sale Price......$3.75
Medium size—holds 11 pint jars or 7 quarts— Regularly $6.00. Sale Price........$4.75
Large size—holds 13 pint or 8 quart jars— Regularly $6.90. Sale Price.......$5.50

Home Equipment Section—Basement

THERMOID Rexoid Cord Tires



30x3	$7.90	34x4	$17.95
30x3½	$9.30	33x4½	$21.80
31x4	$15.90	34x4½	$22.25
32x4	$16.30	33x5	$28.25
33x4	$16.75	35x5	$30.00

Sole Lowell Agents—Kirk Street Entrance

Go to the nearest Cameron Dealer and get a Quart of Cameron's Pure Food Ice Cream.
1 Pt. ..... 30¢
2 Pts. .... 31¢

ONE CENT SALE FOR WEDNESDAY

CAMERON'S

BRICK ICE CREAM 1 Pint for 30c, 2 Pints for 31c

Go to the nearest Cameron Dealer and get a Quart of Cameron's Pure Food Ice C
1 Pt.
2

WHEELER ASSAILS COOLIDGE IN ADDRESS ON BOSTON COMMON

Denounces President for Failure to Help Senate Investigation of Department of Justice—Says Wall Street Rules Both Old Parties

BOSTON, Sept. 2—A sweltering Labor day audience of about 4000 heard Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, La Follette's running mate, open the national third ticket campaign on Boston common yesterday noon with a vigorous attack upon President Coolidge. To the president Wheeler referred as the "mythically great, strong, silent, careful man who not only never, by word or gesture, disapproved of the crimes or of the criminals at Washington, but on the contrary joined in the hue and cry against the senate for exposing the dark deeds of his cabinet."

The heavy showers of the morning undoubtedly cut down the size of the crowd as Wheeler took the stump in an intensive campaign that he will prosecute this week throughout New England. As Senator La Follette did not deliver his initial speech in Washington until later in the afternoon and then, speaking by radio, merely addressed an invisible audience, to Wheeler really fell the privilege of kicking the ball off for the insurgents who are confidently predicting that they will at least carry enough western states on November 4 to throw the election into congress.

A Labor Gathering

The meeting on the common was held under the auspices of the Boston Central Labor union which has indorsed the La Follette-Wheeler candidacies. It was distinctly a labor gathering which heard the first Bay State president since John Quincy Adams subjected 'from the lips of the Daugherty prosecutor' to the most severe attack made upon him since he entered the White House.

Whipping off his coat, after asking the indulgence of the audience and receiving a lusty vote of unanimous consent, the tense young man who drove Mr. Daugherty to cover re-

Continued to Page Five

DEATHS

JOHNSON—Joseph Johnson, a well known resident of Tewksbury for many years, died yesterday at his home, Main street, Tewksbury, after a long illness. He leaves his wife, Jane F. (Cunningham) Johnson; two sons, Francis P. and Kevin J. Johnson; one sister, Miss Lizzie Johnson, and one brother, Frank Johnson. He was a former well known business man of Lawrence street, this city.

SMITH—Marshall F. Smith died yesterday at his home, 101 Butterfield street, aged 77 years, 9 months and 21 days. He is survived by his wife, Harriet M. Smith; three sons, Leroy and Perley R. Smith, both of Dover, N. H., and Jesse M. Smith of Byfield, Mass.; one brother, Winslow C. Smith of Springvale, Me.; eight grandchildren and nine great grandchildren. Mr. Smith was a member of Post 185, G.A.R. Portland, Me., papers please copy.

MULLEN—Thomas Mullen of 88 Elm street, an attendant of St. Peter's church and for the past 55 years a resident of Lowell, died yesterday at St. John's hospital. Mr. Mullen was a man of many estimable qualities and was much respected. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Patrick J. Quinn; two sons, John and Frederick Mullen; one sister, Mrs. Patrick Niland; one brother, John Mullen, and six grandchildren. The body was taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Patrick J. Quinn, 13 Chambers street, by Undertakers Jas. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

STEVENS—George M. Stevens, aged 87 years, died yesterday at the home of his son, John A. Stevens, 78 Hanks street. He is survived by two sons, John A. Stevens of this city and Geo. M. Stevens, Jr., of New York city; four grandsons, Holland A., and Richard A. Stevens of Lowell, and George M. Stevens 3d and John W. Stevens of New York city, and one sister, Mrs. Ella Gifford of Lethbridge, Canada.

BUYERS—Ida Buyers, infant daughter of David and Gertrude (Cohen) Buyers, died Sunday morning at St. John's hospital, aged 1 year and 6 months. The body was removed to the home of the parents, 197 Howard street. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon from the home of the parents and burial was in the family lot in the Israel Brotherhood cemetery, Pelham, N. H. The arrangements were in the charge of Undertakers Amedee Archambault and Sons.

WIGGIN—Charles T. Wiggin, the oldest citizen and also one of the oldest residents of Dracut, died Sunday at his home, 653 Mammoth road, aged 90 years, 3 months and 13 days. Mr. Wiggin had held a Boston Post cane as an honor of being the oldest citizen of Dracut. He is survived by his wife, Abigail Wiggin; two daughters, Miss Annie M. Wiggin and Miss Lizzie Wiggin, all of Dracut; three sons, John C., and E. Parker Wiggin, both of Dracut, and Frederick Wiggin of Tyngsboro.

FLEMING—Mrs. Bridget (Coleman) Fleming, wife of Maurice Fleming and died Sunday at her home, 5 rear of an attendant of St. Patrick's church, 326 Fletcher street. She had been a resident of Lowell for the past five years, previous to which she had lived in New York city. Besides her husband, she leaves one daughter, Mrs. Alice Gaul, of Arlington, N. J., and eight grandchildren. New York papers please copy.

AVARD—The body of Ezra Avard, who was killed in an automobile accident Saturday night in Mammoth road, Dracut, was removed to his home, Robinson road, Nashua, N. H., Sunday afternoon by Undertakers Amedee Archambault and Sons.

ALVES—Maria Alves, daughter of Manuel and Maria (Perreira) Alves, died Sunday at the home of her parents, 122 Tucker street, aged 1 year, 9 months and 6 days.

PICHE—Leo Piche, son of Alfred and Marie Louise (Soucy) Piche, died Sunday at the home of his parents, 19 Ward street, aged 3 months and 1 days.

TEALING—Michael F. Tealing, aged 60 years, a former resident of Salem, Mass., died yesterday in this city. The body was removed to the rooms of Undertaker Peter H. Savage Son.

FUNERALS

PRATT—The funeral of Frank G. Pratt, for over 50 years a resident of Chelmsford and a pioneer member of St. John's church, took place yesterday from his home in South street, Chelmsford Centre, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. At St. John's church, North Chelmsford, a solemn high funeral mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. John J. Crane, assisted by Rev. John J. Linnehan as deacon and Rev. J. Emile Dupont as sub-deacon. The choir under the direction of Miss Helen Quigley sang the Gregorian chant, the solos being sustained by Miss Gertrude Quigley. Miss Helen Quigley was the organist. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were Joseph Papton, Walter Woods, Ralph Eaton, Peter Burrows, Napoleon Lovely and Felix Pratt. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, East Chelmsford, where Rev. Fr. Crane and Rev. Fr. Linnehan officiated. The arrangements were under the direction of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell and Sons.

RAINVILLE — The funeral of Thomas Rainville took place yesterday morning at 9 o'clock from his late home, 653 Broadway and was largely attended by relatives and friends. At 10 o'clock at St. Jean Baptiste church a solemn high funeral mass was sung by Rev. Aquilla Graton, O. M. I., assisted by Very Rev. J. E. Turcotte, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Louis Bachand as sub-deacon. The choir under the direction of Rodolphe Pepin rendered Pietro Yon's mass, the solos being sustained by Mrs. Edith Pepin, Mrs. Maria Jacques, Arthur Leveille and Elzear Cote. Mr. Pepin also presided at the organ. There was a profusion of floral and spiritual offerings. The bearers were Messrs. Lactance, George, William and Alphonse Gaudette, Xavier St. Pierre and Aime Malo. Present at the church services were Rev. Bro. Francis Regis, S. M. and Rev. Bro. Velenin, S. M. and other members of the local Marist community. Among those present at the funeral from out of town were Rev. Bro. Victor Aime, S. M. of New York, son of deceased, Rev. C. E. Baillargeon of Nicolet, P. Q., Mrs. Virginia Blanchard of Woonsocket, R. I., Mr. Ernest Deschamps, Mrs. Eugenie Deschamps, Misses Germaine and Noela Deschamps, Mr. and Mrs. Drapeau and daughter, Ruth, all of Salem, Mr. and Mrs. John Haverty and daughter, Doris, of North Andover and Mrs. Emile Gibeau of Indian Orchard. Burial took place in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal prayers were read at the grave by Rev. A. Marion, O. M. I. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of Funeral Director Joseph Albert.

GLEASON—The funeral of George Gleason took place Monday morning from the home of the parents, 15 Fernald street, and proceeded to St. Peter's church where a funeral high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Peter T. Linehan. The choir rendered the Gregorian mass. Solos were rendered during the mass by Mr. Raymond Kelley, Mr. James E. Donnelly, Mr. Thomas Ginty and Miss Mary Rynne. Mr. Raymond Kelley presided at the organ. There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings and numerous spiritual bouquets from friends and acquaintances. The casket was borne by the following bearers: Messrs. Francis Gleason, Don Macauley, Charles Gannon, Francis Guthrie, Egley Unice and Wade Craig. The burial took place in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, the committal prayers being read by Rev. Peter T. Linehan. The funeral was largely attended and under the direction of Undertakers Higgins Bros.

CLOUGH—Funeral services for Mrs. Annie R. Clough, a former resident of this city, who died Aug. 29 at her home in Amsterdam, N. Y., were held Saturday afternoon at the Edson cemetery chapel, Rev. Frederick S. Beattie, assistant rector of St. Anne's Episcopal church, officiating. The flowers were numerous. The bearers were David Russell, Malcolm Patrick, John F. Day, Alexander Patrick, Arthur E. Wilman and John Russell. Burial was in the family lot, where the burial service was read by Rev. Mr. Beattie. The funeral was under the direction of Undertaker W. Herbert Blake.

SOUZA—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Souza took place Sunday from 14 Highland street and was attended by many relatives and friends. At St. Anthony's church services were read by Rev. Joseph Grillo. There were many floral offerings. The bearers were Manuel Souza, Anthony Souza, John Silva, Joaquin Rebeiro A. Edwart and Jacinto Augiar. Burial took place in St. Patrick's cemetery. The arrangements were in charge of Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons.

MAKER—The funeral of Isaac A. Maker took place from the Funeral church, 236 Westford street Sunday afternoon and was very largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. George F. Sturtevant, assistant pastor of the First Congregational church. Appropriate selections were sung by the Mendelssohn male quartet, with Mrs. Helen C. Taylor at the organ. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful. Large delegations were present representing Pentucket lodge, A.F. and A.M.; Mt. Horeb Royal Arch chapter, Ahasuerus council and Pilgrim Commandery. The following overseers at the Lawrence Mfg. Co. were bearers: Herbert A. Bell, Frank A. G. Burke, Guy C. Hunt, Samuel G. Pillsbury, Wallace W. Tucker and Victor B. Sherburne. Burial was in the family lot in Westlawn cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Andrew G. Swapp, under the direction of Undertaker George W. Healey.

MURPHY—The funeral of John F. Murphy, infant son of Fred T. and Anna (Manning) Murphy, took place Saturday afternoon from the home of his parents, 8 Lagrange Court, and was largely attended by relatives and friends, including a number from out of town. There were many beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, under the direction of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

FLEMMING—The funeral of Mrs. Bridget (Coleman) Flemming took place this morning at 7.30 o'clock from her home, 5 rear 326 Fletcher street, and was largely attended. The cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's church, where at 8 o'clock a mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Aloysius Madden. The choir, under the direction of Miss Sarah Murray, rendered the Gregorian chant, the solos in the mass being sustained by Miss Frances Tighe, Mrs. James Morris and Miss Florence Crotty, Miss Murray presiding at the organ. The bearers were Messrs. Thomas Mahoney, Michael Coleman, Thomas Brennan, John Hines, James Fitzgerald, and Martin Queeley. There were many floral and spiritual offerings. The burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Thomas J. McDonough. The funeral was under the direction of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

PROVENCHER—The funeral of Mrs. Mary J. (Burns) Provencher took place yesterday from her home, 46 Lane street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. At St. Peter's church a funeral mass was celebrated by Rev. Francis L. Shea. Seated within the sanctuary was Rev. Thomas McDonough of St. Patrick's church. The choir sang the Gregorian chant, the solos being sustained by Miss Mary Rynne and James E. Donnelly. Raymond Kelley was at the organ. There were many floral offerings. The bearers were Joseph McGirr, John Coughlin, Walter Flynn, Timothy Crothy, Paul McDonald and James Dowling. Burial took place in St. Patrick's cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Shea. The arrangements were in charge of Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons.

FURLONG—The funeral of Mrs. Carrie Eva (McLelland) Furlong, wife of Herbert F. Furlong, took place yesterday from her home, 235 Liberty street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. At St. Margaret's church a solemn high funeral mass was sung by Rev. Leo O'Day, assisted by Rev. Andrew F. O'Brien as deacon and the pastor, Rev. Charles J. Galligan, as subdeacon. The choir under the direction of Napoleon L. Guilbault, sang the Gregorian chant. The solos were sustained by Cornelius Calnan and John McGlinchey. Mr. Guilbault was at the organ. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were Charles Brennan, Fred Greenwood, Wm. Cronin, William Plant, James Cooney and Thomas F. Burns. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Rev. Fr. O'Day read the committal prayers. The arrangements were under the direction of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

VIELICKO—The funeral of Peter Vielicko took place yesterday afternoon from 158 Lawrence street and was largely attended by relatives and friends. Services were held in St. Joseph's Lithuanian church, Rev. Stanley Kuczos officiating. The bearers were Simon Makuravicus, Teofil Belkus, Joseph Barzda, Roch Bingelis, Stanley Budrevicus and Joseph Piecukonis. Burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Rev. S. Nuczos read the committal prayers. The arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Joseph J. Sadowski.

ALVES—The funeral of Maria Alves, daughter of Manual and Maria (Perreira) Alves, took place yesterday afternoon from the home of her parents, 122 Tucker street. Services were conducted at St. Anthony's church by Rev. Joseph Grillo. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery. Arrangements were in the charge of Funeral Director Joseph Albert.

PICHE—The funeral of Leo Piche, son of Alfred and Marie Louise (Soucy) Piche took place yesterday afternoon from the home of his parents, 19 Ward street. Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery. Arrangements were in the charge of Funeral Director Joseph Albert.

CHERIONKA—The funeral of Jenie Cherionka, infant daughter of Alexander and Anna (Kozlowska) Cherionka, took place yesterday afternoon from 10 Concord street. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery. The arrangements were in the charge of Undertaker Joseph J. Sadowski.

FUNERAL NOTICES

NOURSE—Died in this city, Aug. 31, at 187 Nesmith street, Franklin Nourse. Funeral services will be held at St. Anne's Episcopal church on Wednesday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock. Friends are affectionately requested not to send flowers. Burial private in Mt. Auburn cemetery, Cambridge. Undertaker George W. Healey in charge.

SMITH—Died in this city, Sept. 1 at 101 Butterfield street, Marshall F. Smith, aged 77 years, 9 months and 21 days. Funeral services will be held at 101 Butterfield street on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Undertaker Hiram C. Brown in charge.

MULLEN—Died Sept. 1st, at St. John's hospital, Thomas Mullen. The funeral will take place Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Patrick J. Quinn, 18 Chambers st., and a funeral high mass will be sung at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock. The burial will be in St. Patrick's cemetery under the direction of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

JOHNSON—Died in Tewksbury, Sept. 1, at his home, Main st., Fairlawn, Joseph Johnson. Funeral will take place Thursday morning from his late home at 8 o'clock. At the Sacred Heart church, Lowell, at 9 o'clock, a funeral high mass will be celebrated. Burial will be in St. Patrick's cemetery. Funeral arrangements in charge of Undertakers O'Connell & Fay.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, desire to express our sincere thanks to our many friends, neighbors and relatives for the acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy, floral and spiritual offerings at the time of the death of our beloved wife and mother. We deeply appreciate their kindly efforts and will ever hold them in loving and grateful remembrance.

MRS. THOMAS COLLINS
and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, desire to express publicly our sincere thanks to those who by their offerings of floral tributes, acts of kindness and expressions of condolence served to lighten the burden of our grief in the death of our beloved son and brother, George Gleason. Such evidence of true friendship we shall ever cherish in loving remembrance.

Signed,
MR. and MRS. WILLIAM GLEASON
AND FAMILY.

James F. O'Donnell & Sons
Undertakers
324 Market St. Tel. 439-W

FRANKLIN NOURSE DEAD

Sudden Death Sunday Morning of Well Known Lowell Citizen

Deceased Was at One Time Very Prominent in Lowell Textile Industry

Franklin Nourse, formerly prominent in the Lowell textile industry and one of the city's best known citizens, died suddenly at his home, 187 Nesmith street on Sunday. He had but recently returned from his summer home at Bay View, Me., apparently in a greatly improved condition after a serious illness that dated back nearly twelve months and his death was entirely unexpected. Mr. Nourse was a former agent of the Lawrence Manufacturing Co. and also had connections with other textile mills in Lawrence, Maine and in this city.

Other local interests and activities were numerous. He was a trustee of Rogers Hall school and for many years served as a trustee of the Young Men's Christian association and the Five Cent Savings bank. He was a director of the Lowell Boys' club and the Edson orphanage and the Traders & Mechanics Insurance Co.

Franklin Nourse was born in Bangor, Maine, in March, 1848, son of Benjamin F. and Laura E. (Little) Nourse. He was educated in Bangor and Boston shools and was graduated from Harvard college in 1870. He entered at once upon the business of textile manufacturing and was successively connected with the Barker Mills, the Lawrence Duck Co., the York Mfg. Co. of Saco and the Lawrence Mfg. Co. of this city, coming to the last named concern as its agent in 1895 and continuing as its active head until his retirement in 1910.

His wide social connections included membership in the Yorick, Vesper Country, Longmeadow, Textile and Harvard clubs, the Episcopalian club, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Harvard Engineering association, the American Academy of Political and Social Science and the National Cotton Manufacturers' association.

He was prominent in the affairs of the Episcopal church and was a member of St. Anne's, where he served as warden for many years.

He is survived by his wife, Edith Frances Riversmith Nourse; one daughter, Mrs. John Jacob Rogers and a son, Benjamin Franklin Nourse of San Francisco, Cal.

PROMOTION FOR LIEUT. H. F. MATHER

Lieut. Harold F. Mather, widely popular in Massachusetts National Guard circles, who was recently assigned to take temporary charge of the leadership of Lowell's B battery, 102nd Field Artillery, M. N. G., has been appointed captain. He will continue in command of the battery for the present. The assignment and the promotion were announced from the adjutant general's offices at the state house in Boston, Saturday.

Capt. Mather has been supervising the Westford street armory headquarters and training camp affairs for B batterymen ever since the resignation of Capt. George J. Faneuf, whose passing from active national guard activities was deeply regretted by members of the battery and friends of the sturdy organization.

The new captain was assigned to look after the B battery activities at home and abroad. He commanded the Lowell gunners and ammunition train equipments at Camp Devens, straight through one of the hardest summer military training programs ever assigned to Bay State national guardsmen. All-day, heavy battery-firing work at the ranges; long marches; severe tests in fighting raging conflagrations—B batterymen never had a tougher program cut out for them than fell to their lot this year at Ayer.

MINOR CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Imbibing too freely in holiday liquors brought a large array of drunkenness offenders before the district court this morning. In addition to those arraigned in court, there were 21 releases by the probation officer.

Thomas Kilkenny, drunkenness, was given 24 hours to evacuate the city or go to the state farm.

A suspended sentence of two months in the house of correction was revoked in the case of Joseph B. Clark.

Joseph E. Cote, was continued to next Thursday.

Thomas Toohey of South Nashua, N. H., was fined $15.

Eugene Pickard was found guilty and his case was placed on file.

George Page was sentenced to two months in the house of correction, and appealed.

John J. Spellacy was given a suspended sentence of three months in the house of correction.

John E. Ring was continued until Friday.

Edward F. Welch was sentenced to one month in the house of correction, and appealed.

Topill Waveris was found guilty and continued for sentence until Thursday.

Klemonas Semakonis, whose wife said threatened her with a razor strop and hurled a knife at her, was given a direct sentence of six months in the house of correction.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to thank all who remembered us with spiritual and floral offerings in our recent bereavement in the loss of a dear husband and father. We are especially grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Gelinas, the Courier-Citizen Job Plant employes, McCarthy Brothers and Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Paquette.

MRS. THOMAS RAINVILLE
and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, desire to express our sincere thanks to our many friends, neighbors and relatives for the acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy, floral and spiritual offerings at the time of our bereavement. We deeply appreciate their kindly efforts and will ever hold them in loving and grateful remembrance.

MRS. LAURA SULLIVAN,
MR. AND MRS. JOHN SULLIVAN,
MR. AND MRS. FRANK HANNON,
MISS MARGARET SULLIVAN,
DENNIS SULLIVAN.

Superior Court Opens Here

Continued

also declared in his opening that the government would produce a confession signed by Tsaffaras, in which it is alleged that he admits entering the building on the morning in question and applying a match to gasoline-soaked rags and other refuse.

Just before the fire was discovered a patrolman stopped Tsaffaras, who was running through Race street without coat or hat. He eventually slipped away but later was arrested in the vicinity of the Courembis house in outer Varnum avenue. A coat, alleged to be the property of Tsaffaras, was found by police on the sidewalk in front of the Race street building and a key in a pocket is said to be for a door of the Tsaffaras house. The coat and key will be offered as evidence and exhibits.

REV. JOHN T. ULLOM

The two defendants are represented by Attorneys Albert S. Howard, Edward J. Tierney and Benjamin Silverblatt.

Several cases in which lower court pleas were retracted and pleas of guilty entered were heard and disposed of before the Tsaffaras case began.

Frank DeFoe, charged with carrying a dangerous weapon, changed his plea to guilty and was ordered to pay a fine of $100.

Three Fitchburg young men, facing statutory charges, were placed on probation for one year. They were Rene Richards, Edward Collette and Edward Hoseley.

Mary B. LaRose, charged with adultery, pleaded guilty and was placed on probation.

Major Conflict May Be On

Continued

Kiangsu and Chekiang provinces have caused the rival warlords of those provinces to realize the necessity of raising armies large enough to last through the long and severe campaign, which they apparently consider the situation will bring about, and everywhere in the affected areas a policy of wholesale conscription is being carried on, according to advices from the interior. Farmers, artisans, coolies—in fact every man able to hold a gun, carry a bucket or a burden of any sort—are being pressed into service. The countryside therefore appears deserted with the exception of old men, women and children.

In this process the city of Nanking, Kiangsu, has been virtually cleaned out, and the well-to-do classes are taking refuge in flight. Houses, furniture, implement, boats—in fact everything possible to commandeer—have been taken by the troops, who exercise complete tyranny, the reports declare, wherever they go.

Strict Censorship

PEKING, Sept. 2.—(By The Associated Press—Chinese)—In view of the military situation in the Yangtse valley the Peking garrison has placed a censorship on railways, post offices and telegraph offices throughout the metropolitan area.

Commercial and financial organizations and members of parliament, whose provinces are affected are making renewed efforts to avert armed conflict on the Yangtse. Tsao Kun, president of China, is said also to be exerting his influence in a similar effort.

French Warships Rush to Scene

PARIS, Sept. 2.—(By The Associated Press)—The French ministry of marine has ordered the armored cruiser Jules Ferry and the protected cruiser Colmar to proceed to Shanghai from Saigon, French Indo-China, to protect French interests in southern China.

Manslaughter Charge

Continued

injured are: John Buff, Badger street, Nashua, who was cut about the face and head and treated at the Lowell General hospital; Paul Dube, 5 Brooks street, Nashua, who sustained a fractured leg and was taken to the Corporation hospital; Orlando Hamlin, 108 Chesnut street, was taken to the corporation hospital suffering from head injuries; and Peter Gregas, 21 School street, Nashua, also taken to the Corporation hospital suffering from head injuries.

The accident occured a few minutes before midnight Saturday. The party had attended a Polish outing in Dracut during the afternoon and evening and was on its way home, driving through Mammoth road towards the Pawtucket boulevard. When a short distance from the city line, one tire was either punctured or blown out. Not stopping to change tires, the party continued on its way for about quarter of a mile when, on a down grade, the driver lost control of the machine and it side-swiped a telegraph pole and continued down the road for 30 feet before coming to a stop.

The telegraph pole struck the machine at the right rear door. Avard, it is believed, was seated on the right side of the rear seat and bore the brunt of the blow. The injured men were seated in the rear of the car also.

Passing automobilists took the injured to hospitals and notified police headquarters. Motorcycle Officer Walter Kivlan and Patrolman Patrick Noonan responded to the call. The driver of the automobile could not be located by the officers but appeared at the police station with Attorney J. Joseph Hennessy early Sunday afternoon and surrendered to Capt. David Petrie and Sergt Philip Dwyer.

The automobile which figured in the accident was almost completely demolished. It is the property of John S. Sullivan, an automobile dealer of Nashua.

LA FOLLETTE FLAYS BOTH OLD PARTIES IN LABOR DAY MESSAGE

Offer Nothing to Remedy "the Evils Which Have Arisen Under Their Respective Administrations and as a Result of their Policies"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Assailing the republican and democratic parties which he declared offer nothing to remedy "the evils which have arisen under their respective administrations and as a result of their policies," Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, in a Labor Day message broadcast by a chain of radio stations, appealed yesterday to the voters of the nation to support his independent candidacy for the presidency.

Senator La Follette asserted that he had entered the campaign as a candidate to "convict" the monopoly system which, he contended is "protected by certain laws and by the failure to enforce others, and whose power is so great that both of the old parties have become merely the instruments of its will."

"The message of the republican and democratic parties," said Mr. La Follette, "is a message of despair. In it, the American people find no ray of hope for relief from the burdens which oppress them.

"Have Found a Great Hope"

"But the people have found a great hope, and that hope is in the progressive movement. We have enlisted in this campaign to restore this Government to the service of the public, to secure to the laborer and producer in all lines a greater share of the product of his toil. While protecting the consumer against the trust-fixed prices on all he buys and to drive out of the government at Washington the corrupting influences now so dominant."

If elected president, Senator La Follette pledged himself to work for the repeal of the Transportation act of 1920 behind which he asserted, the Interstate Commerce commission, "has taken refuge in its refusal to reduce the present exorbitant railroad rates," downward revision of tariff duties readjustment of tax schedules, reorganization of the Federal Trade and Tariff commissions, conservation of natural resources, and promotion of co-operative marketing, free from government control, as an aid to the farmer.

"I shall, if elected, use the appointive power of the executive," declared the Wisconsin Senator, "to free every department of the government from the control of special interests. . . . . I would place at the head of the Department of Justice and in the office of every United States district attorney men who would vigorously enforce all laws, and I would instruct them to bring and prosecute criminal actions against every profiteering monopoly which violates the anti-trust laws with the same vigor which I should require of them in the prosecution of a bootlegger."

"Dawes Plan, Morgan Plan"

Insisting that the two old parties, seeking to divert the attention of voters from pressing domestic issues, point to Europe and say "there is the solution," Mr. La Follette continued,

"The original source of the democratic and republican plans respecting Europe is the same. That source is the well-known banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. The connection of this banking house with the candidates of both old parties and with the leaders of these parties is close and intimate and confidential. The so-called Dawes plan is merely the Morgan plan."

During the campaign, Senator La Follette declared he intends to "tell the American people exactly what has been going on in Washington" during his 18 years' service as a Senator.

"In that time," he added, "I believe I have been in a position to observe the influences behind certain of the enactments of congress, and the policies of the executive branch of the government which are of the deepest significance to the public."

La Follette to Speak in N. Y.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Senator La Follette of Wisconsin is still undecided as to when he will launch his active campaign as an independent presidential candidate.

It was said today he might remain off the stump until a month before election day, although it is more probable that he will route his speech-making itinerary so that he can be out stumping for six weeks.

The present plan is to have Senator La Follette deliver his first address in New York City—a suggestion that meets with his approval. To what extent he will tour the country remains to be determined.

STORM WARNING ISSUED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The weather bureau today issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 10 a. m. in absence of vessel reports, impossible to locate center of tropical storm accurately. Estimated position latitude 26, longitude 71.30. Disturbance apparently continues of hurricane intensity and is moving northwest. Caution advised waters off South Atlantic coast and northeast of Bahamas."

MEDALS FOR DRAFT BOARD MEMBERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Secretary Weeks today approved a bill drafted in the war department for recommendation to congress which would authorize the award of medals to governors, adjutant-generals, members of local and district boards, medical and legal advisory boards and government appeal agents who served in the selective service-systems during the World war. The bill provides that the thanks of congress be extended to those who by non-military service contributed to successful prosecution of the war, and carries an appropriation of $25,000 to finance the making and distribution of the medals.

JOCKEY SANDE REMOVED TO N. Y. HOSPITAL

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Earle Sande, premier American jockey who was injured in a spill at the Saratoga race track Aug. 6, was removed today to New York City on board the private car of Harry Sinclair, owner of the Rancocas racing stable by which Sande was employed. The jockey's condition was said to be greatly improved, but it was considered advisable to take him from the hospital here where he has been confined since the accident to Roosevelt hospital for further treatment. He was accompanied by Mrs. Sande.

AMERICAN GOLFER DEFEATS BRITISHER

GLENEAGLES, Scotland, Sept. 2.—(By the Associated Press) MacDonald Smith, American golf professional, defeated George Duncan, the British veteran, by four up and three to play, in their 72-hole match concluded today.

RACE HORSE OWNER FATALLY INJURED

BALTIMORE, Sept. 2.—William H. Robinson of Front Royal, Va., racehorse owner, was almost instantly killed in an automobile accident near Catonsville, suburb, early today. The driver of the car, Dawson Lee, of Columbia, Md., said he was blinded by the glare of an approaching automobile. His machine swerved and crashed into a telegraph pole. Robinson's neck was broken and his throat was gashed. Lee suffered cuts and bruises.

ABBOTS AND NORTH CAMBRIDGE TONIGHT

If Babe Mitchell, ace of the Abbot pitchers, succeeds tonight in turning back North Cambridge in the third game of the series at Russell field, Cambridge, the next game will be played at Alumni field, formerly Spalding park, this city, tomorrow night, beginning at 5.30 o'clock sharp. This announcement was made at noon today by Eddie Gannon, one of the Abbot business representatives. Reservations will be made to handle one of the biggest crowds in Alumni field history.

CADETS DENY THAT THEY WERE BEATEN

The St. Peter's Cadets deny the allegation that they were beaten, 9 to 8, by the Chelmsford A.A. on the South common Sunday afternoon. The local team contends that the visitors left the field when St. Peter's had a man on third with only one out in the ninth, and they further claim to have won the contest by the score of 10 to 9.

We Answer Calls

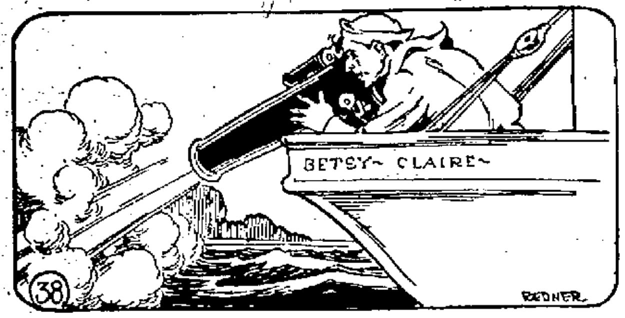
At any hour, anywhere. The time and the place make no difference; when our service is needed, it is needed, and other considerations pale into insignificance.

When there is need of our services, there should be no hesitancy about calling. We are always available to all.

M. H. McDonough Sons
Undertakers and Embalmers
14 Highland St.
Lowell, Mass.
Telephone 936-W

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 13

Ever so often there was a splash out in the water right where Flip had suddenly gone under. It was certain that the dog was having a battle with some sea monster. Jack was pretty frightened over his dog's fate and he waited impatiently until the sailors on the ship started shooting.



"I hope they don't hit Flip instead of the shark," said one of the sailors who stood beside Jack. "Oh, they won't shoot at the shark," replied the captain. "They will only smack the water in order to scare it away." And at that moment the great gun blared loudly forth.

Instantly there was a big geyser out in the water and, as the gun blazed away again, another spiral of water went into the air. Then all was quiet and Jack once more saw his dog swimming towards the shore. The shark had been scared away and the dog was saved by the shark gun. (Continued).

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

SILVER WINGS DOES AN ERRAND

"ALL RIGHT, YOUR ROYAL HIGHNESS," SAID SILVER WINGS

"Dear, dear!" said the Fairy Queen one day to Silver Wings, one of her messengers. "Here it is, late in August, and almost time for the Meadow Grove school to begin. I do wonder if the dear little wood people and meadow people are ready."

"I don't know," said Silver Wings, "but as I was getting dew for you to take your bath this morning, I happened to hear Mrs. Longtail Jumping Mouse say to Mister Longtail Jumping Mouse that Jimmy Jumping Mouse hadn't a single pair of trousers that hadn't holes in them. And that Jemima had outgrown all of her dresses three mouse inches, and that the hems had been let down so many times they couldn't be let down another single bit."

"That's just what I thought!" nodded the kind Fairy Queen. "And I'm glad you told me, Silver Wings. Take these magic shoes to Nancy and Nick, the Twins, and tell them that I need their help very much, indeed. Tell them to put the shoes on and they will then see a little path in the woods that they never noticed before.

"They are to go to the end of the path and there they will see a tiny store with a sign on it which says, 'For Rent.'

"Tell them to take the sign down and put up another sign over the door which says, 'Nancy, Nick & Company. School Clothes Given Special Attention.' After that I will send somebody to help them and they are to see that all the little wood people and meadow people have enough clothes to start to school with."

"Who will you send?" asked Silver Wings. Of course it isn't at all the thing to ask a queen a question, but then Silver Wings knew the Fairy Queen so very well she was almost like one of the family.

"Mister Snip Snap," said the Fairy Queen. "He knows all about cutting and fitting. He's the best fairy tailor I've got. He'll be there waiting no doubt when the Twins get to the place. I'll telephone to him at once."

"All right, your Royal Highness," said Silver Wings. "I'll go and see the Twins at once and take them the magic shoes. I am sure they will be willing to help."

She tucked the magic shoes under her arm and then flew away to the meadow where the children loved to play.

There they were, right under the big shady chestnut tree, that was now full of green prickly burrs instead of yellow tassels. Jack Frost would blow his breath and turn them brown.

(To Be Continued)

(Copyright, 1924, The Lowell Sun)

WALES FATIGUED AFTER DAY AT RACES

SYOSSET, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Fatigued and nettled after a hot afternoon spent at the races at Belmont-park, during which a large crowd closed about him at every opportunity, the Prince of Wales planned a more secluded day of exercise for today. He expected to ride his polo ponies again in the afternoon as he did yesterday morning in a scratch game, and to attend a dinner party at night at the home of Major Henry Rogers Winthrop in Westbury.

BIG NIGHT TONIGHT AT THE COMMODORE

Tonight looks like one of the biggest nights of the season at the Commodore ballroom as Manager Roane has arranged for a battle of music between Miner-Doyle's orchestra and "Mal" Hallett's aggregation. This will also be special gift night at this resort, the management having secured a hundred powder compacts for the ladies, which will be distributed during the evening. These compacts are manufactured by a well known toilet goods concern and are on sale at several of the large stores. Check dancing will be held throughout the evening and the admission will be 10 cents with six checks for 25 cents.

"Mal" Hallett and his team will be at the Commodore again on Thursday evening. Check dancing will be the feature and the members of the team will contribute to the program with specialty numbers.

Daily production of tires in Akron is about 70,000.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES AT HARTFORD, CONN.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 2.—The 2.10 division of the Greater Charter Oak stake was the feature of the second day's session of the Grand Circuit meeting at the Connecticut fair today. The starters included Watts-in-Bond, Thompson Dillon, Crawford, Hope Frisco, The Great Lullwater and San Pedro Girl.

The 2.10 pace with a $3000 stake had as starters Sparkle, Skeer W, Baron Worthy, Lulla Forbes, Brook Volo, Guesswork, Carl C and Kazoff.

The 2.13 trot with Czarworthy, Mrs. Yerkes, The Great Volo and Ethelinda entered, and the three-year-old pace with Maggie Peters, Romona Direct, Canton Abbe Bootsie and Cecil Frisco as starters, completed the day's card.

A clergyman who looked in at a fancy-dress ball in St. Pancras, England, was awarded the prize for having the second best costume.

For Three Decades

"SALADA"

TEA H509

has been famous for its quality. All grocers sell it. Buy a trial package today.

RADIO BROADCASTS

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

WNAC, BOSTON
4.15 p. m.—Incidental music—broadcast from Loew's State theatre.
4 and 4.30 p. m.—Shepard Colonial orchestra.
4.45 p. m.—Agnes J. Burke, lyric soprano; William Burke, baritone; Blanche Haven, accompanist.
5 p. m.—The Day in Finance.
5.05 p. m.—Livestock and meat report.
6.30 p. m.—WNAC dinner dance—All request night.
7.28 p. m.—Baseball results.
7.30 p. m.—Talk, The Defense Test, Oliver Andrews Dickinson, major-general staff United States army.
8.10 p. m.—Boston American orchestra.

WGI, MEDFORD
7 p. m.—Stock market reports.
7.15 p. m.—Code practice, citizens' radio period.
7.30 p. m.—Phonograph selections; business report; weather report and time.

WQAS, LOWELL
8 p. m.—Baseball scores.
8.35-10.15 p. m.—Dance music.

WBZ, SPRINGFIELD
6 and 6.30 p. m.—Leo Reisman ensemble.
7 p. m.—Results of games played.
7.05 p. m.—Market reports.
7.10 p. m.—World market survey.
7.30 p. m.—Bedtime story
7.40 p. m.—Copley-Plaza orchestra.
9 p. m.—Play, The Killer, by Albert Cowles players.
9.30 p. m.—Recital by Marie de Pisa, soprano; Louise Dumas, accompanist.
10.55 p. m.—Time signals; weather report.

WJAR, PROVIDENCE
8 p. m.—Baseball scores.
8.05 p. m.—All Bristol night.

WHN, NEW YORK
4-11.30 p. m.—Musical program.

WAAM, NEWARK
7.30 p. m.—Miss Lillian Spitzer, pianist.
8.30 p. m.—Sterling dance orchestra.
9 p. m.—Jimmie Shearer.
9.45 p. m.—Bob Schaefer and James Brennan.
10.10 p. m.—Palisade Screnaders.

WEAF, NEW YORK.
6 p. m.—Dinner music.
7.30 p. m.—Theophilus Alban, tenor.
7.45-8-10 p. m.—Clifford Vaughan, pianits.
8-8.20 p. m.—Helen Rennyson Wilson, soprano.
8.30 p. m.—The Gold Dust Twins.
9-10 p. m.—Spring Lake orchestra.

WJZ, NEW YORK
7 p. m.—Frank Dole, Dogs.
7.15 p. m.—Hotel Vanderbilt orchestra.
8 p. m.—Wall Street review.
8.30 p. m.—Olga Warren, soprano.
8.45 p. m.—Talk by the University of the Air.
9 p. m.—Olga Warren, soprano.
9.10 p. m.—Organ recital.

WJY, NEW YORK
7.30 p. m.—Greenwich Village Inn orchestra.
8.15 p. m.—Literary talk.

WOR, NEWARK
6.15-7 p. m.—Music While You Dine.
6.30 p. m.—Stories for children.
7.20 p. m.—Resume of the day's sports.

WFI, PHILADELPHIA
6 p. m.—Sunny Jim.
6.30 p. m.—Bellevue Stratford Orchestra and sports results.
8 p. m.—Mary A. Bray, contralto; Edward Barnes, baritone; Lawrence Peacock on Dahlias.
8.40 p. m.—Bellevue Stratford Ensemble.
9.30 p. m.—Four-leaf Shamrock concert party.

WCAE, PITTSBURGH
6.30 p. m.—Dinner concert.
7.30 p. m.—Uncle Kaybee.
7.45 p. m.—Baseball scores.
9.30 p. m.—Musical program.
11 p. m.—Late concert.

CKAC, MONTREAL
7 p. m.—Kiddies' stories.
7.30 p. m.—Orchestra; Ben. Scherzer, violinist.
8.30 p. m.—Steamship orchestra.
10.30 p. m.—Mount Royal Orchestra; Teddy Brown, saxophonist.

EASTERN STANDARD TIME

WTAM, CLEVELAND
6 to 7.30 p. m.—Dinner concert; baseball scores.

WGY, SCHENECTADY
5 p. m.—Market quotations, news, baseball results.
6 p. m.—Dinner music by Clover Club Orchestra.
7.15 p. m.—Program by Jack Taylor's Orchestra; talk, Some Fishermen's Opinions on Fishing.
7.50 p. m.—Program of old-time favorites.
10.15 p. m.—Organ recital by Stephen E. Boisclair.

WRC, WASHINGTON
5.15 p. m.—Instructions in international code.
6 p. m.—Children's hour.
6.15 p. m.—Baseball scores.
8 p. m.—Musical program.
9 p. m.—Political talk by Maurice Judd.
9.15 p. m.—Concert by Irving Boernstein's Trio.
9.55 p. m.—Time signals and weather.

KDKA, PITTSBURGH
5 and 7 p. m.—Baseball scores.
5.30 p. m.—Organ recital.
6 p. m.—Baseball scores, dinner concert continued.
6.30 p. m.—Story for children.
6.45 p. m.—News.
7.15 p. m.—Educational lecture.
8 p. m.—Concert.
10 p. m.—Weather, baseball scores.
10.30 p. m.—Popular concert.

KYW, CHICAGO
4 p. m.—World talk.
6.45 p. m.—Bedtime story.
7 p. m.—Dinner concert from Congress Hotel.
7-7.20 p. m.—Musical program.
7.20-7.45 p. m.—Farm speeches.
9-10.30 p. m.—At Home program.

WEBH, CHICAGO
7.30-8.30 p. m.—Rita McFawn, soprano. Announcements. Concert selections, Oriole Orchestra.
9.30-10.30 p. m.—William Balhatchet, tenor. Dance selections, Oriole Orchestra.

DETROIT WOMAN RECOVERS

Health Much Better After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

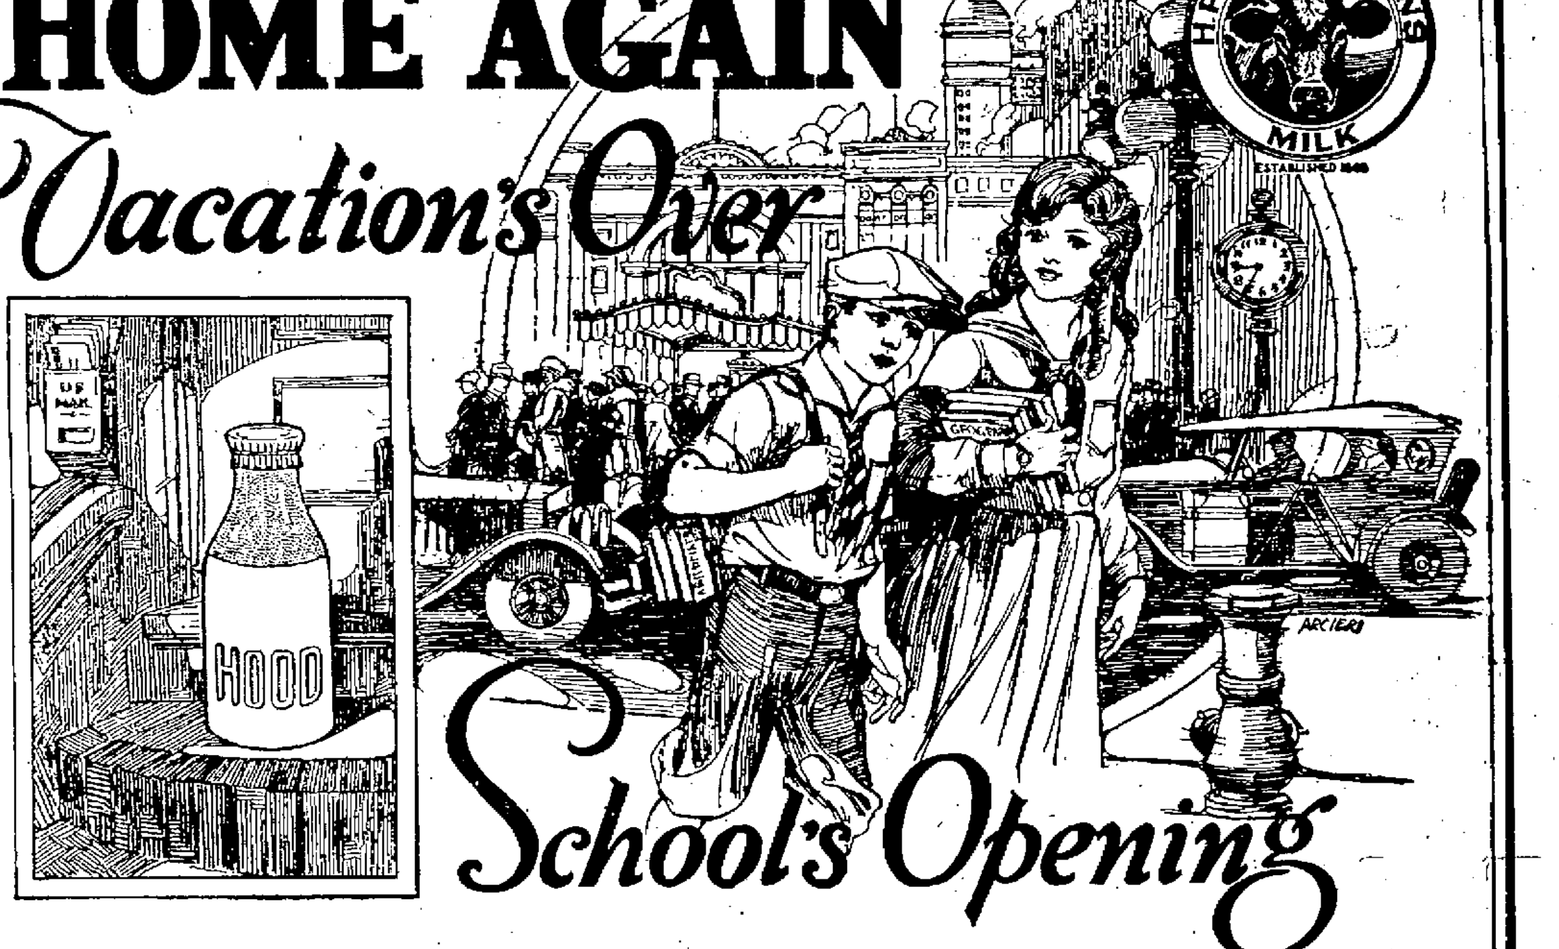
Detroit, Michigan.—"Your little book left at my door was my best doctor. I read it, then said to my husband, 'Please go and get me some Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I want to take it.' The first month I took three bottles of Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. If you only knew how much better I feel! Now when my friends say they are sick I tell them to take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines. I give the little book and your medicines the best of thanks."—Mrs. HAMERINK, 3765 25th Street, Detroit, Mich.

In newspapers and booklets we are constantly publishing letters from women, who explain how they were helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

These letters should guide you. If you are troubled with pains and nervousness, or any feminine disorder, bear in mind that the Vegetable Compound has helped other women and should help you. For sale by druggists everywhere.

HOME AGAIN

Vacation's Over



School's Opening

The little men and women are starting in on another season of preparation for the responsibilities of home and state they must accept in the years to come.

We hope their vacations have been as enjoyable and beneficial as you expected them to be. We hope they have come home full of "pep" and eager for the work ahead of them.

For school work is real work. It must be carried on during the growing period. During a time when proper food means more to them than any other time of life.

Be sure that they have plenty of milk. Plenty of milk of the clean, rich, safe kind that builds strength and health and resistance. Milk of the kind that fortifies them against the strain and wear of school life. They need milk. A quart a day each one of them. And to be on the safe side see that they get

When you are home again you will find Hood's Milk waiting to greet you. Fine, wholesome milk, pasteurized, with scientific precision, uniform in quality and backed by a service as dependable as anything could be. You know Hood's Milk. You know the men and the ideals that have made Hood's Milk a standard of quality in thousands of New England homes. We ask that you accept its greeting as representing a genuine desire to give you all that a progressive milk service could offer.

HOOD'S MILK

Distributed by

H. P. HOOD & SONS

for more than 77 years

249 DUTTON ST., LOWELL PHONE LOWELL 6696

STICK TO AMERICAN WAGES, SAYS PRES. COOLIDGE

Best Ever, He Tells 125 Labor Leaders Who Called at White House to Promise Their Support—Pledges Effort to Promote Welfare of Workers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—A group of representatives of organized labor pledged their individual support to President Coolidge during a call at the White House yesterday, and heard a pledge by the president to perpetuate conditions which he described as "the best in the history of our wage earners."

Mr. Coolidge said the government was anxious to continue its efforts to promote the welfare of workmen but told his visitors he did not favor a labor government. Likewise he said he did not favor a corporation government, a bank government or a farm government.

"I am for a common sense government," he added, "by all the people according to the American policy and under the American constitution. I want all the people to continue to be partakers in self-government. . . .

Would Keep America American

"We do not need to import any foreign economic ideas or any foreign government. We had better stick to the American brand of government, the American brand of equality and the American brand of wages. America had better stay American."

The president said the government would continue "its efforts to provide healthful surroundings, education, reasonable conditions of employment, fair wages for fair work, stable business prosperity, and the encouragement of religious worship."

125 in Party

The delegation was composed of about 125 men, including members of many labor unions who came to the White House under an arrangement made by T. V. O'Connor, honorary president of the International Longshoremen's union and chairman of the shipping board.

The president received them in the east room, and George Frieins, president of the Licensed Tugmen's association, introduced the visitors to him.

"We all carry union cards," said Mr. Frietas. "Industrially we follow our chosen leaders, but politically we follow no men and no group of men. As citizens we own the right to cast our own vote. We have never parted with the right and never will."

He introduced other spokesmen of the group, who made similar declarations.

A Shot at La Follette

Daniel Smith, of the Switchmen's union took a direct shot at the candidacy of Senator La Follette, who has been indorsed by the American Federation of Labor executive committee.

"I am a member of a labor union and have had my card for more than 35 years," he said, "but a labor organization is not and it never will be a political party. The political army which Mr. La Follette is raising reminds me of the armies that are occasionally organized in Mexico for insurrection purposes."

The other speakers were John Drany of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; Joseph Ryan, first vice president of the International Longshoremen's union; and Joseph P. McCardle of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Worcester, Mass.

New Englanders Present

Other prominent labor leaders present from New England included: Leo L. Gallivan, executive representative Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Framingham, Mass., and Thomas H. Leonard, executive representative Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Worcester, Mass.

The president's speech was loudly applauded, and afterward the party went to the rear of the White House, where Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge posed with them for pictures. The president later entertained his callers at a buffet luncheon in the state dining room.

Coolidge Confers With Butler

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—For the first time since his acceptance of the republican nomination, President Coolidge had an opportunity today to get a comprehensive report on the political outlook from William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, whose recent stay at national headquarters in Chicago has given him a broad view of the general situation.

Mr. Coolidge has not decided upon any definite campaign plans for himself, but it was thought by observers that his conference with Mr. Butler might develop something along this line, and possibly on the Ku Klux Klan. The republican nominee said recently he had no political speaking engagements on his list. Since then, however, he has accepted an invitation to speak before the Holy Name society convention here Sept. 20, and some political advisers have expressed the opinion that if he intends to make any declaraton on the Ku Klux Klan he will do so at that time.

In addition to his conference with Mr. Butler and others the president's schedule also called for a start today on his speech to be delivered in Baltimore Saturday at the unveiling of the Lafayette statue. It is not expected to be of a political nature.

ACCIDENT VICTIMS IN THE HOSPITALS

Slight improvement is reported today at St. John's hospital in the condition of Miss Julia Anderson of Worcester, who was injured in Littleton Sunday evening when the car she was riding in, operated by Howard Cown of New London, Conn., struck a tree.

Gradual improvement is also reported in the condition of Michael McCarthy of 9 Gorham street, at St. John's hospital. McCarthy received a fractured skull and other injuries Saturday afternoon when he fell down a flight of stairs in a house at Linden and Elm streets.

CANADIAN BRIDE OF PRINCE ERIK ILL

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—The Canadian bride of Prince Erik of Denmark, formerly Miss Frances Lois Booth, is seriously ill of blood poisoning at a hospital near here. Infection which set in after the extraction of a wisdom tooth about two weeks ago, is responsible for her condition, according to attending physicians.

Prince Erik is said to be constantly at her bedside.

Wheeler Assails Coolidge

Continued

viewed the Washington scandals of last spring, charged that "the trail leading to Tea Pot Dome and the little Green House on K street, began at the republican convention of 1920," and argued that "corruption in the executive branches of the government at Washington is not a simple matter of individual dishonesty, but is a natural outgrowth of the system by which presidents and vice presidents of the United States have come to be nominated in both the old parties."

Audience Cheers

A sympathetic audience cheered when Wheeler asked why "in the name of common sense, the note sounded by Mr. Coolidge in the present campaign, the president, if he would have the country believe in his honesty and courage, did not order some of the funds appropriated by congress to ferret out crime used in the investigation of the Tea Pot Dome stent," and jeered derisively as the speaker ridiculed Charles G. Dawes, republican vice presidential nominee, "using the title general in memory of his gallant service as commander of the minute men in his war on organized labor," and referring to the battle of Madison Square Garden, declared that "after 16 days, this political mountain brought forth for its presidential candidate—I won't say a mouse—but a man who out-Coolidged Coolidge as a servant of Wall street."

The Montana senator, having been born in Hudson, was speaking on native soil. In the course of the hour and a half that he devoted to a double arraignment of Coolidge and John W. Davis, the democratic presidential nominee, the senator mentioned only casually the indictment obtained against himself in Montana by the department of justice.

Wheeler challenged Mr. Coolidge "to explain to the people of your own state, if you can, why Fall and Forbes and Daugherty were allowed to go scot free while the machinery of the department of justice was employed to frame up an indictment against me to interfere with the investigation into the corruption of the administration of public affairs?"

The speaker referred to the fact that he had been exonerated by a senate committee headed by Senator Borah, "the man whom you, Mr. Coolidge, asked to run with you on the republican ticket."

The sparks began to fly at the festival on the common when Senator Wheeler recalled colonial traditions and remarked:

"I love the people of Massachusetts, and with them I would rejoice that an adopted son now occupies the White House if his political philosophy and his administration were more in accord with the political philosophy of the progressive sons and daughters who have made Massachusetts famous." The applause began when he added that, instead of a government of, by and for the people, we have "a government of, by and for Wall street."

Calvin Coolidge was nominated by "the representatives of the predatory class who met in Cleveland in June, but "corrupt as the republican party is, controlled by the big business as it is, even it," Wheeler told the gathering, "would not have dared to go to the very heart of Wall street and flaunt in the faces of the American people the attorney for Mr. Morgan and the Standard Oil company."

Has Audience Warmed Up

By the time he got to Gen. Dawes, Wheeler had his audience all warmed up. "The general, he said, was, like Coolidge, a shining example of conservatism. He (Wheeler) had been called a radical, and he was quite content to be classed with Patrick Henry, Sam Adams, Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln. The conservatives in colonial days, he defined as "those who did not believe in the Revolution until after it was over."

Wheeler challenged anybody to recal an administration "more corrupt, more venal, more destructive of the rights of the people than the administration of the republican party during the last three and a half years."

"Yes," he declared, "the people of this country do hate corruption, Mr. Coolidge—they have had quite enough of it during the last few years of republican rule. They will be glad to know that those charged with wrong-doing will be prosecuted. But they will want to know also why those charged with wrong-doing have not been procecuted before, and whether they are to be punished or only prosecuted.

"What assistance, President Coolidge," the speaker asked, "have you given the investigating committees? Whence this sudden conversion to honesty and this sudden desire to prosepiecute the guilty. Explain, Mr. Coolidge, to the people of your state why you pardoned Grossman, the Chicago king of bootleggers, before he had served a day in jail.

Visits Boyhood Home

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Halting momentarily his campaign of New England, Senator Wheeler, vice-presidential candidate on the LaFollette ticket, visited his boyhood home early today to renew old acquaintances and memories. His speaking schedule for the day fixed only two engagements, both in the evening hours, at Biddeford and Portland, Me., and his automobile party was turned aside to touch at Hudson, the Massachusetts town where he was born.

In Lowell Wednesday

Monday's four speeches, two of them in the open air, demonstrated to the committee managers for the LaFollette ticket the necessity of conserving Senator Wheeler's strength for the long strain of campaigning until November. His advisers urged that no more than two speeches a day be scheduled for the future, and preliminary programs were modified accordingly.

It is now planned to have the campaign party return from Maine by Wednesday by automobile, via Manchester, N. H., and Lowell, Mass. Thursday and Friday will be given to Connecticut and Rhode Island cities; Saturday, Senator Wheeler will speak in New York city, and Monday he will begin a tour of New York state cities visiting as many as possible before turning south again to Philadelphia on Sept. 13.

Insist on TANLAC
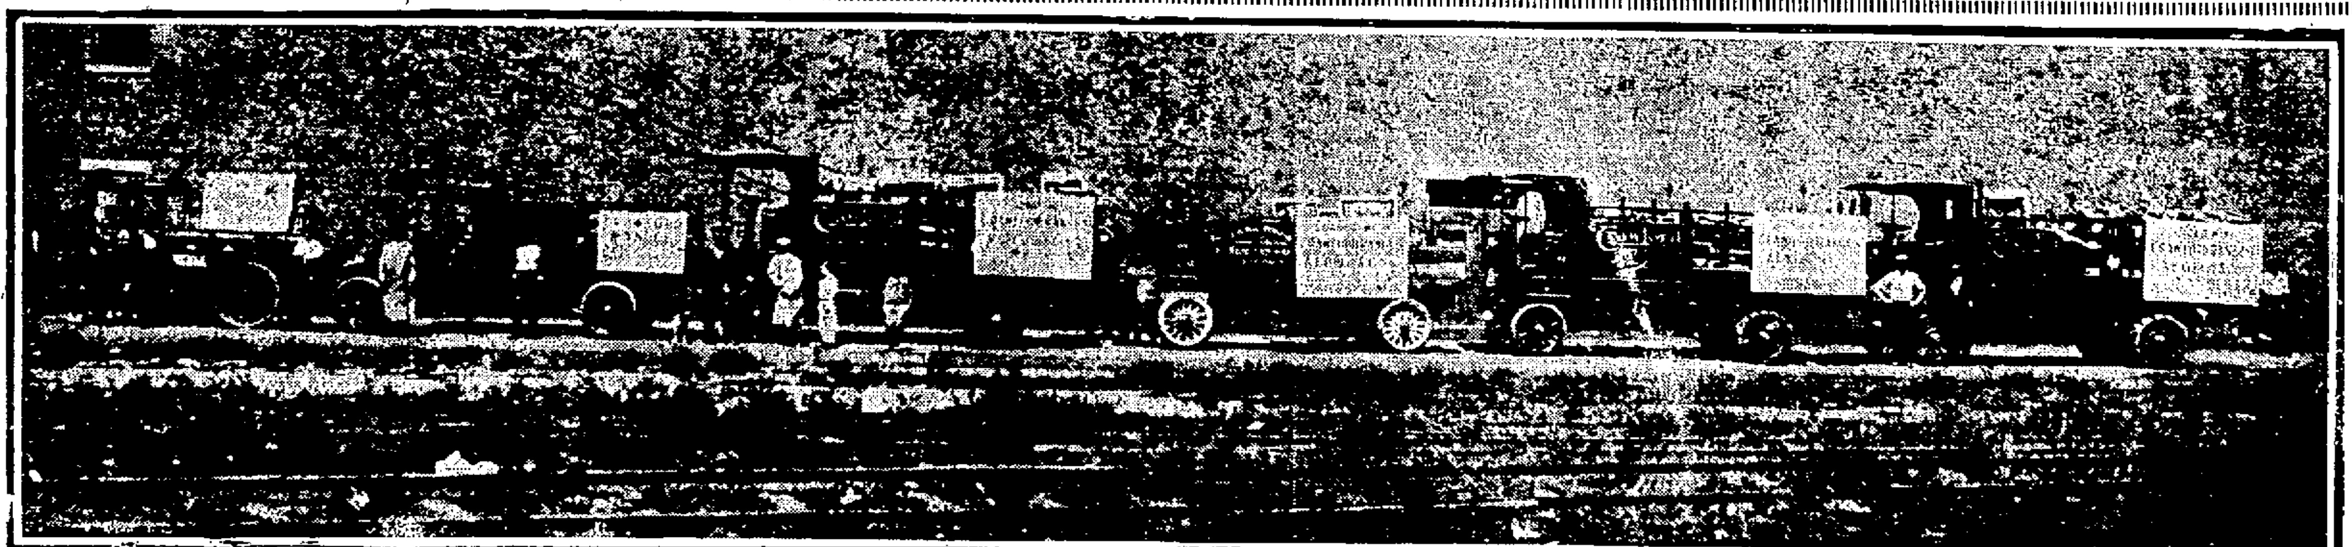
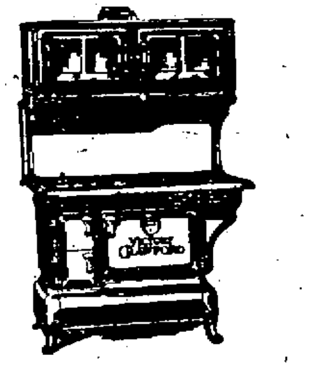
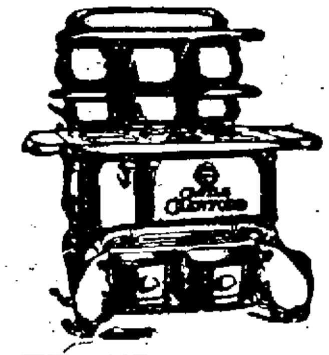
VEGETABLE PILLS
For Constipation





THE VICTORY CRAWFORD

Two ranges in one. Coal and Gas. Now made in two sizes, one takes only 37 inches space, the other 43 inches.



THE CASTLE CRAWFORD

With ash and coal hod in base. Gives you a range with same size oven and fire pot in less space.

THE PALACE CRAWFORD

With Gas End Oven and Broiler. Every Crawford can be equipped with a gas oven.

Enough Crawford Ranges and Parlor Stoves Received Wednesday to Fill Two Freight Cars

And We Will Sell Three Times As Many Before January

THEY SAY IT CAN'T BE DONE THIS YEAR, BUT THIS STORE IS ALWAYS DOING THINGS "THEY SAY" CAN'T BE DONE

They said our August Furniture Sale would not amount to anything this year. It has been the biggest August Sale we had in years.

IF THE CRAWFORD was just an ordinarily good range we might have our doubts about selling as many this year.

BUT THE PREPONDERANCE of improvements in the Crawford are so overwhelming that it's only a question of getting the people who are going to buy a range this fall to come and examine the Crawford, not only its beautiful design and castings, but the way it is made "inside." That is what tells the story, when it comes to baking perfectly and doing it easier and with less coal.

THE SUPERIORITY OF THE CRAWFORD is so easily demonstrated that seldom does anyone leave the store without buying If they do, they always come back—

BECAUSE it's the best range made.

BECAUSE they are made in 14 different styles and sizes and prices.

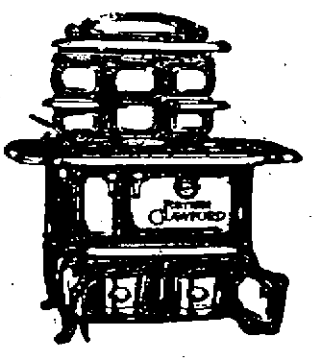
BECAUSE style for style and size for size, the Crawford costs no more than other makes that have nowhere the qualtiy, style and improvement that the Crawford has.

BECAUSE they can be bought on convenient terms of credit. We have no fixed schedule, we arrange terms to suit the convenience of our customers.

We could not write the above if we were not convinced that Crawford Ranges and Parlor Stoves would back every word we write. However, use your good judgment and the only way is to see the Crawford at

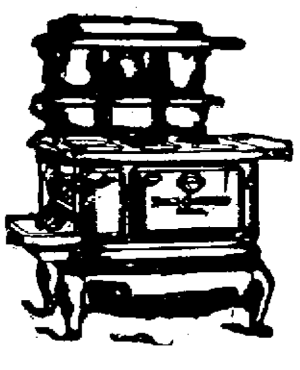
A. E. O'Heir & Co.

15 HURD STREET—BEFORE YOU BUY



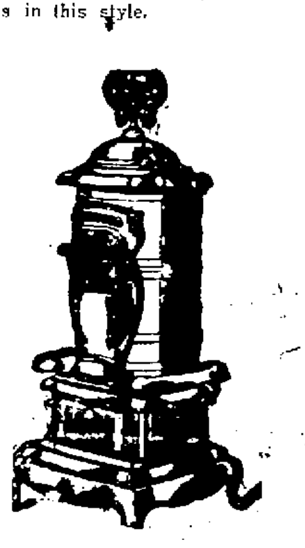
THE FORTRESS CRAWFORD

The medium size range, large enough for an ordinary family.



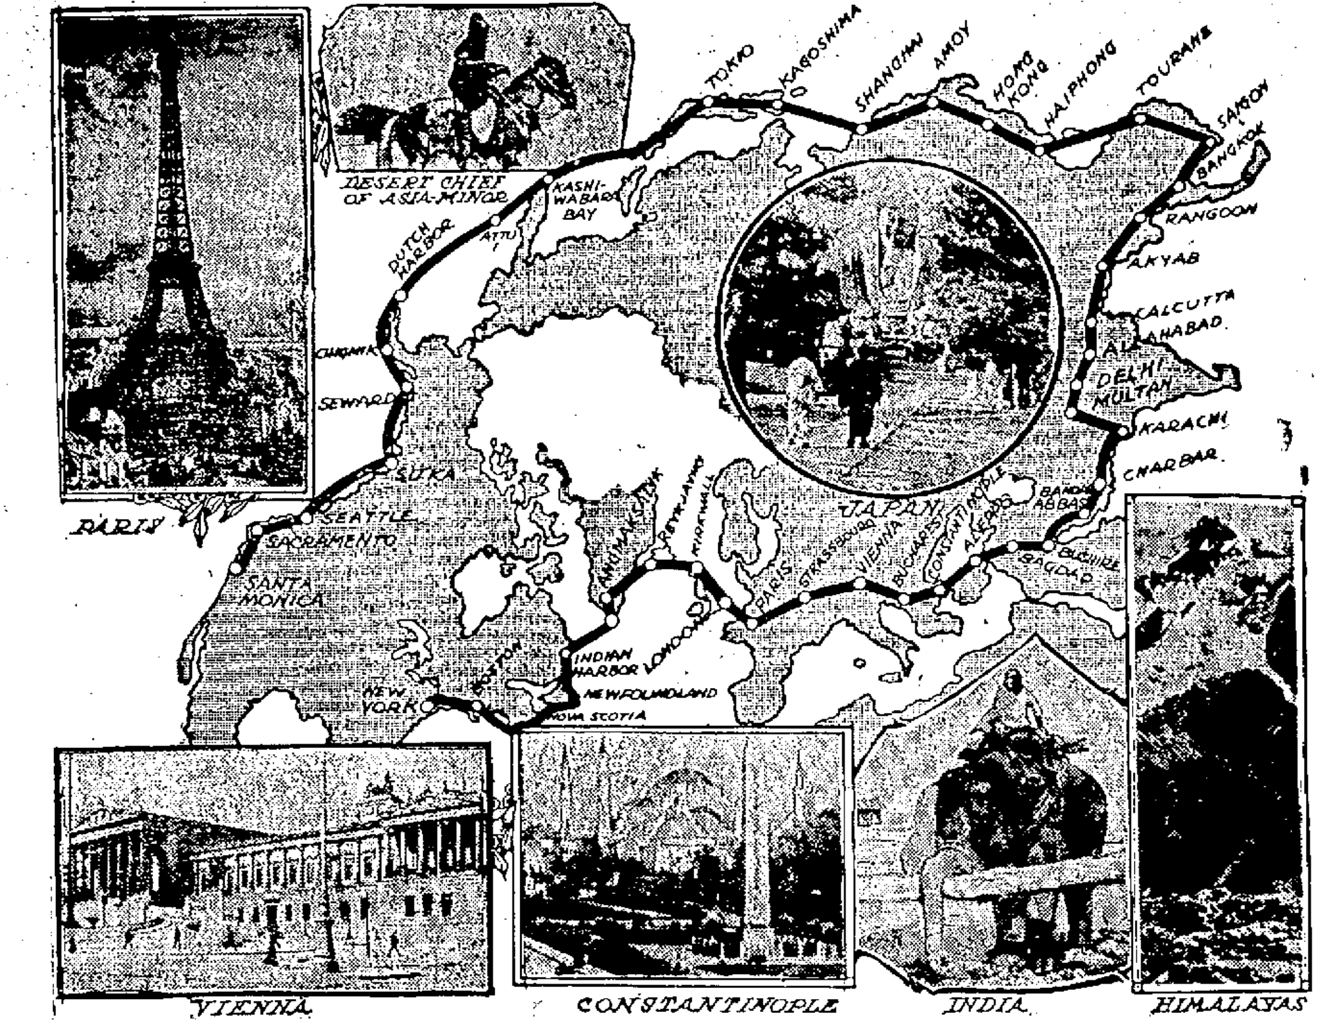
THE HOME CRAWFORD

With ash pan in front. This is an old style, but people like them, so we carry 5 sizes in this style.



The most economical coal burner made has heat flue clear under the base.

Americans Viewed All Lands in Great Flight



Upon their arrival yesterday on the Atlantic coast of the North American continent the round-the-world fliers of the United States Army Air Service completed the most marvelous achievement in the history of aviation to date—the virtual encircling of the globe in heavier-than-air machines. Before the flight was commenced Major General Patrick, chief of the army air service, said the completion of it would be a feat of importance paralleling that of Magellan, who in 1509, was the first man to circumnavigate the globe.

The story of the historic and record-breaking flight compares with the most gripping adventure tales of fiction. Like the pioneers of any expedition blazing a new trail, these intrepid airmen, the first to fly around the world, of necessity had to be men of courage and with nerves of steel. Notwithstanding the carefully laid plans for the trip there were certain hardships which could not be avoided—those that must necessarily accompany an undertaking of such magnitude, compelling as it did flights in all kinds of climate ranging from the frigid Arctic weather of the North Pacific late in March to the near tropical conditions encountered in the Far East in June.

All manner of weather had to be contended with, the elements apparently having no sympathy with the laudable ambition of these men to be the first to fly around the world. Treacherous gales, violent rains and blinding blizzards were encountered in the Alaskan regions before the fliers hopped off the North American continent for the first attempt of airplanes to wing their way across the Pacific. Fog was a dangerous factor and when the aviators reached down into the torrid zone in the far east they encountered tropical winds and rains and in India ran into a sand storm.

Series of Mishaps

What misfortune or ill-luck there was in the adventure seemed to attach itself to the commander and the flag plane of the squadron. Major Fred L. Martin, who was flight commander at the start, had a series of mishaps along the North Pacific coast of the North American continent culminating in his flag plane, the Seattle, crashing into a mountain on the Alaska peninsula. Major Martin and his mechanician, Sergeant Alva Harvey, escaped unhurt, but their plane was destroyed. Nothing was heard from the two men for ten days, despite a thorough search of the regions, and hopes for them were about to be given up when a radiogram from Major Martin to the chief of the army air service announced their safety. This accident eliminated Major Martin and his mechanician from further participation in the flight.

When the accident occurred Major Martin was piloting his plane in a fog toward Dutch Harbor on Unalaska island to join his companions. The commander, due to a crack in the crank shaft which caused a leakage of fuel, was forced down on the flight from Seward to Chignik, April 15, and he and Harvey were forced to spend the night in their plane. They were found the next day by the destroyer Hull, both men suffering somewhat from exposure. Two weeks were required to obtain a new engine for the Seattle from Kanatak, 120 miles distant, and in the meantime the other fliers rested at Dutch Harbor waiting for the commander to join them.

Major Martin left Chignik on April 30, and shortly after noon bumped into the mountain. When no word had been received from him the next day all the fishing boats in the regions were urged to aid in the search for the two men in the waters south of the Alaska peninsula, while dog teams took up the search on land. Later an army airplane scouted over the territory.

After the crash Major Martin and his mechanician retrieved some of their food supplies from the wreck and started down the mountain side. Seven days elapsed before they came upon a trapper's cabin at the southernmost point of Port Moller bay. They were exhausted. There they found food and rested for three days, then walked to the beach, whence Martin sent his radiogram to Washington. In it he said the two men owed their existence to concentrated food and nerve.

When it became apparent that Major Martin could not continue the flight, orders were dispatched to the others to proceed without him.

Lieut. Smith Takes Command

Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, who succeeded Major Martin as flight commander, was the victim of virtually all trouble that was encountered after that, but it was minor trouble compared to the accident which befell Major Martin. Lieutenant Smith had considerable engine trouble and at one stage of the flight in Japan his fellow-fliers were obliged for a day to proceed without him. At Calcutta he suffered a broken rib in a fall from a culvert on the flying field.

With one exception the aviators were hospitably welcomed everywhere they landed and the various governments co-operated in looking after the needs of the airmen as well as providing entertainment for them. The one exception was when the squadron hopped off the North American continent for its flight across the Pacific, a distance of 878 miles and to accomplish which it would be necessary to break the existing non-stop seaplane flight of 792 miles. A severe storm encountered en route forced the fliers down off shore at Komandorski on an island owned by Russia. The Soviets refused permission to land, but the Americans had gotten out of the storm and were ready to take off again just as the Russians' decision was received.

The most arduous part of the flight was the northward trip along the Pacific coast of the North American continent. Encountering heavy storms, both rain and snow, as well as strong winds and the accidents to Major Martin's plane, the fliers were frequently delayed several days at a time. After the three who completed the trip reached the Far East there was little delay aside from that planned for them, but despite this they were 16 days behind the original schedule when they arrived at Paris, July 14. This was due to the unusual delays that were caused before the men left the North American continent.

The primary purpose of the flight was to determine the physical practicability of an around-the-world air route with heavier-than-air machines of present development. In making the plans for the flight no consideration whatever was given to attempts to make a time record because the successful completion of the feat, regardless of the time required, was the main object. It was this that caused Major General Patrick to decline a proposition of British air officials to make the flight a sporting proposition in competition with A. Stuart MacLaren, British aviator. The latter started his attempt to fly around the world in the opposite direction from the Americans March 25 from Southampton. Notwithstanding that the American fliers were not out to make a time record their feat will stand as such, since they were the first to complete the trip, until some other aviator does it in less time.

First to Fly Across Pacific

Achieving their main object the fliers incidentally brought to the United States another honor—that of being the first nation to make a flight across the Pacific ocean—as it was the first to make the flight across the Atlantic. These honors are about all the glory the fliers will get out of their record-breaking and history-making performance. It was recently disclosed in Washington that their only additional reward will be a letter of commendation, written by Secretary of War Weeks, to be attached to their service records. The secretary asked congress at the last session to permit him to promote certain junior officers in recognition of unusual service, having in mind at the time Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan for his dawn-to-dusk flight across the continent, and the round-the-world fliers. Secretary Weeks expressed regret that congress failed to authorize him to promote the world fliers or give them some decoration for their accomplishment.

The flight was started March 17 from Clover Field, Santa Monica, Cal., the squadron being made up of four planes as follows: Seattle, flag plane, with Major Fred L. Martin as pilot, and Sergeant Alva Harvey as mechanician; Chicago, Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, pilot, and Leslie P. Arnold, mechanician; Boston, Lieutenant Leigh Wade, pilot; Lieutenant Henry H. Ogden, mechanician; New Orleans, Lieutenant Eric H. Nelson and Lieutenant John Harding, Jr., mechanician.

On the first day the squadron hopped to Sacramento, covering 370 miles of the journey which was estimated between 27,000 and 30,000 miles. The second leg of the journey was 550 miles to Seattle, where the fliers arrived March 20 after stops at Eugene, Ore., and Vancouver, Wash. They were delayed at Seattle by bad weathe and in making minor repairs to the planes until April 6, when they hopped to Prince Rupert, B. C., 650 miles, arriving the same day. It was at this point that the first accident occurred to Major Martin's plane, the Seattle being damaged in landing.

Encountered Snow Storm

April 10 the air cruisers did 300 miles to Sitka, Alaska, where unfavorable weather delayed them three days, after which they again took the air and went 610 miles to Seward. On that stretch they encountered their first snow storm, but they resumed their trip April 15 for the 450-mile flight to Chignik, which proved to be the last of the trip for Major Martin with his companions. It was during that flight he was forced down near Cape Igvak by the defective crank shaft.

Lieuts. Smith, Wade and Nelson flew from Chignik to Dutch Harbor, 400 miles, April 19, and remained there until May 3, when they were directed to proceed without Major Martin. On that day the three remaining planes covered 350 miles, which brought them to Atka island. After a delay of six days they hopped 530 miles on May 9 to Attu island, the farthest west bit of land belonging to the North American continent.

Another delay of seven days was occasioned by unfavorable weather, but the birdmen got away for the flight across the Pacific on May 16, and although they encountered rain, snow and fog for nearly half the distance, they arrived safely in Kashiwabara Bay, Paramashiru Island, Japan, thus completing the first flight across the ocean.

Hopping off from Paramashiru May 19, they flew 500 miles to Yetorofu, and three days later 554 miles brought them to Minato on the main island of Japan. Good weather at this point impelled the aviators to go on and a second flight on May 22 took them 350 miles to Kasumigaura, the air base for Tokio. Here the aviators remained a week overhauling their machines. During the time a series of festivals in their honor was held in Tokio.

Lieut. Smith Delayed

Resuming on June 1 the squadron winged its way 350 miles to Kushimoto and the next day went another 350 miles to Kagoshima, the last stop in Japan. The aviators thus completed the first flight over the empire of Nippon ever made by United States army men.

Lieut. Smith, who had been acting commander since the elimination of Maj. Martin, was formally appointed commander June 3 and the next day had his first bit of "commander's luck" which had followed Maj. Martin from the outset. Leaving Kagoshima June 4, Lieut. Smith's plane developed engine trouble and refused to ascend. He directed Lieuts. Wade and Nelson to make the hop of 610 miles across the China sea to Shanghai and he followed the next day, covering the distance in one hour and 15 minutes less than his companions required. A stretch of 555 miles to Amoy was covered June 7 and the next day they flew 300 miles to Hongkong.

After a day's rest in Hongkong the three planes made 500 miles June 10, bringing them to Haipong and the next day a flight of 300 miles landed them at Tourane. Here Commander Smith experienced more engine trouble and a delay of five days was necessitated while a new engine was installed in his machine.

On June 16 the aviators reached the nearest point to the equator, when they flew from Tourane to Saigon, a distance of 530 miles. The route then led them to Bangkok, Siam, 675 miles away, which they covered June 18, and two days later a flight of 450 miles to Rangoon, Burma, was made. One of the planes upon descending collided with a cargo boat, damaging the wings which necessitated a delay of five days for repairs. The 445 miles from Rangoon to Akyab were covered June 25 and the next day in going to Calcutta, a distance of 400 miles, it was necessary to make a ten-minute detour out to sea to avoid a storm.

The fliers remained in Calcutta until July 1 and in the meantime Commander Smith suffered a broken rib in a fall from a culver on the flying field. However, he accompanied his companions on the flight to Allahabad, 475 miles distant. The fliers had little or no difficulty in Cochin, China, where they followed the coast line, but they could not avoid the jungles east of Delhi. Here for seven hours, according to a story by Lieut. Wade, the aviators flew over the tree tops, fighting the winds and were able to see plainly the wild beasts below. On one occasion, he said, a tiger was seen and he could have shot him if he had a gun.

Jungles of India

After getting beyond the jungles of India, the aviators experienced no trouble. Proceeding July 2 they made a hop of 500 miles from Allahabad to Umbella and the same day made another short jump to Multan. July 3 they flew 475 miles to Karachi, their last stop in India, where they were again delayed by engine trouble. Leaving Karachi July 7 they made Charbar, Persia, 330 miles away, proceeded to Bender Abbas, another flight of the same distance. A total of 875 miles were covered July 8 in flights to Bushire and thence to Bagdad. The next day 480 miles brought them to Aleppo, Syria, and on June 10 they winged it approximately 600 miles to reach Constantinople.

A day out of the planes was taken in Constantinople and then successive day flights of 300 and 650 miles each landed them in Vienna July 13, an overnight stop having been made at Bucharest and a short stop at Budapest en route to Vienna. The fliers went July 14 from Vienna to Paris, a distance of 650 miles. In the French capital they received one of the most enthusiastic welcomes of the trip and after a day proceeded to London, where a stay of ten days was scheduled to prepare the machines for the hop across the Atlantic.

From London the schedule arranged to bring the aviators to the Atlantic coast of the North American continent included stops at Hull, England, then a jump of 370 miles to Kirkwall in the Orkney islands; one of 275 miles to Thorshavn, Faroe islands; thence to Hornafjord, Iceland, 260 miles; to Reykjavik, Iceland, 339 miles; to Angmagsalik, Greenland, the most northerly point touched in the Atlantic, 500 miles; to Ivigtut, Greenland, 500 miles, and to Indian harbor, Labrador, 572 miles.

Back in United States

The remainder of the trip will take the fliers to Cartwright harbor, Labrador, 40 miles, thence to Hawkes bay, Newfoundland, 290 miles, and on to Pictou harbor, Nova Scotia, 420 miles. From the last point the aviators will begin to think of home, which to them after such a trip will be the entire United States. A flight of 520 miles will bring them down along the Maine coast to Boston, with only two more hops left, one of 155 miles to Mitchel field, and another of 220 miles to Washington.

Originally it was intended to have the flight end at Washington, but a short time ago officials of the air service announced that they favored Clover field, Cal., as the finishing point in order that the air route around the world actually would be completed. It is proposed to have the fliers leave Washington for the cross-continent flight, following the route to Moundsville, W. Va., Dayton, Ohio, and then along the air mail line as far west perhaps as Sacramento, Cal., before turning south to Clover Field.

Air officials plan to have the trip west made as expeditiously as possible in order that efforts to beat the record of the American fliers, which are expected to be started generally may be made as difficult as possible.

One Grateful Mother's Tribute

"I would not be without the famous

Dr. True's Elixir

for it is a faithful friend all year 'round. At first signs of dull feeling, fatigue or restlessness I give my children a few doses and then rest assured that everything will be all right."—Mrs. Flora Desaults, Worcester, Mass.

The "kiddies" LIKE Dr. True's Elixir—grandmothers call it

The True Family Laxative

Will relieve every member of the family of constipation. $1.20; 60c; 40c.

Successfully used for over 73 years

A Doctor of Many Years' Experience Says

After a Severe Illness of Flu, Grip Pneumonia, or Other Weakening Diseases, There Is Nothing That Brings Back Health and Strength So Quickly as Nuga-Tone

After such weakening diseases you should try Nuga-Tone. It will more than surprise you how quickly you begin to feel the return of health and strength. Readers of this paper will find Nuga-Tone a wonderful remedy in such cases. It is a simple, pleasant remedy that increases strength and vigor and builds up the blood and body quickly. Nuga-Tone brings refreshing sleep, fine appetite, stimulates the kidneys and liver and regulates the stomach and bowels so nicely. Try it and you will begin to feel better in a few days. The manufacturers of Nuga-Tone know so well what it will do in such cases that they compel all druggists to guarantee it and refund your money when you are not satisfied. See guarantee on each package. Recommended, guaranteed and for sale by all druggists.—Adv.

SO EASY TO GET RID OF HEADACHES

"Fruit-atives" Smoothes Away the Pain

Headaches are always the result of poisoned blood. If food is not properly digested; if the bowels are not regular; or if the kidneys are weak and irritated; then impurities are taken up by the blood and carried to the nerves of the head causing dreadful headaches.

The Fruit Treatment is the most effective means of keeping the blood pure. "Fruit-a-tives," the wonderful combination of the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes—intensified and combined with tonics—are a complete fruit treatment for Headaches, whether the headaches are due to Neuralgia, Nervousness, Billiousness, Indigestion, Constipation or Irritated Kidneys.

Just try the Fruit Treatment for your Headaches, in the form of "Fruit-a-tives." Your druggist has them. 25c. and 50c. a box—or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ogdensburg, N. Y.—Adv.

HOW TO PRESERVE

All of the short cuts and recipes for Fall preserving—and Autumn housekeeping hints known to New England housewives—are printed in the household columns of the Boston Daily and Sunday Globe. Read the Boston Globe today.

$2.50 Per Day and upward

is one reason for the rapidly growing popularity of the Hotel Martinique.

Another is the consistent economy of the entire establishment. Here you may enjoy a Club Breakfast at 45c., consisting of Fruit or Cereal, Bacon and Egg, and Rolls and Coffee —Special Luncheon and Dinners of superior quality are also served at the most moderate possible prices.

No location can be possibly more convenient than that of the Martinique. One block from the Pennsylvania Station (via enclosed subway)—Nine blocks from Grand Central—one block from the greatest and best Shops of the City—half a dozen blocks from the Opera and the leading Theatres —and directly connected with the Subway to any part of the City you wish to reach.

"The BEST without extravagance"

Hotel Martinique

Affiliated with Hotel McAlpin

Broadway—32nd to 33rd Sts. NEW YORK

A. E. Singleton, Manager.

Quick Safe Relief

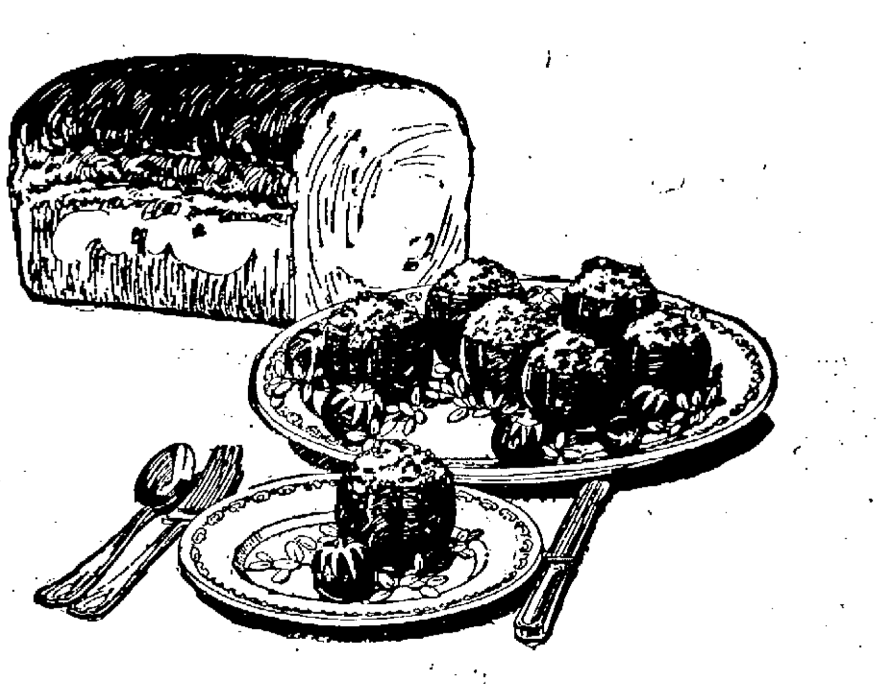
CORNS

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads stop corns hurting instantly. Remove the cause—friction and pressure. They are thin, medicated, antiseptic, waterproof. Absolutely safe! Easy to apply. Get them at your druggist's or shoe dealer's.

Three Sizes—for corns, callouses, bunions

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads

"Put one on—the pain is gone"



Better for Bread Dishes

Betsy Ross bread offers you unlimited possibilities for giving variation to your meals. It can be made up into any number of delightful dishes—many of them easy to make, and all so good that your family will like them. Serve Betsy Ross regularly in the usual way, and make it a part of some other food in the meal. It makes all bread dishes taste better.

The fine quality of Betsy Ross is well known here. It can be depended upon to give a liberal measure of real bread goodness.

Old Home Potato Bread

Mother's own bread is our pattern in making Old Home Potato Bread. It is made as she herself would make it, and it has the same delicious taste the bread she made always had. Such flavor is seldom found in bread nowadays, but you'll find it in Old Home.

Betsy Ross

MOREHOUSE BAKING CO.

LEGRAND ENTERTAINS INDIAN HEAD EMPLOYES

George Legrand of the Indian Head Construction company gave an outing to his employes, numbering about 35, at a camp in Lakeview on Sunday afternoon, and the affair proved a great success. The participants were conveyed to the outing grounds in automobiles and immediately upon their arrival activities began. A fine list of sports, followed by a lobster-turkey dinner with all the fixins' made up the regular program. An event not listed followed which proved a big feature of the day. With the inner man well taken care of, one of the party arose and after paying a glowing tribute to the host, not only for his kindness on "outing day," but for his fair and honorable treatment of his employes at all times, presented him a beautiful token, expressing the wish that it will always serve as a slight reminder of the pleasant occasion and of the esteem in which he is held by his employes.

BUILDING PERMITS REPRESENT $130,000

Building permits for construction work estimated to cost approximately $130,000 were issued in the lands and buildings department at city hall late Saturday.

The larger of the two was issued to the City Institution for Savings for the construction of a new bank building in Central street at an estimated cost of $75,000. William Drapeau of this city is the contractor.

The second permit was issued to the Genoa club for the reconstruction of the Knights of Columbus home in Dutton street which was destroyed in the Associate building fire early in April of this year. Frederick F. Meloy is the contractor and the cost is estimated at approximately $55,000.

POLLING BOOTH LOCATIONS CHANGED

Three changes in the location of polling booths, affecting ward 1, precinct 2; ward 3, precinct 3, and ward 8, precinct 4, were announced this morning by the election commission.

The booth for ward 1, precinct 2, was for years located adjacent to the corner of Bridge and First streets. This has been moved to the junction of First street and the Lawrence boulevard, opposite Read street.

Voters in ward 3, precinct 3, will find their polling booth at Pine street next to Willis' market instead of in the Morey school, as in previous years.

In ward 8 the polling booth for precinct 3, formerly located in the car barn in Middlesex street, is at the corner of Foster and Middlesex streets.

PINES COMMUNITY HOLDS FIELD DAY

Success attended the banners of the Pines Community association of Billerica, which conducted its annual field day last Saturday. Water sports and track events were featured on the entertainment program. Special ceremonies were conducted during the raising of a new flag on the community grounds pole.

Little children took prominent parts. Hundreds of small flags were released from the larger American emblem when it was flung to the breeze from the top of the pole at the close of the patriotic ceremony. There were appropriate addresses, followed by a band concert and dancing.

SLIGHT ADVANCE IN PRICE OF COAL

Prices for various grades and sizes of anthracite coals, will be advanced from 10 to 15 cents per ton to consumers, beginning tomorrow. All local coal dealers will list the new figures on their price lists.

With the increase in effect, the prices for anthracite will be as follows: Egg coal, nut, $15; buckwheat, $12.50; Jeddo egg, $18.50; Jeddo stove and nut, $19; all sizes of Franklin will be $19.50 a ton.

These price will be subject to a discount of 50 cents a ton for cash within 10 days.

WILL REMAIN IN NORWICH

Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the Norwich, Conn. chamber of commerce, who had accepted an offer to become secretary of the Fitchburg chamber, has decided to remain in Norwich. The executives of the organization where Mr. O'Rourke has been performing excellent service since Nov. 1, 1920, after leaving a position as assistant secretary of the Lowell charmber, insisted that he change his mind about accepting the Fitchburg offer, and he has done so.

The directors of the Norwich organization announce that they cannot afford to lose an executive who has accomplished a great deal in the way of securing road improvements, better street lighting systems and the establishment of a recreation commission, since his advent to the wide-awake city.

The following are the duly elected and qualified officers of the Washington Savings Institution:

PRESIDENT
WILLIAM A. HOGAN

VICE-PRESIDENTS
PATRICK O'HEARN
CHARLES H. HANSON
JOHN E. DRURY

TREASURER
FRANK A. GROVES

ASSISTANT TREASURER
MARGARET R. CASSIDY

BOARD OF INVESTMENT
WM. A. HOGAN, PATRICK O'HEARN, CHARLES H. HANSON, JOHN E. DRURY, WM. F. FARRELL, ROBERT E. CROWLEY, CORNELIUS E. COLLINS.

TRUSTEES

One Year—Cornelius E. Collins, William L. Gookin, Frank A. Groves, William A. Hogan, Thomas B. O'Hearn, Frederick F. Meloy.

Two Years—Robert E. Crowley, John E. Drury, William F. Farrell, Charles H. Hanson, Patrick O'Hearn, Paul Vigeant.

Three Years—P. Noe Brunelle, Patrick H. Daley, Frank D. Donovan, Harry S. Drury, John J. Healey, Daniel E. Hogan.

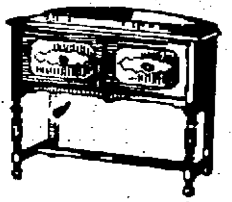
The following are members of the Corporation: P. Noe Brunelle, Cornelius E. Collins, Eugene F. Crane, Robert E. Crowley, Patrick H. Daley, Frank D. Donovan, John T. Donehue, Harry S. Drury, John E. Drury, William F. Farrell, William L. Gookin, William A. Gourley, Adam Groves, Frank A. Groves, Charles H. Hanson, John J. Healey, James F. Hennessey, Daniel E. Hogan, John J. Hogan, William A. Hogan, Frederick F. Meloy, Patrick O'Hearn, Thomas B. O'Hearn, Albert E. O'Heir, Humphrey O'Sullivan, Frederick H. Rourke, Daniel T. Sullivan and Paul Vigeant.

Signed:
WILLIAM L. GOOKIN, Clerk.

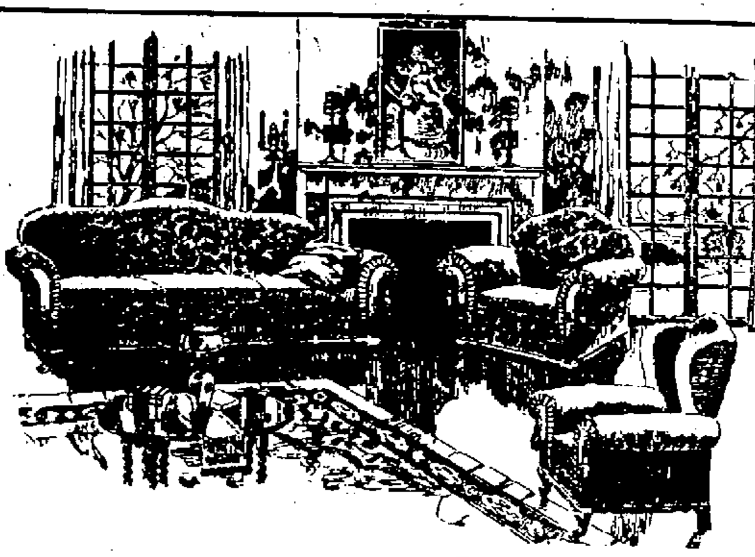
KITCHEN DEPARTMENT SPECIALS
WEAR-EVER ALUMINUM
Preserving Kettles
10 Quart Size
$1.95
COVERS .... 60c Each

ROBERTSON'S
82 PRESCOTT STREET

Serving Table
Suitable for Radio Cabinet. Priced....... $25



September Furniture Values
GOOD FURNITURE LOWER IN PRICE THAN FOR SEVEN YEARS
Without Sacrificing Quality, We Can Offer You Honest Built Furniture at These Low Prices. Piece for Piece—Quality for Quality Our Prices We Guarantee Are the Lowest Absolutely.



SPECIAL

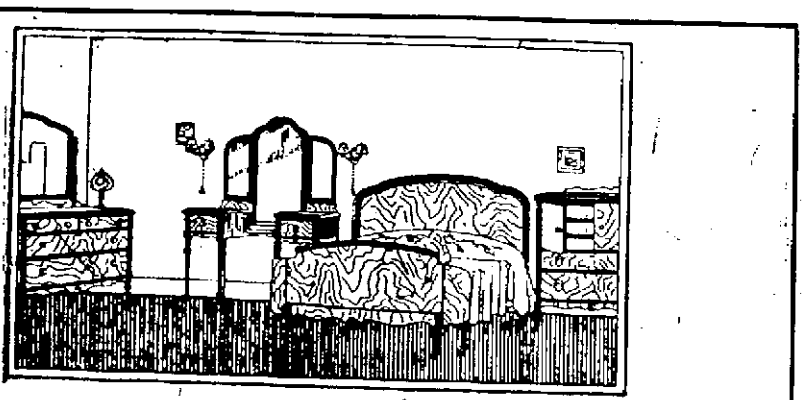
Upholstered Living Room Suites

THE MOST IMPORTANT ITEM OF ALL—Will these suites hold their shape—their coverings wear? Are they good values? These suites we guarantee to endure. Every one of them is built with the most necessary webbing supporting the springs and underframe. The coverings are all of good grade material.

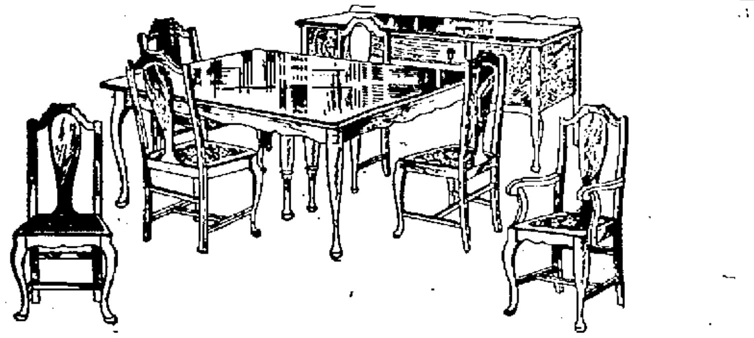
GROUP I
Suites in this group formerly sold at prices varying from $150 to $195. Suite consists of divan, chair and wing chair. All have the high grade web seat construction. Priced..... $135

GROUP II
This group comprises suites that formerly sold at prices ranging from $200 to $250. Suites consist of divan, chair and wing chair. Choice of tapestry or velour covering. Built with web seat construction. Priced $175

GROUP III
Group III comprises suites formerly priced from $275 to $350. Divan, chair and wing chair. Choice of tapestry, velour or mohair covering. Suites priced at $250

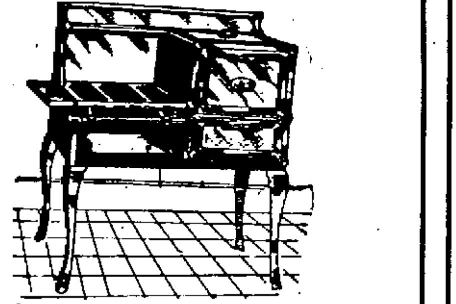


4-Piece Chamber Suite
New French Walnut Finish
THIS SUITE IS AN UNSURPASSED DOLLAR-FOR-DOLLAR VALUE—For the money you'll see nothing finer anywhere! The new light finish on this suite is especially attractive. Never have we had four pieces of furniture that would equal this value. Good sized dresser, chiffonier, dressing table and bow-end bed. Special price.......... $145



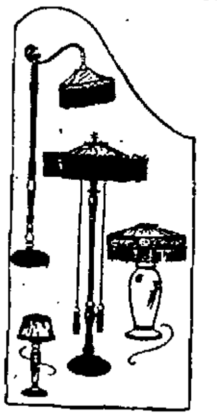
A COMBINATION OF PRICE AND QUALITY HARD TO EQUAL!—8 pieces—60-in. buffet, oblong table, and set of five chairs and master's chair. Suite is sturdily built of combination walnut. Priced $145

QUAKER GAS RANGES



Just like Quaker Ranges, "Built to Bake." Priced
$40 to $75

SPECIAL PRICES—LAMPS



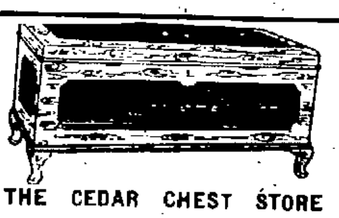
THIS FLOOR LAMP $17.50
THIS BRIDGE LAMP $11.95
BOUDOIR LAMP $4.00
TABLE LAMP $15.00

Better Bedding at Low Prices
Lowell's Largest Bedding Dept.
FOR SEPTEMBER SPECIAL
COTTON FELT MATTRESS—
Rolled Edge $18

ALL RUGS ARE PURCHASED DIRECT FROM FACTORY
RUGS
SPECIALISTS IN ODD SIZE RUGS
STILL LOWER IN PRICE

AXMINSTER HEAVY		WILTON		TAPESTRY
Size 9x12	$42.50	Size 9x12	$87.50	Size 9x12	$21.50
Size 8.3x10.6	$39.00	Size 8.3x10.6	$82.00	Size 8.3x10.6	$18.50
Size 6x9	$27.00	Size 6x9	$62.00	Size 6x9	$14.50

LARGEST RUG DEPARTMENT IN MIDDLESEX COUNTY



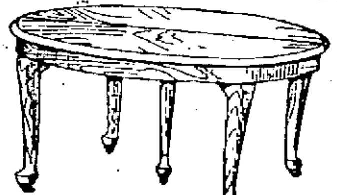
THE CEDAR CHEST STORE OF LOWELL
Always a large assortment from which to make selection.

SPECIAL!
DIVAN TABLE COMBINATION
Mahogany—
(Like cut) $30.00

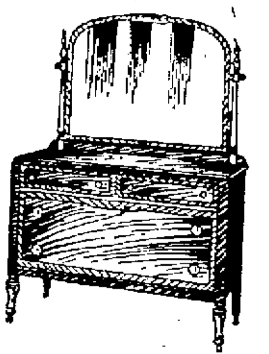
GIFT SHOP
Second Floor
GLASSWARE
BOOK ENDS
MIRRORS
PICTURES
TEA SETS
CANDLESTICKS

"A GIFT FOR EVERY NEED"
SPECIAL FOR SEPTEMBER
Three-piece Colored Glass BUFFET SET $2.50
Colors—Blue, Amber, Green
BUFFET MIRROR $13.50
Three panes

ODD PIECES—DINING TABLE



Queen Anne design—combination walnut 48-inch.
Priced $35.00



WALNUT FINISHED DRESSER
Price $35.00

DAVENPORT BED
$45.00
Mattress extra

THE LOWELL SUN
JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor
SUN BUILDING. LOWELL, MASS.
Member of the Associated Press
The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published herein.

NATIONAL DEFENSE DAY

Whenever any demonstration of patriotism is called for, Lowell always stands in the front ranks as she always has done. When Lincoln called for troops to save the national capital in 1861, Lowell was the first to respond and it was three Lowell men, Ladd, Whitney and Taylor who became the protomartyrs of that memorable struggle, having fallen in the first battle of the war when attacked on the streets of Baltimore on their way with a Lowell company to Washington.

We are to have a National Defense day on the 12th instant, when our citizens are expected to turn out in public parade as a proof of their loyalty and their readiness to respond to any call for service in defense of the country or the flag. Whether there is any need for such a demonstration is not our business to discuss. The call is issued and we should respond. Arrangements will be made for the enrollment of civilians for their appearance in line on that occasion. This is not a military enlistment, of course, but it is a means of ascertaining the readiness of the masses to respond to a government call in an emergency. There is no military necessity for such a call at the present time; but this Defense day is to be carried out for reasons similar to those for which a fire drill is ordered in schools. It calls for no special sacrifice on the part of civil or military bodies; and yet a prompt and general response for a public demonstration on this occasion will offer assurance that our citizens are on the alert and ready for service when their country calls. The assurance that such is the case, is all that the government wants and a big turnout will offer convincing proof that in any emergency our people can be mobilized for service at short notice. That means preparedness and preparedness means national security.

THE CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

We are heartily in favor of any proper step to abolish the abuses of child labor throughout the land; but we do not believe that to accomplish this end it is necessary to invest congress with the power to usurp parental authority and even prohibit the labor of all minors under 18 years of age, as provided in the proposed amendment to the constitution submitted to the states for ratification.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

> Section 1. The congress shall have power to limit, regulate, and prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age.
>
> Section 2. The power of the several states is unimpaired by this article, except that the operation of state laws shall be suspended to the extent necessary to give effect to legislation enacted by the congress.

It will be seen from the first section that this amendment would unequivocally invest congress with the power to prohibit the labor of all minors under 18 years of age, something that would be utterly intolerable and a revolutionary invasion of the people's rights. It is difficult to understand why such language was included in the amendment, the purpose of which is, or at least was believed to be, merely regulative.

But the meaning of this provision is unmistakable. It would empower the federal government to exercise absolute control over all persons of school age and up to the age of 18 years. It would evidently call for a horde of inspectors, perhaps far more numerous than those now engaged in the enforcement of the liquor law. It may easily be imagined what a spirit of resistance would be aroused against a law that would compel persons of 18 years of age to remain idle, even though their parents needed their support or wished to have them employed in any legitimate capacity to which the government objected. The fact is, that this amendment more than any other ever proposed, would grant the federal government sweeping and unprecedented power over the youth of the land. It would result in a revolutionary transformation of the traditional relation between local and federal authority. It would also usurp to a very great extent the right of parents to direct the activities of their children during the school age as they might desire within the long established provisions of law.

It is plain that every humane person will strongly oppose child labor and all the abuses to which children are subjected when employed in factories while under 14 years of age. The evil of child labor has become so objectionable and so serious, especially in the southern states, that something must be done to wipe it out. Already congress has passed two distinct laws intended to abolish or prevent such labor, but both have been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court of the United States. The result is that several members of congress submitted bills providing for an amendment of the constitution, and the text of the amendment was finally adopted in the form quoted above.

It is most unfortunate that the actual prohibition of labor by all persons up to the age of 18 years, has been embodied in the amendment as this provision has already stirred up vigorous opposition to the measure even outside the southern states. In this connection it is well to remember the warning of John Fiske, the eminent historian, who made this very truthful statement:

> "If the day should ever arrive when the people of the different parts of our country should allow their local affairs to be administered by prefects sent from Washington, and when the self-government of the state shall have been lost . . . On that day the progressive political career of the American people will have come to an end, and the hopes that have been built upon it for the future happiness and prosperity of mankind will be wrecked forever." . .

Before the amendment was framed it was represented to congress that there were more than one million children under 16 years of age gainfully employed in the United States; and the impression was conveyed that the employment was so continuous and so laborious as to threaten their health, prevent their proper educational training and at times to bring them under immoral influences. All this may have been true, but yet it would not justify an amendment to the constitution prohibiting any father from requiring a proper amount of work from his boy of 17 years of age or a widowed mother from asking her children of 16, 17 or 18 years of age to assist her in obtaining a livelihood in labor suited to their years.

It is hardly to be expected that the government would compel persons between the age of 16 and 18 to remain idle if their labor was required for the support of their families; but the amendment conveys the power to do so, regardless of any circumstance or condition that may exist.

This amendment was originally proposed to overcome the advantage which the south has over New England in obtaining the labor of children of tender years in the textile industry for a mere pittance. The amendment is necessary, but it should not have been submitted in such objectionable form. It is likely that the southern states will vote solidly against it, and this objectionable provision relative to the excess of power that would be placed in the hands of congress will probably cause its defeat even in other states. Indeed it would seem that the wording of the amendment has been dictated by socialists and communists. Thus it is unfair to New England and unfair to the country. The adoption of the amendment would revolutionize the control of all minors under 18 years of age, taking such control not only away from the parents but also from the states. Possibly the federal authority would pass a law making it compulsory to keep children at school till the age of 18; but that, too, would be an unwarranted invasion of state rights.

The expense of enforcing such an amendment may be judged from the expense of enforcing prohibition. At present the children's bureau has charge of infancy and while its appropriation in 1912 was but $30,000, the amount for the present year is $1,554,000, or an increase of 5000 per cent. The bureau to enforce the child labor amendment would be in a position to secure large appropriations on the plea of conducting a great moral reform. It seems, in fine, that a close examination of this amendment shows it to be but a step toward the communist idea of nationalizing the children of the country so as to take them out of control of the parents and even of state authority. The children's bureau so-called, that put out so much fulsome propaganda for the maternity act in 1921, is pushing this amendment, and this alone is sufficient to condemn it with fair-minded citizens.

TO DISPLAY N. E. PRODUCTS

Our local merchants are doing the right thing in arranging for the display of the products of local factories with proper labels.

It is a regrettable fact that the consuming public has never been made familiar with the products of the local textile factories by seeing them displayed on the counters of local stores and properly labelled. If New England week accomplishes nothing more than a change in this respect, it will be helpful alike to the merchants and the factories.

In years past, we presume, the local mills did not consider it worth while to bother with local markets and sent all their products to their selling houses in New York and elsewhere; but times have changed and the lack of a brisk foreign market calls for a more effective plan of appealing to the home market.

This is part of the work of the New England week and if the factories and the merchants make proper exhibits of New England factory products, the purchasers will undoubtedly do their duty in liberal purchases.

SECRET RADIO

Privacy in radio communication is claimed by John Hays Hammond, Jr., the famous inventor. He says his new broadcasting invention completely isolates sender and receiver from interference or listening in. Marconi and others claim similar devices.

Pocket radio phones may not be as far in the future as you believe. The tendency in radio is toward simplicity and usefulness.

The world fliers will get a well deserved welcome on reaching Boston. They are making a record that will endure in history.

Happily the auto casualties over the double holiday were less numerous than usual.

The time has arrived for everybody to buckle down to business.

SEEN AND HEARD

A new aeroplane is designed to travel 300 miles an hour, which is almost as fast as bills come in.

The sad thing about committing a murder is having so many people argue about your sanity.

You would think the two Chicago murderers were running for office, the way their past has been dug up.

A Thought

Love can hope, where reason would despair.—Lyttleton.

Worth Photographing

A verger was showing a visitor round a church. The passage through the wooden altar rail was flanked by two stout posts with particularly large and round wooden knobs on top. Nothing interesting about them. No one would think of photographing one of them. But he would after hearing the verger. "A little while ago, sir," he said, "we had a very short-sighted bishop here, and he confirmed one of them knobs."

Never Satisfied

In many parts of Mexico hot springs and cold springs are found side by side. One can see native women boiling clothes in a hot spring, rubbing them on a flat rock and rinsing them in a clear cold spring. A visitor watched this process for some time, and then said: "I suppose the natives think old Mother Nature is pretty generous, eh?" "No, senor," replied the host. "There is much grumbling because she supplies no soap."

Getting Square

He was a smart boy—the newspaper lad. One of those youngsters who will one day make his mark in the world—become perhaps a cabinet minister, or at least an M. P. He was crying his wares in the main street of the town one evening when he came up to one of the big shopkeepers standing in the door of his shop. "Buy a paper, sir?" he asked, his voice hoarse from shouting. "No!" replied the man abruptly. "Clear off!" "Local footballer shot," went on the boy. In a moment the other was all excitement. "Give me a paper—quick!" he said, holding out a penny. "Local footballer shot, did you say?" "Yes," replied the boy, moving away. "But he never scored."

To My Dog

You greet me with the breaking light
And bound to meet my outstretched hand;
My every step from morn till night
You watch and seem to understand.
At all such work as dogs can do
I find in you a helper true;
In all my sport, too, you must share
And help to drive away my care.

If other beasts about the place
Get mean and vicious too,
All I must do to teach them grace
Is merely call on you;
I sleep secure when you stand guard—
No foeman dares to cross our yard—
No time so rough but if I call,
You bravely come and dare it all.

Regardless what my fortunes be
And whether men shall scoff or praise,
You're still the same good friend to me
And change not with the changing days.
And every night when I come home—
Sometimes with less of joy than gloom—
Beside my gate you waiting stand
To hail me with a welcome grand.

Unfailing friend! To me so true!
While I have shelter, bread and meat,
Beside my fire there's room for you,
Nor shall you want for aught to eat.
Ere human hands bring harm to thee
They first must do away with me.
For since to me you're always true,
I'll be the same good friend to you.

—ARTHUR T. BRIDGES.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Market stalls and vegetable "bins" along the aisles close up to the counters in grocery and provision stores large and small without number, are filled with foods in seasonal offerings and some that are out of season, but still purchasable. The stores supplying the citizens of Lowell and many country towns with food supplies the year around, have had little trouble this summer obtaining copious supplies of almost any wanted and desirable garden product, from strawberries to cantaloupes, apples to tomatoes, and squashes to Lima beans. The farmers have had good luck; the season was rather dry, but the recent rains prevented a drouth that would have burned up vegetation completely. Farm gardens are now producing the best growths of the season. Tomatoes are coming in from the country gardens in large quantities. Best qualities sell for as low as 8 cents a pound, and small gradings, 5 cents a pound. Saturday, the local markets doing the catering to the down-town trade, showed novelties like California Tokay grapes, blue Turban squash, fresh-killed green geese and infertile pullets' eggs. In the fish markets, prices are higher for cod, swordfish, fillet of sole, green shrimp, shucked clams and salt mackeral. Lobsters are fairly cheap—the small ones, commonly called "chickens," being very plentiful. If you like the Muscat hothouse grapes, you will find plenty at low prices. Apples are selling in some instances so low that it doesn't pay to handle them, dealers say. The quality has not always been the best, farmers shipping most of the A No. 1 fruit to Boston where it can be disposed of quicker than it can be peddled and sold in Lowell at the present time.

On his recent trip to Buffalo, N. Y., where he attended the fire chief's convention, Chief Edward F. Saunders of the local department noticed that in several of the fairly large Empire state cities, adequate water pressure is provided for the city mains by means of a large steel tank mounted on an elevation within the city limits. This method, he says, is the best he has seen and he believes that a large steel tank capable of holding several million gallons of water, mounted on the top of Christian Hill and elevated about 25 or 30 feet by the use of steel "legs," would give ample water pressure for fire supply at any hydrant in the city. He believes the tank system would be considerably cheaper than building a new reservoir and would prove much more satisfactory.

TEL. 679
McNabb Brothers
Lowell Laundry
For All Kinds of Laundering
McNABB TOWEL SUPPLY
Individual Towels for Clubs
TOWELS AND APRONS FOR ALL OCCASIONS

SOCIETY OF L'ASSUMPTION HOLDS ANNUAL CONVENTION HERE

Pierre Leblanc of Lowell Re-elected President-General-Convention—Convention Opens With Mass at St. Joseph's Church—Sermon by the Grand Chaplain

Pierre Leblanc of this city was re-elected president-general of the society of L'Assumption (Acadians) at the 10th annual convention held in this city Sunday and yesterday.

The convention was opened with the celebration of a solemn high mass at St. Joseph's church at 10.30 o'clock Sunday morning. Rev. J. Fortier, O.M.I., was the celebrant and he was assisted by Rev. A. Ducharme, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. Armand Baron, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. The choir under the direction of Mr. Telesphore Malo, with Miss Lena B. Camire at the organ, rendered Victor Hammerel's mass in honor of Our Lady of Good Counsel. An orchestra, augmented for the occasion, played the "Grand March," Tannhauser, as the body of over 250 delegates entered the church and as the congregation left the edifice "Victory March" was played. The altars were prettily arranged with cut flowers and lighted candles while in the sanctuary the American and French banners were placed, making an appropriate background for one of the most auspicious religious ceremonies ever held locally.

Rev. J. Rabel, S.M., of North Cambridge, grand chaplain of the organization, delivered the sermon. The reverend clergyman said in part: "We may today truly say, 'God sees me.' Surely He must be cognizant of your good act today; your act of love for Him, shown by the numerous delegates here present at the Holy Sacrifice of the mass; your spirit of charity and the good motive which today prompts you to meet and in convention discuss ways by which you may promote the general welfare of your organization and your country. As a body you must act as authorized by the church. You must heed the words of our Lord, 'Love one another as I love you.' You, members of this grand organization of Acadians, must aspire to great things. But to aspire is not to accomplish. You must act. You must in your actions see that the law of charity sees no bounds. As God preached the doctrine of truth and charity, so you, too, must be His apostles and live up to His command: 'Go teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost.' To do good, we must desire to help our brothers. When we have that conviction well in our hearts we can go out into the world and in a charitable spirit, and with desires coached by religious and patriotic motives, led by God and our conscience, help the weary and succor the weak. We must act in the living present, however. The world today is filled with people who exploit principles and who, when the time arrives for action, withdraw and leave the field to the other man. He who is dictated by his convictions is the man who will face all difficulties; who will walk with his head uplifted and meet the adversities of life. But the secret of prosperity in the face of adversity is sacrifice. The two outstanding qualities in the life of our Lord, are the stepping stones to charity and love of brother. You, the sons of martyrs, must surely have the blood of the hero within you. But to be a martyr does not necessitate death, we can be martyrs little by little, by sacrifice. Valiant sons, be true to your church and her offerings; uphold the sacred interests of the family; the sanctity of marriage; favor justice. By so doing you will nobly serve your God and your country. God is your judge and if He accepts your acts, what matters the decree of the world?"

At the offertory Jules Morissette sang the "O Salutaris." The solos during the mass were sustained by Miss Margaret Turgeon, Miss Rose Lusier, Fred Ducharme, Mrs. Boudeau, Miss Stella Latour, Alberic Ducharme, Wilfred Lajeunesse, Arthur Leveille, Miss Banche Larue and Mrs. Eva Michel.

Reception at C.M.A.C.

At the conclusion of the religious services the body marched to the C.M.A.C. hall in Pawtucket street, where a reception was held. At 12.30 o'clock a banquet comprising the choicest viands, appetizers and other delectables that served their purpose well to the inner man was served by the Lydon Catering Co. The hall was prettily arranged with American and French colors with a centerpiece of tiny flags from which were draped blue, white and red streamers. Among the after-dinner speakers was Aime Glonet, president of the local branch and acting toastmaster. He welcomed the delegates, thanking them for the fine showing made and urged them to continue in their spirit of co-operation that the organization might flourish in its work throughout the country. Among the other speakers were Very Rev. J. E. Turcotte, O.M.I., Rev. Fr. Rabel, S.M., of North Cambridge; Rev. J. B. Labossiere, pastor of St. Louis' church, and Mayor Donovan, as well as several officers of the society.

Business and Entertainment

Following the banquet the members repaired to the rooms of the Centralville Social club, where a business session was held. In the evening at 8 o'clock in the C.M.A.C. hall, a varied and entertaining program of addresses, musical numbers and recitations was given. Among the entertainers was Master A. Saulnier, youthful violinist, whose name has already been established locally and throughout New England. The little master was at his best Sunday evening, and accompanied by his mother, he provided much of the evening's entertainment. The program in full follows:

Piano selection,
Miss A. Leblanc.
Trio,
Morissette Brothers.
Address,
E. Leger, of Fitchburg, financial secretary.
Violin selections,
Master A. Saulnier.
Recitation,
P. L. Vouteur.
Cornet solo,
A. Desrosiers, accompanied by Miss G. Desrosiers.
Address,
Pierre Leblanc, president-general.
Address,
Orille Maillett, of New Brunswick.
Address,
J. H. Leblanc, of Leominster.

Election of Officers

The other officers elected are: Grand spiritual director, Rev. A. Rabel, S.M., of North Cambridge; chancellor general, Joseph Gallant of Fisherville; first vice-president general, Rosanna Doguen of Methuen; 2nd vice-president general, Albanie Bourgeois of Westbrook, Me.; recording secretary general, P. Levalnvautour of Leominster; treasurer general, Phillas Richard of New Bedford; conductor general, Valentine E. Blinn of Haverhill; second conductor general, Sylvian Thomas of Shirley; first director, Alphonse Phlasson of Cambridge; second director, Joseph McLaughlin of Haverhill; third director, Elphege Leger of Fitchburg; executive council, Pierre Leblanc, Phillas Richard, Alexandre Phlasson, Emmanuel Godin and Valentine Blinn.

TOM SIMS SAYS

"Shot by Suitor"—headline. The suitor didn't suit her so he decided to shoot her.

In Bulgaria, the king works his own garden plot, which is much better than working international plots.

Nothing is as high as the high cost of loafing.

We would hate to be rich enough to have our daughter want to run away and marry the chauffeur.

You hear a lot about old maid reformers, but who wants to reform an old maid?

New York society woman wants divorce, saying she doesn't know where he is, but maybe she hasn't looked at home.

Agency finds married men make the best collectors, perhaps because they know all the excuses.

Nothing hurts your luck like thinking it is bad.

A snail travels a foot in four minutes, reports an investigator. But contrary to rumor, this is not as fast as a street car.

700-pound shark killed by New York bathers may have been looking for Wall street.

Chicago woman asking divorce, says her husband beats her every now and then, which, of course, is too often.

In Indiana, a janitor stole $3000 from a bank and it was the best he ever cleaned up.

The stone-age man had his wife at his feet. The modern man has her at his heels.

In Scotland, 2000 barrels of booze burned, but prohibition prevents such horrors here.

Train almost ran over a senator in Washington, showing you can't get by a railroad crossing on your reputation.

Reports of women being indicted for election frauds prove the theory that women couldn't learn politics a mistake.

Two Boston girls walking home from California should have gotten out of the auto sooner.

"Beauty is an accident," say psychologists. And we say it often results in internal injuries, such as heart trouble.

(Copyright, 1924, The Lowell Sun)

The most expensive chair in the world—made of solid silver and worth about $60,000—belongs to the pope.

ACADEMY OF HAIR and BEAUTY CULTURE
A School of Wide-Ranged Specialization
CONDUCTED BY IRENE HARKINS
116 CENTRAL STREET
STRAND BLDG.
Tel. 3846. Three Evenings a Week
Starting the Evening of Sept. 8th
We specialize not in one, but all Beauty Culture Arts—Scalp, Massage, Manicuring, Marcel Waving, Hair Coloring, Scientific Beauty Culture, Hairdressing, etc.

BEECHAM'S PILLS
for Sick Headaches

The Bell
Is About to Ring on Straw Hats
BRING IN YOUR FELT TO RYAN the Hatter
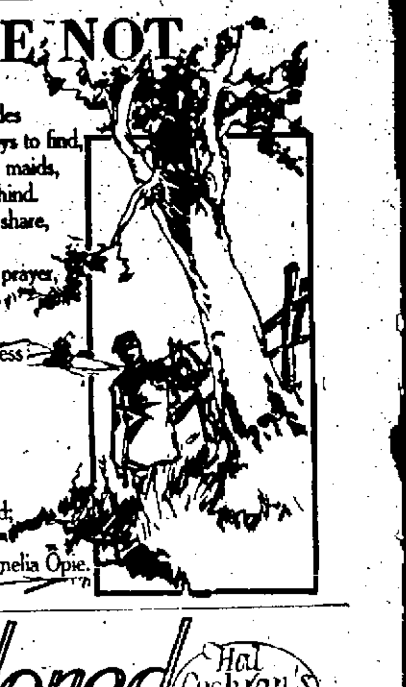
Bradley Building

FOR SALE
A real nice 6-room cottage, electric lights, brand new two-car garage, one fare on the Lawrence Boulevard, opposite Dudley street, ready to occupy; a little money down; I will finance you for the rest. See Kelley, 3 City Hall ave., opposite J. C. Ayer Co., off Middle street.

FORGET ME NOT



Go, youth beloved, in distant glades
New friends, new hopes, new joys to find,
Yet sometimes deign, 'midst fairer maids,
To think on her thou leav'st behind.
Thy love, thy fate, dear youth, to share,
Must never be my happy lot,
But thou mayst grant this humble prayer,
Forget me not, forget me not!

Yet should the thought of my distress
Too painful to thy feelings be,
Heed not the wish I now express,
Nor ever deign to think on me;
But, oh, if grief thy steps attend,
If want, if sickness be thy lot,
And thou require a soothing friend;
Forget me not, forget me not!
—Amelia Opie.

Abandoned

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

It sure is a riddle, that room in the middle of most every home in the land. For always, in summer, it goes on the hummer and that's what I can't understand.

The dining room square is a vacant affair when the hot summer months come around. 'Tis well worth a study why most everybody would rather eat out on the ground.

It seems we're all itchin' to dine in the kitchen instead of the dining room table. Or else we go out in the yard with a shout with our suppers, and eat what we're able.

Perhaps comes a-stealing that picnicky feeling that calls for the great open air. We're taking a chance that we'll nibble on ants but it's fun, so we don't seem to care.

The dining room's bare like the "old vacant chair" and it seems I can hear it, ho, hum. With time, hesitatin', I guess it's just waitin' for cold days of winter to come.

(Copyright, 1924, The Lowell Sun)

"UKULELE NIGHT" AT LAKEVIEW

No doubt a large attendance will be on hand this evening at the Lakeview ballroom for another one of those popular ukulele nights will be held and an excellent opportunity is offered the patrons to procure one of these musical instruments absolutely free. Special dance numbers will be announced and every one entering the ballroom will have an equal chance of securing a ukulele. A large shipment of brand new ukuleles has arrived for the affair and the number to be distributed surpasses all similar events.

"Broderick's Entertainers" will feature their latest music and the dancing will be by check.

CHELMSFORD'S TAX RATE

Chelmsford's tax rate for 1924 will be $25.50—an advance of 50 cents per thousand over last year's rate. The assessors announce that $33,000 more was raised by the voters this year than was shown by last year's receipts. There have been increased valuations of property in a number of instances, resulting in advantage to the town by providing additional funds with which to meet town expenses.

MOVIES ON COMMON

A program of out-door "movies" will be shown on the South common this evening under the direction of the park department. Monday night is usually "movie" night on the South common but the schedule for this week was rearranged owing to mass meeting which was held there last evening. The pictures were shown last night on the North common. The schedule for the remainder of the week remains unchanged.

Tourists often refer to the smell of decaying seaweed on the south coast of England as ozone, but as a matter of fact ozone may not be encountered until after a climb of 8000 feet.

PRECINCT OFFICER

A meeting of precinct officers will be held this evening at 7.30 o'clock in the councilmanic chamber at city hall. The meeting was called by the board of election commissioners and precinct officers will receive final instructions there in regard to the state primaries, which will be held next Tuesday.

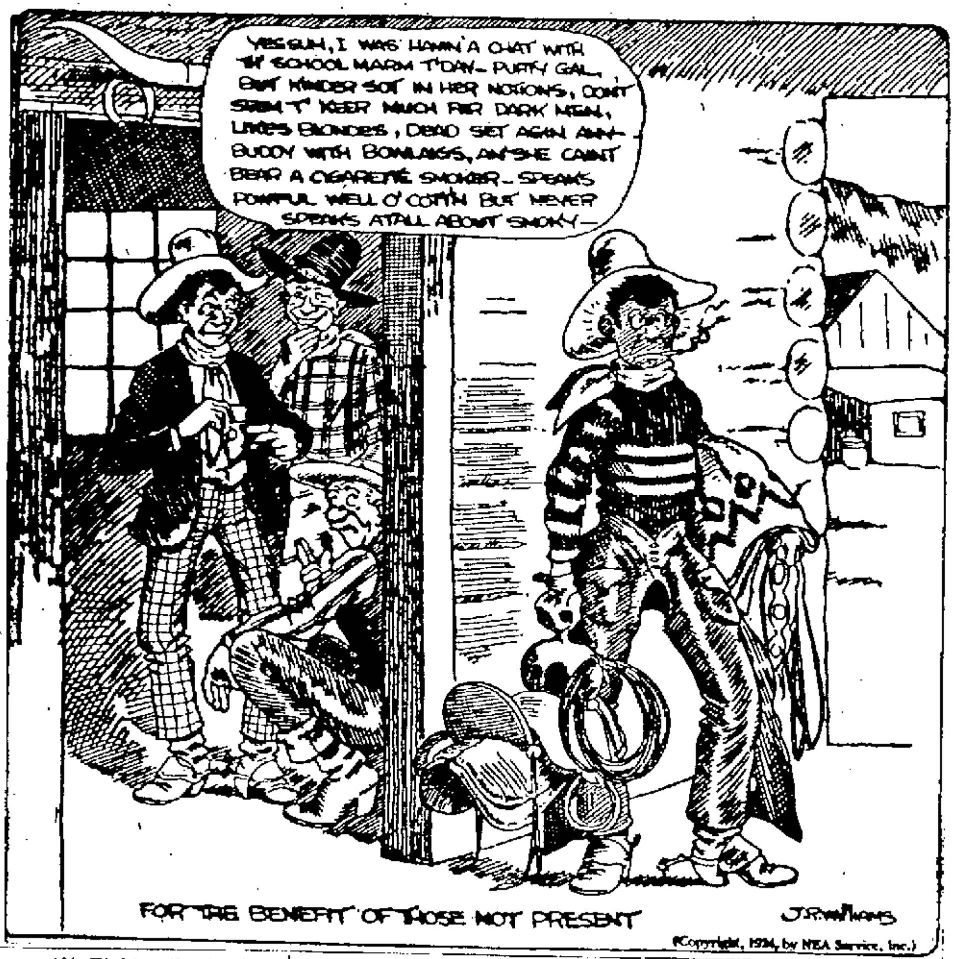
Why you'll like Lifebuoy
The thing that will make you loyal to Lifebuoy for life is its abundant, creamy, soothing, antiseptic, health-protecting lather. From no other soap can you get such lather.
LIFEBUOY
HEALTH SOAP

C.B. Coburn Co.
63 Market St.
CE-BE-CO MOTOR OIL—
Medium Grade, is free flowing and of excellent lubricating body. Gal. 70c
5-Gal Lots, Gal 65c
COBURN'S SPECIAL FORD OIL stops chattering, will relieve the Ford owner of much annoyance.
Qt. 23c
Gal. 75c
TRY COBURN'S POLISH on your car. Fine for furniture, too. Cleans, brightens, polishes, restores.
16-oz. bot. 50c
Est. 1837
Paints, Oils and Glass. Acids and Chemicals.

FIRST PHOTO OF LEW AND NORA

Lew Cody and Nora Bayes, theatrical stars, plan to get married. This is the first photo to reach this country from Paris, where the engagement was announced. Here they are shown with Tommy Gibbons (left) who fought in Europe recently.

OUT OUR WAY



YESSUH, I WAS HAVIN' A CHAT WITH TH' SCHOOL MARM T'DAY— PURTY GAL, BUT KINDER SOT IN HER NOTIONS, DONT SEEM T' KEER MUCH FER DARK MEN, LIKES BLONDES, DEAD SET AGIN ANY-BUDDY WITH BOWLAIGS, AN' SHE CAINT BEAR A CIGARETTE SMOKER— SPEAKS POWFUL WELL O' COTTIN BUT NEVER SPEAKS ATALL ABOUT SMOKY—
FOR THE BENEFIT OF THOSE NOT PRESENT
J.R.Williams

(Copyright, 1924, by NEA Service, Inc.)

SEARCH FOR STOLEN CAR

Search for a Ford sedan, the property of George Murray of 412 Stevens street, which was stolen from a parking space at Merrimack park last evening, has been instituted by police throughout the Merrimack valley.

HOME FROM VACATION

See your newsdealer and order the Boston Daily and Sunday Globe for the Fall and Winter months.

REPORT OF BIRTHS

Aug.

12—To Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brown, 136 Andover street, a daughter.

16—To Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Darragh, rear 49 Wilder street, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Cahill, 32 Berkeley avenue, a son.

18—To Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haggerty, 125 Grove street, a son.

19—To Mr. and Mrs. Valos Coravo, 60 Lagrange street, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Burbank, 28 C street, a son.

20—To Mr. and Mrs. James E. Doherty, 11 Autumn street, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Paquin, 121 Ennell street, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hogan, 34 South Loring street, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. John DePaulis,

21—To Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Martin, 104 Gorshom avenue, a son.

23—To Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Matcou-
17 Walnut street, a daughter.
cas, 32 Groton street, a daughter

To Mr. and Mrs. James Fitzgerald, 4 Manchester street, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kay, 6 Lane street court, a daughter

24—To Mr. and Mrs. Terence O'Loughlin, 99 Lincoln street, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Forget, 57 Cheever street, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Manfred E. Simmons, 121 Eighteenth street, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Peter Savantos, 420 Market street, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richard, 467 Moody street, a daughter.

25—To Mr. and Mrs. William J. Gibbons, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Franges, 5-609 Market street, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Donat Joyal, 18 Hancock avenue, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Onesime Rochette, 34 Ward street, a daughter.

27—To Mr. and Mrs. Richard Botti, 536 School street.

To Mr. and Mrs. Rodolphe Lemire, 156 Gershom avenue, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Abel M. Gonsalves, 447 Lawrence street, a daughter.

28—To Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dulka, 41 Pleasant street, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lachut, Dracut, a son.

To Mrs. and Mrs. Jose C. Andrada, 17 Manufacture street, a son.

Three golden rules of life of a man who died recently at the age of 110 were: Never to enter a ballroom; never to tell scandal; never to enter a bar.

WALKER-ROGERS POST TO BE REPRESENTED

Walker-Rogers post, No. 663, V. of F.W., will be represented officially at the national convention of the order, to be held at Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 8-12 inclusive. Junior Vice Commander Shea is prepared to attend the affair as a delegate from Lowell.

Commander David F. Caddell of No. 663, reports an increase in membership since the last business meeting was held before the summer "vacation." He has been informd that "Black Jack" Dunn, who has just retired from the commanderhip of the Massachusetts V. of F.W., has been vigorously pushed for the next national commander.

Walker-Rogers post commander has urged all comrades and ex-service men in general to familiarize themselves with the Reed-Johnson veterans' bill, which was recently enacted by congress. Many benefits are coming to both World war and Spanish war veterans, as well as to former soldiers who served in other national campaigns.

National Commander Frank J. Irwin of the Disabled American Veterans of the World war, was recently obligated to membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars by Commander-in-Chief Gen. Lloyd M. Brett.

Comrades of Walker-Rogers post have been requested to remember the new dates for coming organization meetings. The post members are planning to conduct a busy campaign along fraternal and patriotic lines during the next six months.

LOYAL WAMESIT LODGE

A regular meeting of Loyal Wamesit lodge, I.O.O.F., M.U., was held last evening in Grafton hall with N.G. Geo. Everett in the chair. The meeting was given over to the transaction of routine business.

Ask for Horlick's The ORIGINAL Malted-Milk
Safe Milk
For Infants, Invalids, Children, The Aged
Digestible—No Cooking. A Light Lunch
Avoid Imitations — Substitutes

Mother!
"Guard the child's teeth"

Those tiny teeth are a priceless gift — guard them well!

WRIGLEY'S is a wonderful help to keep teeth clean and sound, for it clears out the crevices, makes the mouth sweet and removes acid conditions from which most people suffer.

A prominent physician says: "It is surprising how free from decay the teeth can be kept by using gum after each meal."

WRIGLEY'S is good, not only for the teeth, but for the nerves and appetite and digestion, too.

The whole family should use

WRIGLEY'S
-after every meal

WRIGLEY'S JUICY FRUIT CHEWING GUM
DIFFERENT FLAVORS- SAME QUALITY
Sealed Tight Kept Right

Try the New Cuticura Shaving Stick Freely Lathering
Medicinal and Emollient

JOS. M. DINNEEN
Optometrist Optician
206 Bradley Bldg., 147 Central St.
TELEPHONE 1043

One of the Greatest Washing Machine Values Ever Offered—

A SUPERIOR Vacuum Cup Type Electric Washer
Made by the THOR Company

FOR Only $2.50 Down
Balance Small Weekly or Monthly Payments.

Madam! You have always wanted an Electric Washing Machine. You have doubtless kept promising yourself that sooner or later when the proper opportunity arrived you would own one. You do not have to wait one minute longer. The right time is here. Just read our wonderful offer

And best of all—you buy this machine at a REDUCTION OF $5 From the regular selling price

If You Act Now

Equipped With Reversible Swinging Wringer With Special Soft Rubber Rollers.

You merely telephone 821 now. Tell us the most convenient time when we may demonstrate the SUPERIOR to you in your own home. YOU are the sole judge. You do not place yourself under the slightest obligation of any kind. You simply provide the clothes to be washed and we do the rest.

If, after the demonstration is over, you are not convinced that the SUPERIOR is just the machine you have been looking for---that it will do all the hard work of washing and wringing quicker and better than you could ever do it by hand---and that it will save your strength and your money---we will gladly take it away on our truck without arguing or pressing you to buy.

Act Now

The Superior connects to the ordinary lamp socket (no extra wiring needed) and uses only two cents' worth of electricity an hour.

Save Money

The Lowell Electric Light Corporation
29-31 MARKET ST.

National League Race Becomes Closer Than American League Pennant Derby

BELLEVUES TRIM ST. PETER'S CADETS IN LABOR DAY GAME ON COMMON

Hotly Contested Clash Won By City League Champs By 3-2 Score—Bradbury and Lawson Break Up Game With Doubles in 9th Inning

The feature attraction of the Trades and Labor afternoon program on the South common was the nine-inning ball game in which the Bellevues, champions of the City Twilight league, defeated the strong St. Peter's Cadets by the close score of 3 to 2. Jack Lawson and Ducky Bradbury were the heroes of the game as it was their two-baggers that put the winning run across after the teams had gone into the ninth and final frame with the score deadlocked at two all. Bradbury started the last inning by whacking a double into deep right center field and scored on Lawson's crack of like dimension to the crowd in left.

A crowd approximating 15,000 fans watched the sport. The Trades and Labor committee saw to it that the game got under way at scheduled time, one o'clock sharp and both teams took the field as Aitkin's band struck up a lively tune. Snubber Trask started on the rubber for the Fleming contingent, but gave up after twirling two innings. Trask was all in because of the fact he had pitched a hard game in Groton the day previous. Hank Garrity assumed the burden and lasted until the ninth when the hot rays of a bright sun got the better of him. Garrity was also pitching under a strain as he had worked nine innings Saturday in Chelmsford. The Bellevues were certainly up against it for pitchers. Jack Livingston was in uniform on the bench, but he was reserving himself for a game later in the afternoon in Derry, N. H. He won a close game in that town Labor Day morning.

Francis Reagan all this time handled the St. Peter's pitching proposition alone, and he handled it well. In the nine frames that he performed, the heavy Bellevue batters were able to get but seven hits, and three of these were credited to Lawson. Reagan walked only one man and sent five back to the dugout via the strikeout method. It was a tough game for him to lose.

The game in detail:

First Inning

St. Peter's—Onanian shot a single into center, but was nipped while attempting to steal second. O'Day flied out to Buckley. Duke Barron popped to Bradbury.

Bellevues—Jenkins walked for a starter. Purtell was out, O'Day to D. Barron. Livingston flied out to O'Day. Buckley made it three down on a fly to Scully.

Second Inning

St. Peter's—Crowe struck out. Ryan flied out to Jenkins. Scully was safe when O'Brien dropped Gath's throw from short. G. Barron singled, sending Scully to third, where he was stranded when Carr flied out to Trask.

Bellevues—Bradbury flied out to Onanian. O'Brien was thrown out on his grounder, Crowe to D. Barron. Gath flied out to D. Barron.

Third Inning

St. Peter's—Reagan struck out. Onanian went out, Bradbury to O'Brien. O'Day was extinguished at first, Gath to O'Brien.

Bellevues—Lawson singled past third, Garrity sacrificed him along. Jenkins was out, O'Day to D. Barron. Purtell strolled to G. Barron and was retired at first.

Fourth Inning

St. Peter's—D. Barron was thrown out at first by Bradbury. Crowe whiffed. Ryan flied out to Gath.

Bellevues—Williams went out, G. Barron to D. Barron. Buckley grounded to Crowe and was declared out at first. Bradbury breezed.

Fifth Inning

St. Peter's—Scully waited and was passed. G. Barron fanned the ozone. Carr walked. Reagan made it two down by striking out. Onanian laced a single into center and Scully crossed the pan with the first run of the game. Carr also tried to make the plate on the same play, but was caught between home and third, being finally tagged out by Williams.

Bellevues—O'Brien singled through short and third. Gath struck out. Lawson singled to right. Trask went in to run for O'Brien and scored on an error at third by O'Day on Jenkins' teaser. This was after Garrity had struck out. Lawson scored on Purtell's timely single to right and the Bellevues were leading, 2 to 1.

Sixth Inning

St. Peter's—O'Day and Barron struck out. Crowe was out, Williams to O'Brien.

Bellevues—Buckley singled into center. Bradbury hit into a double play, Crowe to G. Scully to D. Scully.

Seventh Inning

St. Peter's—Ryan got a single into left. Scully fanned. G. Barron was passed. Carr connected for a peach of a hit down short and third base way and Ryan came home with the tying run. G. Barron also attempted to register on Jenkins' peg over Lawson's head, but was tagged out by Garrity who had backed up his catcher. Reagan went out, Williams to O'Brien.

Bellevues—Gath grounded out, Crowe to D. Barron. Lawson flied out to Crowe in short left field. Jenkins flied out to Onanian.

Eighth Inning

St. Peter's—Onanian walked but was nipped stealing second. O'Day walked. D. Barron flied out to Buckley. Crowe flied out to Gath.

Bellevues—Purtell lifted a high fly to Scully. Williams followed suit. Buckley grounded to G. Barron and was thrown out at first.

Ninth Inning

St. Peter's Ryan walked. Scully flied out to Purtell. G. Barron walked. Carr went out, Gath to O'Brien. Reagan rolled to Bradbury.

Bellevues—Bradbury doubled to deep right center. O'Brien took three lusty swings. Gath foul flied to Carr. Lawson banged a double to left and Bradbury scored with the third and winning tally.

The score:

BELLEVUES

	ab	r	1b	po	a	e
Jenkins, lf	3	0	0	2	0	0
Purtell, 3b rf	4	0	1	2	1	0
Livingstone, rf	1	0	0	0	0	0
Buckley, cf	4	0	0	2	0	0
Bradbury, 2b	4	1	1	2	4	0
O'Brien, 1b	4	0	1	6	0	1
Gath, ss	4	0	0	3	3	0
Lawson, c	4	1	3	8	2	0
Trask, p	0	1	0	1	0	0
Williams, 3b p	3	0	0	0	2	0
Garrity, p rf	2	0	1	1	0	0
Totals	33	3	7	27	12	1

ST. PETER'S

	ab	r	1b	po	a	e
Onanian, lf	3	0	2	3	0	0
O'Day, 3b	3	0	0	1	2	1
D. Barron, 1b	4	0	0	11	0	0
Crowe, ss	4	0	0	1	5	0
Ryan, rf	3	1	1	0	0	0
Scully, cf	3	1	0	4	0	0
G. Barron, 2b	2	0	1	1	4	0
Carr, c	3	0	1	6	0	1
Reagan, p	4	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	29	2	5	27	11	2

St. Peter's ......0 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 0—2
Bellevues ......0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 1—3

Two-base hits—Bradbury, Lawson. Hits—Off Trask 2 in 2 innings; off Garrity 3 in 6 innings. Sacrifice hits—Garrity. Stolen bases—Onanian, Jenkins, G. Barron, Scully, Ryan. Double play—Crowe to G. Barron to D. Barron. Left on Bases—Bellevues 5, St. Peter's 7. First base on balls—Off Reagan 1; off Trask 0; off Garrity 6; off Williams 1. Struck out—By Reagan 5; by Trask 1; by Garrity 3. Time—2.21. Umpires—McManus, Fitzgerald.

HOW THEY STAND

AMERICAN LEAGUE STANDING

	Won	Lost	Pts.
Washington	76	55	.580
New York	73	55	.570
Detroit	69	60	.534
St. Louis	67	62	.519
Cleveland	61	60	.504
Boston	58	70	.453
Philadelphia	58	73	.443
Chicago	55	72	.433

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

New York 3, Boston 0 (a. m.)
New York 12, Boston 2 (p. m.)
Detroit 1, Chicago 5 (a. m.)
Chicago 10, Detroit 2 (p. m.)
Washington 5, Philadelphia 3 (a. m.)
Washington 4, Philadelphia 3 (p. m.)
St. Louis 11, Cleveland 8 (a. m.)
Cleveland 13, St. Louis 2 (p. m.)

GAMES TOMORROW

Boston at New York.
Cleveland at St. Louis.
Detroit at Chicago.

NATIONAL LEAGUE STANDING

	Won	Lost	Pts.
New York	76	50	.603
Pittsburgh	75	51	.595
Brooklyn	74	54	.578
Chicago	68	59	.555
Cincinnati	69	62	.526
St. Louis	54	76	.415
Philadelphia	49	77	.389
Boston	46	83	.359

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Boston 5, New York 4 (a. m.)
New York 10, Boston 2 (p. m.)
Brooklyn 7, Philadelphia 2 (a. m.)
Brooklyn 6, Philadelphia 3 (p. m.)
Pittsburgh 5, Chicago 1 (a. m.)
Pittsburgh 4, Chicago 3 (p. m.)
Cincinnati 5, St. Louis 0 (a. m.)
Cincinnati 9, St. Louis 0 (p. m.)

GAMES TOMORROW

New York at Boston.
Brooklyn at Philadelphia.
St. Louis at Pittsburgh.
Chicago at Cincinnati.

TILDEN AND JOHNSTON CLASH FOR TITLE

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—America's famous rivals for premier tennis laurels—"Big Bill" Tilden, champion for the past four years, and "Little Bill" Johnston, twice former champion—will stage another duel for national titular honors this afternoon on the turf courts of the West Side Tennis club.

They have met in four of the last final round matches, besides one battle that came before the finals, and Tilden has been victor four times. On past performances, the reigning king of the courts is a favorite, but today's struggle promises to be one of the most keenly waged of any they have had.

The chief reason for enthusiasm on the part of Johnston's followers is that while the little Californian was sweeping through to an astonishingly easy victory over Gerald Patterson, Australian champion, in yesterday's finals, with the loss of but two games, Tilden was extended to a sensational five-set battle to dispose of Vincent Richards.

Tilden, in fact, besides dropping the first and fourth sets, came within a point of losing the third set, before he finally rose to the peak of his characteristic brilliancy to sweep Richards back in the fifth set. The scores of this match were 4-6, 6-2, 8-6, 4-6, 6-4.

32 GOLFERS REMAIN IN BIG TOURNAMENT

NAYATT, R. I., Sept. 2.—Thirty-two golfers, out of 78 entries and 89 starters in the qualifying round, remained in the annual tournament for the women's national championship as it entered the first round of match play today.

One feature of the sixteen matches on today's program was the contest between the former golf champion, Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson of Greenwich, Conn., and the former tennis champion, Miss Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica, Calif., who made her debut in national golf competition by qualifying with 96, despite ten sixes.

Two former national golf champions were matched in the persons of Miss Marion Hollins of New York and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia. An eighty by Miss Hollins in the qualifying round, one stroke more than the score that won the qualifying medal, has made her one of the favorites for the title.

Miss Collett, who won the medal with a 79, the lowest score ever made in the tournament and the first time eighty has been broken, was regarded as having an easy match today with Miss Ruth Batchelder of Weston, Mass.

AMATEUR BASE BALL

The Cardinals challenge the Iroquois to a game on Thursday evening. They also challenge the Victorias to a game with a $10 purse. Game to be played Sunday on the Aiken street grounds. Call 5913-X, Manager Bevins.

MURPHY WINS, BOYER KILLED

Thrills Mark 250-Mile Race at Altoona, Pa.—Winner's Time 2 Hours, 11 Mins.

Boyer, Going at 129 Miles an Hour, Plunged Through Guard Rail to His Death

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 2.—Two deaths among automobile drivers in the three 250 mile races run in the wooden bowl since its opening a year ago is the record of the Altoona speedway, where Joe Boyer of Detroit, was fatally injured yesterday.

Boyer was driving his machine at a rate of 129 miles an hour in an effort to overtake Jimmy Murphy, the winner, and was in second place and within a few laps of the finishing line when the machine plunged through a guard rail at the top of the bowl. The machine hung suspended over the top of the wooden bowl with Boyer pinned beneath the wreckage. Both his legs were crushed and he suffered loss of considerable blood. He was unconscious when taken to the hospital and failed to recover from the effects of his injuries, despite two blood transfusions.

The speedway's death toll started with its inaugural race in the fall of 1923 when Howdy Wilcox of Indianapolis, was killed. Another accident marked the spring race this year when Jerry Wonderlich was injured.

Murphy's time was two hours, 11 minutes, 58 2-5 seconds. Tommy Milton, in the running from the outset, was second and Fred Comer, third.

While the fortunes of the race alternated from time to time, Murphy, through his ability to keep up a constant never-slackening pace of more than 100 miles an hour, virtually was assured of victory at the half-way mark.

The grind was featured by the driving of Antoine Mourre. Out-distanced at first he soon passed most of the contestants and at 200 miles, was in second place.

Just before the race closed Mourre's car shot down the track to a small sun baked section of mud. A moment later Mourre was given a thunderous ovation when he drove his machine back on the track.

Bernie Hill, with valve trouble, Ernie Angerberg with motor trouble and Peter De Paolo with a frozen motor, were forced out of the race before the half way mark was reached. De Paolo came to grief when a flying newspaper wrapped itself about his radiator.

The other drivers finished in this order:

Phil Shafer, fourth, Earl Cooper, fifth; Mourre, sixth; Harlan Fengler, seventh; Red Carlens, eighth; Bob McDonough, ninth; Harry Hartz, tenth.

Murphy, by his victory, took a firmer lead for the 1924 national championship and won the first prize of $9000. Milton won $4500 and Comer, $2500.

Boyer Signed to Race Oct. 25

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 2—Joe Boyer who died early today of injuries received on the speedway at Altoona, Pa., had signed a contract yesterday as one of eight automobile racers to participate in the opening program on Charlotte's new automobile speedway Oct. 25. Other drivers who have signed for the opening races are: Jimmy Murphy, Tommy Milton, Earl Cooper, Antoine Mourre, Bennie Hill, Fred Comer and Harry Hartz.

The Nut Cracker

by Joe Williams

A DAY WITH FIRPO

10 a. m.—Alarm clock shrieks violently. Firpo demands to know what all the shooting is about. "You said set the alarm for Thursday," explains a sparring partner. "Yes, but I said Thursday a week, you sap."

11 a. m.—Light breakfast consisting this morning, Mrs. Jenkins, I'll try and tough it along on this."

12 m.—"Do you think this is a good day to run 20 miles?" Firpo asks trainer . . . . "I do, good senor." . . . . "Well, go ahead and run 25, I'm not selfish."

1 p. m.—Crawls into porch hammock and facetiously announces intention to take beauty sleep. . . . "Well, sleep a long time," advises village wise cracker.

2 p. m.—Calls secretary and inquires if Cuban mail has arrived. Learns only mail is letter from young lady in Centralia, Mo., who writes, "Please send me one of your front teeth and a lock of your eyebrow. I think you are too romantic for words."

3 p. m.—Audience with newspapermen. Refuses to denounce the klan by name. Thinks prize fighters ought to be original even if presidential candidates aren't.

4 p. m.—Recreation period. Parlor tricks, pinochle, mah jongg, egg rolling, clock golf, riding to the hounds and postoffice. Isn't this the darndest stuff you ever read!)

5 p. m.—Poses for photographers. Obligingly stretches out full length on ground at request of camera man who asks him to look natural.

6 p. m.—Responds reluctantly to dinner bel and partake sparingly of (1) side of beef, (3) slabs of bacon, (14) pecks of turnips and (5) gallons of ice cream. "Never mind the finger bowl, Mrs. Jenkins, I'm in training, you know."

7 p. m.—Public reception. Visitors wishing to take sock at bull's chin form in line to the right. Children are asked to refrain from feeding the animal peanuts, tin cans and other forms of tasty debris.

8 p. m.—Bedtime stories. "And Little Red Riding Hood peeled off a case note and said shoot the works."

CUTS-SORES
Cleanse thoroughly—then, without rubbing, apply—
VICKS VAPORUB
Over 17 Million Jars Used Yearly

VICTORY FOR WISE COUNSELLOR

Beats Epinard, French Champion, by Half Length at Belmont Park

Heart-Breaking Finish of Six Furlong International Event

NEW YORK, September 2—Epinard, beaten half a length by Wise Counsellor in the six furlong race which inaugurated the series of three international events, remains the pivotal point of speculation as trainers prepare their stars for the next engagement over a mile at Aqueduct, September 24.

In the stretch at Belmont park yesterday, when Wise Counsellor came up on the outside to challenge Baffling, Zev and Epinard, which had been running in that order, it was the French horse which furnished the contest as the other two fell back. Stride for stride they struck off 100 yards as sixty thousand people, including the Prince of Wales, cheered them on. The impetus with which Frankie Keough brought the chestnut son of Mentor by Rustle up from fifth was stronger by half a length than the power Everett Haynes gathered with his mount when the chestnut menace appeared on his flank.

Following a statement made before the special race by Trainer Eugene Leigh than he thought Epinard needed a competitive race and based further upon the general opinion that the European champion would perform better at the longer distances, the chance of Pierre Wertheimer's chestnut colt to win the mile at Aqueduct and the mile and a quarter at Latonia on October 11 will be rated better than his status before yesterday's race in which Wise Counsellor was a 13 to 5 favorite.

Until the winner circled the outside in the stretch and drove into the race, it appeared that the owners of Zev and Epinard, champion three-year-olds of two continents in 1293, would realize an ambition of last year to with Epinard at 3½ to 1, looking good have the two colts meet. Zev, quoted at the post, hung only a head behind Baffling and kept a neck beyond Epinard until Wise Counsellor set the killing pace which brought him to the wire in 1:11 4-5 ahead of both.

In the finish the greatest money winner of all time was passed by August Belmont's Ladkin, which finished third, three lengths behind Epinard, and Snob II, which took fourth. Zev, pulling up in the stretch, was fifth, and Wilderness sixth. Baffling dropped to seventh just ahead of Miss Star, the only filly in the race, and Goshawk, which trailed. Rialto, Worthmore and Little Chief had been scratched.

The race carried a money value of $29,000 to the victor.

SILESIA MILLS TEAM WINS IN LAWRENCE

In a big holiday game at O'Sullivan par, Lawrence, yesterday afternoon, the Silesia mills team of North Chelmsford turned the tables on the Lawrence Independents, winning out by a score of 9 to 2. Rube Greenhalgh pitched for the Silesians and held the down-river men to five hits, while Silesia banged Queen and Pierotti for 13. The millmen scored thrice in the first, once in the fourth, twice in the fifth and three times in the sixth. Fied continued his terrific batting by slamming out two home runs. The score:

SILESIA

	ab	r	bh	po	a	e
Driscoll, lf	5	1	2	5	0	0
Faulkner, ss	4	1	1	0	6	0
Conley, 2b	5	2	2	3	1	0
Feid, cf	4	4	4	1	0	0
Ashley, cf	0	0	0	0	1	0
Lynch, 1b	5	1	2	6	1	1
Forsythe, 3b	3	0	0	3	1	0
Greenhalgh, p	4	0	1	0	1	0
H. Sullivan, c	3	0	1	8	0	0
Steinhilber, rf	4	0	0	1	0	0
Totals	37	9	13	27	11	1

LAWRENCE

	ab	r	bh	po	a	e
E. Sullivan, cf	4	0	0	0	0	0
Duncan, c	4	0	0	0	0	0
Duval, 2b	3	0	0	3	7	0
Tyler, 1b	4	1	1	15	0	1
Barcroft, rf	4	1	2	0	0	0
Bradbury, lf	3	0	2	2	0	0
Kennedy, 3b	3	0	0	1	3	0
Desrosiers, ss	4	0	0	3	5	0
Queen, p	2	0	0	0	1	0
Pierotti, p	1	0	0	0	1	0
Sweatt, x	1	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	33	2	5	27	17	1

x—Batted for Kennedy in 9th.

Silesia ....3 0 0 1 0 2 3 0 0—9
Lawrence ....0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—2

Two base hits: Driscoll, Feid, Barcroft. Home runs: Feid 2. Stolen bases: Sweatt. Sacrifice hit: H. Sullivan. Double plays: Duval to Desrosiers to Tyler; Kennedy to Duval to Tyler. Left on bases: Silesia 5, Lawrence 6. Hits: Off Queen 7 in 6, off Pierotti 6 in 3. Bases on balls: Off Greenhalgh 2, off Pierotti 1. Struck out: By Greenhalgh 7, by Queen 1. Hit by pitcher: By Quinn (Faulkner), by Pierotti (Feid). Wild pitch: Greenhalgh. Umpires: Lynch and Curtin. Time: 1.40.

NORTH ENDS TRIM THE SHU-FIX BOYS

The Dixon Shu-Fix boys received one of the finest beatings of their career Sunday when the North Ends slammed them with everything except the water bucket and won 18 to 9. This is the second time that the Shu-Fix boys have come to grief at the hands of the North Enders. The winners corraled more than 25 smashes for many extra bases in addition to a round trip clout delivered by Klutka. St. Jean hammered out five hits and Klutka, besides getting a homer ran up a single, a double and a triple. Long will the Shu-Fixers remember their Chevey Chase.

TIGER FLOWERS KAYOS JACKSON

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 2—Tiger Flowers of Atlanta, Ga., scored a technical knockout over Tut Jackson of Washington Courthouse, O., in the eighth round of a scheduled ten round bout at League park, Martins Ferry, O., last night.

MANY UPSETS IN LOCAL BALL

Abbots Drop Second to Cantabs—Third Game Tonight—Mitchell to Pitch

Busy Week-End Brought Reverses to Many Local Nines —List of Games

A lucky Texas leaguer with the sacks loaded was responsible for the second Abbot reverse at the hands of North Cambridge at Russell field, Cambridge, Saturday afternoon, the Cantabs winning out in the ninth chapter by a 5 to 4 score. Cleary was the hero of the fray from a Cambridge standpoint, for it was he who took hold of one of Eddie Boyce's southpaw slants and sent the pill sailing to the short outfield just out of reach of the three Abbot outfielders, St. Angelo, Gordy Urann and Walker.

It was a heart-breaking game for Abbots to lose as they were leading the Cantabs 4 to 0 up to the sixth. In this inning, North Cambridge drove two runs over the plate and pushed a couple more over in the eighth for a tie. In the ninth with two down, Cote singled past Ellie Urann and went around to third on Woods' single to left, scoring on Cleary's Texas leaguer.

So. Boston Loses

In the Sunday game at Graniteville, the Abbots walloped South Boston by a 10 to 6 score. Heck and Boyce pitched, and the Abbots slammed Shea of the Southies for 14 bingles. St. Angelo got a homer, Dameron a triple, and Ellie Urann a double. Walker connected for four hits out of five times up.

Third Series Game

The third Abbot-North Cambridge series game will be staged at Russell field, Cambridge, this evening. If the Cantabs win, they will have the right to contest the Lawrence Independents for the league championship. The Abbots are not out of the running, however. They will start Babe Mitchell on the rubber in this big game. Mitchell made the Cantabs behave to his liking a couple of weeks ago, and may repeat this evening.

Independents There

Donovan was too much for the Silesia mills outfit at North Chelmsford Sunday afternoon, and Lawrence Independents walked away with a 4-1 win. Silesia got but two hits off the big Lawrence moundsman, while Ashley was touched up for five hits by the Independents, including a two-base hit by George "Lefty" Tyler. Fied registered a home run for Silesia's only tally.

Saturday afternoon the Silesians split a twin bill with Manchester by winning the second game, 3 to 0, and losing the first, 6-0.

St. Peter's Cadets

Sunday afternoon on the South common, the Chelmsford A. A. came to town and defeated St. Peter's Cadets by a score of 9 to 8. The Cadets rallied in the ninth frame but fell one run short of deadlocking the count. Netto and Regan performed in the box for the Cadets.

Bellevues-Americans

The Bellevues and Marie's Americans of the City league are considering a three-game series at Alumni field for a purse of $100 a side. The first game may be staged next Saturday afternoon, and should be a hummer.

Lowell Twi League

At Silesia park in North Chelmsford Saturday afternoon, the Chelmsford A. A. went into a tie with the C. M. A. C. for first place in the Lowell Twilight league by defeating the Centralville Princetons, 15 to 10. Hank Garrity was on the mound for the locals, but was not in the best of condition, being nicked for 14 hits, including three-sackers by Conlon and Desmarais, and a double by Zollinger. He was relieved by Moylan, who got three hits during the pastime. Chelmsford will now arrange a game with the C. M. A. C. to decide the league championship, and the winner may play a post-season series with the Bellevues, winners of the City Twilight league.

City Twi League

City Twilight league ball will be resumed on the common this evening with Ricard's Belmonts meeting the Centralville East Ends. The Belmonts and Pawtuckets will play tomorrow night; the Pawtuckets and Americans, Thursday night, and the Belmonts and Americans Friday night. There were no week-end games.

Harps Turn Tables

The Harps of Lawrence were too good for Marie's Americans on the South common Saturday afternoon, turning the tables on the locals by a score of 5 to 2 in twelve innings. The down-river men got three runs in this frame, Herb Mulno waivering under the strain. McCarthy pitched a good game for the Harps.

COOL
NIGHTS and MORNINGS
which will be with us most of the time from now on can be made comfortable with a
Perfection Oil Heater
Burns little fuel; it's odorless, and it's portable; can be used to heat any room.
We all, no doubt, dread the thought of having to start any kind of heat in our homes, nevertheless we know at this time of year we are very apt to need some heat to take the morning and night chill out of the rooms.
PERFECTION HEATERS
Will do the job nicely.
ADAMS HARDWARE & PAINT CO
351 Middlesex St.

PIRATES ADVANCE TO WITHIN ONE GAME OF NEW YORK GIANTS

Brooklyn Follows Two Games Behind Pittsburgh—Washington Maintains Game and a Half Lead Over Yankees—Detroit Slips Back Another Game

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Washington and New York are fighting the main bout in the American League with Pittsburgh and Brooklyn challenging the Giants in the National.

The world champions, following the loss of three of the first four rounds to their younger rivals after stubborn fighting, kept even in the next two yesterday and are still given an equal chance to retain their title because of experience which is expected to count in the last stages.

The Giants were the only main-bout team to falter in the Labor Day double headers. Washington took two from the Athletics by scores of 5 to 4 and 4 to 3, but the Yankees kept within a game and a half of the lead by trimming the Red Sox 3 to 0 and 10 to 2.

For the first time in months the National League race became closer than the American as Pittsburgh advanced to within one game and Brooklyn surged to within three contests of the Giants in first place. McGraw's boys lost a decision in the 11th to Boston, 5 to 4, but came back with a 10 to 2 victory.

The Pirates went into extra rounds but came back with a 10 to 2 victory. to win from Chicago 5 to 4 and dropped the Bruin again for a count of 4 to 3. Brooklyn swung a mean right and a left for a double knockout of the Phillies 7 to 2 and 6 to 3.

Detroit slipped another game away from the rank of contender by splitting with Chicago, winning the first 16 to 5 but losing the second 10 to 2. Cleveland and St. Louis also divided arguments as the Browns won the first 11 to 8 and lost the second 12 to 2. With Hornsby still out of the game, the Cards took two on the chin from the Reds and were counted out 5 to 0 and 9 to 0.

BIG CROWD SEES GAME ON NORTH COMMON

JUNIOR TWILIGHT LEAGUE STANDING

	Won	Lost	Pts.
St. Joseph Cadets	7	1	.875
Pawtucket Blues	5	3	.625
P. A. C.	4	3	.672
Emeralds	4	4	.500
Iroquois	4	4	.500
Victorias	4	4	.500
Buffaloes	2	5	.286
Mysteries	1	7	.125

TONIGHT'S GAME

St. Joseph's Cadets vs. Victorias.

Before one of the largest crowds of baseball fans ever seen on the North common, the St. Joseph Cadets last evening practically cinched the Junior league pennant by defeating the Pawtucket Blues, 4 to 2. Only extreme ill-luck can possibly disappoint them.

The game was simply a session of thrills galore. Four fast double plays featured, of which two were in the first inning when each team got one. The league leaders were unable to get the number of Pitcher Sullivan, Blue batteryman, and went hitless for the first five frames. The Blues had corraled a tally in the second and another in the third stanza, but it was not until the sixth that the Cadets brought in their first run, which was followed a few minutes later by a second one. From then on until the ninth inning the teams were deadlocked. In the ninth Sullivan walked, Frechette and Chateauneuf muffed Ginivan's long fly to centre. Frechette went home and Ginivan reached third safely. A short time later he came home on a ball passed by the catcher. The Blues were unable to score in their half of the inning and the game ended 4 to 2. The score:

ST. JOSEPH'S CADETS

	ab	r	bh	po	a	e
Poudrier, c, ss	4	1	1	2	1	0
Martineau, cf, lf	4	1	0	2	0	1
Parks, p, cf	1	0	0	2	1	0
Paquin, 2b	4	0	0	6	2	1
Frechette, lf, c	4	0	1	7	2	0
Montbleau, 3b	2	1	0	1	1	0
Desaulniers, lf	4	1	0	7	1	0
Richards, ss, p	3	0	0	0	3	0
Totals	29	4	2	27	11	2

PAWTUCKET BLUES

	ab	r	bh	po	a	e
Chateauneuf, cf	1	0	0	0	0	1
Doran, 2b	2	0	1	2	3	0
Turcotte, 3b	4	0	1	2	5	0
Sylvester, ss	4	0	0	2	5	0
B. Sullivan, p	4	1	2	0	3	1
Mahoney, lf	4	0	0	0	0	0
Coalter, rf	4	0	0	0	0	0
P. Sullivan, c	4	1	1	5	2	1
Fells, 1b	3	0	1	16	0	2
Totals	30	2	6	27	18	5

St. Joseph Cadets 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 2—4
Pawtucket Blues 0 1 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—2

Two base hit: Frechette. Three base hits: B. Sullivan. Stolen bases: Mahoney, Sylvester, Martineau, Montbleau 3. Sacrifice hits: Doran, Desaulniers, Parks. Double plays: Doran to Sylvester to Fells; Sylvester to Fells; Paquin to Ginivan; Frechette to Ginivan. Left on bases: St. Joseph's Cadets 6; Pawtucket Blues 6. Hits: Off Parks, 4 in 3 innings; Richards, 2 in 6 innings. Base on balls: Off Parks 2; off Richards 3; off B. Sullivan 7. Struck out: By Parks 1; by Richards 6; by B. Sullivan 6. Umpire: Manning. Time: 1.45.

Do you know Baseball?

by Billy Evans

Questions

1. There are runners on first and second and one out. Batsman hits a fly ball which the umpire immediately calls an infield fly. There is a strong wind blowing that finally carries the ball foul, without any fielder touching the ball. Is the batter out because the umpire first ruled it an infield fly?—B. D. F.

2. When the umpire is of the opinion that the ball and the runner have arrived at the base at exactly the same time, is it customary to favor the runner in rendering a ruling?—F. G. G.

3. It is the last half of the ninth, two out and the score 2 to 1 in favor of the visiting team. There are men on first and second and two out. The batsman hits a ball that goes between the centrefielder and the right fielder, rolling to the extreme corner of the field. The two men on the bases, as well as the batsman, cross the plate before the ball is returned to the infield. Is the batsman credited with a home run and what is the final score of the game?—D. D. K.

Answers

1. It is impossible to rule infield fly on a foul ball, as was the case due to the high wind blowing over the field. The umpire, who first called the hit infield fly, must reverse himself and simply declare it a foul ball.

2. If in the opinion of the umpire the baserunner has tied the play, he rules him safe.

3. The batsman is not entitled to a home run. The game ends when the runner on first crosses the plate, the final score being 3 to 2. The batsman gets credit for a triple, having advanced the winning run that many bases on his drive. If the ball had been batted out of the playing field, over the fence or into the stands, the batter would have been credited with a home run and the final score would have been 4 to 2.

VIOLATING THE FISH LAW

State Game Warden Urges Jail Sentences for Unscrupulous Fishermen

State Game Warden James A. Peck, who works from his Fitchburg headquarters to all quarters of this part of Massachusetts, has declared war anew against all fish and game law violators. Secretary Fred W. Barrows has just been notified. Warden Peck generally means what he says, when he charges that many citizens and non-citizens of New England arrogantly violate many laws protecting fish and game out of season.

Lowell district is today very free from violators of the laws, according to Mr. Peck and Secretary Barrows. The new complaints do not come from this territory, although there have been several "raw" instances of non-citizens fishing for white perch in nearby ponds and taking more than the lawful day allowance, 40 bag limit.

Game Warden Peck is after jail sentences now, he told Lowell fish and game association members, last week. Secretary Barrows says the campaign may clean up some of the law violators in this territory before it is over, although the Lowell clubmen are keeping regular patrols out daily and Sundays in the ponds most popular with fishermen all.

The chief offenders in this vicinity, according to Mr. Barrows, and the worst of all because they know the law and don't care a hang, are the cheap sports who fish for the fun of getting everything in sight. Recently, reports have come from favorite fishing ponds to the south and west of Lowell, indicating that vast quantities of white perch, many of them undersized, have been taken by fishermen who apparently have no sympathy for the law or the pleasures of law-abiding fishermen who are to come after them and find many of the best angling grounds depleted of the finny tribes.

The local sportsmen handling the stocking of brooks and ponds, have given a wonderful performance in the Lowell territory, during the past few years, as is well known. Secretary Barrows and active pond-stockers have been busy this season, with large quantities of favorite "fins" distributed in best locations. All will agree with Mr Barrows that it is a disgrace for anyone to remove undersized fish from the rural streams and ponds. The veins of good sportsmen of the rod and line run hot when they hear certain stories of "basketfuls of perch and hornpout" hauled to shore from popular fishing grounds that are fully covered by the state conservation laws.

Game Warden Peck is having trouble in the northern Worcester section of his district at the present time. More serious work to perform than he has ever had to do in the Lowell district. Mr. Peck is convinced that in the not distant future, jail sentences must come for violators of the fish and game law, instead of small fines. Campers in both Worcester and Middlesex counties are complained of. Some of them "delight to slip something over on the game wardens," said Mr. Peck, discussing the matter with a Fitchburg newspaper reporter one day last week.

"We have been fair, have posted the rules conspicuously in the proper places on rivers and ponds and have also been lenient with foreigners who are not, perhaps, familiar with our laws, but the time has come for us to act, and we shall do so.

"Of course, we do not want the public as a whole to think that the department does nothing but prosecute offenders, for we have other things to do regularly. Preservation and conservation is one side of our work. The other side is the stocking of brooks and ponds with fish and the woods with game.

"Did you know that about 6000 trout are released in Worcester and Middlesex counties each week alone? Sportsmen's clubs like the Lowell Fish and Game association have given us wonderful support in this work, for it is for real sportsmen we do it."

Secretary Barrows said that the local organization would continue to work hand in hand with the state authorities, as in the past, and redouble efforts if necessary to clean up violators of the law. Mr. Barrows believes, however, that no section of Middlesex county is better policed than the territory in and about Lowell. The constant attention given to the matter at hand, has cleaned up illegal cases of fishing and put a damper on the aspirations of men who thought they could evade the law and get away with it.

Few violations that called for arrest and appearance in court, have occurred in the Lowell vicinity during the past two years, and the reason for this reputable condition of affairs in outdoor sportsmanship fields is the constant, energetic campaigning on the part of Lowell Fish and Game association for strict upholding of the laws of the commonwealth and federal government combined.

EMERALDS DEFEAT WONDERS

The Emeralds defeated the Wonders, 13 to 5, on the Aiken street grounds yesterday morning. F. Gauthier and Lamb starred with the wand, each getting a two-bagger. Beauregard and Normandin worked in the box for the winners, and Noel and Barrabe for the losers. The game was called at the end of five innings.

BROTHER AND SISTER ON LOCAL TENNIS COURTS

It was "Douglas" day on the local tennis courts yesterday for both the ladies' and men's singles titles went to members of the Douglas family; Queena, playground champion for the past two years, winning the former and Bruce, singles title-holder a year ago, repeating this year.

In the title match for ladies' singles,

BRUCE DOUGLAS

Miss Douglas was opposed by Miss Alice Sheehan at Shedd park. Miss Douglas was in tip-top form and took the first set 6-0. Her opponent got into stride in the second set and put up a battle that made the set very interesting. Her service was especially good and on several occasions Miss Douglas was unable to connect for a return. The set went deuce and was then won by Miss Douglas, 7-5.

QUEENA DOUGLAS

Wasaburo Inowoka, a Japanese, opposed Bruce Douglas in the finals, and the match went five sets before the necessary three had been won by Douglas. "Wassa," as the Japanese is best known, played a lobbing game throughout and at times countered with well directed base line shots that found Douglas out of position. Douglas won the first and dropped the second, 6-1 and 2-6. The third was easy for Bruce and the fourth was dropped, 2-6. The final match found Bruce in the pink of condition and Wassa tired. This set went the same score as the first, 6-1.

Both winners were presented silver loving cups and Miss Douglas was also the recipient of a large basket of gladioli, Miss Ellenor Trull being the donor.

Hugh F. Downey and John McSorley were referees and Daniel McDonald, John Dwyer, Leo Deville, John Stackpole, Herbert Armstrong and James McKay were linesmen.

LOWELL FISH AND GAME CLUB TRAP SHOOT

Lowell Fish and Game association's first trap shoot of the fall season, held yesterday afternoon at the Flaherty health farm in Wamesit, was a complete success. About two dozen members took part in the contests. Secretary Fred W. Barrows was high man.

Features of the program were the remarkable shooting done by Frank Brady, jr., and "Billy" Brady, sons of Dr. Frank Brady. The boys easily won places in the winners' list. Secretary Barrows' record was 21 birds out of a possible 25.

The winners and results:

FIRST EVENT
First—
Frank R. Brady, jr.	16
Berry Simpson	16
Charles Dancourse	16
Second—
Fred W. Barrows	15
Third—
Dr. Frank R. Brady	14
SECOND EVENT
First—
Frank R. Brady, jr.	20
Second—
Berry Simpson	18
Fred W. Barrows	18
Dr. Frank R. Brady	18
Third—
E. Simpson	16
THIRD EVENT
First—
Fred W. Barrows	21
Second—
Berry Simpson	20
Third—
Gaudette	15
FOURTH EVENT (Special Doubles)
Winners—
Dr. Frank R. Brady	18
Berry Simpson	18
Runners-up—
"Billy" Brady	17

The trap shoot was held under the direction of the trap shoot committee, with President James E. Burns, chairman, assisted by Henry Boynton.

THIRD CONSECUTIVE WIN FOR GAR WOOD

DETROIT, Sept. 2—With a margin of less than two seconds, Gar Wood, of Detroit, drove Miss Detroit VII, to a victory over Cigarette, Jr., New York, in the second international motor boat sweepstakes here yesterday. It was the third consecutive win for Wood.

The race, which concluded the gold cup regatta program that began here last Friday, was one of the closest fought finishes of the program. Of the 14 boats that started only half that number finished the race.

The official time for Miss Detroit VII, was given as 3:04:11.63, while Cigarette, Jr., covered the 10-mile course in 3:04:43:15. Baby Gar IV., owned by Wood, finished third.

LOWELL HORSES IN ATHOL FAIR RACES

Several Lowell horsemen appeared in the Athol fair race track program contests arranged for Labor day afternoon. The 2.25 trot and pace for $500 was split, each division carrying the same size purse. In the first, Aquilan D., owned by Dimodana brothers of Lowell, got seventh place in a field of eleven horses. In the second division, Service Flag, owned and driven by I. E. Wotton, was marked fourth place. Bracelenia, 2.18¼, owned by David Bruce and driven by Ernest Pelletier, captured one first in a two-heat race.

Lowell horses racing today are Maxwell, a Wotton speeder, and Mauriss, owned by Ernest Daigle.

TENNIS THIS EVENING

This evening's matches in the men's doubles championship will be as follows: Highlands—A. Liddell and Dr. N. A. Pulsifer vs. C. Conley and J. Locke; R. Crowley and D. Connors vs. R. Doeg and Wasaburo Mowoka; P. Molloy and E. Rostler vs. R. Merrill and H. Armstrong; R. Smith and H. Gleason vs. W. Turnbull and R. Littlefield. Shedd park—D. Murphy and T. Kelly vs. F. Price and E. Mahoney; E. Murphy and H. Parent vs. J. McSorley and B. Douglas; S. H. Dodd and L. Gay vs. J. McLaughlin and H. Manning; J. Dwyer and J. Stackpole vs. J. Graham and H. Landis.

SOUTH COMMON TRACK MEET BIG EVENT

The track meet on the South common, sponsored by local labor organizations, proved to be one of the big drawing cards of yesterday afternoon's program and between twelve and fifteen thousand persons thronged the stands and banks of the common to watch the various events.

The first event was started a few minutes after 3 o'clock and at this time the running track was baked hard by the hot sun and waves of heat dancing from the ground made running a sport for only the iron-hearted.

Three of the events proved to be of exceptional interest. the one mile open, the three mile open and the 100-yard dash for girls.

In the mile open a field of 12 started and within two laps the race had settled down to McCarthy, Costa and J. Ryan, with the first named in the lead. For five laps McCarthy had things his own way and it appeared to be his race, but on the final tour around the track Ryan spurted. McCarthy couldn't match Ryan's stride and the latter won by quarter of a lap. It was a real race.

The 100 yard for girls 12 to 15 years was the most attractive race of the group from the number of entries, there being 39 entries. Owing to the extreme heat it was decided to run all entries in one race, rather than run heats, and the 39 lined up across the common awaiting the starting signal. Girls in bloomers and running shoes, girls in ordinary street dress with sneakers and girls in their Sunday best with tight fitting heavy leather shoes contested. The race was close. Marion Burns taking first by about 3 yards, C. Pendergast winning second by about half a stride, and Rosetta Cutress third.

The three-mile event was the banner number. There were eight entries but only three finished, the others falling out gradually from the first to the 17th lap. Coutu, winner of a number of events on the common during the past six or seven years, was the favorite, and jumped into the lead during the first half mile. Lawrence, a young chap whose face was new to attendants at local track meets, dogged his steps, apparently very willing to let him set the pace. For ten of the 18 laps, Coutu set the pace and lagged and spurted as he tried to shake Lawrence. Lawrence wouldn't be shaken, however, and by the start of the eleventh lap Coutu was worried. He side-stepped on several occasions in front of Lawrence and did everything he could to get his opponent into the lead, but Lawrence was still content with second.

Then came the final lap. Coutu lengthened his stride a little, but he was tired. Lawrence, however, not only lengthened his stride but also stepped considerably faster and finished with a lot of open space between himself and Coutu, who won second honors. A protest was made against Coutu for alleged unfair sportsmanship and was taken under advisement. Tommy Leonard, well known local boxer, entered the three-mile for road work and went to the finish for third money.

The summary follows:

100 yard dash, open, 8 entries, won by McCarthy; second, Barraby; third, W. Clarke. Prizes, $5, $3, $2.

One mile, open, 12 entries, won by J. Ryan; second, McCarthy; third, Costa. Prizes, $8, $5, $3.

One-quarter mile for local union men only, won by J. O'Connor; second, J. Finnegan; third, Toupin. Prizes, $7, $5, $3.

Shot put, open, won by A. Rogers; second, M. Ryan; third, P. McGovern. Distances, 45 ft., 11 in.; 38 ft., 1 in.; 36 ft., 6 in. Prizes, $5, $3, $2.

100 yard dash for ladies, 7 entries, won by M. Rourke; second, J. Soucy; third, M. Kenney. Prizes, $5, $3, $2.

One-quarter mile for boys 12 to 15 years, 12 entries, won by C. Trudel; second, J. R. Rogers; third, P. Quinn. Prizes, $3, $2, $1.

Fat men's race for men 200 lbs. or over, 6 entries, won by J. Buey; second, A. Benedict; third, Mr. Ryan. Prizes, $5, $3, $2.

100 yard dash for girls 12 to 15 years, 39 entries, won by M. Burns; second, C. Pendergast; third, R. Cutress. Prizes, $3, $2, $1.

Relay race, open, 4 teams entered, won by Red Wings; second, Ricard's Belmonts; third, O.M.I. Cadets. The teams were made up as follows: Red Wings, Darrigan, Barraby, Mahan, McCarthy. Belmonts, Ouellette, Finnegan, Bradford, Clarke. O.M.I. Cadets, Crowe, W. Ryan, J. O'Connor, Nelligan. Prizes, $10, $6, $4.

Three mile race, open, 8 entries, won by Lawrence; second, Coutu; third, T. Leonard. Prizes, $10, $5, $3.

Running broad jump for local union men only, won by J. O'Connor; second, Finnegan; third, Reardon. Distances, 15 ft., 5 in.; 14 ft., 8 in.; 11 ft., 9 in. Prizes, $5, $3, $2.

Officials: Starters, Michael J. McGoohan and Patrick Fels. Judges, Michael Regan and Michael Wrenn. Timer, Patrick Bagley. Announcer, Joseph Convery.

The sports committee consisted of the following: Michael Regan, Thomas Crowe, Joseph Convery, Patrick Bradley, James Rourke, Michael McGoohan, Timothy Finnegan and Frank Horn.

ST. PETER'S CADETS

To prevent future misunderstanding or disappointment, the director of St. Peter's Cadets wishes to quote the ruling made last year relative to football eligibility. To become a member of the Cadet squad a cadet must be enlisted one month, and attend all meetings. If he be absent without legitimate excuse he forfeits the right to play until the next meeting that he attends.

ANNUAL STATE RANGE RIFLE COMPETITION

National guardmen's favorite topic at the Westford street barracks today, Camp Devens forgotten for the nonce, is the annual state range rifle competition scheduled for October 12 next.

The closing of the military services' competition at Wakefield two weeks ago, did not wind-up the open-air target practice work by any means, and Lowell expert riflemen are entirely happy about it.

The greatest matches of the year for national guardsmen exclusively, are billed for the brown October days at Wakefield. Lowell's military organizations used to be very largely represented several years ago, and before the World war. The numbers of contestants in state matches have fallen off considerably during the past three years, however.

No reasons have ever been given for the meager Lowell competitive lists, except men expert in target practice have complained that wage-earning vacations in everyday life prevented them from giving proper time and attention to the duties required of them in preparing for both preliminary and final matches.

Lowell may not have a long list of entrants from Westford street army barracks this year, but it will have a squad of sharpshooters of "good eye" quality, led by the champion of them all—Second Lieut. James A. Tourtlott, of Machine Gun Company D, 182nd infantry, M. V. M.

The date for the Wakefield wind-up of the M. N. G. season on the ranges, falls on Sunday, and already objections are heard and many more will doubtless reach the adjutant-general's office. Local military circles show a strong feeling against holding state military competitions of this sort on the Sabbath day. It is claimed on the other hand, that Sunday is favored by military comrades in the western part of the state. However, the date has been set and there is no likelihood that it can be changed.

The orders direct the commanding officers of the following organizations to participate by sending representative marksmen from "the line:" 101st, 104th, 151st and 182nd infantry; 241st coast artillery, 211th coast artillery, 2nd separate battalion infantry, 101st engineers, 110th cavalry and the 26th division train, Q. M. C., with teams consisting of 10 firing members, one team captain, one team coach and one alternate.

The course to be fired will be as follows:

First stage—200 yards, slow fire; position standing; without aid of the sling; 10 shots for record; target A; time limit, one minute per shot.

Second stage—300 yards, slow fire; position prone, without sandbang; 10 shots for record; target A; time limit, one minute per shot.

Third stage—600 yards, slow fire; position prone, without sandbag; two sighting shots and 10 shots for record; target B; time limit, one minute per shot.

The arms to be used will be the United States service rifle as issued. Ammunition as supplied at the firing points.

The regulations are a little stiffer at Wakefield this October. The instructions covering team personnels are as follows: No officer or enlisted man shall be eligible for a place on a team who has not been a member of the Massachusetts national guard for at least three months preceding the date of competition, or who has not performed at least 10 days of camp duty during 1924. No officer of rank higher than captain, shall be eligible as a firing member of the team. At least six of the firing members of each team shall be enlisted men. At least five of the firing members of the team shall be men who have never before been firing members of a team in an outdoor state competition. A bugler and pit officers will be selected from the ranks of the 182d infantry.

To the winning team will be given the state tri-color; to the 10 men making the 10 highest individual scores, silver cups; to the 10 men who have never before won state distinguished marksmen medals, making the highest individual scores, medals will be given.

Off to Camp Perry, O.

Lowell militiamen are today enroute to Camp Perry, O., to participate in the national target matches, arranged annually for rifle experts from all branches of the service. The competitions are sure to be livelier than ever this year.

The following named officers and men will constitute the personnel of the Bay State team, with Lowell prominent in the official crack riflemen's lists:

Maj. C. David Berg, 182d infantry, team captain; principals, Second Lieut. James A. Tourlott, Company D, 182d infantry; First Sergt. John T. Dingle, Company D, 182d infantry; Capt. Harry R. Marshall, ordnance department; Capt. Wallace L. Darling, range officer; other principals, Second Lieut. Herbert P. Whittemore, 101st infantry; First Sergt. John C. Speaker, Company L, 182d infantry; Second Lieut. William C. Martin, 101st infantry; Sergt. Clarence E. Landry, Company F, 182d infantry; First Class Private Joseph Pellerin, Company F, 182d infantry. Alternates: Sergt. Ernest A. Bengston, Sergt. John J. Healy, Company F, and Corp. Warren J. Gleason, Company F, all of the 182d infantry regiment.

Lieut. Col. Stanchfield, who has had charge of the Bay State team in training at Wakefield, believes that he has an aggregation of military riflemen that will continue the fine record that Massachusetts has regularly maintained in national matches in the past. The enthusiastic entrants from Lowell are prepared to perform to the very best of their ability, anyhow.

LOWELL REPRESENTED AT I. N. F. FIELD DAY

Ten thousand persons attended the annual field day of the Irish National Foresters, held yesterday afternoon at Russell field, in North Cambridge. The feature event of the sports program was the Foresters' special one-mile race, which was won by Ralph Ohman of the Posse club, who received a silver trophy donated by Mayor James J. Curley of Boston.

Lowell athletes starred in the 880-yard race, Ernest H. Latham winning first position and his brother, David second position. T. Lindahl captured third place. Ernest Latham's time was 1m. 59 3-5s. Both boys are members of Lowell high school.

FAREWELL PARTY

Miss Margaret N. O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael F. O'Brien of 62 West Third street, who left today for St. Catherine's convent, Kentucky, was tendered a farewell party at the home of her parents Sunday evening. An entertainment program in which the Misses, Alice Carroll, Dorothy Mitchell, Mary O'Brien, Alice O'Brien, Veronica Kelley, Dorothy Durkin participated, was given during the course of the evening. Refreshments were served by Miss Durkin, the Misses Mary and Nellie O'Brien, Mrs. William Mitchell and Messrs. James Durkin and Edward Gray.

MISS CLOUREY HONORED

A reception was tendered to Miss Catherine Clourey last evening at the home of Mrs. M. Sullivan, 151 Gorham street. Miss Clourey is about to begin training at St. John's hospital. Miss Mary Connolly, as spokesman for her friends, presented a silver watch to Miss Clourey. During the evening a buffet lunch was served and a varied musical program rendered. Miss Clourey played several violin selections and Mrs. John Fryer sang several solos. About sixty guests were present.

BRIDAL SHOWER

On Friday evening a very pretty bridal shower was tendered to Miss Cora Veracunda Davis at the home of her mother, Mrs. Fred L. Davis, 40 Roberts street. A program of fancy dances was carried out under the direction of Miss Catherine Boyle. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Georgeanna Davis and Mrs. Arthur Thursby. Later in the evening a buffet lunch was served. About 70 of Miss Davis' friends were present.

Prague is becoming the airway capital of Europe, because of its central location.

Adorable New HATS

For "Little Miss School Girl"

A hat is such an important thing in the wardrobe of the schoolgirl! No matter how smart is the outfit she possesses, if the hat is badly chosen, the entire chic effect vanishes.

In our special Children's Millinery Section you will find one lovely variation after another in Felt, Silk and Velvet Hats, priced as moderately as

$1.79 $2.49 $2.98 $3.98

Fourth Floor

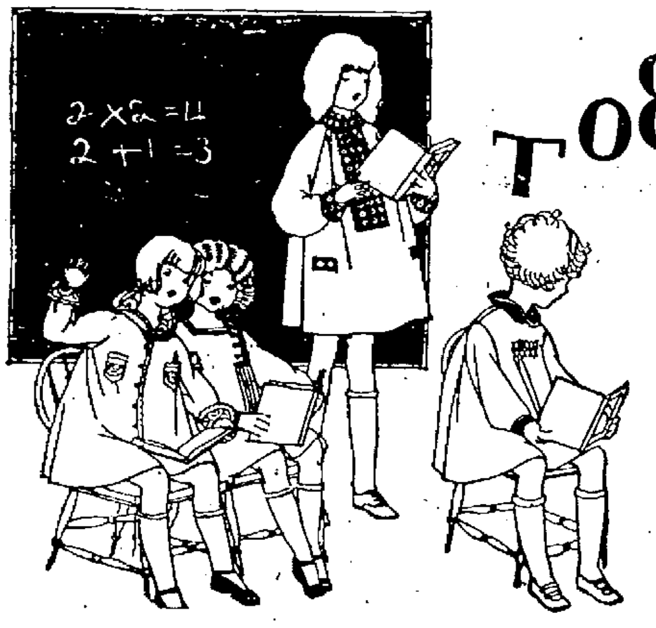
Cherry & Webb Co

FREE!
A Fine School Pencil To All Children
Accompanied by Adults

Cherry & Webb Co

Children's Department—Third Floor

Togs For School Days



Ding Dong! Ding Dong!

THE SCHOOL BELL WILL SOON BE RINGING

Vacation almost over. School doors soon to swing wide open. Lowell children ready on tiptoe to enter for the Fall and Winter term.

But Are They Really Ready, Mother?

Be sure they are properly outfitted in the togs they like if you would have them successful in their school careers.

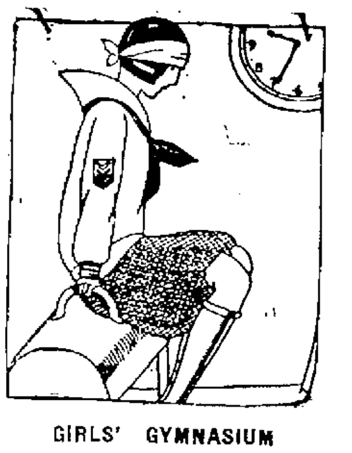
Visit our Children's Department and choose from the exceptional values there to be found in Back-to-School Apparel for girls.

For Example

Girls' Gingham Dresses

Sizes 7 to 14 Years

500 — All fresh new Fall styles in better grade Amoskeag, Parkhill and Kilburnie Ginghams, Bloomer Styles, Sash Models, Jacket Styles and the new long waisted effects. Short and long sleeves, silk and wool embroidery. Made to sell at $1.98 and $2.49. For School Sale Week Only $1.45



GIRLS' GYMNASIUM MIDDIES

The Regulation and Slope Style Models in Saratoga and Man-O-War makes. All sizes. Short and long sleeves, $1.49

GIRLS' RAINCOATS

Smart belted styles that you can be assured are thoroughly waterproof. Sizes up to 16 years........ $6.98

GIRLS' BRUSHED WOOL SWEATERS

In buff color. Every schoolgirl simply must have one of these. They are wonder values at $3.98

GIRLS' GYMNASIUM BLOOMERS

All Wool Navy Serge, reinforced crotch, concealed pocket. Full pleated, in sizes 6 to 22 years. The regular $3.98 kind.. $1.98

Extra Special Gingham Dresses

Good Quality Ginghams in smart checks and plaids. Sizes 7 to 14 years. Included are the wanted jacquette styles and pleated models. The regular $1.49 and $1.98 kind for 95c

Girls' Bloomer Dresses

$1.95

In better grade ginghams. Made in the different styles that mother would make for the growing girls of 6 to 10 years. For school Sale Week.

Girls' Wool Dresses

$5.98

In crepes, checks, tweeds and serges. New tailored, mannish styles in one and two-piece models.

CHERRY & WEBB CO. CHERRY & WEBB CO.

IN NEW YORK

By Stephen Hannagan

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—In one of those intimate night clubs, which open at 10.30 o'clock at night and close the next morning when stenographers and office help are rushing to begin the day's work, is a dainty young woman who sings.

The club accommodates perhaps 200 guests and there is but one waiter. The orchestra is composed of a versatile piano player. Several hostesses are employed to jolly up anaemic groups.

The crowd begins to congregate after the theatre and then the frivolity begins. Drinks are $1. There is a small space for dancing.

Singing, hectic jazz tidbits with numerous variations the little song lady keeps the crowd in good cheer until late in the morning. It is then she begins the crooning of mournful melodies that appeal to the late hangers-on, especially the men.

Tears are shed in profusion and the girl is requested to repeat various sorrowing numbers over and over again. Men thinking of the wife and family back in a mid-western town and women recalling the happier days of their fleeting girlhood.

It is a slow night that the songster does not receive $25 in tips. Often she gathers as much as $50. People who cry pay more than those who laugh.

Hostesses who sympathize with misunderstood men on a lark are tipped from $5 to $20 for their synthetic emotions. All evening the girls drink "downs" at $1 a copy. "Downs" consists of a small glass of ginger ale masquerading as liquor. They are not permitted to drink on duty.

The substitute waiter made $67 in tips the other evening. The regular waiter is spending a two-months vacation in Europe.

Mother-in-law stories should be outlawed, but this one is on court record.

Mrs. Ida K. Greenwood has been restrained by court from crossing the street in front of her home to go to the residences of two sisters of her son-in-law and from talking with them or their neighbors.

She was charged with "splattering her mother-in-law spite."

"I got a package for Mr. Ziegfeld from the captain and I don't give it to anybody but him. It's worth my job on the ship if I do," explained a young man in Florenz Ziegfeld's offices.

He was ushered into the private office of the man who glorifies American girls and is regarded as the hardest man on Broadway to approach.

In the package were six quarts of water. In an envelope the young man handed Ziegfeld was a court summons.

He was a process server.

—STEPHEN HANNAGAN.

"NATIONAL DEFENSE DAY" COMMITTEE

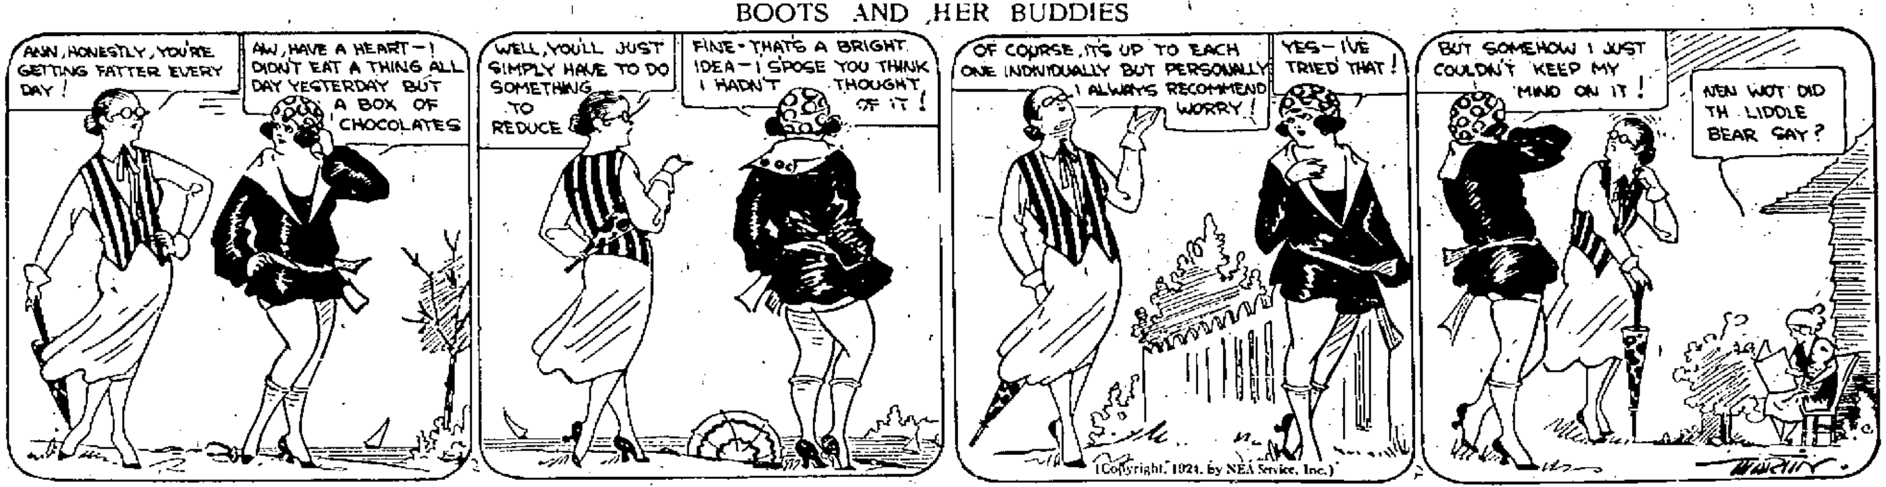
Lowell "National Defense Day" committee will meet tonight in the old Courier-Citizen building in Kearney square, to complete plans for the local observance of Sept. 12. It is expected that this date will become an annual national institution, if the coming first test proves successful. Chairman Dana Palmer will preside at tonight's meeting of the representatives of many civic, industrial, business, military and fraternal organizations of Lowell. Several active committees will report, and it is expected that Commander Colin C. MacDonald of the local American Legion organization will have a special report to make.

MID-WEEK SOCIAL

A mid-week social will be held at the Commodore ballroom on Wednesday evening with Leo Daly's orchestra furnishing the music for dancing. This orchestra has been busy during the present season and everywhere it has played it has made a most favorable impression. All the latest hits are featured and while the team is comparatively young they play exceedingly well. The admission for this event is 30 cents with dancing free.

Many cut flowers live longer if sugar is added to the water in which they stand—about one part of sugar to nine of water.

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES



AWW, HONESTLY, YOU'RE GETTING FATTER EVERY DAY!
AW, HAVE A HEART—I DIDN'T EAT A THING ALL DAY YESTERDAY BUT A BOX OF CHOCOLATES WELL, YOU'LL JUST SIMPLY HAVE TO DO SOMETHING TO REDUCE FINE—THAT'S A BRIGHT IDEA—I S'POSE YOU THINK I HADN'T THOUGHT OF IT!
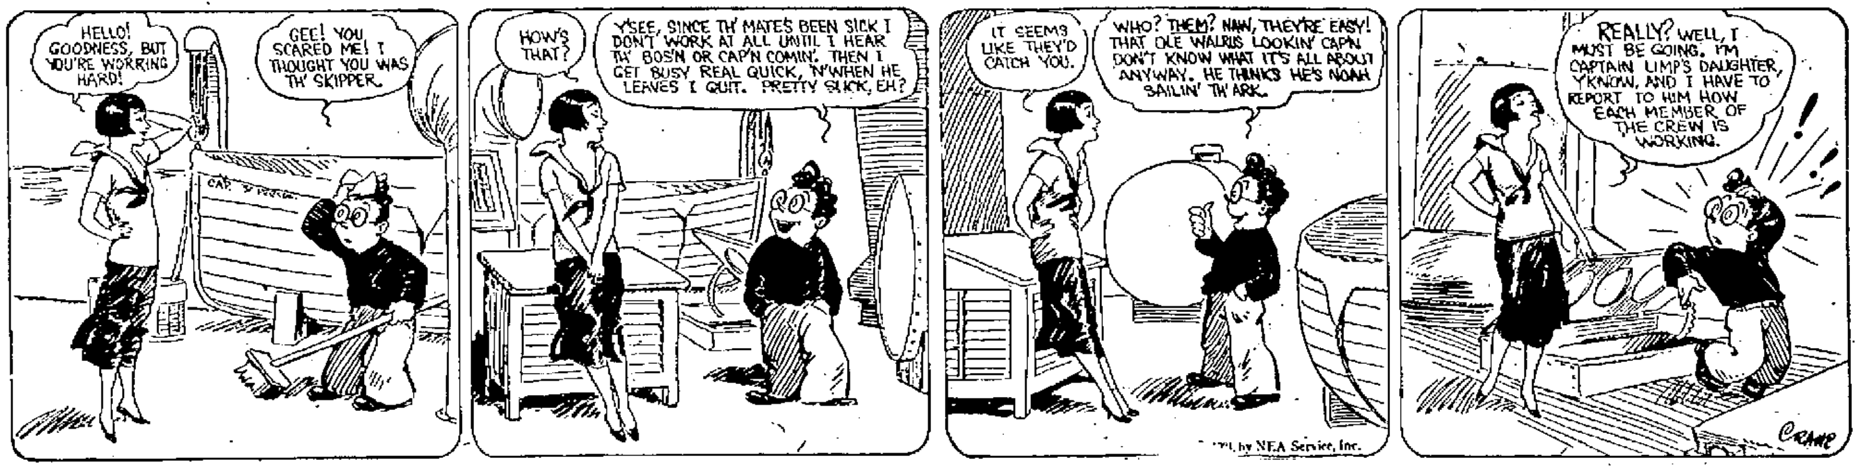
OF COURSE, IT'S UP TO EACH ONE INDIVIDUALLY BUT PERSONALLY I ALWAYS RECOMMEND WORRY!
YES—I'VE TRIED THAT!
BUT SOMEHOW I JUST COULDN'T KEEP MY MIND ON IT!
NEN WOT DID TH LIDDLE BEAR SAY?
Martin

(Copyright, 1924, by NEA Service, Inc.)

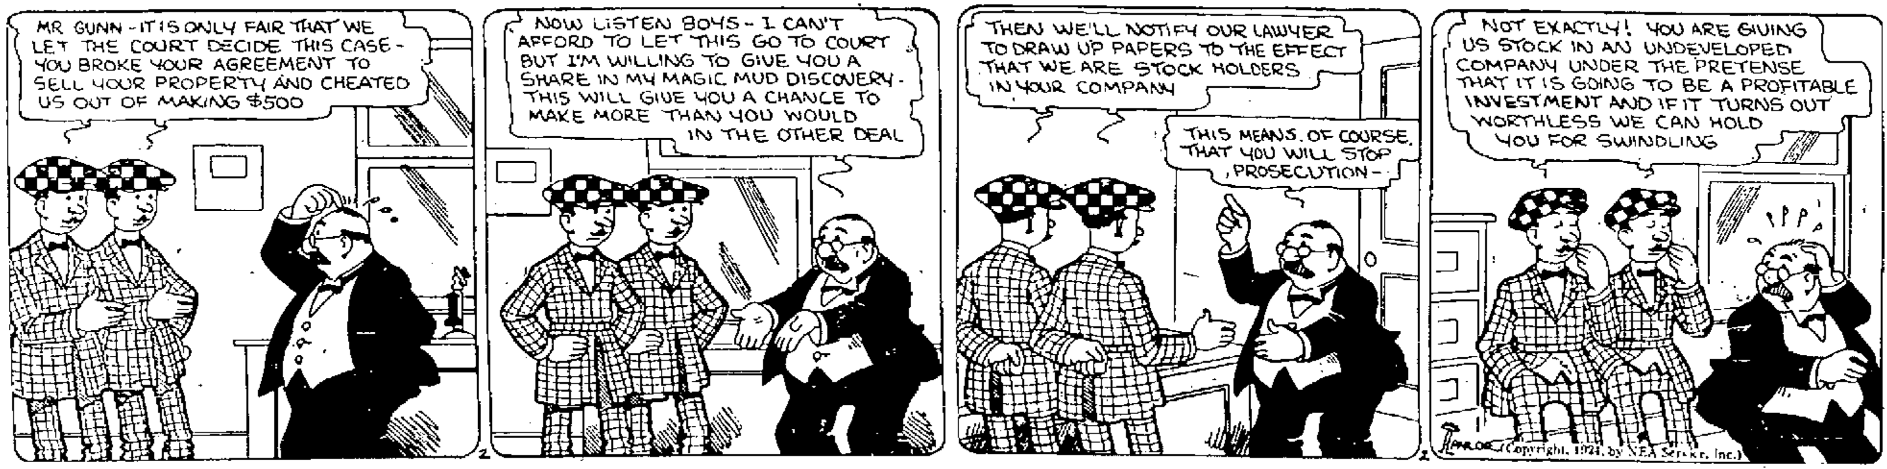
WASHINGTON TUBBS II



HELLO! GOODNESS, BUT YOU'RE WORKING HARD!
GEE! YOU SCARED ME! I THOUGHT YOU WAS TH' SKIPPER.
HOW'S THAT?
Y'SEE, SINCE TH' MATE'S BEEN SICK I DON'T WORK AT ALL UNTIL I HEAR TH' BOS'N OR CAP'N COMIN'. THEN I GET BUSY REAL QUICK, 'N'WHEN HE LEAVES I QUIT. PRETTY SLICK, EH?
IT SEEMS LIKE THEY'D CATCH YOU.
WHO? THEM? NAW, THEY'RE EASY! THAT OLE WALRUS LOOKIN' CAP'N DON'T KNOW WHAT IT'S ALL ABOUT ANYWAY. HE THINKS HE'S NOAH SAILIN' TH' ARK.
REALLY? WELL, I MUST BE GOING. I'M CAPTAIN LIMP'S DAUGHTER, Y'KNOW, AND I HAVE TO REPORT TO HIM HOW EACH MEMBER OF THE CREW IS WORKING.
CRANE

by NEA Service, Inc.

MOM'N POP



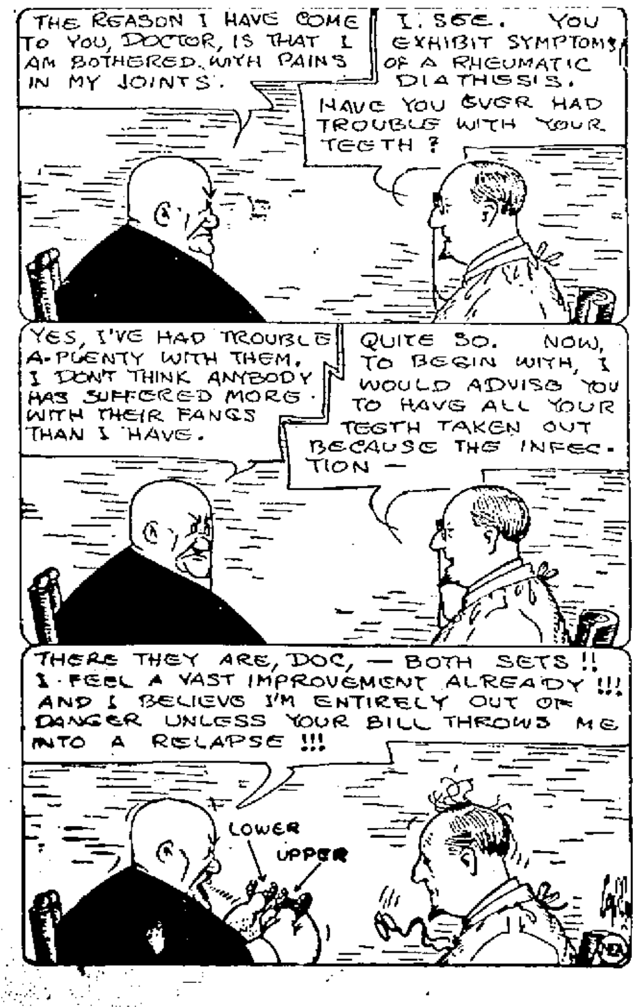
MR GUNN—IT IS ONLY FAIR THAT WE LET THE COURT DECIDE THIS CASE—YOU BROKE YOUR AGREEMENT TO SELL YOUR PROPERTY AND CHEATED US OUT OF MAKING $500
NOW LISTEN BOYS—I CAN'T AFFORD TO LET THIS GO TO COURT BUT I'M WILLING TO GIVE YOU A SHARE IN MY MAGIC MUD DISCOVERY—THIS WILL GIVE YOU A CHANCE TO MAKE MORE THAN YOU WOULD IN THE OTHER DEAL
THEN WE'LL NOTIFY OUR LAWYER TO DRAW UP PAPERS TO THE EFFECT THAT WE ARE STOCK HOLDERS IN YOUR COMPANY
THIS MEANS, OF COURSE, THAT YOU WILL STOP PROSECUTION—
NOT EXACTLY! YOU ARE GIVING US STOCK IN AN UNDEVELOPED COMPANY UNDER THE PRETENSE THAT IT IS GOING TO BE A PROFITABLE INVESTMENT AND IF IT TURNS OUT WORTHLESS WE CAN HOLD YOU FOR SWINDLING
TAYLOR

(Copyright, 1924, by NEA Service, Inc.)

LITTLE JOE

THE FAMILY SKELETON ALWAYS LOOKS BETTER IN LONG SKIRTS!

EVERETT TRUE



THE REASON I HAVE COME TO YOU, DOCTOR, IS THAT I AM BOTHERED WITH PAINS IN MY JOINTS.
I SEE. YOU EXHIBIT SYMPTOMS OF A RHEUMATIC DIATHESIS.
HAVE YOU EVER HAD TROUBLE WITH YOUR TEETH?
YES, I'VE HAD TROUBLE A-PLENTY WITH THEM. I DON'T THINK ANYBODY HAS SUFFERED MORE WITH THEIR FANGS THAN I HAVE.
QUITE SO. NOW, TO BEGIN WITH, I WOULD ADVISE YOU TO HAVE ALL YOUR TEETH TAKEN OUT BECAUSE THE INFECTION—
THERE THEY ARE, DOC,—BOTH SETS!! I FEEL A VAST IMPROVEMENT ALREADY!!! AND I BELIEVE I'M ENTIRELY OUT OF DANGER UNLESS YOUR BILL THROWS ME INTO A RELAPSE!!!
LOWER UPPER

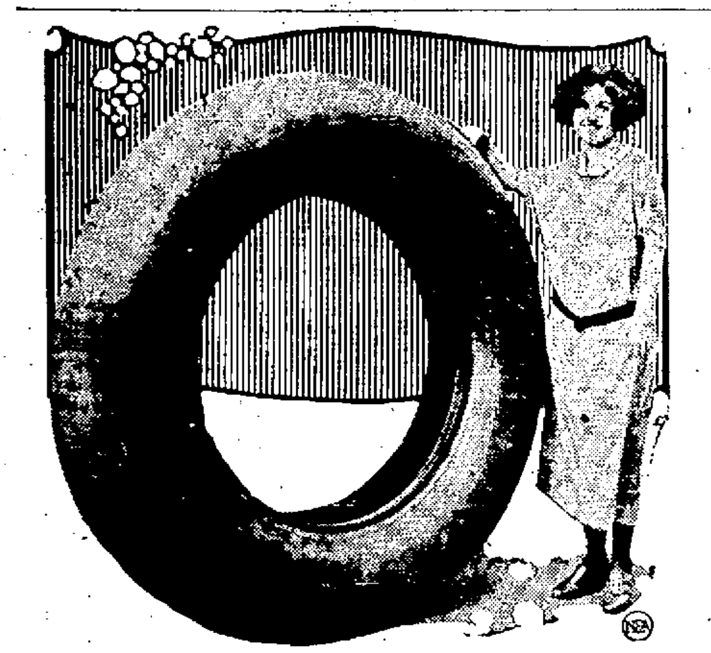
COMMON SENSE

When a merchant advertises his wares in a newspaper, he does not appeal to the paper, but to its readers. He solicits the patronage of those readers whether he agrees with the policy of the paper or not.

To refrain from advertising in a paper of wide circulation simply because he does not agree with the editor on all public questions, is not using common sense. It is a form of business suicide. It has sent many short-sighted business men into bankruptcy. A dealer might as well put a sign over his store notifying all who do not think as he does that he does not want their patronage. Readers of newspaper advertisements know when and where their patronage is welcome.



HERE'S LARGEST PNEUMATIC TIRE

Uncle Sam's air service again excels—this time in the size of airplane tires. The young lady is just as tall as the tire, which will be used on a special type of airplane now being perfected. It is a 64 by 14-inch balloon type cord and will sustain a load of 20,000 pounds at an inflation pressure of 75 pounds. The tire was made at Akron.

Legal Notices

Commonwealth of Massachusetts— Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

Whereas Alfred Ashline Cropper of Lowell, in said County, has presented to said Court, a petition praying that his name may be changed to that of Alfred Ashline Bodell for the reasons therein set forth:

All persons are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the eleventh day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any they have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this thirty-first day of July, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS, Register.

a22-25-s2.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts— Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To all persons interested in the estate of Alexander Dube, otherwise known as Alexander Dubec, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased:

Whereas Joseph Dube, the administrator of the estate of said deceased, has presented for allowance the first account of his administration upon the estate of said deceased:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County, on the fifteenth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed.

And said administrator is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to all persons interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this eighth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS, Register.

J. E. Markham, Atty.

a26-s2-9.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts— Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Margaret Maloney, late of Dracut, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Frederick T. Maloney, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the sixteenth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this thirteenth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS, Register.

James E. O'Donnell, Attorney.

a19-26, s2.

TRAINS TO AND FROM BOSTON
(Daylight Saving Time)

Southern Division				Portland Division
To Boston		Fr. Boston		To Boston		Fr. Boston
Lve.	Arr.	Lve.	Arr.	Lve.	Arr.	Lve.	Arr.
5.20	6.40	2.30	3.10	6.33	7.36	z6.35	8.21
6.23	7.26	6.00	7.06	10.54	12.21	10.35	11.53
b6.30	7.50	7.35	8.33	5.14	6.35	3.20	4.36
6.56	8.00	b8.15	9.30	7.12	8.25	6.14	6.18
7.54	8.37	9.00	9.39	10.20	11.33	6.55	8.14
8.01	8.53	10.00	10.39			9.59	11.17
8.12	9.03	12.30	1.11	Sunday Trains
9.01	9.43	a1.05	2.03	Portland Division
10.03	11.05	a1.20	2.40	12.07	1.22	3.29	4.45
12.07	1.01	2.13	3.15	3.66	4.55	6.10	6.45
12.18	1.05	2.50	3.41	5.26	7.10	8.45	9.50
1.51	2.39	4.00	4.42	8.55	10.05
2.45	3.49	b4.05	5.24	Sunday Trains
a3.30	4.12	5.00	5.42	Southern Division
4.00	4.45	b5.21	6.42	8.04	8.53	8.45	9.55
4.12	5.25	5.36	6.35	8.12	9.03	10.00	10.39
5.26	6.40	5.50	7.17	8.30	9.40	11.30	12.09
b6.05	7.28	6.14	7.22	9.13	10.10	1.00	2.04
7.58	8.41	8.00	8.41	10.20	11.17	5.30	6.24
8.40	9.33	8.30	9.11	2.52	3.35	7.15	8.25
10.58	11.50	10.30	11.43	4.59	5.54	8.00	8.41
		11.35	12.42	7.58	8.41	8.30	9.11
				8.35	9.60	9.25	10.35
				8.40	9.33	10.45	12.02
				10.55	11.50

b via Lexington; z via Wilmington Junction; n not holidays; p Saturdays only.

THE SUN IS ON SALE AT BOTH
NEWSSTANDS
NO. STATION, BOSTON

Legal Notices

SHERIFF'S SALE
Lowell July 24th, A. D., 1924.

Middlesex, ss.

Taken and seized on Execution and will be sold at Public Auction on Saturday the 13th day of September A. D., 1924, at 10 o'clock a. m., at my office, Room 304 Central Block 63 Central Street in Lowell in said County of Middlesex all the right, title and interest which George L. May and Vitaline May, formerly Vitaline Le Forge, both of Billerica in said County of Middlesex had (not exempt by law from attachment or levy on Execution) on the 24th day of July, A. D., 1924, at 15 minutes past 3 o'clock p. m. being the time when the same was seized on Execution, in and to the following described Real Estate to wit:

The land in Billerica in said County of Middlesex, with the buildings thereon situated on the northeasterly side of River View Avenue, and being Lots Forty-one (41), Forty-two (42) and Forty-three (43) on a plan of land entitled, "Plan of Concord River Park, North Billerica Mass.," dated January 25 1911, Whitman & Howard, Civil Engineers, which plan is recorded with Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds Plan Book 28, Plan 49, to which reference may be had for a more particular description of said premises.

BERNARD F. GATELY, Deputy Sheriff.

a20-27-s2.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts— Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Esrel Greenberg, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Jennie Greenberg, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the sixteenth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twenty-first day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS, Register.

a27-s2-9.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts— Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Stephen Fadigan, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Thomas J. Garrity, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the eighth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, of any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this thirteenth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS, Register.

a18-25-s2.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

(Copyright, 1924, by NEA Service, Inc.)
GIT FER HOME BRUNO!
10¢ FEED BARN SUNDAY RIGS TO HIRE RUBBER TIRED IN GOOD WEATHER - MUD BUGGIES FOR DRUMMERS
YOU SAY FOR A WEEK SHE'S BEEN TOO SICK TO EAT?
NO-NO-I SAY THEY DONT SEEM TO BE NOTHIN' WRONG WITH THEM HIND FEET!!
SO FAR SHES KICKED HIM WITHIN TEN FEET OF DOC POLKS OLD RECORD
I RECKON SHE'LL DO BETTER TH' NEXT TIME-
STANLEY

THE HORSE DOCTOR CALLED IN ON A CASE AT WHITTAKER'S LIVERY STABLE, FORGOT TO CLOSE THE STABLE DOOR BEHIND HIM — MAYBE IT'S JUST AS WELL—

A German telegraph operator died several years ago from asphyxia after swallowing stones, grass, leaves, wood and scrap-iron, on a bet.

The biggest policeman in the world is believed to be George Klingensmith of Springdale, Pa. He is six feet six inches tall and tips the scale at exactly one-eighth of a ton.

Legal Notices

Commonwealth of Massachusetts— Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law and all other persons interested in the estate of Guilford L. Stark, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased, and to the Treasurer and Receiver of said Commonwealth:

Whereas, Albert O. Hamel, public administrator, administrator of the estate of said deceased has presented to said Court his petition for license to sell at private sale, in accordance with the offer named in said petition, or upon such terms as may be adjudged best, the real estate of said deceased.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the eighth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to all persons interested, who can be found within the Commonwealth, fourteen days, at least, before said Court, and if any one can not be so found, by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by delivering a copy of this citation to the Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth, fourteen days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twelfth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS Register.

a19-26, s2.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts— Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Celanire Forget, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Alice Forget, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the sixteenth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this fourteenth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS, Register.

a19-26-s2.

Washington Savings Institution

Pursuant to Section 20, Chapter 167 of the General Laws, notice is hereby given that Book No. 28042, issued by the Washington Savings Institution, is lost or destroyed, payment has been stopped thereon, and application has been made for payment of the amount.

Legal Notices

Commonwealth of Massachusetts— Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, creditors, and all other persons interested in the estate of Benjamin J. Johnson, who died in Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, intestate, leaving estate in said County of Middlesex to be administered, and not leaving a known widow or heir in this Commonwealth, and to the Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth.

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant letters of administration on the estate of said deceased to Albert O. Hamel, public administrator in and for said County of Middlesex:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the eighth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the said public administrator is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and is further directed to deliver to the Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth a copy of said citation fourteen days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twelfth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS, Register.

a19-26, s2

Commonwealth of Massachusetts— Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Mary E. Roark, sometimes known as Mary E. Burns, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Elizabeth M. Roark, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the sixteenth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twenty-seventh day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS, Register.

a29-s2-8.

IF YOU
WANT HELP
IN YOUR HOME
OR BUSINESS
GET THE SUN
CLASSIFIED AD
HABIT

WALTER E. GUYETTE......Auctioneer
53 CENTRAL ST. Tel. 6996 and 6997

Announcements

LOST AND FOUND 3

GOLD PIN with blue sapphire lost Sunday a. m. between Hampshire st. and St. Michael's church, Sixth st. Please return to 37 Hampshire st. Reward.

DISCHARGE PAPERS lost. Good only to owner. 11 Irving street.

Automobiles

AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE 11

POSTOFFICE GARAGE

Several good used cars at low prices. Official headlight focusing station.

Expert auto repairing on any make of car.

WASHING GREASING

First class battery station.

USED PARTS

For all makes and models, 1910 to 1923; 4, 6 and 8 cylinders, motors, rear ends, transmissions, magnetos, generators, tires, rims, windshields. We also buy burned and wrecked cars. Kassell's Auto Co., 188 Water st., Haverhill, Mass. Tel. 4190.

TAXI SERVICE

HENRY'S TAXI—Tel. 7280. Cars for anywhere at anytime.

SERVICE STATION 12

SPECIAL PRICES on oiling and greasing cars. Simonizing a specialty. Tubes repaired. Mayhew Auto Supply, 531 Merrimack st. Tel. 3392.

AUTO CYLINDER REGRINDING
Renew your old motor, power and speed.
W. B. ROPER
19 Broadway Tel. 4304

Business Service

ELECTRICIANS 33

J. M. RICHARDS, electrician. Estimates given on large and small jobs. 208 Appleton st. Tel. 6830 or 6766-J.

PLUMBING AND STEAMFITTING 35

PLUMBING AND HEATING—Estimates given. Thomas Keyes, 277 Westford st. Tel. 1121-R.

Legal Notices

Commonwealth of Massachusetts— Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, creditors, and all other persons interested in the estate of John D. Grant, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased, intestate.

Whereas a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to Mary J. Grant of Lowell, in the County of Middlesex, without giving a surety on her bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the tenth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of July in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS Register.

a18-25, s2

Business Service

RAZOR BLADES

RAZOR BLADES—We resharpen every kind of safety razor blade, also hone razors right. Howard, 200 Central st.

PLUMBING AND HEATING

QUIGLEY & HARRINGTON, Tel. 5314. Plumbing and heating, all branches.

CHIMNEYS CLEANED

CHIMNEYS SWEPT, $2.50 a flue. J. M. Kelley, 191 Appleton st. Tel. 4711-M.

FOR CHIMNEY REPAIRS phone 7181-M. Twenty years' guarantee with each job.

ELECTRIC SERVICE

COTE ELECTRIC COMPANY
AUTOMOTIVE ELECTRIC REPAIRS
631 DUTTON ST. TEL. 6373

PROFESSIONAL SERVICES

ACTIVE AND HEALTHY—All but my feet. We specialize in the manufacturing and adjustment of mechanical appliances. Special agents for DR. JENSEN'S foot appliances. Competent fitters always at your service. Come in and talk it over. No charge. THE FRYE & CRAWFORD DRUG CO. 474 Merrimack St.

STORAGE

STORAGE FOR FURNITURE and pianos, large enough for two-horse load. M. A. Mahoney, 340 Central st.

MATTRESSES AND SPRINGS

EXTRA SPECIAL—For a short time only. We will make your old mattress like new, with a new cover, for $8.00. Mattresses called for and delivered. Ideal Furniture Co., 278 Bridge st. Manufacturers of Everrest Mattresses. Tel. 2870.

MONEY TO LOAN

CASH waiting for 2nd and 3rd mortgages. Apply P. O. Box 1057.

SMOKERS' SUPPLIES

PENNANTS, Lowell, North Chelmsford, Billerica and Elks, various colors. P. K. Shop, 242 Central st.

PAINTING AND PAPERING

PAINTING, Decorating and Paperhanging. All first class workmen. Dwyer Co., 23 Sydney st. Tel. 1477-W.

ROOFING

FITZGERALD CORP. for roofing of highest quality and efficiency at reasonable prices. Estimates freely given with terms to suit all circumstances. Call 7373, 24 Middle st.

ASPHALT SHINGLES—Slates, gravel and roof leak repairing. Get our estimate and compare with others. Jackson & Manning, roofers, 153 Summer st. Tel. 2139-M or 7107-M.

ROOFING AND ROOF REPAIRING—Asphalt shingles, slate, gravel, tar, metal, all kinds of new roofing and roof-leak repairing. All work guaranteed. Estimates free. King the Roofer, 7 Leverett street. Phone 1369-W.

MAXIME GEOFFROY, contractor for shingle, gravel and tar roofs. All kinds of sheet metal work. Roofer of 19 years' experience. Estimates given free. 703 Merrimack street. Tel. 2690.

CHIMNEY AND SLATE ROOF repairing; smoky chimneys a specialty. J. M. Kelley, 191 Appleton street. Tel. 4711-M.

UPHOLSTERING

$20

$20 IS OUR PRICE to upholster a 6-piece set in tapestry, velour and leather. Springs repaired and frames polished. Our work guaranteed. Write or phone and we'll gladly call. Lawrence Upholstery Co., 361 Broadway, Lawrence. Tel. 467-J.

FURNITURE UPHOLSTERED and refinished. All work guaranteed. Lowell Furniture Repair Shop, 5 Lincoln square. Tel. 6665.

UPHOLSTERING—Furniture repairing. G. Gott, 384 Bridge st. Tel. 6070.

MOVING AND TRUCKING

WILLIAM ODDIE—Local and long distance trucking. Freight forwarding. Residence 63 Hampshire street. Tel. 7419.

J. WOOD & SON—Piano and furniture moving, long distance general trucking. 78 Hampshire st. Tel. 2824-W.

M. J. FEENEY—Piano and furniture moving. Parties a specialty. 19 Kinsman st. Tel. 5475-W.

LEO GAGNE—Piano and furniture moving. General trucking, hard wood, coal for sale. 14 Hall street. Tel. 2833-J.

SAND, GRAVEL and cinders for sale. All kinds of trucking. Alex Mailloux, Broadway, Dracut Centre. Tel. 4041-W.

J. BURKE & SON—Furniture and piano moving, local and long distance, reasonable rates. 94 Lilley avenue. Tel. 2696.

MEDICAL SERVICE

DR. ROONEY
Dental Surgeon
Strand Bldg. Central St.
Telephone 2080

FREDERICK DUGDALE, M. D.
— Specialist —
SKIN, BLOOD AND NERVOUS DISEASES

RHEUMATISM, neuralgia, neuritis, lumbago, sciatica, rheumatism, arthritis, gout, catarrh, epilepsy.

CANCER, TUMORS, PILES, Fistula and rectal diseases WITHOUT THE KNIFE.

EYE, ear, nose, throat, stomach.

LOWELL OFFICE, NEW LOWELL FIVE CENT SAVINGS BANK BLDG., JOHN ST., WED. AND SAT., 2-3, 7-8
—Consultation Free—

STOVE REPAIRING

QUINN STOVE REPAIR CO., 140 Middlesex street, sells linings, grates and other parts to fit stoves and ranges. Work promptly attended to by expert repair men. Tel. 4170.

HAVE YOUR STOVE TRIMMINGS polished and nickel plated. Regan & Kirwin, 37 Shattuck st. Tel. 2057.

Business Service

CEMENT WORK

CEMENT WORK of all kinds done by F. Nadeau, 800 Lakeview avenue. Tel. 6932-X.

Employment

HELP WANTED—FEMALE

EXPERIENCED SALES LADY on silks and woolens wanted by progressive store that appreciates ability and effort. State age, experience, etc. Write P-15 this office.

WANTED—Women to paint Lamp Shades for us at home. Easy, pleasant work. Whole or part time. Address Nileart Company, 3014, Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

SALESMEN AND AGENTS 53

ADVERTISING MAN—22-28 years of age, clean-cut, ambitious and good personality. One with sufficient executive ability and initiative to be able to take charge of a crew of men within a few weeks. Must be willing to do some traveling. Position permanent with a guaranteed salary of $160-$200 per month. See Mr. Hartwick, between 6 and 8 p. m., Hotel Farragut, Room 21.

CAN USE 2 MORE MEN to complete sales force. See Mr. George, at Hotel Farragut, between 6 and 7 p. m.

HELP WANTED—MALE 54

ONE GOOD LASTER and beater out on children's turn shoes wanted at once. 25 Pine Hill avenue, Nashua, N. H., N. F. Paquette.

Merchandise

ARTICLES FOR SALE

LIGHT OAK BUFFET, round table and six chairs for sale. Phone 2886-J.

CONCRETE BLOCKS, 8 in. and 12 in. Cloutier Brothers. Tel. 2834-W.

FURNITURE for sale. Four rooms, almost new, including Cabinet Victor Victrola, seventy records. 1051 Middlesex street, lower hall.

FURNITURE—Second-hand and stoves of all kinds, bought and sold. Quality Furniture Co., 329 Middlesex st. Tel. 5231.

MIRRORS RESILVERED, new ones made to order. All work called for and delivered free of charge. Lowell Mirror Mfg. Co., 253 Mammoth Road. Tel. 4656-R.

SQUARE SHOE FIX—Men's rubber heels, 40c; ladies' rubber heels, 35c; men's sewed taps, rubber heels, $1.25; ladies' sewed taps, rubber heels, $1. Basement Store, 11 Merrimack st.

CLOTHING—Men's new and second-hand clothing bought and sold. Students' Clothing Store, 810 Mid'l'x st.

YOUR LAST YEAR'S STRAW HAT needs a cleaning. Try the Prescott Shine Shop, 14½ Prescott st. Straws 35c, panamas 75c.

HIGHEST PRICES paid for old gold, diamonds, etc. R. T. Mower & Sons, 7 Kearney sq.

LEATHER for shoe repairing; fresh, clean stock. Prices from 25 pound up. Stilwell, 171 Church st.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

PIANOS, special sale, low prices and easy terms at Hounsell's, 704 Bridge street, near 10th street.

LARGE OAK CABINET VICTROLA for sale. Cost $135, will sell reasonably. 59 Coburn street.

Rooms—Board

ROOMS FOR RENT 81

FURNISHED ROOM to let. Call 4515-M.

FURNISHED STEAM HEATED ROOMS to let. Electricity. Also parlor furnace for sale. 164 Merrimack st.

FRONT FURNISHED ROOM to let, in Belvidere. Gentleman preferred. Tel. 3608-R.

MISCELLANEOUS 88

GENTLEMAN PIANIST, teacher, long experienced, accredited, skilled, trustworthy, will exchange teaching services for furnished room with good family. Enquiries invited and solicited. Address P-60, Sun Office.

Real Estate For Rent

APARTMENTS—TENEMENTS 91

4-ROOM TENEMENT to let. 145 Salem street. Rent reasonable.

TWO TENEMENTS to let. Up and down stairs, six rooms each, at 33 Pleasant street. Inquire at 573 Central street.

6-ROOM FLAT to let. 481 Wilder st. Back and front piazzas. Key at 111 Westford st.

5-ROOM FLAT to let. Modern improvements. 201 Smith st.

WILL BUY PIGS. All sizes. Phone 1882-W.

5-ROOM TENEMENT to let. Gorham street. Electricity. 33 Tyler street.

Real Estate For Sale

HOUSES FOR SALE 101

7-ROOM HOUSE for sale. Near Gorham and Blossom streets. In good shape; steam heat, bath, open plumbing; three-car garage and stable. Price $1200. Call 3315-W.

BUSINESS PROPERTY

I HANDLE CITY and suburban property; also farms. Howard, 64 Central st. Rooms 24-25.

NEW STORE to let. Gas and electricity. 52 Charles st. Tel. 2697.

STORE to let; large, pleasant, good location; suitable for any line of business. Rent reasonable. 453 Lawrence st. Inquire rear 480 Lawrence st. after 6.30 evenings.

I MAKE A SPECIALTY of business chances. See me if you want to buy or sell. Howard, 64 Central street, Room 24-25.

WANTED—REAL ESTATE 103

WANTED—To hear from parties having property in Lowell and vicinity to make good proposition. G. D. Glatis, sell or exchange. If suitable will 229 Hildreth bldg., Est. 1915. Phone 6546.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

NOW REMEMBER, FRECKLES, THIS IS YOUR FIRST DAY BACK TO SCHOOL SO BE A PERFECT GENTLEMAN TO YOUR TEACHER
YEAH
AFTERNOON OF THE SAME DAY
WELL, THAT'S OVER WITH AN' I AIN'T SORRY
I SUPPOSE YOUR TEACHER WAS GLAD TO SEE YOU WHEN YOU WENT BACK TO SCHOOL THIS MORNING, WASN'T SHE, FRECKLES?
SHE SAID SHE WUZ—
BUT I DIDN'T RETURN TH' COMPLIMENT!!
(Copyright, 1924, by NEA Service, Inc.)

JOHN W. DAVIS WOULD ABOLISH RAILWAY LABOR BOARD

Favors Setting Up Of More Flexible Machinery Under Government Direction for Handling R. R. Labor Disputes in Speech at Wheeling, W. Va.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 2.—Abolition of the railroad labor board in its present form and the setting up of more flexible machinery under governmental direction for handling of railroad labor disputes was advocated yesterday by John W. Davis, the democratic presidential candidate.

Moreover, Mr. Davis, in a Labor day address to the Ohio valley trades and labor assembly subscribed to the broad principle that because of the widespread effect industrial disputes have upon commerce and industry, it is the duty of the government to lend its aid and encouragement in every possible way to their settlement.

Two Fundamentals

Mr. Davis expressed the view that in the setting up of machinery through which there could be "fair and calm discussion," of their subjects at issue with "thorough-going publicity," there were two fundamentals, first, that the boards be composed of representatives of the employers and of the particular crafts concerned—this would leave out public representation such as there now is on the railroad labor board—and, second, that such boards, instead of being fixed in their personnel should be filled by appointments made from time to time as the controversies arise.

The democratic nominee declares that whether legal machinery exists to compel the submission of labor disputes to the railroad labor board or whether its decisions could be enforced were of minor importance if the board itself enjoyed the confidence of the parties to the dispute and if it realized that its chief function was to encourage a spirit of co-operation and friendship between employer and employe.

Laugh and Applaud

Mr. Davis' statement with regard to the settlement of labor disputes came in the course of a general exposition of his views regarding labor. He announced at the outset that he did not "intend to make a political speech, but his audience alternately laughed and applauded when he make several veiled thrusts at his opponents in the presidential race.

He also was liberally applauded as he concluded with a call to the laboring men and women of America to lead their countrymen in a movement to have "America take her rightful place in the councils of humanity," and to see "that she becomes the first among the nations in the service of mankind."

"Those who counsel isolation in any part of government policy, taxes, tariff or foreign affairs," Mr. Davis said, "are blind leaders of the blind. We shall have world peace and world disarmament if we are willing to work for it, to struggle for " to risk for it. I have great sympathy with the slogan, 'America first,' but I want to make my own definition of it."

Three Great Duties

Adaption of the political and commercial policies of the nation to the new conditions in the modern world so as to make the country secure against war, was declared by the democratic nominee to be one of "the three great constructive duties before the American people" if labor is to hold the ground that it has gained in centuries of struggle. He enunciated as the others the preservation of the equality of right.

In his treatment of the last two subjects, Mr. Davis declared himself as follows:

For the strengthening of the public school system, but against the proposed federal department of education as an entry "on the fatal path of a state monopoly of education."

For ratification of the child labor amendment so that "human greed" may not again close the doors to education that has been opened.

Against any "trifling with" the natural rights of freedom of speech, freedom of the press and freedom in matters of religious belief and practice.

Against proposals to curb the power of the courts to protect the weak against unwise and unjust laws.

For the writing in plainer terms of the law against the use of injunction in labor disputes, if that be necessary to make the courts stay within the limitations already fixed by act of congress.

Not a Political Speech

At the outset of his address Mr. Davis said he would not make a political speech.

"We meet as Americans on an American holiday," he said. "We can afford for the moment to forget political parties and the issues that divide them, and speak of things concerning which all true Americans should agree."

Reviewing then briefly the struggles of labor against "the forces of human greed and avarice" to come to its present position, Mr. Davis said:

"If labor is to hold the ground that it has gained, which is another way of saying that if America is to remain American, there are three great constructive duties before the American people.

"The first is to preserve equality of opportunity and make the nation secure against any tendency to harden into a system of caste. We do not want men and women in this country to remain tied to the stations which their fathers occupied. We wish all fathers and mothers to nurse the hope that their children may lead happier and broader lives than they themselves have known.

Equality of Right

"The second duty is to so arrange and so administer our government as to preserve equality of right. Whether we are dealing with the tariff, with taxation, with finance, with the railroads, with agriculture, with industry or what subject soever, we must make sure that there is no discrimination in our laws, either for or against the farm or the factory, the countryside or the city, the east or the west. All our laws must be so framed and so applied as to leave all men every liberty which is consistent with the equal liberties of others. This was founded as the land of freedom. We must keep it so.

"And in the third place, we must make the nation secure against war or the threat of war by adapting our political and commercial policies to the new conditions that exist in the modern world.

"Equality of opportunity, however, is an empty phrase unless all men are left free to grasp it. Not only must laws be just and equal, but we must see that they do not evade those natural rights which neither congresses nor legislatures, presidents nor governors, courts nor commissions, may rightfully restrict.

"Freedom of speech—which means the right to say things that displease as well as the things that please those in power; freedom of assembly, freedom of labor, freedom of the press, freedom in matters of religious belief and practice—these are rights too sacred to be trifled with. There is no danger in their exercise. It is the attempt at their suppression that leads to excess or explosion.

A "Red" Around Every Corner

"I do not envy the frame of mind which causes some men to charge all who disagree with them with plotting the destruction of the republic. To judge from some recent utterances there are those in this country who see a conspiracy whenever three workmen meet together, a riot when their number grow to 10, and a revolution if it reaches 100. Around every corner lurks a 'Red,' and nothing but the utmost vigilance of these self-appointed saviors will rescue the country from the destruction he is plotting.

"Of course, in a country so diversified as ours, many mistaken ideas are set afloat. Wild theories of government and of society are thrown up in a population that contains so many sorts of men. But I am one of those who continue to believe that the best disinfectant, moral or physical, is fresh air.

"The best defense against the tyranny of the few, or the despotism of the many, is free and open debate. I prefer liberty with all its perils, including the liberty to make mistakes, to any system by which the government seeks to set itself up as the universal shepherd of us all.

Right of Free Contract

"Not the least of these natural rights is the right of free contract. Towards grown men and women, responsible citizens of the republic, we cannot and we should not take a paternalistic and protective attitude.

"If government can fix the limit of a day's work in ordinary industrial and commercial pursuits, it can, at its own discretion, make those limits long or short. It should attempt to do neither, but leave the parties to all such contracts to bargain with each other as their mutual benefit requires. The wage contract of the adult, no less than any other contract, should be a voluntary agreement. Anything other than this I believe to be impossible, undesirable, corrupting and tyrannical. It is only when contracts rest upon consent that those who make them are bound in morals to their observance. When labor bargains on equal terms with its employer, both parties to the contract owe it to themselves and owe it to society to keep and perform with scrupulous honesty the contracts they have made.

Settlement of Disputes

"While I believe employer and employe should be left to bargain with each other in such manner as they see fit, it must not be forgotten that violent disputes between them are not only the source of great loss to both, but are disastrous to the industry and commerce of the country. In view of these facts, it is the duty of the government to lend its aid and encouragement in every way possible to settle such disputes. It should provide machinery through which there may be fair and calm discussion of the subject of dispute by both employer and employe; mediation if necessary by nonprejudiced persons and thorough-going publicity of all the facts.

"Two things seem to me to be fundamental in setting up such machinery. Of these the first is that the adjustment board when created should consist of representatives of the employers on the one hand, and representatives of the particular craft concerned in the controversy on the other. The second is that it is better in every way that boards of adjustment or boards of investigation and review, instead of being fixed in their personnel, should be filled by appointments made from time to time as controversies arise.

Deal With Human Nature

"Nothing is more difficult, as recent experience has taught us, than for a permanent board to retain the confidence of employer and employe. Each decision it is called upon to make exposes it to the charge of having unduly favored one side or the other and is pointed to as a precedent when subsequent decisions are to be made. Human nature is quick to charge other men with preconceived opinions—and labor disputes deal not with fixed rules of law; they deal with human nature.

"Whether or not legal authority exists to compel the submission of labor disputes to such a board, or whether or not the decision of any such board may be enforced, is of minor consequence, if the board itself enjoys the confidence of the parties to the disputes, and if it realizes that its chief function is to encourage a spirit of co-operation and friendship between employer and employes.

"It is in the light of those principles and of our accumulated experience that we should rewrite these provisions of the Esch-Cummins Transportation act that deal with the settlement of labor disputes."

Abuse of Injunctions

"It is because I believe in a liberty that is above and beyond all governmental control that I cannot sympathize with those who would give to congresses and legislatures, or even to a popular majority, the power to do whatever they might see fit. There is no such thing in America as government at discretion. It is not the strong who need protection against unwise and unjust laws, nor against the encroachments of power; it is the weak on whom the burden of such things is most apt to fall.

"They have the right to call upon the courts to say to every governmental autocrat, great or small, 'thus far shalt thou go and no further.' I know judges are human and that they make many mistakes, men do not cease to be men simply because you put them in a black silk gown and set them in a judicial chair, but on the other hand they do not become prophets or peers or sages simply by being elected senators or members of congress or delegates to the state legislature.

"There is one complaint, however, which labor has had cause to make against judicial process which is well founded. In my judgment there have been many cases in the past where the writ of injunction has been abused in connection with labor disputes. Injunctions have been issued which by their terms went beyond any proper limit and sought to deprive men of a lawful exercise of indisputable rights. . It is not well for society, it is not well for the courts, it is not well for the parties themselves, that these things should be so.

"When I was your representative in congress I was given opportunity to take part in framing and defending legislation intended to correct these evils. . . . If the legislation already passed is not sufficient guidance in this matter we must write it in plainer terms."

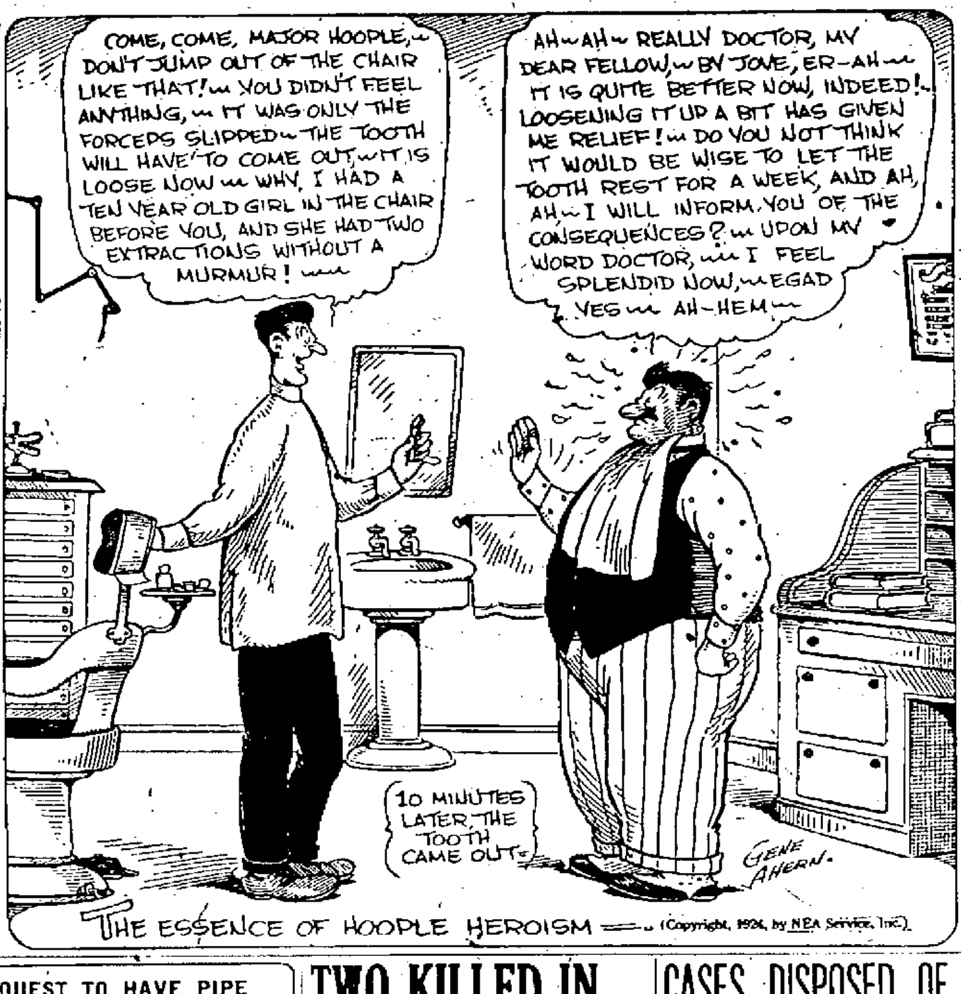
Conference at Chicago

ABOARD THE DAVIS SPECIAL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO CHICAGO, Mount Vernon, Ohio, Sept. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—Having declared in his Labor day address for a new deal in the handling of industrial disputes and for the ratification of the child labor amendment, John W. Davis came into the west today to state more fully his position with respect to farm relief, the tariff, conservation and other issues.

Beyond the trip to Denver and the return journey through Missouri, the itinerary for the western campaign still is undetermined. It will be considered further at conferences in Chicago today between Mr. Davis and his advisers.

Mr. Davis had the most strenuous day yesterday of any of his campaign. Besides his set address at Wheeling, W. Va., he made about a dozen rear platform talks.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE



COME, COME, MAJOR HOOPLE,— DON'T JUMP OUT OF THE CHAIR LIKE THAT!— YOU DIDN'T FEEL ANYTHING,— IT WAS ONLY THE FORCEPS SLIPPED— THE TOOTH WILL HAVE TO COME OUT,— IT IS LOOSE NOW — WHY, I HAD A TEN YEAR OLD GIRL IN THE CHAIR BEFORE YOU, AND SHE HAD TWO EXTRACTIONS WITHOUT A MURMUR! —
AH—AH— REALLY DOCTOR, MY DEAR FELLOW,— BY JOVE, ER-AH— IT IS QUITE BETTER NOW, INDEED!— LOOSENING IT UP A BIT HAS GIVEN ME RELIEF!— DO YOU NOT THINK IT WOULD BE WISE TO LET THE TOOTH REST FOR A WEEK, AND AH, AH— I WILL INFORM YOU OF THE CONSEQUENCES?— UPON MY WORD DOCTOR,— I FEEL SPLENDID NOW,— EGAD YES— AH-HEM—
10 MINUTES LATER, THE TOOTH CAME OUT—
GENE AHERN.

THE ESSENCE OF HOOPLE HEROISM —— (Copyright, 1924, by NEA Service, Inc.)

REQUEST TO HAVE PIPE AND TOBACCO BURIED WITH HIM GRANTED

KULMBACH, Bohemia, Sept. 2.—Old Werner Bauer, farmer of Ebersbach, near here, enjoyed smoking so much that in his will he requested that his pipe and tobacco pouch be buried with him. When he died the other day his wife honored his wishes and of her own accord added a box of matches.

TWO KILLED IN HAVERHILL FIRE

State Police Join in Investigation to Determine Cause of Explosion

12-Tenement House Destroyed—Two Killed, Five Firemen Gassed

HAVERHILL, Sept. 2.—State police, aided by local inspectors, today began an investigation to determine the cause of the explosion which practically destroyed the 12-tenement building at 210-218 Washington street early yesterday morning, causing the death of Frank Erenzo and Tony Trucel, gassing five firemen, injuring two others and driving 40 men, women and children to the streets. Both state and local officials discredit the theory that gas or still explosions are responsible.

The crater of Katmai volcano, which is now a part of the United States national monument, has a circumference of 8.14 miles.

Rust spots on metal should be rubbed with a cork that has been dipped in paraffin.

CASES DISPOSED OF IN THE DISTRICT COURT

James Leoren of Westford, who was arrested in the square by Patrolman Owen Conway and Traffic Officer Paul Spillane while attempting to ride a horse through heavy traffic, was arraigned in district court this morning on a charge of drunkenness. He said he had just purchased the animal and was proceeding to Westford when interrupted. The case was filed.

Three Nova Scotian youths, apprehended in a railroad box car by Sergt. Howard Simonds and Officer Thomas G. Graves of the Boston & Maine railroad while stealing a ride through this city last night, were given suspended sentences of one month each in the house of correction.

As the result of a liquor raid by Officers Aldrich and Killoy in the tenement of Peter Alliferakis in Adams street yesterday, the latter was arraigned in court this morning on a charge of illegal keeping. He pleaded not guilty and the case was continued to Sept. 13. The raid netted 25 half-pints of liquor and 150 pints of alcohol "split."

Stanley Konieczny of Dracut, charged with receiving the stolen automobile of Robert C. Bryan of Chelmsford, was continued to Sept. 12.

A statutory offense, preferred against William J. Cates was continued to Friday, defendant being placed under $1500 bonds.

Most auto fires are due to short circuits and back firing.

OVER 10,000 PEOPLE ATTEND LABOR DAY EXERCISES ON COMMON

Events Arranged by Trades and Labor Council Are Thoroughly Enjoyed—Baseball Game, Band Concert and Track Meet in the Afternoon—Evening Program

In keeping with a country-wide custom dating back a number of years, Lowell yesterday observed the first Monday in September—and an unusually hot one at that—as Labor day, the one holiday of the year dedicated solely to the interests of that vast army of toilers who keep in motion the wheels of busy industrial life.

Paradoxical as it may seem, labor had a capital day. That is, the day was generally observed with a cessation of business in the workshops and factories where labor plays the title role in the continuous performance of work. It was, in short, labor's day off and all hands joined in to make it a memorable occasion.

Lowell's program, arranged and supervised under the direction of the local Trades and Labor council, was carried out in detail on the South common, beginning with a baseball game at 1 o'clock and concluding with an open-air meeting and band concert in the evening. To vary the day's events, a track and field meet followed the ball game.

A crowd of more than 10,000 people were assembled about the South common bandstand when Aitken's military band heralded the beginning of the evening program. The principal speakers, Rev. Jones I. Corrigan, S.J., of Boston college, Rev. Robert A. Bakeman of Peabody, and the mayor arrived shortly before 8 o'clock, having previously been the guests of the Trades and Labor committee at dinner in Marie's restaurant.

James D. Breen, president of the Trades and Labor council, presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers, first the mayor, who extended a note of welcome, and then Rev. Fr. Corrigan, who predicted that "the future of labor in this country is brighter than in any country on the globe, and the American worker will come into his own in the very short, near future."

"We are gathered here to celebrate labor's day," he said, "that day dedicated throughout the length and breadth of the land to the twenty-five millions of actual workers and the fifty or sixty thousand others dependent upon them for support. It is America's Labor day.

"The worker's labor is the only means by which he can support his wife and children and give them a better opportunity than he himself had. Work is the expression of manhood, and the true dignity of labor, then, comes, from this fact. It is not recognized here as it should be, because labor is not paid as it has a right to be. There is a concentration of wealth here that is even greater than in Great Britain, and it seems to be the recognized thing in this country that industry is for profit and wealth and not for the worker. The true idea is that industry is for all people, for the upbuilding of a nation, and no nation can be prosperous unless wealth is equitably distributed. It is a fact that the dignity of labor, based upon manhood, has not been recognized.

"Labor's three great complaints against industry as organized today are as follows: First—It makes a man insecure. He is not sure of his job from one week to another. His job is not his. Second—Insufficiency of pay for work performed. Two-thirds of the fathers of families in this country do not get a living wage, and they will never be content unless they do. And they shouldn't be content until they get enough to support a wife and family when a fair day's work is done. It is man's God-given right that he get a living wage. Third—Inhumanity of treatment. No man should be obliged to work more than eight hours a day, or seven days a week. It is against God's law, which says there shall be one day of rest at least.

"What then are labor's claims? A living and a savin wage, decent hours and human conditions, eternal rights, and labor has it in its hands to get them.

"The day of labor, belive me has come at last in this country. In one, two or three years, there will be tremendous changes come to pass. And so I say to labor, push on. Stand for the right and work for it according to prudent methods. You don't need the red flag of radicalism to accomplish the end."

Rev. Mr. Bekeman

The third speaker to be introduced was Rev. Robert A. Bakeman of Peabody, probation officer of that city and one of its mayoralty candidates.

"I am not primarily a friend of labor," he began, "but rather an enemy of tyrants and a friend of justice. Why is Labor day? Is it an opportunity for politicians to give you the pre-election hand, or is it a day that says labor is fundamentally dignified?

"My friends, I tell you it is the latter, and to get out here, and talk shows that labor is becoming more conscious of its dignity. Think, talk and act, that's what we're doing; acting politically and acting industrially. We are under the universal law today of cause and effect. Carpenters, weavers, etc. distinguish themselves from others because they have learned their respective trades skilfully.

"Man is not a mere machine. He is here, because he is made in the image of God. The first charge of labor, therefore, is the well-being of the employe. The second charge is an equality of opportunity to education, and in this respect, I favor a state university that will allow children to go as far as their talents will allow. Thirdly, demand a share in management. Be a partner in industry, its production and prosperity."

At the conclusion of Mr. Bakemen's talk, the Honey Boy quartet entertained with a series of favorite selections, accompanied by the band.

The Trades and Labor committee in charge of the meeting consisted of the following officers: President, James D. Breen; vice president, Michael McGoohan; secretary, Parker F. Murphy; assistant secretary, Mrs. Rachael Campbell; financial secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Annie Reagan. Trustees, Patrick Fell, Frank Horn and Thomas Crowe. Sergeant-at-arms, Daniel Moynihan.

SUN BREVITIES

Watson Bros., Printers, 243 Dutton st.

Rebuilt batteries, $10. Postoffice Gar.

Catering, the best. Lydon, Tel. 4934.

Tailors' trimmings and dressmakers' supplies. Bertrand, 24 Middle street.

Fat Cameron's Ice Cream—Callahan and O'Malley, props. Tel. 6487-6488.

Fire and liability insurance. Daniel J. O'Brien. Wyman's Exchange.

J. F. Donohoe, 222-223. Hildreth bldg., real estate and insurance. Tel.

Miss Mary Clancy of 560 Broadway is spending the holidays at Newfound Lake, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Bernier have returned after enjoying a pleasant trip to New Hampshire.

A regular meeting of the city council will be held this evening in city hall at 7.15 o'clock.

The budget and audit commission will meet tomorrow morning at 11.30 o'clock in the city auditor's office to approve weekly payrolls.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan D. Parker of this city announce the birth of a son, Allan D. Jr., in Boston early yesterday morning.

Dr. and Mrs. A. S. McLeod of 134 Westford street have returned from a pleasant trip to the Maritime Provinces.

Special State Police Officer William H. Shields and daughter Gladys have returned from a two weeks' vacation in Sherbrooke, P. Q.

Mr. and Mrs. David Parthenais and daughter Crescence of 30 Phillips street have returned home after an enjoyable vacation spent at Hampton beach.

Mrs. Virginia Blanchard of Woonsocket, R. I., has returned home after spending the holidays with her sister, Mrs. Thomas Rainville of 653 Broadway.

Mrs. J. K. Farnum of 59 Westford street has returned after an enjoyable auto trip through Vermont, New York and Canada.

In the Quarter Century column in Saturday's paper, Francis O'Hare, agent of the board of health, was listed among those who were married 25 years ago. It was a different Francis, however, whose name is not now in the directory.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Knight of 185 Grand street with Miss Winnifred Whelan and Miss Grace Meade are enjoying a motor trip through New York and New Jersey.

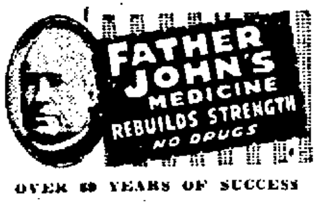
Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Le Riche of 26 Robinson street and family are spending their vacation in Montreal, Canada.

Helen G. McQuesten has spent two and one-half weeks with her grandmother, Mrs. John McQuestion, at Middletown, R. I.

Thomas Edison's diet consists of spinach, tomatoes, carrots, sardines and milk three times daily.

EXCURSIONS TO REVERE BEACH
SUNDAYS, TUESDAYS AND THURSDAYS
Round Trip $1.00
Cars leave John St. at 9.15 a. m.
Return leave Beach at 7.00 p. m.
EASTERN MASS. ST. RY. CO.

EXCURSIONS TO SALEM WILLOWS
Round Trip $1.25
Via regular cars between Lowell and Lawrence connecting with Special Through Cars at Lawrence.
SUNDAYS—Leave Paige St.—9.00 a. m. Return from Willows—7.00 p. m.
WEDNESDAYS—Leave Paige St.—12.00 noon. Return from Willows 9.00 p. m.
SATURDAYS—Leave Paige St.—1.00 p. m. Return from Willows—9.00 p. m.
EASTERN MASS. ST. RY. CO.



OVER 60 YEARS OF SUCCESS

WEDNESDAY SPECIALS
STORE OPEN ALL DAY
—OUR LOW RENT LOWERS THE PRICE—
VEIN STEAK 25c lb. Good Quality
RIB PORK CHOPS 18c to 22c lb.
Squire's Cooked CORNED BEEF 22c lb.
Fresh Cut HAMBURG 9c lb. 3 lbs. 25c
Sugar Buy now before another advance. Limited with other goods. 5 lbs. 37c
ROASTING PORK 17c to 19c lb.
BONELESS POT ROASTS 13c to 16c lb.
Red, Meaty SPARE RIBS 11c lb.
CORNED THICK ENDS CABBAGE FREE 15c Lb.
EGGS 3 doz. $1 Good Western
Large Pkg. RINSO 19c Reg. price 23c
Bradt's Common CRACKERS 11c lb. Reg. price 13c
PAN BISCUITS 6c Pan Reg. price 8c
J&M BRAND PRIZE FLOUR WEDNESDAY SPECIAL SAVE 10c PER BAG $1.14 (Milled from Old Wheat)
Fresh Dug POTATOES, 10 lbs. 19c
SUPPER SALE—4 TO 6 ONLY
Fresh Churned BUTTER 38c lb.
Good Old CHEESE 19c lb.
Fresh Made TOMATO or BLOOD SAUSAGE, lb. 15c
SAUNDERS PUBLIC MARKET
Wholesale and Retail
Call 6600 161 GORHAM STREET Free Delivery

Commodore CHECK DANCING
TONIGHT—Battle of Music
"MAL" HALLETT VS. MINER-DOYLE'S ORCH.
GIFT NIGHT 100 Powder Compacts to the Ladies
Admission 10¢——Latest Dance Music

MID-WEEK SOCIAL
COMMODORE BALLROOM
WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 3
Leo Daly's Orchestra —— Admission 30¢

MERRIMACK PARK —— TONIGHT
OLD TIMERS' NIGHT—Every Other Dance a Waltz

LAKEVIEW TONIGHT Ukulele Night
Check Dancing
Ukuleles Free to Lucky Winners
BRODERICK'S ENTERTAINERS

THE LOWELL SUN

7 O'CLOCK

TABLISHED 1878 LOWELL MASS. TUESDAY SEPTEMBER 2 1924 14 PAGES TWO CENTS

uperior Criminal Court Opens Here

UPERIOR COURT OPENS HERE FOR TRIAL OF CRIMINAL CASES

dge Irwin on the Bench—Invocation Pronounced by Rev. John T. Ullom—Arson Case First on Trial List —Court Will Adjourn to Cambridge Tomorrow written confession, alleged to been made by John Tsaffaras, ged with arson in connection with ttempted burning of a building in street early on the morning of ch 6, 1924, will be presented as ence by the government in the of the case which began today at opening session of the fall term e superior criminal court in this trial with Tsaffaras is Peter J. embis, owner of the Race street erty, who is charged with being ccessory before the fact and ng enticed and hired Tsaffaras to the building in order that he t collect insurance to the amount 000.

e case is the only one to be tried before Judge Richard T. Irwin the court adjourns to Cambridge rrow morning for the balance of term.

urt was opened today by Sheriff R. Fairbairn, with invocation by John T. Ullom, pastor of the Mat-s Memorial P. M. church.

e Tsaffaras-Courembis case began ly before noon with the empan- of a jury. Thirteen witnesses sworn in for the government and tant District Attorney Bushnell ned the case. He told of the ar- of Tsaffaras after he had been running away from the Race

Continued to Page Twelve

SHERIFF JOHN R. FAIRBAIRN

D IN $1000 EACH

ell Man and Eight Others rraigned in Connection ith Seizure

TON, Sept. 2.—Arraigned on es growing out of the seizure last of about 50 tons of liquor-making s, and ingredients, nine men held in $1000 bail each by United Commissioner Evans today for ring Oct. 2.

raids of last week were made in the Green River Malt com- in this city, Lawrence, Haverhill, ster and Lowell. The prisoners ged with the sale and possession les intended for use in the man- e of liquor, were Henry, Louis Charles I. Bloom and Jacob Wil- Edward Blank of Lowell, Carr of Haverhill, Benjamin Lawrence, Joseph M. Baum of William Teeman of Beach- And the men were employed e Green River Malt Co.

N. LABOR HEAD GES NEUTRALITY

TFORD, Conn., Sept. 2.—Ad- continuance of the policy of re- to enter into any partisan po- action, Patrick F. O'Meara, t of the Connecticut Federa- Labor, submitted his annual to the 39th annual convention of eration here today. Chief in- in the sessions of the conven- which opened today, centered in pected contest over an attempt the state federation's sanction national executive council in the candidacy of Senator M. La Follette and Senator K. Wheeler.

Wheeler, who is scheduled in the state this week, might ked to address the state federa- it was predicted.

MISSIONS OF LEAGUE SEMBLY NAMED

VA, Sept. 2.—(By the Associ- —President Motta opened day of the League of Na- sembly today at the stroke of announcing the formation of commissions of the assembly.

l and constitutional ques- nical organization; reduc- armaments; budgetary and fi- questions; social and general political questions.

Minister Duca of Rumania president of the most im- commission—that which will all problems relating to the re- of armaments, including the mutual assistance.

FOREST RESOURCES

ORO, N. H., Sept. 2.—The of this country's forest demands that present agen- their protection be quadrupled, Dana, director of the North- Forest Experiment station de- at the annual conference ciety for the Protection of Forests.

BOYER DIED A HERO

Speed King Sacrificed Himself to Save Crowd Massed in Infield

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 2.—Joe Boyer, speed king of the automobile world, went to his death on the Altoona speedway yesterday a hero, it became known today when the last words of the pilot were disclosed by the doctors who amputated his crushed legs.

Examination of the wrecked racing machine showed that a blowout caused the accident, and veteran racing men said it was a little short of miraculous that the car, speeding at 125 miles an hour, did not run down the bowl and crash into the hundreds of spectators massed in the infield. This speculation, brought out the true story—the fact that Boyer sacrificed himself to save others.

"I'm glad I saved them," the driver told those who carried him into the hospital. He was fully conscious and nodded his head as friends told the story of how Joe was pinned in his wrecked machine as it hung from the upper guard rail of the track.

The body will be shipped to his home at Detroit late today.

LOEB AND LEOPOLD NOT "AT HOME" TO WRITERS

CHICAGO, Sept. 2—"Dick" Loeb and "Babe" Leopold stood on their constitutional rights long enough yesterday to announce that henceforth they would not "be at home" to representatives of out-of-town newspapers or magazine writers.

Whereupon Warden Wesley Westbrook denied to all newspapermen and women, Chicago ones excepted, hospitality of tier No. 6, Cook county jail, where are located the cells of the two prisoners.

Their inability to check up on stories appearing in out-of-town publications was declared to be responsible for their ultimatum. As a consequence of the warden's ruling the two confessed slayers of "Bobbie" Franks spent the quietest day of their three months' imprisonment.

U. S. WORLD FLIERS LEAVE LABRADOR

ON BOARD U. S. S. RICHMOND, Sept. 2.—(By The Associated Press)—United States army planes on the world flight hopped off from Ice Tickle, Labrador, at 10.25 o'clock, eastern standard time this morning.

PRIMARIES IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 2.—A heavier vote in the state-wide primary held today to nominate candidates for United States senator, congressmen, governor, the state legislature, and other minor state offices, than was cast two years ago, was indicated this afternoon. In Concord the voting was heavier than two years ago but was still considered light. Rural towns reported an average turnout. The chief contest was between the two republican candidates for the governor nomination.

ISLAND LAID WASTE BY STORMS

NGTON, Sept. 2.—The island of St. John, in the Virgin was practically laid waste by the second hurricane within four days, according to a despatch today to the navy de- So far five deaths have been reported at St. John, but there minor casualties.

Warlords in Chinese Provinces Raise Armies Large Enough to Last Through Long Campaign

McCOY FACES EIGHT CHARGES

Alleged Slayer of Mrs. Mors to Appear in Superior Court at Los Angeles Today

To Plead to Murder Charge, Four Charges of Robbery and Three of Assault

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Kid McCoy, alleged slayer of Mrs. Theresa Mors, was to appear in superior court today to plead to a murder charge and four charges of robbery and three of assault with intent to murder, growing out of the death of Mrs. Mors, Aug. 12, and a shooting affray in and near her antique shop the next day.

The former pugilist's pleas have been twice postponed on technical grounds, but Dist. Atty. Keyes was confident that there would be no further postponement today. Keyes was prepared to follow McCoy's expected pleas of "not guilty" on all counts of the indictments with a determined effort to have him brought to trial on the murder charge before Oct. 1.

KID M'COY PLEADS NOT GUILTY—TRIAL SEPT. 20

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Kid McCoy today pleaded not guilty to one charge of murder, three of assault, with intent to commit murder and four of robbery. The murder trial was set for Oct. 20.

SEAPLANES OPERATE WITH RUM RUNNERS

SEATTLE, Washn., Sept. 2.—Radio-equipped seaplanes, carrying observers, are operating with a Puget sound liquor running fleet, says a special despatch received by the Seattle Post-Intelligencer from its correspondent at Secret Harbor, Cypress Island, San Juan county.

The correspondent stated that use of seaplanes is to keep members of the fleet in Puget sound informed of the approach of government speed boat rum chasers as vessels of the liquor fleet are "also equipped with wireless sets."

PRES. COOLIDGE SENDS MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—President Coolidge today sent a message to the governor of the Virgin islands expressing his sympathy at the loss of life in the hurricane.

"Am deeply distressed," the message said, "to hear of the tragedy that has befallen the people of the Virgin islands. Will you convey to them my sincere sympathy, particularly to the bereaved relatives of those who have been killed."

MAKE YOUR NEXT VACATION
BIGGER, BETTER
AND EASIER
JOIN THE VACATION CLUB
NOW FORMING
LOWELL INSTITUTION
FOR SAVINGS
18 SHATTUCK ST., Lowell, Mass.

NO CURE
NO PAY
DOWS DIARRHOEA AND CHOLERA SYRUP
ALL DRUGGISTS 30c and 50c

Dr. Jas. F. Loughran
Is now at his old office,
FISKE BUILDING,
219 Central St.

JUROR WAS NOT CITIZEN OF THE UNITED STATES

Nils D. Gustafson of Arlington, one of 40 traverse jurors called this morning at the opening of the fall session of the superior criminal court in this city, was found not to be a citizen of the country, in fact, had only made application for his first papers. He was excused without delay, the court expressing some surprise and considerable wonderment as to how his name had been placed upon the jury list in Arlington. It was the first case of its exact nature within the memory of the oldest court officers present.

TWO WOMEN HELD IN SHOOTING

Unidentified Man Shot to Death Early Today at W. Philadelphia House

Mrs. Helen Mayhew, Former Actress and Hazel Benson Held for Homicide

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—An unidentified man was shot and killed early today on the porch of a West Philadelphia house occupied by Mrs. Helen Mayhew, 46, and Hazel Benson, 30. Both women were arrested and held on a homicide charge.

Mrs. Mayhew is said to have admitted to police she had threatened the man and three companions with a pistol when they attempted to force their way into the house. According to detectives she is said to have stated she "didn't intend to shoot the man." Mrs. Mayhew was once an actress. She declared she did not know the slain man. The initials "J.D.R." were found on the back of an old fashioned watch in his pocket.

NOT REPRESENTATIVE OF GAS COMPANY

Masquerading as a representative of the Lowell Gas Light company and purporting to sell some of that company's goods, a middle-aged man was questioned by police officials this morning and given to understand that he must cease operating in this manner. He was complained of by a Howard street woman, who alleged that he offered to give her crockery-ware if she would purchase a flat-iron.

There isn't any need of people being deceived by bogus agents so far as the Lowell Gas Light company is concerned, as their employes not only have identification cards with their photos but also wear badges. This information relative to cards and badges has been given out by the Gas company on several occasions.

Auto license fees paid during the first six months of 1924 amounted to $195,821,622.

Jackson
FOR GOVERNOR
Meeting in LIBERTY HALL
TUESDAY, SEPT. 2
At 8.15 p. m.
Speakers:
Hon. James Jackson
Gen. Clarence R. Edwards
John L. Hurley, Esq.
U. S. Cartridge Co. Band
Admission Free All Welcome
CHARLES A. STEVENS,
Adv. 377 Wilder St.

FARNUM'S
HOME BAKERY
59 Westford Street
REOPENED

WHOLESALE CONSCRIPTION

Shanghai Cut Off—Reports Major Military Conflict Has Begun

Every Man Able to Carry Gun Called — Houses Seized by Troops

SHANGHAI, Sept. 2.—(By The Associated Press)—Shanghai has been cut off from railway and telegraph communication with the inland since morning, but it is impossible to confirm numerous reports that a major military conflict has begun.

The Blue express train for Peking left at midnight last night and is known to have arrived at Quinsan but whether it proceeded northward is not known. The Nanking express due here at 7 o'clock this morning, has not been heard from.

Railway officials are without authentic information, but express a belief that no fighting had occurred up to noon.

One train was started out this morning to go as far as Nansing to transport to Shanghi about a thousand refugees who had gathered there.

It is believed that the telegraph lines have been cut by the forces of Lu Yung Hsiang in Chekiang province to prevent the dispatching of trains which it is reported, the northern forces have been seizing and converting into troop carriers.

Wholesale Conscription

SHANGHAI, Sept. 2.—(By The Associated Press)—The hostilities in

Continued to Page Three

SECRECY MARKS WITHDRAWAL OF TROOPS

PARIS, Sept. 2 (By the Associated Press)—The date for the evacuation of Dortmund and the surrounding territory to the river Lippe has not yet been definitely fixed, but one thing has been settled, namely, that the withdrawal of the troops will be conducted with the greatest secrecy. The citizens of Dortmund, it is forecast, will awake some morning to find the French troops gone. The order, it is stated, will be given after sunset and the operation conducted during the night. This method of evacuation has been adopted, it is explained, in order to ward off any possible incident by the exuberant citizens expressing relief by words or acts which might develop into an insult to the French flag or army. The withdrawal, however, is still some weeks away, it is declared, as the French customs officers on the eastern frontier of the occupied territory are not due to leave, according to the London pact, until September 20, and the troops will remain there until all the French civilian occupants have left.

LAWRENCE MAN ENDS LIFE

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 2—George Ouellette, 40, a local saloon keeper, committed suicide early this afternoon by jumping from the central bridge into the North canal. The body was recovered.

YOUR FAILURES
Are usually due to lack of knowledge. Before investing ask your Bank about the investment.
This Bank is always willing to give you any information it may have.
May we help you?
MERRIMACK RIVER
SAVINGS BANK
228 Central Street

FEAR B. & M. SECTION FOREMAN WAS DROWNED IN RIVER

George L. Dickey Started Out in Rowboat Yesterday Forenoon and Disappeared—Capsized Boat Found in Stream Near Boulevard Shore

The discovery of a capsized rowboat in which George L. Dickey of 31 Cascade avenue, a section foreman in the Boston & Maine railroad yards, Middlesex village, was last seen alive, his failure to reach his designation or to return to his home since he started to cross the Merrimack river in a water-soaked craft about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, have caused his relatives and the police to conclude that he was drowned when the boat overturned in the stream. It was found 100 yards from the Pawtucket boulevard shore.

The mysterious disappearance of the man was reported to the police this morning and Patrolman John L. Huse was detailed to investigate. He learned that Mr. Dickey requested Joseph P. Mason of 1575 Middlesex street, to accompany him across the river yesterday morning. The two went to the water's edge near the Middlesex village railroad station, where two rowboats were anchored. One of them was well-filled with water but Dickey volunteered to row it across the stream if Mason would follow in the second boat. The missing man said he wished to visit a friend on the other side of the river.

Rain began to fall before the two men had proceeded far, and Dickey became obscured in the fog. Mason felt that he reached the opposite shore safely, however, and returned to his home. It was not until this morning that Dickey's relatives became anxious concerning his whereabouts, as he had not appeared at the home of the friends he had set out to visit. Neither had he returned to his home.

The finding of the upturned boat this morning added to the theory that he had been drowned and the police were notified. Volunteers were dragging the river this afternoon.

PAYMENT BY GERMANY

Initial Installment of 20,000,000 Gold Marks Under the Dawes Plan

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Germany today made her initial payment of 20,000,000 gold marks under the Dawes plan. The payment was received here by Leon Frazier, assistant to Owen D. Young, agent-general ad interim for reparations payments.

BOSTON MAN ADDRESSES LOCAL LIONS' CLUB

The weekly dinner and meeting of the Lowell Lions club was held this noon at the Y.M.C.A. building. Dr. G. Forrest Martin presided.

King Martin announced that he had received an answer to his invitation to Melvin Jones of Chicago, International Secretary of the Lions, to meet and address the Lowell Lions club. Mr. Jones said in his letter to the Lowell club king that he would be in New York on business about the sixth of September and would make a special trip to Lowell to meet the local Lions.

Mr. John S. Caldwell of the New England Insurance Exchange of Boston was the speaker and guest of honor. Mr. Caldwell explained in detail the manners and methods by which the insurance rates are fixed throughout the state. Mr. Caldwell served on a committee appointed by the Lowell city government to investigate the fire conditions in Lowell about a year ago.

Mr. Caldwell urged the necessity of a new fire alarm system to replace the present system which is entirely inadequate. He also advised that the Lions co-operate with other societies and assist city officials to remove risks and to lift Lowell, which taken as a whole is in the middle of class B and to move it into class A. Only such an action will tend to lower existing insurance rates.

King Lion Martin announced that Captain Knight of the United States air service now stationed at Squantum will address the next meeting. Captain Knight is in charge of preparations for the welcome of the army fliers now completing their around the world trip.

The Lowell Lions club unanimously indorsed the "National Defense Day" that has been set for Sept. 12.

BROADWAY FIRE CASE GIVEN TO GRAND JURY

The Middlesex county grand jury in session here today was presented facts in the alleged arson case resulting from a threatening fire in a grocery and fruit store at 179 Broadway early in the morning of July 23. State officers conducted an inquest at Lowell fire headquarters two weeks ago and the state fire marshal after reviewing the case decided to give it to the grand jury.

The jury will adjourn to East Cambridge tomorrow morning and after further deliberations on other cases will report findings on Friday. The murder charge against Dr. Raymond L. Thierry of Somerville is among the cases to be considered.

The jury was sworn in before Judge Richard T. Irwin this forenoon and then went into session in the civil court room, with the government being represented by Assistant District Attorney Bishop.

N. Y. AND BOSTON CLEARINGS

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Exchanges $598,000,000; balances $83,000,000.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Exchanges, $51,000,000. Balances, $23,000,000.

For State Treasurer
NOMINATE
KEITH of BROCKTON
Ex-Mayor Roger Keith, 65 South St., Brockton.

TO WITHDRAW STATE TROOPS

Guardsmen on Duty at Herrin, Ills., Prepare to Return to Springfield

Called Following Clash Between Klansmen and Deputies—Six Men Killed

HERRIN, Ills., Sept. 2.—(By the Associated Press) State troops on duty here since Saturday, when six men were killed in a clash between members of the Ku Klux Klan and the county sheriff and his deputies, prepared early today to return to Springfield.

Seventeen troopers, under command of Captain H. M. Bigelow, were under orders to remain in Herrin until released by Sheriff George Galligan.

Today, Dr. J. T. Black, superintendent of the Herrin hospital, and John Craig, held under $10,000 bond in connection with the slayings Saturday were to be arraigned in the Herrin city court on murder charges before Judge E. N. Bowen, against whom a murder warrant also has been issued.

Included in yesterday's developments was a statement issued by the Ministers' association of Williamson county, in which the state's attorney and sheriff were classed as incompetents and their removal from office suggested as the remedy for a situation that has long harassed the townspeople of Herrin and cost the lives of many men and the money of the state.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Driver of Car in Which Man Was Killed Arraigned Here Today

John Sinkevitch of 7 South street, Nashua, was arraigned in district court this morning on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Ezra Avard, of South Main street, Nashua, after an automobile accident in Mammoth road late Saturday evening. The case was continued pending the inquest report and Sinkevitch bailed in $2000.

The accident resulting in Avard's death also resulted in injuries to four other occupants of the machine. The

Continued to Page Three

MEMBER
FEDERAL RESERVE
SYSTEM
SAVINGS DEPOSITS MADE TODAY
DRAW
INTEREST
FROM SEPT. 1
Middlesex
National Bank
Under Supervision of the United States Government.
Merrimack cor. Palmer

MATRIMONIAL

Cullen-Flynn

A pretty September wedding and one which was of interest to many local and out of town folk was solemnized this morning at a nuptial mass celebrated at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock when Miss Alice Flynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Flynn of 86 School street and Mr. John Cullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cullen, were united in the bonds of matrimony by Rev. John J. McGarry, D.C.L. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion, the altars being arranged with a profusion of gladioli interspersed with lighted candles, which combination made a fitting and pleasing background. The bride wore a handsome gown of white crepe Romaine trimmed with point applique lace. Her veil was of point lace caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of white rosebuds and lilies of the valley. Miss Ruth Murphy, a classmate of the bride, Lowell State Normal school, class of '17, wore honeydew georgette crepe with hat to match and carried tea rosebuds. Mr. William J. Cullen, brother of the bridegroom acted as best man. During the mass Miss Frances Tighe sang "Ave Maria" and "O Salutaris" while Mr. Joseph D. Lannan rendered "Salve Regina." Following the ceremony a reception and dinner were held at the home of the bride's parents at which guests were present from Boston, New York and Quincy. The house was prettily decorated with gladioli and asparagus fern. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a gold bracelet, to the best man a K. of C. ring, and to the ushers, gold cuff links. The bride's gift to the bridegroom was a pair of gold cuff links and to the bridesmaid a gold acquamarine ring. The ushers at the church and the home were: Joseph P. Condrey, Everett M. Mahoney, James I Kelley and Edward J. Barrett. The bride, a former school teacher, is well and popularly known locally. The bridegroom was captain of the Lowell high school football team, 1913-14. Mr. and Mrs. Cullen left on an extended wedding tour to the White Mountains, New York and Atlantic City and upon their return will make their home at 86 School street.

Lemke-Burke

Mr. Arthur Leo Lemke and Miss Catherine G. Burke were married at a nuptial mass celebrated yesterday morning at St. Michael's church by Rev. A. Madden. Miss Marietta I. Burke and Mr. Edward C. Murphy attended the couple. The bride was attired in white georgette trimmed with Spanish lace and wore a veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried white roses. The bridesmaid wore pink georgette with picture hat and carried American beauty roses. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in 18th street, following which Mr. and Mrs. Lemke left on an extended wedding tour to New York and Philadelphia. Upon their return they will make their home at 54 18th street.

Bradford—Thomas

Mr. Paul Bradford of South Lancaster and Miss Frances L. Thomas were married yesterday afternoon at the Seventh Day Adventist church by Elder W. C. Moffett. Miss Annie Thomas and Mr. William Bradford attended the couple. The bride wore a gown of white marinette with veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried white roses. The bridesmaid wore orchid crepe de chine with picture hat to match and carried white roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Tolman avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Bradford will make their home in Vienna, Va.

Erdis—Cass

Mr. Robert M. Erdis and Miss Helen L. Cass of Chelmsford were married last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Cass by Rev. John C. Lovell. The bride wore a handsome gown of powder blue georgette and carried American beauty roses. Miss Leona Duclose, the bridesmaid, wore cocoa brown crepe and carried Ophelia roses. Mr. Donald Erdis, brother of the bridegroom was best man. The bride's gift to her attendant was a gold mesh bag while the bridegroom presented the best man a pair of gold cuff links. Mr. and Mrs. Erdis left on an extended wedding tour and upon their return they will make their home at 160 Merrimack street where they will be at home after October 1.

Washburn—Koehler

Mr. John M. Washburn, Jr., and Miss Ruth P. Koehler were united in marriage Saturday evening at the church of Our Savior, Roslindale, by Rev E. Gordon Carey. The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed with chantilly lace and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Barbara M. Ferno, the maid of honor wore orchid georgette. The bridesmaids, the Misses Mary A. Washburn, Dorothy A. Spear, Muriel Leach and Lucille Washburn were attired in orchid and peach georgette. Mr. Burton W. Marsh was best man. The ushers at the church and home were Mr. Dean Symmes, Dr. Ralph W. Short, Mr. Arthur Goosetrey and Mr. George Jenkins. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls and the bride's gift to the bridegroom was a watch fob. The maid of honor was presented a bar pin; the bridesmaids, vanity cases, the best man, a gold pencil and the ushers, billfolds. Mr. Washburn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Washburn of Princeton street this city.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH THEATRE

Lowell's B. F. Keith theatre is especially fortunate in being able to present the Meistersingers as a headline act this week. Known throughout New England and in many other parts of the country as one of the most capable male singing organizations now in concert work, the 12 Boston men who comprise the group present a program of harmony that is unsurpassed and although usually heard only on the concert stage, they are equally at home on a vaudeville tour such as the present one.

Yesterday's holiday audiences liked the Meistersingers and gave them every incentive and encouragement to prolong their program. Their selections included choral selections of the best grade, with here and there a more swinging later-day melody. Their opening was the Hunting Song from "King Arthur" and was followed by "Hula Hula Dream Girl" with solo by Arthur F. Cole; "Morning" and an arrangement of "Songs of Long Ago." There were several solos effectively worked into the choruses. The members of the organization are Harold S. Tripp, Allan C. Prescott, W. C. Johnson, Robert MacKenzie, Arthur F. Cole and L. M. Bartlett, tenors, and Franklin C. Field, John R. Jones, W. F. Clapp, T. C. Phillips, A. C. Steele and W. E. Davidson, basses.

Comedy is the foundation of the act of Johnny Sully and Muriel Thomas, with the former carrying most of the bright lines and the latter helping out with pep and personality. Miss Thomas also dances well and the whole act is good entertainment from start to finish.

Other acts on the bill are Smith and Duane, singers and dancers; Jack Handley, comedy pantomime juggler; Bert Wilcox and Josephine LaCroix, who present "The White Collar Man," and Jackie and Billie, a pair of conversational cockatoos.

The motion picture feature for the week is "The Code of the Wilderness," starring John Bowers, Alan Hale, Alice Calhoun and Otis Harlan.

LOEW'S RIALTO

Evidently the makers of "After the Ball," which packed the Rialto theatre to capacity yesterday despite the terrific heat, left nothing to chance when they undertook this masterpiece. Realizing that no one knew better than Charles K. Harris, author of this world-famous song, the depth of pathos back of his ballade, they went to him for the story itself. The cast is "balance" at its perfection, with Gaston Glass, Miriam Cooper, Edna Murphy and Robert Frazer combining in as fine a piece of dramatic artistry as the screen has seen in many a day. The Rialto management announces that "After the Ball" is but the first of a series of big first run productions that will be shown during the coming season.

Love that defies the world—love that holds a woman's heart faithful to the verge of utter ruin, love that braves prison walls and the censure of the brilliant social world, love that emerges triumphant and exulting—this is the theme of "After the Ball," as the story is built around that charming melody known to millions for two-score years. The plot is startling in its development. Arthur Trevelyan, son of a retired New York millionaire, a lovable, care-free fellow, becomes involved in a series of escapades that send him to prison under another name, with a big jewelry robbery apparently fastened to him beyond hope of legal escape—an innocent man accepting ruin rather than reveal his identity and disgrace his family. Arthur has a sister, Lorraine, beautiful, talented, a society pet, whose love for her brother is maternal in its passion. Then Arthur "disappears" into prison and is reported dead to his family, who are abroad. This message also goes to his wife, a former Follies girl, whose marriage to Arthur caused the father to disinherit him. Lorraine returns from abroad, falls in love with a deputy district attorney, and Arthur escapes from prison. He goes to find Lorraine, meets her on the veranda at a fashionable ball, and brother and sister are surprised in each other's arms by Lorraine's lover, to whom Arthur is unknown. Arthur is recaptured and tried for murder, with Tom the lover, as prosecutor.

At this point the story takes a novel and unexpected twist. There is much pathos, with a little sprinkling of humor, just enough to give you a chance to wipe away the tears. Don't miss "After the Ball;" it's a big production in every way.

Kenneth McDonald in "Yankee Speed," a melodrama chock full of excitement and action, another round of H. C. Witwer's "Fighting Blood," a Buddy Messenger comedy and a Fox News are included in this splendid holiday program which will be shown today and tomorrow.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The motion picture masterpiece, "The Covered Wagon," depicting American history in the making and admittedly a great human document in its wonderful picturing of the romance and tragedy of that great western "trek" to a beckoning El Dorado, is attracting a host of patrons to Merrimack Square theatre this week. Marvels never cease, but "The Covered Wagon" is stupendous in its way—depicting as it does the rugged country of the far west and the excitement and catastrophes attendant upon the march of pioneers over unknown trails with attendant dangers besetting them upon every turn and forward advance.

The wonderful production is a Paramount, made by the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, and directed by James Cruze which, of course, insures its success. The late Emerson Hough wrote the original story, which has been adapted by Jack Cunningham. More than 3000 actors and actresses spent three months in the Utah desert, 80 miles from any railroad, working daily to complete "The Covered Wagon."

All scenes are depicted "true to life." In fact, few motion picture presentations of real life have ever caught the public attention so quickly and held that attention so closely. Theatregoers see "The Covered Wagon" once and go again. The time of the story is in the year 1848. The film depicts the start of the rough caravan of covered wagons, with wives and children of the pioneers seated within the vehicles and the husbands and sons walking beside the caravan, bearing arms to protect their loved ones from Indian assaults. There are spectacular attacks by the redskins, nevertheless, shown with every sordid phase.

The cast for "The Covered Wagon" was carefully selected. The principal characters and the players are as follows: J. Warren Kerrigan, as Will Banion; Lois Wilson, as Molly Wingate; Ernest Torrence, Jackson; Charles Ogle, Jesse Wingate; Ethel Wales, Mrs. Wingate; Alan Hale, Sam Woodhull; Tully Marshall, Bridger; Guy Oliver, Joe Dunstan; John Fox, Jed Wingate.

A feud of bitter sordidness runs through the story of "The Covered Wagon." The love story has its attractive scenes and holds the interest of the audiences all. The perilous fording of the river by the wagon train is depicted with startling effect. A buffalo hunt is also shown, a prairie fire set by Indians in vengeful mood, then the end of the journey, but with depleted ranks. Mollie and Banion, the latter successful in the gold rush, are united in wedlock at last and the story reaches the end of the rainbow.

MOTHERS PRAISE BABY TABLETS

Remedy Well Known in Canada Is Successfully Introduced in This Country

Baby's Own Tablets for infants and young children, which have met with an extremely large sale in Canada, have been introduced in the United States and because of their efficiency and entire safety are declared to be a great help to mothers. The tablets have no drug taste and are guaranteed to be free from narcotics or opiates. Their use is increasing rapidly in this country for mothers who once try them will not be without them in the house.

From a Dover Mother

Mrs. William Hamilton of No. 6 Everett street, Dover, N. H., says:

"Baby's Own Tablets are my remedy when the little ones are constipated. Their action is gentle, they are easy to take and the children like them. They are also useful for colds and to correct sour stomach. Baby's Own Tablets have made my baby bright, strong and healthy and I would not be without them."

Recommends Them to Others

Mrs. H. C. Thayer of No. 46 Middle street, Lewiston, Me., has found Baby's Own Tablets so reliable that she has recommended them to her neighbors. "When my boy had a cold," she says, "I gave him the tablets at night and in the morning he was all right. He was also constipated but the use of the tablets have made him regular. I can recommend Baby's Own Tablets to any mother."

Used During Teething

Mrs. Angella Karaquaine of No. 34 Hedley street, Central Falls, R. I., says:

"My experience with Baby's Own Tablets has been that they reduce the fever caused by teething and give the baby healthy sleep. My little boy was sickly and could not eat. He got thin, was completely run down and was constipated. Before I had used half a box of Baby's Own Tablets he was regular. In a short time his appetite returned and he grew stronger and better in every way."

Book on Care of Baby

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, twenty-five cents per box, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. With every package is wrapped a booklet, "The Care of the Baby in Health and Sickness."—Adv.

BAND CONCERTS ON THE SOUTH COMMON

Two band concerts were given on the South common yesterday afternoon in connection with the Labor day observance and were enjoyed by a crowd estimated at 15,000 which had gathered to enjoy the sports program.

The first concert began at 1 o'clock and continued to 3, and was given by the Lowell Cadet band under the direction of John J. Giblin. The program follows:

March, Second Regiment, Connecticut National Guard
Overture, Nabucodonosor
Pops numbers
  June Night
  Maytime
Irish selections, The Humors of Donnybrook
Waltz Intermezzo, Novelette
Selection from The Comic Opera
Pops numbers
  Chili Bom Bom
  What'll I Do.
Selection from Robin Hood
Pops numbers
  There's Yes, Yes, in Your Eyes
  It Had to Be You
Southern Plantation Songs
March, New England's Finest.

The second concert, from 3 to 5 o'clock, was given by Regan's Military band, William Regan, director. The program follows:

March, Grandioso ....Seitz
Overture, Sicilian Vespers ......Verdi
Pops
  Follow the Swallow.........Remick
  Mr. Radio Man ....Feist
Selection, Romeo and Juliet...Gounod
Pops
  Where the Lazy Daisies Grow, Remick
  Can You Bring Back the Heart Forster
Selection, Spanish Dance, Rosita, Missud
Selection, American Fantasia ..Bendix
The Star Spangled Banner.

CANDIDATE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Dr. Johan de la Parra filed papers at the office of the election commissioners today as independent candidate for representative in the state legislature from the 15th district. Dr. de la Parra's papers contained well over 400 signatures.

ORPHEUS CLUB OUTING

The annual outing of the Orpheus club was held Sunday at Mr. Georgiou's farm. More than a hundred young men left Lowell in automobiles preceded by the well organized Hellenic band which played the national airs. On arrival at the farm dinner was served and in the afternoon a series of field events was staged. The mile run was [illegible] Jim [illegible] and George [illegible] took the shot-put. George Frangeskis was first in the running broad jump while Peter Manousos won the running high jump. Arthur Fipeas came in second in three events. The party returned to Lowell about 6 o'clock.

[illegible] at the Central fire station [illegible] and both were for [illegible] dump. At 11.30 a. m. a tele[illegible] alarm was founded for fire in the [illegible] street dump and a 3.40 p. m. a [illegible] alarm was sounded for fire in the [illegible]tile school dump.

Performance Continuous From 1 to 10.15

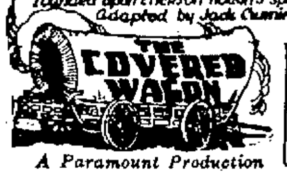
LOWELL IS THE FIRST CITY IN NEW ENGLAND TO SEE "THE COVERED WAGON" AT THE FOLLOWING PRICES:

ORCHESTRA and FRONT BALCONY 50c
500 BALCONY SEATS 35c
CHILDREN At All Matinees 25c
BOXES AND LOGES SEVENTY-FIVE

JESSE L. LASKY presents

"The COVERED WAGON"

Founded upon EMERSON HOUGH'S splendid story of love on the Oregon trail — Adapted by Jack Cunningham – Directed by James Cruze



A Paramount Production

NOTE—Other Features Including A Special Gang Comedy, "It's a Bear," Will Be Shown on the Same Program With "The Covered Wagon." BRING THE CHILDREN.

MERRIMACK SQ.

Performance Continuous From 1 P. M. to 10.15 P. M.

Five Hundred Good Evening Seats At Twenty Cts.

E. M. LOEW'S RIALTO

NOW PLAYING

Despite Yesterday's Intense Heat—This Picture Played to Capacity Houses!

After THE Ball

By Chas. K. Harris

With a Cast Including
GASTON GLASS and MIRIAM COOPER

ALSO

"YANKEE SPEED"

An Action Melodrama with KENNETH McDONALD

"FIGHTING BLOOD"

Buddy Messenger Comedy

Fox News

B. F. KEITH'S

TWICE DAILY, 2 and 8. Tel. 28

Big Holiday Bill of Stars!

Sixteenth Annual Tour

THE MEISTERSINGERS
Boston's Famous Singing Organization

SULLY & THOMAS
"Beauty, Youth and Folly"

WILCOX & LACROIX
"The White Collar Man"

JACK HANLEY
A Distinct Novelty

SMITH & DUANE
Two Southern Harmony Fools

JACKIE & BILLIE
Thinking and Talking Birds

Pathe News | Topics | Fables

Screen Presentations

"THE CODE OF THE WILDERNESS"

With an All Star Cast

The Bon Marché DRY GOODS CO.

Boys' Suits

Jersey Pants and Waist Top— Sizes 3 to 8, at........ $3.95
Sweaters to match the pants, at $2.95
A wonderful school combination.
Boys' Shop—Street Floor

Boys' Sweaters

Genuine Scotch Wool. Just the weight for fall............ $5.25
Pullover—Roll collar
Boys' Shop—Street Floor

For The Home

Desk Sets
Bookends
Student Lamps
Desk Lamps
Pollychromes
Candy Jars
Vases and Bowls
Compote Sets

THE BEST IN SILVE
Community
Rogers Bros. 1847
Wm. Rogers
Holmes and Edwards
All the most popula patterns. Service an satisfaction guaranteed.

NOW VACATIONS ARE OVER—and your wants for the Home are easily filled—for we are especially prepared as perhaps never before.
PICTURES AND MIRRORS that are so necessary to the attractive appearance of any room; are here in all sizes and styles, at very reasonable prices.
COLORED GLASSWARE, POTTERY, BRIDGE LAMPS and many other unusual things await your selection.
OVER FIFTY BEAUTIFUL DECORATIONS IN OPEN STOCK DINNERWARE for you to choose from. Fancy China and Tea Sets at tempting prices.
TABLE LAMPS AND BOUDOIR LAMPS that are delightfully different.
CRYSTAL GLASSWARE—that is practical and different.
SILVERWARE that is guaranteed to give satisfaction—beautiful in shape and exquisite in design.

The Gift Section—Third Floor
Pictures and Gifts—Silver and Glassware—China and Lamps

Special Values in Genuine UNIVERSAL

KETTLES and ROASTERS

For Preserving

Paring Knives
"Universal" "Resistain" Steel 3-inch blade, Cocobolo handle.
Special at .... 25¢

Preserving Kettles

Seamless and Leak Proof. Bail handle set to stand at any angle. Smooth pouring lip. Extra large, tightly rolled bead.

Size	Regularly	Sale Price
10 Quart Size	$2.40	$1.85
12 Quart Size	$2.80	$2.20
14 Quart Size	$3.25	$2.60
18 Quart size	$4.25	$3.40

Covers can be furnished to fit all sizes.

Roasters

Heavy Seamless Aluminum, self-basting covers, have tightly rolled beads—

Large roomy handles; accommodate jars for cold pack method of canning.

Size	Regularly	Sale Price
Small size—holds 7 pint jars	$4.00	$3.75
Medium size—holds 11 pint jars or 7 quarts	$6.00	$4.75
Large size—holds 13 pint or 8 quart jars	$6.90	$5.5

Home Equipment Section—Basement

THERMOID Rexoid Cord Tire

Size	Price	Size	Price
30x3	$7.90	34x4	$17.9
30x3½	$9.30	33x4½	$21.8
31x4	$15.90	34x4½	$22.2
32x4	$16.30	33x5	$28.2
33x4	$16.75	35x5	$30.0

Sole Lowell Agents—Kirk Street Entrance

Go to the nearest Cameron Dealer and get a Quart of Cameron's Pure Food Ice Cream.
1 Pt. ..... 30¢
2 Pts. ..... 31¢

ONE CENT SALE FOR WEDNESDAY

CAMERON'S

BRICK ICE CREAM 1 Pint for 30c, 2 Pints for 31c

Go to the neare Cameron Deal and get a Quart Cameron's Pu Food Ice Crea
1 Pt. 30
2 Pts. 31

[illegible] ASSAILS COOLIDGE IN ADDRESS ON BOSTON COMMON

Denounces President for Failure to Help Senate Investigation of Department of Justice—Says Wall Street Rules Both Old Parties

BOSTON, Sept. 2—A sweltering La- or day audience of about 4000 heard enator Burton K. Wheeler of Mon- ana, La Follette's running mate, pen the national third ticket campaign on Boston common yesterday oon with a vigorous attack upon resident Coolidge. To the president Wheeler referred as the "mythically reat, strong, silent, careful man who ot only never, by word or gesture, isapproved of the crimes or of the riminals at Washington, but on the ontrary joined in the hue and cry gainst the senate for exposing the ark deeds of his cabinet."

The heavy showers of the morning ndoubtedly cut down the size of the rowd as Wheeler took the stump in n intensive campaign that he will rosecute this week throughout New ngland. As Senator La Follette did ot deliver his initial speech in Wash- gton until later in the afternoon and hen, speaking by radio, merely addressed an invisible audience, to Wheeler really fell the privilege of kicking the ball off for the insurgents who are confidently predicting that they will at least carry enough western states on November 4 to throw the election into congress.

A Labor Gathering

The meeting on the common was held under the auspices of the Boston Central Labor union which has indorsed the La Follette-Wheeler candidacies. It was distinctly a labor gathering which heard the first Bay State president since John Quincy Adams subjected 'from the lips of the Daugherty prosecutor' to the most severe attack made upon him since he entered the White House.

Whipping off his coat, after asking the indulgence of the audience and receiving a lusty vote of unanimous consent, the tense young man who drove Mr. Daugherty to cover re-

Continued to Page Five

DEATHS

JOHNSON—Joseph Johnson, a well nown resident of Tewksbury for many ars, died yesterday at his home, Main reet, Tewksbury, after a long ill- ss. He leaves his wife, Jane F. unningham) Johnson; two sons, ancis P. and Kevin J. Johnson; one ster, Miss Lizzie Johnson, and one other, Frank Johnson. He was a rmer well known business man of awrence street, this city.

SMITH—Marshall F. Smith died yes- rday at his home, 101 Butterfield reet, aged 77 years, 9 months and 21 ys. He is survived by his wife, Har- et M. Smith; three sons, Leroy and rley R. Smith, both of Dover, N. H., d Jesse M. Smith of Byfield, Mass.; e brother, Winslow C. Smith of ringvale, Me.; eight grandchildren d nine great grandchildren. Mr. ith was a member of Post 185, A.R. Portland, Me., papers please py.

MULLEN—Thomas Mullen of 88 Elm reet, an attendant of St. Peter's urch and for the past 55 years a res ent of Lowell, died yesterday at St. hn's hospital. Mr. Mullen was a an of many estimable qualities and as much respected. He leaves one ughter, Mrs. Patrick J. Quinn; two ns, John and Frederick Mullen; one ter, Mrs. Patrick Niland; one broth- John Mullen, and six grandchildren. e body was taken to the home of his ughter, Mrs. Patrick J. Quinn, 18 ambers street, by Undertakers Jas. O'Donnell & Sons.

STEVENS—George M. Stevens, aged years, died yesterday at the home of s son, John A. Stevens, 78 Hanks reet. He is survived by two sons, hn A. Stevens of this city and Geo. Stevens, Jr., of New York city; four andsons, Holland A., and Richard A. evens of Lowell, and George M. Stev- s 3d and John W. Stevens of New rk city, and one sister, Mrs. Ellin fford of Leithbridge, Canada.

BUYERS—Ida Buyers, infant daugh- of David and Gertrude (Cohen) vers, died Sunday morning at St. n's hospital, aged 1 year and 6 nths. The body was removed to the me of the parents, 197 Howard eet. The funeral took place Sun- afternoon from the home of the ents and burial was in the family in the Israel Brotherhood cemetery, ham, N. H. The arrangements were the charge of Undertakers Amedee hambault and Sons.

WIGGIN—Charles T. Wiggin, the est citizen and also one of the old- residents of Dracut, died Sunday his home, 659 Mammoth road, aged years, 3 months and 13 days. Mr. ggin had held a Boston Post cane an honor of being the oldest citi- of Dracut. He is survived by wife, Abigail Wiggin; two daugh- s, Miss Annie M. Wiggin and Miss zie Wiggin, all of Dracut; three s, John C., and E. Parker Wiggin, h of Dracut, and Frederick Wig- of Tyngsboro.

FLEMING—Mrs. Bridget (Coleman) ming, wife of Maurice Fleming and d Sunday at her home, 5 rear of attendant of St. Patrick's church, Fletcher street. She had been a dent of Lowell for the past five rs, previous to which she had d in New York city. Besides her band she leaves one daughter, s. Alice Gaul, of Arlington, N. J., eight grandchildren. New York ers please copy.

AVARD—The body of Ezra Avard, o was killed in an automobile ac- ent Saturday night in Mammoth d, Dracut, was removed to his ne, Robinson road, Nashua, N. H., day afternoon by Undertakers edee Archambault and Sons ALVES—Maria Alves, daughter of nuel and Maria (Perreira) Alves, l Sunday at the home of her par- s, 122 Tucker street, aged 1 year; onths and 6 days.

PICHE—Leo Piche, son of Alfred Marie Louise (Soucy) Piche, died day at the home of his parents, 19 d street, aged 3 months and 4 s.

TEALING—Michael F. Tealing, aged years, a former resident of Salem, ss., died yesterday in this city. The y was removed to the rooms of lertaker Peter H. Savage Son.

FUNERALS

PRATT—The funeral of Frank G. tt, for over 50 years a resident of lmsford and a pioneer member of John's church, took place yester- from his home in South street, lmsford Centre, and was largely nded by relatives and friends. At John's church, North Chelmsford, olemn high funeral mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. John J. Crane, assisted by Rev. John J. Linnehan as deacon and Rev. J. Emile Dupont as sub-deacon. The choir under the direction of Miss Helen Quigley sang the Gregorian chant, the solos being sustained by Miss Gertrude Quigley. Miss Helen Quigley was the organist. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were Joseph Panton, Walter Woods, Ralph Eaton, Peter Burrows, Napoleon Lovely and Felix Pratt. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, East Chelmsford, where Rev. Fr. Crane and Rev. Fr. Linnehan officiated. The arrangements were under the direction of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell and Sons.

RAINVILLE — The funeral of Thomas Rainville took place yesterday morning at 9 o'clock from his late home, 653 Broadway and was largely attended by relatives and friends. At 10 o'clock at St. Jean Baptiste church a solemn high funeral mass was sung by Rev. Aquilla Graton, O. M. I., assisted by Very Rev. J. E. Turcotte, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Louis Bachand as sub-deacon. The choir under the direction of Rodolphe Pepin rendered Pietro Yon's mass, the solos being sustained by Mrs. Edith Pepin, Mrs. Maria Jacques, Arthur Leveille and Elzear Cote. Mr. Pepin also presided at the organ. There was a profusion of floral and spiritual offerings. The bearers were Messrs. Lactance, George, William and Alphonse Gaudette, Xavier St. Pierre and Aime Malo. Present at the church services were Rev. Bro. Francis Regis, S. M. and Rev. Bro. Velenin, S. M. and other members of the local Marist community. Among those present at the funeral from out of town were Rev. Bro. Victor Aime, S. M. of New York, son of deceased, Rev. C. E. Baillargeon of Nicolet, P. Q., Mrs. Virginia Blanchard of Woonsocket, R. I., Mr. Ernest Deschamps, Mrs. Eugenie Deschamps, Misses Germaine and Noela Deschamps, Mr. and Mrs. Drapeau and daughter, Ruth, all of Salem, Mr. and Mrs. John Haverty and daughter, Doris, of North Andover and Mrs. Emile Giboau of Indian Orchard. Burial took place in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal prayers were read at the grave by Rev. A. Marion, O. M. I. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of Funeral Director Joseph Albert.

GLEASON—The funeral of George Gleason took place Monday morning from the home of the parents, 15 Fernald street, and proceeded to St. Peter's church where a funeral high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Peter T. Linehan. The choir rendered the Gregorian mass. Solos were rendered during the mass by Mr. Raymond Kelley, Mr. James E. Donnelly, Mr. Thomas Ginty and Miss Mary Rynne. Mr. Raymond Kelley presided at the organ. There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings and numerous spiritual bouquets from friends and acquaintances. The casket was borne by the following bearers: Messrs. Francis Gleason, Don Macauley, Charles Gannon, Francis Guthrie, Egley Unice and Wade Craig. The burial took place in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, the committal prayers being read by Rev. Peter T. Linehan. The funeral was largely attended and under the direction of Undertakers Higgins Bros.

CLOUGH—Funeral services for Mrs. Annie R. Clough, a former resident of this city, who died Aug. 26 at her home in Amsterdam, N. Y., were held Saturday afternoon at the Edson cemetery chapel, Rev. Frederick S. Beattie, assistant rector of St. Anne's Episcopal church, officiating. The flowers were numerous. The bearers were David Russell, Malcolm Patrick, John F. Day, Alexander Patrick, Arthur E. Wilman and John Russell. Burial was in the family lot, where the burial service was read by Rev. Mr. Beattie. The funeral was under the direction of Undertaker W. Herbert Blake.

SOUZA—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Souza took place Sunday from 11 Highland street and was attended by many relatives and friends. At St. Anthony's church services were read by Rev. Joseph Grillo. There were many floral offerings. The bearers were Manuel Souza, Anthony Souza, John Silva, Joaquin Rebeiro A. Edwart and Jacinto Augiar. Burial took place in St. Patrick's cemetery. The arrangements were in charge of Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons.

MAKER—The funeral of Isaac A. Maker took place from the Funeral church, 236 Westford street Sunday afternoon and was very largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. George F. Sturtevant, assistant pastor of the First Congregational church. Appropriate selections were sung by the Mendelssohn male quartet, with Mrs. Helen C. Taylor at the organ. The floral offerings were numerous and large delegations were present representing Pentucket lodge, A. F. and A. M.; Mt. Horeb Royal Arch chapter, Ahasuerus council and Pilgrim Commandery. The following overseers at the Lawrence Mfg. Co. were bearers: Herbert A. Ball, Frank A. G. Burke, Guy C. Hunt, Samuel G. Pillsbury, Wallace W. Tucker and Victor R. Sherburne. Burial was in the family lot in Westlawn cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Andrew G. Swapp, under the direction of Undertaker George W. Healey.

MURPHY—The funeral of John F. Murphy, infant son of Fred T. and Anna (Manning) Murphy, took place Saturday afternoon from the home of his parents, 8 Lagrange Court, and was largely attended by relatives and friends, including a number from out of town. There were many beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, under the direction of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

FLEMMING—The funeral of Mrs. Bridget (Coleman) Flemming took place this morning at 7.30 o'clock from her home, 5 rear 326 Fletcher street, and was largely attended. The cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's church, where at 8 o'clock a mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Aloysius Madden. The choir, under the direction of Miss Sarah Murray, rendered the Gregorian chant, the solos in the mass being sustained by Miss Frances Tighe, Mrs. James Morris and Miss Florence Crotty, Miss Murray presiding at the organ. The bearers were Messsrs. Thomas Mahoney, Michael Coleman, Thomas Brennan, John Hines, James Fitzgerald, and Martin Quealey. There were many floral and spiritual offerings. The burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Thomas J. McDonough. The funeral was under the direction of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

PROVENCHER—The funeral of Mrs. Mary J. (Burns) Provencher took place yesterday from her home, 46 Lane street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. At St. Peter's church a funeral mass was celebrated by Rev. Francis L. Shea. Seated within the sanctuary was Rev. Thomas McDonough of St. Patrick's church. The choir sang the Gregorian chant, the solos being sustained by Miss Mary Rynne and James E. Donnelly. Raymond Kelley was at the organ. There were many floral offerings. The bearers were Joseph McGirr, John Coughlin, Walter Flynn, Timothy Crothy, Paul McDonald and James Dowling. Burial took place in St. Patrick's cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Shea. The arrangements were in charge of Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons.

FURLONG—The funeral of Mrs. Carrie Eva (McLelland) Furlong, wife of Herbert F. Furlong, took place yesterday from her home, 235 Liberty street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. At St. Margaret's church a solemn high funeral mass was sung by Rev. Leo O'Day, assisted by Rev. Andrew F. O'Brien as deacon and the pastor, Rev. Charles J. Galligan, as subdeacon. The choir under the direction of Napoleon L. Guilbault, sang the Gregorian chant. The solos were sustained by Cornelius Calnan and John McGlinchey. Mr. Guilbault was at the organ. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were Charles Brennan, Fred Greenwood, Wm. Cronin, William Plant, James Cooney and Thomas F. Burns. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Rev. Fr. O'Day read the committal prayers. The arrangements were under the direction of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

VIELICKO—The funeral of Peter Vielicko took place yesterday afternoon from 158 Lawrence street and was largely attended by relatives and friends. Services were held in St. Joseph's Lithuanian church, Rev. Stanley Kuczos officiating. The bearers were Simon Makaravicus, Teofil Belkus, Joseph Barzda, Roch Blngells, Stanley Budrevicus and Joseph Pleculkonis. Burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Rev. S. Nuczos read the committal prayers. The arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Joseph J. Sadowski.

ALVES—The funeral of Maria Alves, daughter of Manuel and Maria (Pereira) Alves, took place yesterday afternoon from the home of her parents, 122 Tucker street. Services were conducted at St. Anthony's church by Rev. Joseph Grillo. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery. Arrangements were in the charge of Funeral Director Joseph Albert.

PICHE—The funeral of Leo Piche, son of Alfred and Marie Louise (Soucy) Piche took place yesterday afternoon from the home of his parents, 19 Ward street. Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery. Arrangements were in the charge of Funeral Director Joseph Albert.

CHERIONKA—The funeral of Jenie Cherionka, infant daughter of Alexander and Anna (Kozlowska) Cherionka, took place yesterday afternoon from 10 Concord street. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery. The arrangements were in the charge of Undertaker Joseph J. Sadowski.

FUNERAL NOTICES

NOURSE—Died in this city, Aug. 31, at 137 Nesmith street, Franklin Nourse. Funeral services will be held at St. Anne's Episcopal church on Wednesday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock. Friends are affectionately requested not to send flowers. Burial private in Mt. Auburn cemetery, Cambridge. Undertaker George W. Healey in charge.

SMITH—Died in this city, Sept. 1 at 101 Butterfield street, Marshall F. Smith, aged 77 years, 9 months and 21 days. Funeral services will be held at 101 Butterfield street on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Undertaker Hiram C. Brown in charge.

MULLEN—Died Sept. 1st, at St. John's hospital, Thomas Mullen. The funeral will take place Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Patrick J. Quinn, 18 Chambers st., and a funeral high mass will be sung at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock. The burial will be in St. Patrick's cemetery under the direction of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

JOHNSON—Died in Tewksbury, Sept. 1, at his home, Main st., Fairlawn, Joseph Johnson. Funeral will take place Thursday morning from his late home at 8 o'clock. At the Sacred Heart church, Lowell, at 9 o'clock, a funeral high mass will be celebrated. Burial will be in St. Patrick's cemetery. Funeral arrangements in charge of Undertakers O'Connell & Fay.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, desire to express our sincere thanks to our many friends, neighbors and relatives for the acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy, floral and spiritual offerings at the time of the death of our beloved wife and mother. We deeply appreciate their kindly efforts and will ever hold them in loving and grateful remembrance.

MRS. THOMAS COLLINS
and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, desire to express publicly our sincere thanks to those who by their offerings of floral tributes, acts of kindness and expressions of condolence served to lighten the burden of our grief in the death of our beloved son and brother, George Gleason. Such evidence of true friendship we shall ever cherish in loving remembrance.

Signed,
MR. and MRS. WILLIAM GLEASON
AND FAMILY.

FRANKLIN NOURSE DEAD

Sudden Death Sunday Morning of Well Known Lowell Citizen

Deceased Was at One Time Very Prominent in Lowell Textile Industry

Franklin Nourse, formerly prominent in the Lowell textile industry and one of the city's best known citizens, died suddenly at his home, 137 Nesmith street on Sunday. He had but recently returned from his summer home at Bay View, Me., apparently in a greatly improved condition after a serious illness that dated back nearly twelve months and his death was entirely unexpected. Mr. Nourse was a former agent of the Lawrence Manufacturing Co. and also had connections with other textile mills in Lawrence, Maine and in this city.

Other local interests and activities were numerous. He was a trustee of Rogers Hall school and for many years served as a trustee of the Young Men's Christian association and the Five Cent Savings bank. He was a director of the Lowell Boys' club and the Edson orphanage and the Traders & Mechanics Insurance Co.

Franklin Nourse was born in Bangor, Maine, in March, 1848, son of Benjamin F. and Laura E. (Little) Nourse. He was educated in Bangor and Boston shools and was graduated from Harvard college in 1870. He entered at once upon the business of textile manufacturing and was successively connected with the Barker Mills, the Lawrence Duck Co., the York Mfg. Co. of Saco and the Lawrence Mfg. Co. of this city, coming to the last named concern as its agent in 1895 and continuing as its active head until his retirement in 1910.

His wide social connections included membership in the Yorick, Vesper Country, Longmeadow, Textile and Harvard clubs, the Episcopalian club, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Harvard Engineering association, the American Academy of Political and Social Science and the National Cotton Manufacturers' association.

He was prominent in the affairs of the Episcopal church and was a member of St. Anne's, where he served as warden for many years.

He is survived by his wife, Edith Frances Riversmith Nourse; one daughter, Mrs. John Jacob Rogers and a son, Benjamin Franklin Nourse of San Francisco, Cal.

PROMOTION FOR LIEUT. H. F. MATHER

Lieut. Harold F. Mather, widely popular in Massachusetts National Guard circles, who was recently assigned to take temporary charge of the leadership of Lowell's B battery, 102nd Field Artillery, M. N. G., has been appointed captain. He will continue in command of the battery for the present. The assignment and the promotion were announced from the adjutant general's offices at the state house in Boston, Saturday.

Capt. Mather has been supervising the Westford street armory headquarters and training camp affairs for B batterymen ever since the resignation of Capt. George J. Fancuf, whose passing from active national guard activities was deeply regretted by members of the battery and friends of the sturdy organization.

The new captain was assigned to look after the B battery activities at home and abroad. He commanded the Lowell gunners and ammunition train equipments at Camp Devens, straight through one of the hardest summer military training programs ever assigned to Bay State national guardsmen. All-day, heavy battery-firing work at the ranges; long marches; severe tests in fighting raging conflagrations—B batterymen never had a tougher program cut out for them than fell to their lot this year at Ayer.

MINOR CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Imbibing too freely in holiday liquors brought a large array of drunkenness offenders before the district court this morning. In addition to those arraigned in court, there were 21 releases by the probation officer.

Thomas Kilkenny, drunkenness, was given 24 hours to evacuate the city or go to the state farm.

A suspended sentence of two months in the house of correction was revoked in the case of Joseph B. Clark.

Joseph E. Cote, was continued to next Thursday.

Thomas Toohey of South Nashua, N. H., was fined $15.

Eugene Pickard was found guilty and his case was placed on file.

George Page was sentenced to two months in the house of correction, and appealed.

John J. Spellacy was given a suspended sentence of three months in the house of correction.

John E. Ring was continued until Friday.

Edward F. Welch was sentenced to one month in the house of correction, and appealed.

Topill Waveris was found guilty and continued for sentence until Thursday.

Klemonas Semakonis, whose wife said threatened her with a razor strop and hurled a knife at her, was given a direct sentence of six months in the house of correction.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to thank all who remembered us with spiritual and floral offerings in our recent bereavement in the loss of a dear husband and father. We are especially grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Gelinas, the Courier-Citizen Job Plant employes, McCarthy Brothers and Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Paquette.

MRS. THOMAS RAINVILLE
and Family.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, desire to express our sincere thanks to our many friends, neighbors and relatives for the acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy, floral and spiritual offerings at the time of our bereavement. We deeply appreciate their kindly efforts and will ever hold them in loving and grateful remembrance.

MRS. LAURA SULLIVAN,
MR. AND MRS. JOHN SULLIVAN,
MR. AND MRS. FRANK HANNON,
MISS MARGARET SULLIVAN,
DENNIS SULLIVAN.

REVOLT IN MEXICO

56,000 Men, Including 25,000 Traitors, Took Part in La Huerta Uprising

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—Fifty-six thousand men, including 25,000 traitors from the army, took part in the recent revolt headed by Adolf de La Huerta and the cost to the Mexican government of suppressing the movement was approximately sixty million pesos, President Obregon declared in his final presidential message to congress last evening.

Outlining the accomplishments of his administration for the last four years, President Obregon declared that peace had been consolidated throughout the country, the government had fostered equitable distribution of the national resources, the position of the working classes had been visibly bettered through increased wages, more efficient union organization and wider education and the liberty of the press had been sustained.

His full desires for the full aggrandizement of the nation had not been realized owing to the reactionary influences culminating in the de La Huerta rebellion, but the way was clearing and he urged congress to pursue the work of national reconstruction.

TRIAL OF SHIP PILOTS INVOLVED IN CRASH

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 2—Trial of the masters of the steamer Boston and tanker Swiftarrow, the collision of which July 21 off Point Judith resulted in the death of four of the Boston's passengers, will be begun before the United States steamboat inspectors here September 22. Captain Alfred W. McCall of the Boston is charged with having signalled that his engines were working full speed reverse when the two ships were not in sight of each other and with traveling at a fast rate under the conditions. Captain Jose Gomes of the Swiftarrow, is charged with having signaled that his engines were working full speed astern when not in sight of the other boat, signalling that his boat was stopped and failing to stop his engines when he heard a fog whistle on his beam.

Major Conflict May Be On

Continued

Kiangsu and Chekiang provinces have caused the rival warlords of those provinces to realize the necessity of raising armies large enough to last through the long and severe campaign, which they apparently consider the situation will bring about, and everywhere in the affected areas a policy of wholesale conscription is being carried on, according to advices from the interior. Farmers, artisans, coolies—in fact every man able to hold a gun, carry a bucket or a burden of any sort—are being pressed into service. The countryside therefore appears deserted with the exception of old men, women and children.

In this process the city of Nanking, Kiangsu, has been virtually cleaned out, and the well-to-do classes are taking refuge in flight. Houses, furniture, implement, boats—in fact everything possible to commandeer—have been taken by the troops, who exercise complete tyranny, the reports declare, wherever they go.

Strict Censorship

PEKING, Sept. 2.—(By The Associated Press—Chinese)—In view of the military situation in the Yangtse valley the Peking garrison has placed a censorship on railways, post offices and telegraph offices throughout the metropolitan area.

Commercial and financial organizations and members of parliament, whose provinces are affected are making renewed efforts to avert armed conflict on the Yangtse. Tsao Kun, president of China, is said also to be exerting his influence in a similar effort.

French Warships Rush to Scene

PARIS, Sept. 2.—(By The Associated Press)—The French ministry of marine has ordered the armored cruiser Jules Ferry and the protected cruiser Colmar to proceed to Shanghai from Saigon, French Indo-China, to protect French interests in southern China.

Manslaughter Charge

Continued

injured are: John Buff, Badger street, Nashua, who was cut about the face and head and treated at the Lowell General hospital; Paul Dube, 3 Brooks street, Nashua, who sustained a fractured leg and was taken to the Corporation hospital; Orlando Hamlin, 108 Chesnut street, was taken to the corporation hospital suffering from head injuries; and Peter Gregas, 21 School street, Nashua, also taken to the Corporation hospital suffering from head injuries.

The accident occured a few minutes before midnight Saturday. The party had attended a Polish outing in Dracut during the afternoon and evening and was on its way home, driving through Mammoth road towards the Pawtucket boulevard. When a short distance from the city line, one tire was either punctured or blown out. Not stopping to change tires, the party continued on its way for about quarter of a mile when, on a down grade, the driver lost control of the machine and it side-swiped a telegraph pole and continued down the road for 20 feet before coming to a stop.

The telegraph pole struck the machine at the right rear door. Avard, it is believed, was seated on the right side of the rear seat and bore the brunt of the blow. The injured men were seated in the rear of the car also.

Passing automobilists took the injured to hospitals and notified police headquarters. Motorcycle Officer Walter Kivlan and Patrolman Patrick Noonan responded to the call. The driver of the automobile could not be located by the officers but appeared at the police station with Attorney J. Joseph Hennessy early Sunday afternoon and surrendered to Capt. David Petrie and Sergt Philip Dwyer.

The automobile which figured in the accident was almost completely demolished. It is the property of John S. Sullivan, an automobile dealer of Nashua.

LA FOLLETTE FLAYS BOTH [illegible] PARTIES IN LABOR DAY MESSAGE

Offers Nothing to Remedy "the Evils Which Have Arisen Under Their Respective Administrations and as a Result of their Policies"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Assailing the republican and democratic parties which he declared offer nothing to remedy "the evils which have arisen under their respective administrations and as a result of their policies," Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, in a labor Day message broadcast by a chain of radio stations, appealed yesterday to the voters of the nation to support his independant candidacy for the presidency.

Senator La Follette asserted that he had entered the campaign as a candidate to "convict" the monopoly system which he contended is "protected by certain laws and by the failure to enforce others, and whose power is so great that both of the old parties have become merely the instruments of its will."

"The message of the republican and democratic parties," said Mr. La Follette, "is a message of despair. In it, the American people find no ray of hope for relief from the burdens which oppress them.

"Have Found a Great Hope"

"But the people have found a great hope, and that hope is in the progressive movement. We have enlisted in this campaign to restore this Government to the service of the public, to secure to the laborer and producer in all lines a greater share of the product of his toil. While protecting the consumer against the trust-fixed prices on all he buys and to drive out of the government at Washington the corrupting influences now so dominant."

"If elected president, Senator La Follette pledged himself to work for the repeal of the Transportation act of 1920 behind which he asserted, the Interstate Commerce commission, "has taken refuge in its refusal to reduce the present exorbitant railroad rates," downward revision of tariff duties readjustment of tax schedules, reorganization of the Federal Trade and Tariff commissions, conservation of natural resources, and promotion of co-operative marketing, free from government control, as an aid to the farmer.

"I shall, if elected, use the appointive power of the executive," declared the Wisconsin Senator, "to free every department of the government from the control of special interests. . . . . I would place at the head of the Department of Justice and in the office of every United States district attorney men who would vigorously enforce all laws, and I would instruct them to bring and prosecute criminal actions against every profiteering monopoly which violates the anti-trust laws with the same vigor which I should require of them in the prosecution of a bootlegger."

"Dawes Plan, Morgan Plan"

Insisting that the two old parties, seeking to divert the attention of voters from pressing domestic issues, point to Europe and say "there is the solution," Mr. La Follette continued.

"The original source of the democratic and republican plans respecting Europe is the same. That source is the well-known banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. The connection of this banking house with the candidates of both old parties and with the leaders of those parties is close and intimate and confidential. The so-called Dawes plan is merely the Morgan plan."

During the campaign, Senator La Follette declared he intends to "tell the American people exactly what has been going on in Washington" during his 18 years' service as a Senator.

"In that time," he added, "I believe I have been in a position to observe the influences behind certain of the enactments of congress, and the policies of the executive branch of the government which are of the deepest significance to the public."

La Follette to Speak in N. Y.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Senator La Follette of Wisconsin is still undecided as to when he will launch his active campaign as an independent presidential candidate.

It was said today he might remain off the stump until a month before election day, although it is more probable that he will route his speechmaking itinerary so that he can be out stumping for six weeks.

The present plan is to have Senator La Follette deliver his first address in New York City—a suggestion that meets with his approval. To what extent he will tour the country remains to be determined.

STORM WARNING ISSUED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The weather bureau today issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 10 a. m. in absence of vessel reports, impossible to locate center of tropical storm accurately. Estimated position latitude 26, longitude 71.30. Disturbance apparently continues of hurricane intensity and is moving northwest. Caution advised waters off South Atlantic coast and northeast of Bahamas."

MEDALS FOR DRAFT BOARD MEMBERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Secretary Weeks today approved a bill drafted in the war department for recommendation to congress which would authorize the award of medals to governors, adjutant-generals, members of local and district boards, medical and legal advisory boards and government appeal agents who served in the selective service-systems during the World war. The bill provides that the thanks of congress be extended to those who by non-military service contributed to successful prosecution of the war, and carries an appropriation of $25,000 to finance the making and distribution of the medals.

JOCKEY SANDE REMOVED TO N. Y. HOSPITAL

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Earle Sande, premier American jockey who was injured in a spill at the Saratoga race track Aug. 6, was removed today to New York City on board the private car of Harry Sinclair, owner of the Rancocas racing stable by which Sande was employed. The jockey's condition was said to be greatly improved, but it was considered advisable to take him from the hospital here where he has been confined since the accident to Roosevelt hospital for further treatment. He was accompanied by Mrs. Sande.

AMERICAN GOLFER DEFEATS BRITISHER

GLENEAGLES, Scotland, Sept. 2.—(By the Associated Press) MacDonald Smith, American golf professional, defeated George Duncan, the British veteran, by four up and three to play, in their 72-hole match concluded today.

RACE HORSE OWNER FATALLY INJURED

BALTIMORE, Sept. 2.—William H. Robinson of Front Royal, Va., racehorse owner, was almost instantly killed in an automobile accident near Catonsville, suburb, early today. The driver of the car, Dawson Lee, of Columbia, Md., said he was blinded by the glare of an approaching automobile. His machine swerved and crashed into a telegraph pole. Robinson's neck was broken and his throat was gashed. Lee suffered cuts and bruises.

ABBOTS AND NORTH CAMBRIDGE TONIGHT

If Babe Mitchell, ace of the Abbot pitchers, succeeds tonight in turning back North Cambridge in the third game of the series at Russell field, Cambridge, the next game will be played at Alumni field, formerly Spalding park, this city, tomorrow night, beginning at 5.35 o'clock sharp. This announcement was made at noon today by Eddie Gannon, one of the Abbot business representatives. Reservations will be made to handle one of the biggest crowds in Alumni field history.

CADETS DENY THAT THEY WERE BEATEN

The St. Peter's Cadets deny the allegation that they were beaten, 9 to 8, by the Chelmsford A.A. on the South common Sunday afternoon. The local team contends that the visitors left the field when St. Peter's had a man on third with only one out in the ninth, and they further claim to have won the contest by the score of 10 to 9.

James F. O'Donnell & Sons
Undertakers
324 Market St. Tel. 439-W

We Answer Calls

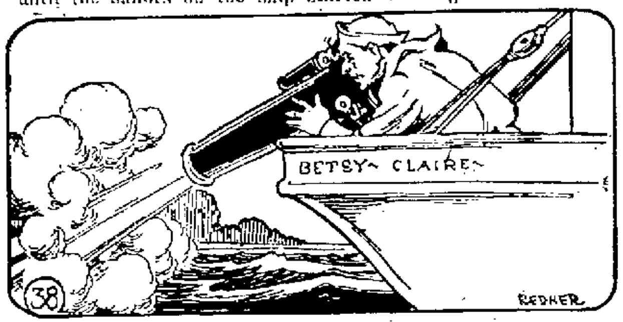
At any hour, anywhere. The time and the place make no difference; when our service is needed, it is needed, and other considerations pale into insignificance.

When there is need of our services, there should be no hesitancy about calling. We are always available to all.

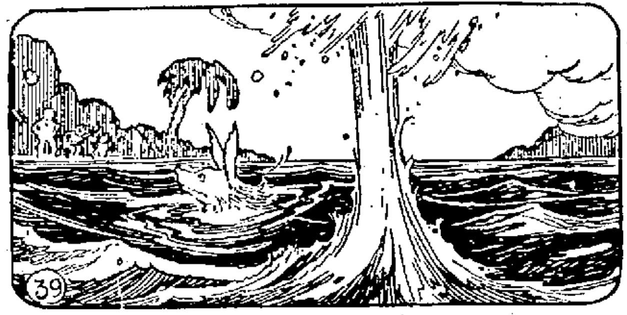
M. H. McDonough Sons
Undertakers and Embalmers
14 Highland St.
Lowell, Mass.
Telephone 906-W

Jack Daw's Adventures Chapter 13

Ever so often there was a splash out in the water right where Flip had suddenly gone under. It was certain that the dog was having a battle with some sea monster. Jack was pretty frightened over his dog's fate and he waited impatiently until the sailors on the ship started shooting.



"I hope they don't hit Flip instead of the shark," said one of the sailors who stood beside Jack. "Oh, they won't shoot at the shark," replied the captain. "They will only smack the water in order to scare it away." And at that moment the great gun blazed loudly forth.

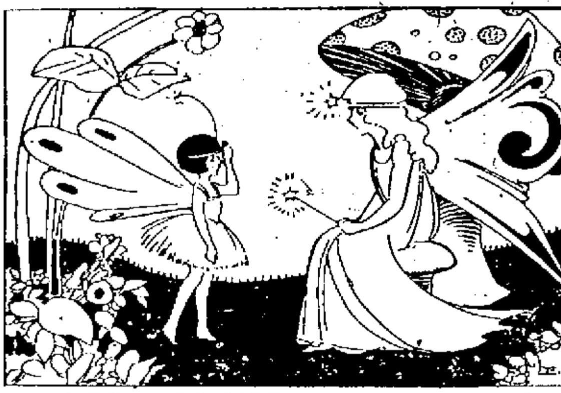


Instantly there was a big geyser out in the water and, as the gun blazed away again, another spiral of water went into the air. Then all was quiet and Jack once more saw his dog swimming towards the shore. The shark had been scared away and the dog was saved by the shark gun. (Continued).

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

-by Olive Roberts Barton

SILVER WINGS DOES AN ERRAND



"ALL RIGHT, YOUR ROYAL HIGHNESS," SAID SILVER WINGS

"Dear, dear!" said the Fairy Queen one day to Silver Wings, one of her messengers. "Here it is, late in August, and almost time for the Meadow Grove school to begin. I do wonder if the dear little wood people and meadow people are ready."

"I don't know," said Silver Wings, "but as I was getting dew for you to take your bath this morning, I happened to hear Mrs. Longtail Jumping Mouse say to Mister Longtail Jumping Mouse that Jimmy Jumping Mouse hadn't a single pair of trousers that hadn't holes in them. And that Jemima had outgrown all of her dresses three mouse inches, and that the hems had been let down so many times they couldn't be let down another single bit."

"That's just what I thought!" nodded the kind Fairy Queen. "And I'm glad you told me, Silver Wings. Take these magic shoes to Nancy and Nick, the Twins, and tell them that I need their help very much, indeed. Tell them to put the shoes on and they will then see a little path in the woods that they never noticed before.

"They are to go to the end of the path and there they will see a tiny store with a sign on it which says, 'For Rent.'

"Tell them to take the sign down and put up another sign over the door which says, 'Nancy, Nick & Company. School Clothes Given Special Attention.' After that I will send somebody to help them and they are to see that all the little wood people and meadow people have enough clothes to start to school with."

"Who will you send?" asked Silver Wings. Of course it isn't at all the thing to ask a queen a question, but then? Silver Wings knew the Fairy Queen so very well she was almost like one of the family.

"Mister Snip Snap," said the Fairy Queen. "He knows all about cutting and fitting. He's the best fairy tailor I've got. He'll be there waiting no doubt when the Twins get to the place. I'll telephone to him at once."

"All right, your Royal Highness," said Silver Wings. "I'll go and see the Twins at once and take them the magic shoes. I am sure they will be willing to help."

She tucked the magic shoes under her arm and then flew away to the meadow where the children loved to play.

There they were, right under the big shady chestnut tree, that was now full of green prickly burrs instead of yellow tassels. Jack Frost would blow his breath and turn them brown.

(To Be Continued)

(Copyright, 1924, The Lowell Sun)

WALES FATIGUED AFTER DAY AT RACES

SYOSSET, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Fatigued and nettled after a hot afternoon spent at the races at Belmont park, during which a large crowd closed about him at every opportunity, the Prince of Wales planned a more secluded day of exercise for today. He expected to ride his polo ponies again in the afternoon as he did yesterday morning in a scratch game, and to attend a dinner party at night at the home of Major Henry Rogers Winthrop in Westbury.

BIG NIGHT TONIGHT AT THE COMMODORE

Tonight looks like one of the biggest nights of the season at the Commodore ballroom as Manager Roane has arranged for a battle of music between Miner-Doyle's orchestra and "Mal" Hallett's aggregation. This will also be special gift night at this resort, the management having secured a hundred powder compacts for the ladies, which will be distributed during the evening. These compacts are manufactured by a well known toilet goods concern and are on sale at several of the large stores. Check dancing will be held throughout the evening and the admission will be 10 cents with six checks for 25 cents.

"Mal" Hallett and his team will be at the Commodore again on Thursday evening. Check dancing will be the feature and the members of the team will contribute to the program with specialty numbers.

Daily production of tires in Akron is about 70,000.

AND CIRCUIT RACES HARTFORD, CONN.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 2.—The 2.1 division of the Greater Charter Oa stake was the feature of the secon day's session of the Grand Circuit meet ing at the Connecticut fair today. Th starters included Watts-In-Bond Thompson Dillon, Crawford, Hope Fris co, The Great Lullwater and San Pe dro Girl.

The 2.10 pace with a $3000 stake ha as starters Sparkle, Skeer W, Baro Worthy, Lulla Forbes, Brook Vol Guesswork, Carl C and Kazoff.

The 2.13 trot with Czarworthy, Mr Yerkes, The Great Volo and Ethelind entered, and the three-year-old pac with Maggie Peters, Romona Direc Canton Abbe Bonsle and Cecil Frisc as starters, completed the day's card.

A clergyman who looked in at fancy dress ball in St. Pancras, En land, was awarded the prize for ha ing the second best costume.

For Three Decades

"SALADA"

TEA B508

has been famous for its quality. All grocers sell it. Buy a trial package today.

RADIO BROADCASTS

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

WNAC, BOSTON

4.15 p. m.—Incidental music—broadcast from Loew's State theatre.
4 and 4.30 p. m.—Shepard Colonial orchestra.
4.45 p. m.—Agnes J. Burke, lyric soprano; William Burke, baritone; Blanche Haven, accompanist.
5 p. m.—The Day in Finance.
5.05 p. m.—Livesock and meat report.
6.30 p. m.—WNAC dinner dance—All request night.
7.28 p. m.—Baseball results.
7.30 p. m.—Talk, The Defense Test, Oliver Andrews Dickinson, major-general staff United States army.
8.10 p. m.—Boston American orchestra.

WGI, MEDFORD

7 p. m.—Stock market reports.
7.15 p. m.—Code practice, citizens' radio period.
7.30 p. m.—Phonograph selections; business report; weather report and time.

WQAS, LOWELL

8 p. m.—Baseball scores.
8.35-10.15 p. m.—Dance music.

WBZ, SPRINGFIELD

6 and 6.30 p. m.—Leo Reisman ensemble.
7 p. m.—Results of games played.
7.05 p. m.—Market reports.
7.10 p. m.—World market survey.
7.30 p. m.—Bedtime story
7.40 p. m.—Copley-Plaza orchestra.
9 p. m.—Play, The Killer, by Albert Cowles players.
9.30 p. m.—Recital by Marie de Pisa, soprano; Louise Dumas, accompanist.
10.55 p. m.—Time signals; weather report.

WJAR, PROVIDENCE

8 p. m.—Baseball scores.
8.05 p. m.—All Bristol night.

WHN, NEW YORK

4-11.30 p. m.—Musical program.

WAAM, NEWARK

7.30 p. m.—Miss Lillian Spitzer, pianist.
8.30 p. m.—Sterling dance orchestra.
9 p. m.—Jimmie Shearer.
9.45 p. m.—Bob Schaefer and James Brennan.
10.10 p. m.—Palisade Serenaders.

WEAF, NEW YORK

6 p. m.—Dinner music.
7.30 p. m.—Theophilus Alban, tenor.
7.45-8-10 p. m.—Clifford Vaughan, pianits.
8-8.20 p. m.—Helen Rennyson Wilson, soprano.
8.30 p. m.—The Gold Dust Twins.
9-10 p. m.—Spring Lake orchestra.

WJZ, NEW YORK

7 p. m.—Frank Dole, Dogs.
7.15 p. m.—Hotel Vanderbilt orchestra.
8 p. m.—Wall Street review.
8.30 p. m.—Olga Warren, soprano.
8.45 p. m.—Talk by the University of the Air.
9 p. m.—Olga Warren, soprano.
9.10 p. m.—Organ recital.

WJY, NEW YORK

7.30 p. m.—Greenwich Village Inn orchestra.
8.15 p. m.—Literary talk.

WOR, NEWARK

6.15-7 p. m.—Music While You Dine.
6.30 p. m.—Stories for children.
7.20 p. m.—Resume of the day's sports.

WFI, PHILADELPHIA

6 p. m.—Sunny Jim.
6.30 p. m.—Bellevue Stratford Orchestra and sports results.
8 p. m.—Mary A. Bray, contralto; Edward Barnes, baritone; Lawrence Peacock on Dahlias.
8.40 p. m.—Bellevue Stratford Ensemble.
9.30 p. m.—Four-leaf Shamrock concert party.

WCAE, PITTSBURGH

6.30 p. m.—Dinner concert.
7.30 p. m.—Uncle Kaybee.
7.45 p. m.—Baseball scores.
9.30 p. m.—Musical program.
11 p. m.—Late concert.

CKAC, MONTREAL

7 p. m.—Kiddies' stories.
7.30 p. m.—Orchestra; Ben. Scherzer, violinist.
8.30 p. m.—Steamship orchestra.
10.30 p. m.—Mount Royal Orchestra; Teddy Brown, saxophonist.

EASTERN STANDARD TIME

WTAM, CLEVELAND

6 to 7.30 p. m.—Dinner concert; baseball scores.

WGY, SCHENECTADY

5 p. m.—Market quotations, news, baseball results.
6 p. m.—Dinner music by Clover Club Orchestra.
7.45 p. m.—Program by Jack Taylor's Orchestra; talk, Some Fishermen's Opinions on Fishing.
7.50 p. m.—Program of old-time favorites.
10.15 p. m.—Organ recital by Stephen E. Boisclair.

WRC, WASHINGTON

5.15 p. m.—Instructions in international code.
6 p. m.—Children's hour.
6.15 p. m.—Baseball scores.
8 p. m.—Musical program.
9 p. m.—Political talk by Maurice Judd.
9.15 p. m.—Concert by Irving Boernstein's Trio.
9.55 p. m.—Time signals and weather.

KDKA, PITTSBURGH

5 and 7 p. m.—Baseball scores.
5.30 p. m.—Organ recital.
6 p. m.—Baseball scores, dinner concert continued.
6.30 p. m.—Story for children.
6.15 p. m.—News.
7.15 p. m.—Educational lecture.
8 p. m.—Concert.
10 p. m.—Weather, baseball scores.
10.30 p. m.—Popular concert.

KYW, CHICAGO

4 p. m.—World talk.
6.45 p. m.—Bedtime story.
7 p. m.—Dinner concert from Congress Hotel.
7-7.20 p. m.—Musical program.
7.20-7.45 p. m.—Farm speeches.
9-10.30 p. m.—At Home program.

WEBH, CHICAGO

7.30-8.30 p. m.—Rita McFawn, soprano. Announcements. Concert selections, Oriole Orchestra.
9.30-10.30 p. m.—William Balhatchet, tenor. Dance selections, Oriole Orchestra.

DETROIT WOMAN RECOVERS

Health Much Better After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"Your little book left at my door was my best doctor. I read it, then said to my husband, 'Please go and get me some Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I want to take it.' The first month I took three bottles of Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. If you only knew how much better I feel! Now when my friends say they are sick I tell them to take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines. I give the little book and your medicines the best of thanks."—Mrs. HAMERINK, 3765 25th Street, Detroit, Mich.

In newspapers and booklets we are constantly publishing letters from women, who explain how they were helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

These letters should guide you. If you are troubled with pains and nervousness, or any feminine disorder, bear in mind that the Vegetable Compound has helped other women and should help you. For sale by druggists everywhere.

The little men and women are starting in on another season of preparation for the responsibilities of home and state they must accept in the years to come.

We hope their vacations have been as enjoyable and beneficial as you expected them to be. We hope they have come home full of "pep" and eager for the work ahead of them.

For school work is real work. It must be carried on during the growing period. During a time when proper food means more to them than any other time of life.

Be sure that they have plenty of milk. Plenty of milk of the clean, rich, safe kind that builds strength and health and resistance. Milk of the kind that fortifies them against the strain and wear of school life. They need milk. A quart a day each one of them. And to be on the safe side see that they get

When you are home again you will find Hood's Milk waiting to greet you. Fine, wholesome milk, pasteurized, with scientific precision, uniform in quality and backed by a service as dependable as anything could be. You know Hood's Milk. You know the men and the ideals that have made Hood's Milk a standard of quality in thousands of New England homes. We ask that you accept its greeting as representing a genuine desire to give you all that a progressive milk service could offer.

HOOD'S MILK

Distributed by

H. P. HOOD & SONS

for more than 77 years

249 DUTTON ST., LOWELL PHONE LOWELL 6696

ICK TO AMERICAN WAGES, SAYS PRES. COOLIDGE

est Ever," He Tells 125 Labor Leaders Who Called at White House to Promise Their Support—Pledges Effort to Promote Welfare of Workers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—A group of representatives of organized labor pledged their individual support to President Coolidge during a call at the White House yesterday, and heard a pledge by the president to perpetuate conditions which he described as "the best in the history of our wage earners."

Mr. Coolidge said the government was anxious to continue its efforts to promote the welfare of workmen but told his visitors he did not favor a labor government. Likewise he said he did not favor a corporation government, a bank government or a farm government.

"I am for a common sense government," he added, "by all the people according to the American policy and under the American constitution. I want all the people to continue to be partakers in self-government. . . .

Would Keep America American

"We do not need to import any foreign economic ideas or any foreign government. We had better stick to the American brand of government, the American brand of equality and the American brand of wages. America had better stay American."

The president said the government would continue "its efforts to provide healthful surroundings, education, reasonable conditions of employment, fair wages for fair work, stable business prosperity, and the encouragement of religious worship."

125 in Party

The delegation was composed of about 125 men, including members of many labor unions who came to the White House under an arrangement made by T. V. O'Connor, honorary president of the International Longshoremen's union and chairman of the shipping board.

The president received them in the east room, and George Frietas, president of the Licensed Tugmen's association, introduced the visitors to him.

"We all carry union cards," said Mr. Frietas. "Industrially we follow our chosen leaders, but politically we follow no men and no group of men. As citizens we own the right to cast our own vote. We have never parted with the right and never will."

He introduced other spokesmen of the group, who made similar declarations.

A Shot at La Follette

Daniel Smith of the Switchmen's union took a direct shot at the candidacy of Senator La Follette, who has been indorsed by the American Federation of Labor executive committee.

"I am a member of a labor union and have had my card for more than 35 years," he said, "but a labor organization is not and it never will be a political party. The political army which Mr. La Follette is raising reminds me of the armies that are occasionally organized in Mexico for insurrection purposes."

The other speakers were John Drany of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; Joseph Ryan, first vice president of the International Longshoremen's union; and Joseph F. McCa[illegible] of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Worcester, Mass.

New Englanders Present

Other prominent labor leaders present from New England included: Leo L. Gallivan, executive representative Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Framingham, Mass., and Thomas H. Leonard, executive representative Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Worcester, Mass.

The president's speech was loudly applauded, and afterward the party went to the rear of the White House, where Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge posed with them for pictures. The president later entertained his callers at a buffet luncheon in the state dining room.

Coolidge Confers With Butler

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—For the first time since his acceptance of the republican nomination, President Coolidge had an opportunity today to get a comprehensive report on the political outlook from William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, whose recent stay at national headquarters in Chicago has given him a broad view of the general situation.

Mr. Coolidge has not decided upon any definite campaign plans for himself, but it was thought by observers that his conference with Mr. Butler might develop something along this line, and possibly on the Ku Klux Klan. The republican nominee said recently he had no political speaking engagements on his list. Since then, however, he has accepted an invitation to speak before the Holy Name society convention here Sept. 20, and some political advisers have expressed the opinion that if he intends to make any declaraton on the Ku Klux Klan he will do so at that time.

In addition to his conference with Mr. Butler and others the president's schedule also called for a start today on his speech to be delivered in Baltimore Saturday at the unveiling of the Lafayette statue. It is not expected to be of a political nature.

ACCIDENT VICTIMS IN THE HOSPITALS

Slight improvement is reported today at St. John's hospital in the condition of Miss Julia Anderson of Worcester, who was injured in Littleton Sunday evening when the car she was riding in, operated by Howard Cown of New London, Conn., struck a tree.

Gradual improvement is also reported in the condition of Michael McCarthy of 9 Gorham street, at St. John's hospital. McCarthy received a fractured skull and other injuries Saturday afternoon when he fell down a flight of stairs in a house at Linden and Elm streets.

CANADIAN BRIDE OF PRINCE ERIK ILL

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—The Canadian bride of Prince Erik of Denmark, formerly Miss Frances Lois Booth, is seriously ill of blood poisoning at a hospital near here. Infection which set in after the extraction of a wisdom tooth about two weeks ago, is responsible for her condition, according to attending physicians.

Prince Erik is said to be constantly at her bedside.

Wheeler Assails Coolidge

Continued

viewed the Washington scandals of last spring, charged that "the trail leading to Tea Pot Dome and the little Green House on K street, began at the republican convention of 1920," and argued that "corruption in the executive branches of the government at Washington is not a simple matter of individual dishonesty, but is a natural outgrowth of the system by which presidents and vice presidents of the United States have come to be nominated in both the old parties."

Audience Cheers

A sympathetic audience cheered when Wheeler [illegible] of common sense, the [illegible] by Mr. Coolidge in the pr[illegible] paign, the president, if he wo[illegible] the country believe in his hone[illegible] courage, did not order some [illegible] funds appropriated by congress to ferret out crime used in the investigation of the Tea Pot Dome steal," and jeered derisively as the speaker ridiculed Charles G. Dawes, republican vice presidential nominee, "using the title general in memory of his gallant service as commander of the minute men in his war on organized labor," and referring to the battle of Madison Square Garden, declared that "after 16 days, this political mountain brought forth for its presidential candidate—I won't say a mouse—but a man who out-Coolidged Coolidge as a servant of Wall street."

The Montana senator, having been born in Hudson, was speaking on native soil. In the course of the hour and a half that he devoted to a double arraignment of Coolidge and John W. Davis, the democratic presidential nominee, the senator mentioned only casually the indictment obtained against himself in Montana by the department of justice.

Wheeler challenged Mr. Coolidge "to explain to the people of your own state, if you can, why Fall and Forbes and Daugherty were allowed to go scot free while the machinery of the department of justice was employed to frame up an indictment against me to interfere with the investigation into the corruption of the administration of public affairs?"

The speaker referred to the fact that he had been exonerated by a senate committee headed by Senator Borah, "the man whom you, Mr. Coolidge, asked to run with you on the republican ticket."

The sparks began to fly at the festival on the Common when Senator Wheeler recalled colonial traditions and remarked:

"I love the people of Massachusetts, and with them I would rejoice that an adopted son now occupies the White [illegible] the political philosophy of the progressive sons and daughters who have made Massachusetts famous." The applause began when he added that, instead of a government of, by and for the people, we have "a government of, by and for Wall street."

Calvin Coolidge was nominated by "the representatives of the predatory class who met in Cleveland in June, but "corrupt as the republican party is, controlled by the big business as it is, even it," Wheeler told the gathering, "would not have dared to go to the very heart of Wall street and flaunt in the faces of the American people the attorney for Mr. Morgan and the Standard Oil company."

Has Audience Warmed Up

By the time he got to Gen. Dawes, Wheeler had his audience all warmed up. The general, he said, was, like Coolidge, a shining example of conservatism. He (Wheeler) had been called a radical, and he was quite content to be classed with Patrick Henry, Sam Adams, Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln. The conservatives in colonial days, he defined as "those who did not believe in the Revolution until after it was over."

Wheeler challenged anybody to recal an administration "more corrupt, more venal, more destructive of the rights of the people than the administration of the republican party during the last three and a half years."

"Yes," he declared, "the people of this country do hate corruption, Mr. Coolidge—they have had quite enough of it during the last few years of republican rule. They will be glad to know that those charged with wrong-doing will be prosecuted. But they will want to know also why those charged with wrong-doing have not been proecuted before, and whether they are to be punished or only prosecuted.

"What assistance, President Coolidge," the speaker asked, "have you given the investigating committees? Whence this sudden conversion to honesty and this sudden desire to prosecute the guilty.' Explain, Mr. Coolidge, to the people of your state why you pardoned Grossman, the Chicago king of bootleggers, before he had served a day in jail.

Visits Boyhood Home

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Halting momentarily his campaign of New England, Senator Wheeler, vice-presidential candidate on the LaFollette ticket visited his boyhood home early today to renew old acquaintances and memories. His speaking schedule for the day fixed only two engagements, both in the evening hours, at Biddeford and Portland, Me., and his automobile party was turned aside to touch at Hudson, the Massachusetts town where he was born.

In Lowell Wednesday

Monday's four speeches, two of them in the open air, demonstrated to the committee managers for the LaFollette ticket the necessity of conserving Senator Wheeler's strength for the long strain of campaigning until November. His advisers urged that no more than two speeches a day be scheduled for the future, and preliminary programs were modified accordingly.

It is now planned to have the campaign party return from Maine by Wednesday by automobile, via Manchester, N. H., and Lowell, Mass. Thursday and Friday will be given to Connecticut and Rhode Island cities; Saturday, Senator Wheeler will speak in New York city, and Monday he will begin a tour of New York state cities visiting as many as possible before turning south again to Philadelphia on Sept. 13.

TANL VEGETABLE
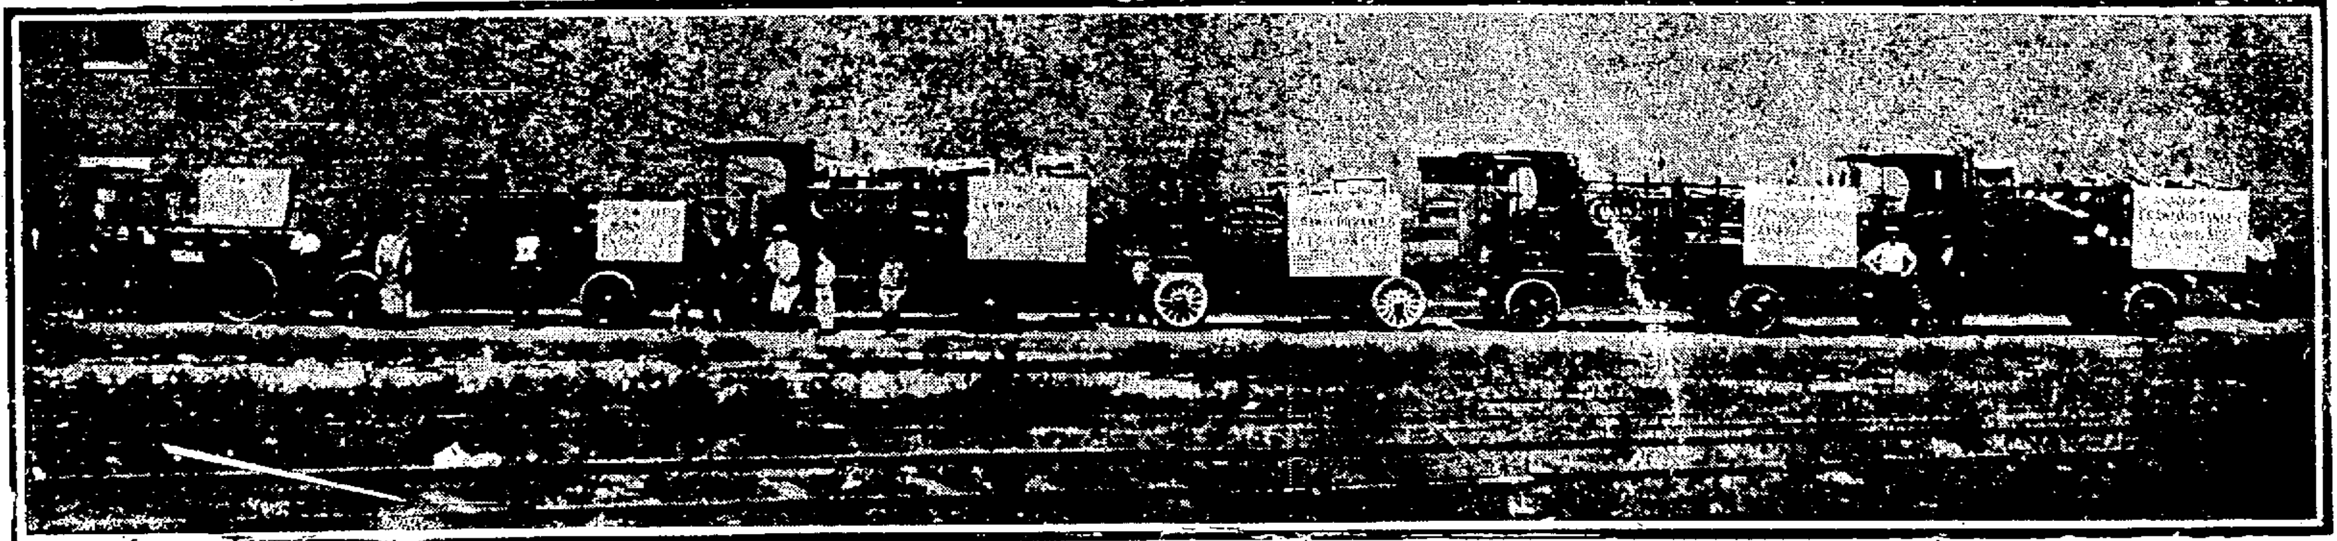
For Constipat



Enough Crawford Ranges and Parlor Stoves Received Wednesday to Fill Two Freight Cars

And We Will Sell Three Times As Many Before January

THEY SAY IT CAN'T BE DONE THIS YEAR, BUT THIS STORE IS ALWAYS DOING THINGS "THEY SAY" CAN'T BE DONE

They said our August Furniture Sale would not amount to anything this year. It has been the biggest August Sale we had in years.

IF THE CRAWFORD was just an ordinarily good range we might have our doubts about selling as many this year.

BUT THE PREPONDERANCE of improvements in the Crawford are so overwhelming that it's only a question of getting the people who are going to buy a range this fall to come and examine the Crawford, not only its beautiful design and castings, but the way it is made "inside." That is what tells the story, when it comes to baking perfectly and doing it easier and with less coal.

THE SUPERIORITY OF THE CRAWFORD is so easily demonstrated that seldom does anyone leave the store without buying If they do, they always come back—

BECAUSE it's the best range made.

BECAUSE they are made in 14 different styles and sizes and prices.

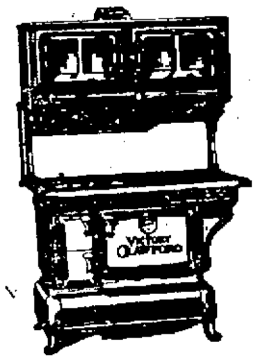
BECAUSE style for style and size for size, the Crawford costs no more than other makes that have nowhere the qualtiy, style and improvement that the Crawford has.

BECAUSE they can be bought on convenient terms of credit. We have no fixed schedule, we arrange terms to suit the convenience of our customers.

We could not write the above if we were not convinced that Crawford Ranges and Parlor Stoves would back every word we write. However, use your good judgment and the only way is to see the Crawford at

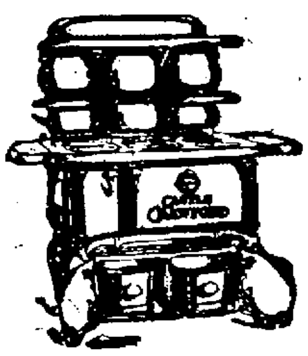
A. E. O'Heir & Co.

15 HURD STREET—BEFORE YOU BUY



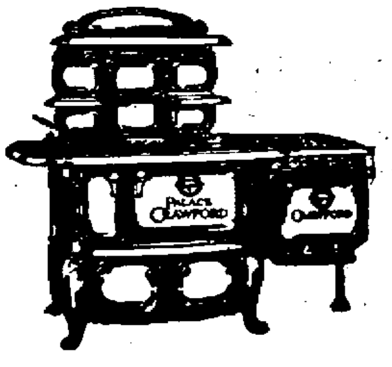
THE VICTORY CRAWFORD

Two ranges in one. Coal and Gas. Now made in two sizes, one takes only 37 inches space, the other 43 inches.



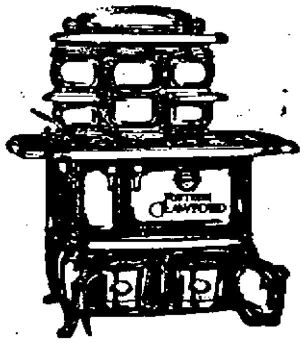
THE CASTLE CRAWFORD

With ash and coal hod in base. Gives you a range with same size oven and fire pot in less space.



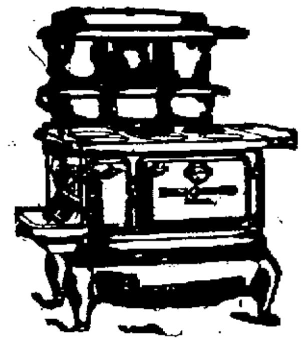
THE PALACE CRAWFORD

With Gas End Oven and Broiler. Every Crawford can be equipped with a gas oven.



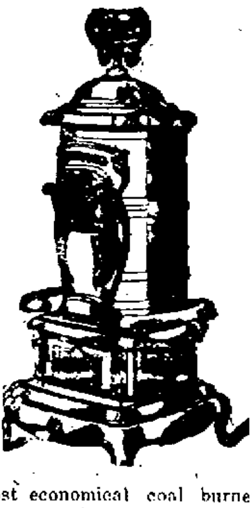
THE FORTRESS CRAWFORD

The medium size range, large enough for an ordinary family.



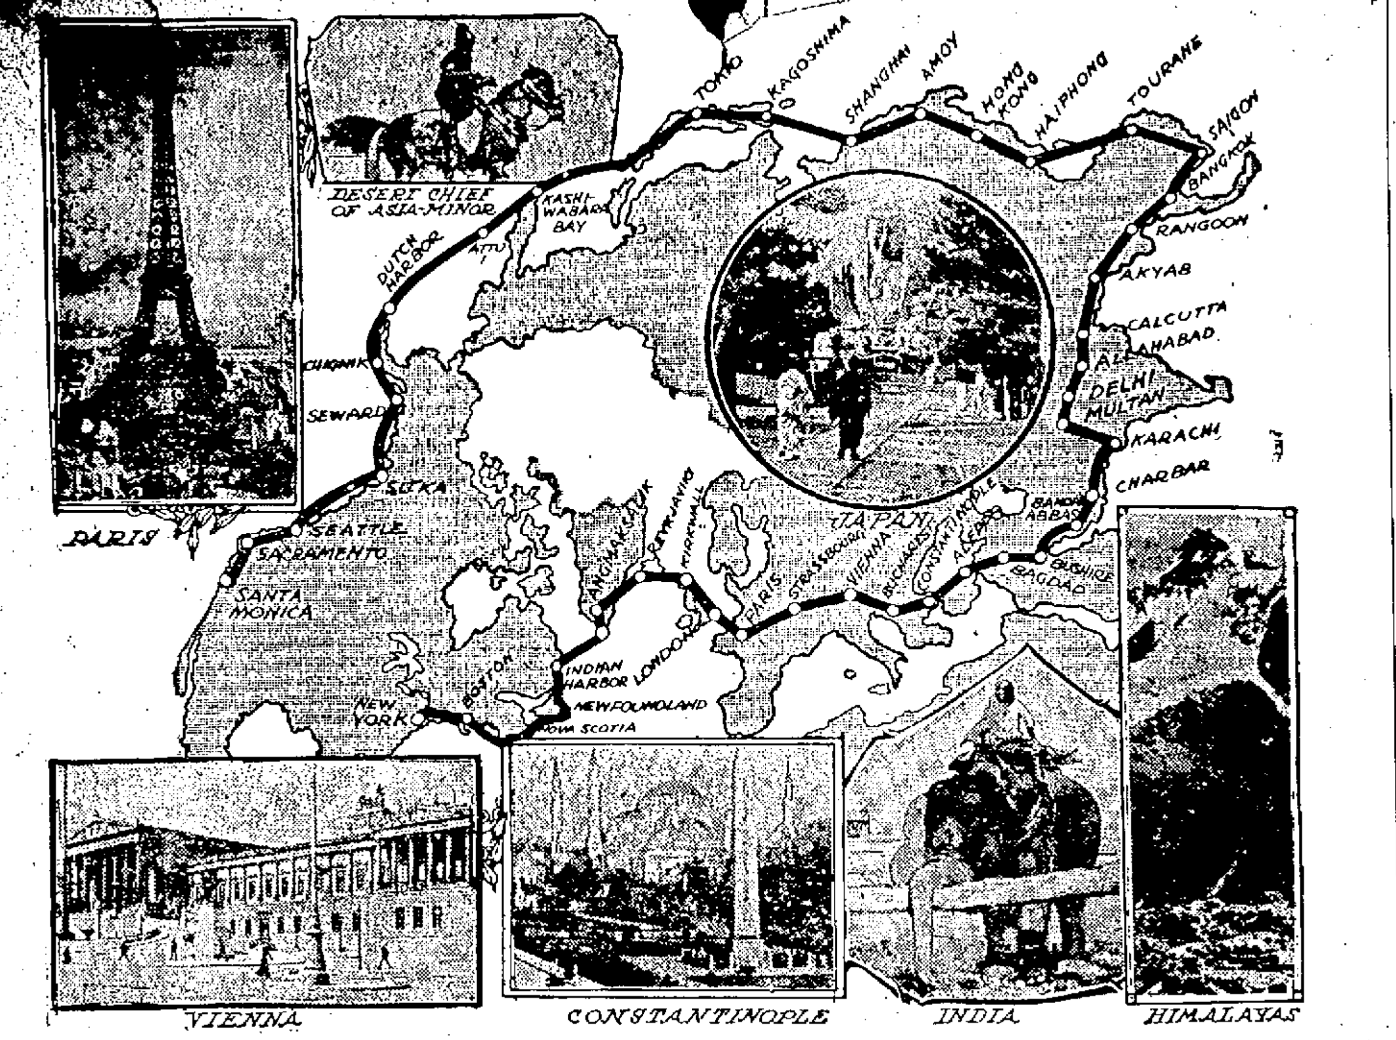
THE HOME CRAWFORD

With ash pan in front. This is an old style, but people like them, so we carry 5 sizes in this style.



The most economical coal burner made has heat flue clear under the base.

Americans Viewed Al[illegible] in Great Flight



Upon their arrival yesterday on the Atlantic coast of the North American continent the round-the-world fliers of the United States Army Air Service completed the most marvelous achievement in the history of aviation to date—the virtual encircling of the globe in heavier-than-air machines. Before the flight was commenced Major General Patrick, chief of the army air service, said the completion of it would be a feat of importance paralleling that of Magellan, who in 1509, was the first man to circumnavigate the globe.

The story of the historic and record-breaking flight compares with the most gripping adventure tales of fiction. Like the pioneers of any expedition blazing a new trail, these intrepid airmen, the first to fly around the world, of necessity had to be men of courage and with nerves of steel. Notwithstanding the carefully laid plans for the trip there were certain hardships which could not be avoided—those that must necessarily accompany an undertaking of such magnitude, compelling as it did flights in all kinds of climate ranging from the frigid Arctic weather of the North Pacific late in March to the near tropical conditions encountered in the Far East in June.

All manner of weather had to be contended with, the elements apparently having no sympathy with the laudable ambition of these men to be the first to fly around the world. Treacherous gales, violent rains and blinding blizzards were encountered in the Alaskan regions before the fliers hopped off the North American continent for the first attempt of airplanes to wing their way across the Pacific. Fog was a dangerous factor and when the aviators reached down into the torrid zone in the far east they encountered tropical winds and rains and in India ran into a sand storm.

Series of Mishaps

What misfortune or ill-luck there was in the adventure seemed to attach itself to the commander and the flag plane of the squadron. Major Fred L. Martin, who was flight commander at the start, had a series of mishaps along the North Pacific coast of the North American continent culminating in his flag plane, the Seattle, crashing into a mountain on the Alaska peninsula. Major Martin and his mechanician, Sergeant Alva Harvey, escaped unhurt, but their plane was destroyed. Nothing was heard from the two men for ten days, despite a thorough search of the regions, and hopes for them were about to be given up when a radiogram from Major Martin to the chief of the army air service announced their safety. This accident eliminated Major Martin and his mechanician from further participation in the flight.

When the accident occurred Major Martin was piloting his plane in a fog toward Dutch Harbor on Unalaska Island to join his companions. The commander, due to a crack in the crank shaft which caused a leakage of fuel, was forced down on the flight from Seward to Chignik, April 15, and he and Harvey were forced to spend the night in their plane. They were found the next day by the destroyer Hull, both men suffering somewhat from exposure. Two weeks were required to obtain a new engine for the Seattle from Kanatak, 120 miles distant, and in the meantime the other fliers rested at Dutch Harbor waiting for the commander to join them.

Major Martin left Chignik on April 30, and shortly after noon bumped into the mountain. When no word had been received from him the next day all the fishing boats in the regions were urged to aid in the search for the two men in the waters south of the Alaska peninsula, while dog teams took up the search on land. Later an army airplane scouted over the territory.

After the crash Major Martin and his mechanician retrieved some of their food supplies from the wreck and started down the mountain side. Seven days elapsed before they came upon a trapper's cabin at the southernmost point of Port Moller bay. They were exhausted. There they found food and rested for three days, then walked to the beach, whence Martin sent his radiogram to Washington. In it he said the two men owed their existence to concentrated food and nerve.

When it became apparent that Major Martin could not continue the flight, orders were dispatched to the others to proceed without him.

Lieut. Smith Takes Command

Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, who succeeded Major Martin as flight commander, was the victim of virtually all trouble that was encountered after that, but it was minor trouble compared to the accident which befell Major Martin. Lieutenant Smith had considerable engine trouble and at one stage of the flight in Japan his fellow-fliers were obliged for a day to proceed without him. At Calcutta he suffered a broken rib in a fall from a culvert on the flying field.

With one exception the aviators were hospitably welcomed everywhere they landed and the various governments co-operated in looking after the needs of the airmen as well as providing entertainment for them. The one exception was when the squadron hopped off the North American continent for its flight across the Pacific, a distance of 878 miles and to accomplish which it would be necessary to break the existing non-stop seaplane flight of 792 miles. A severe storm encountered en route forced the fliers down off shore at Komandorski on an island owned by Russia. The Soviets refused permission to land, but the Americans had gotten out of the storm and were ready to take off again just as the Russians' decision was received.

The most arduous part of the flight was the northward trip along the Pacific coast of the North American continent. Encountering heavy storms, both rain and snow, as well as strong winds and the accidents to Major Martin's plane, the fliers were frequently delayed several days at a time. After the three who completed the trip reached the Far East there was little delay aside from that planned for them, but despite this they were 16 days behind the original schedule when they arrived at Paris, July 14. This was due to the unusual delays that were caused before the men left the North American continent.

The primary purpose of the flight was to determine the physical practicability of an around-the-world air route with heavier-than-air machines of present development. In making the plans for the flight no consideration whatever was given to attempts to make a time record because the successful completion of the feat, regardless of the time required, was the main object. It was this that caused Major General Patrick to decline a proposition of British air officials to make the flight a sporting proposition in competition with A. Stuart MacLaren, British aviator. The latter started his attempt to fly around the world in the opposite direction from the Americans March 25 from Southampton. Notwithstanding that the American fliers were not out to make a time record their feat will stand as such, since they were the first to complete the trip, until some other aviator does it in less time.

First to Fly Across Pacific

Achieving their main object the fliers incidentally brought to the United States another honor—that of being the first nation to make a flight across the Pacific ocean—as it was the first to make the flight across the Atlantic. These honors are about all the glory the fliers will get out of their record-breaking and history-making performance. It was recently disclosed in Washington that their only additional reward will be a letter of commendation, written by Secretary of War Weeks, to be attached to their service records. The secretary asked congress at the last session to permit him to promote certain junior officers in recognition of unusual service, having in mind at the time Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan for his dawn-to-dusk flight across the continent, and the round-the-world fliers. Secretary Weeks expressed regret that congress failed to authorize him to promote the world fliers or give them some decoration for their accomplishment.

The flight was started March 17 from Clover Field, Santa Monica, Cal., the squadron being made up of four planes as follows: Seattle, flag plane, with Major Fred L. Martin as pilot, and Sergeant Alva Harvey as mechanician; Chicago, Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, pilot, and Leslie P. Arnold, mechanician; Boston, Lieutenant Leigh Wade, pilot; Lieutenant Henry H. Ogden, mechanician; New Orleans, Lieutenant Eric H. Nelson and Lieutenant John Harding, Jr., mechanician.

On the first day the squadron hopped to Sacramento, covering 370 miles of the journey which was estimated between 27,000 and 30,000 miles. The second leg of the journey was 550 miles to Seattle, where the fliers arrived March 20 after stops at Eugene, Ore., and Vancouver, Wash. They were delayed at Seattle by bad weathe and in making minor repairs to the planes until April 6, when they hopped to Prince Rupert, B. C., 650 miles, arriving the same day. It was at this point that the first accident occurred to Major Martin's plane, the Seattle being damaged in landing.

Encountered Snow Storm

April 10 the air cruisers did 300 miles to Sitka, Alaska, where unfavorable weather delayed them three days, after which they again took the air and went 610 miles to Seward. On that stretch they encountered their first snow storm, but they resumed their trip April 15 for the 450-mile flight to Chignik, which proved to be the last of the trip for Major Martin with his companions. It was during that flight he was forced down near Cape Igvak by the defective crank shaft.

Lieuts. Smith, Wade and Nelson flew from Chignik to Dutch Harbor, 400 [illegible] April 16, and remained there until May 3, when they were directed to proceed without Major Martin. On that day the three remaining planes covered 350 miles, which brought them to Atka Island. After a delay of six days they hopped 530 miles on May 9 to Attu Island, the farthest west bit of land belonging to the North American continent.

Another delay of seven days was occasioned by unfavorable weather, but the birdmen got away for the flight across the Pacific on May 16; and although they encountered rain, snow and fog for nearly half the distance, they arrived safely in Kashiwabara Bay, Paramashiru Island, Japan, thus completing the first flight across the ocean.

Hopping off from Paramashiru May 19, they flew 500 miles to Yetorofu, and three days later 354 miles brought them to Minato on the main island of Japan. Good weather at this point impelled the aviators to go on and a second flight on May 22 took them 350 miles to Kasumigaura, the air base for Tokio. Here the aviators remained a week overhauling their machines. During the time a series of festivals in their honor was held in Tokio.

Lieut. Smith Delayed

Resuming on June 1 the squadron winged its way 350 miles to Kushimoto and the next day went another 350 miles to Kagoshima, the last stop in Japan. The aviators thus completed the first flight over the empire of Nippon ever made by United States army men.

Lieut. Smith, who had been acting commander since the elimination of Maj. Martin, was formally appointed commander June 3 and the next day had his first bit of "commander's luck" which had followed Maj. Martin from the outset. Leaving Kagoshima June 4, Lieut. Smith's plane developed engine trouble and refused to ascend. He directed Lieuts. Wade and Nelson to make the hop of 610 miles across the China sea to Shanghai and he followed the next day, covering the distance in one hour and 15 minutes less than his companions required. A stretch of 555 miles to Amoy was covered June 7 and the next day they flew 300 miles to Hongkong.

After a day's rest in Hongkong the three planes made 500 miles June 10, bringing them to Haipong and the next day a flight of 800 miles landed them at Tourane. Here Commander Smith experienced more engine trouble and a delay of five days was necessitated while a new engine was installed in his machine.

On June 16 the aviators reached the nearest point to the equator, when they [illegible] distance of 826 miles, led them to Bangkok, [illegible] away, which they cover[illegible] and two days later a flight of [illegible] miles to Rangoon, Burma, was made. One of the planes upon descending collided with a cargo boat, damaging the wings which necessitated a delay of five days for repairs. The 445 miles from Rangoon to Akyab were covered June 25 and the next day in going to Calcutta, a distance of 400 miles, it was necessary to make a ten-minute detour out to sea to avoid a storm.

The fliers remained in Calcutta until July 1 and in the meantime Commander Smith suffered a broken rib in a fall from a culver on the flying field. However, he accompanied his companions on the flight to Allahabad, 475 miles distant. The fliers had little or no difficulty in Cochin, China, where they followed the coast line, but they could not avoid the jungles east of Delhi. Here for seven hours, according to a story by Lieut. Wade, the aviators flew over the tree tops, fighting the winds and were able to see plainly the wild beasts below. On one occasion, he said, a tiger was seen and he could have shot him if he had a gun.

Jungles of India

After getting beyond the jungles of India, the aviators experienced no trouble. Proceeding July 2 they made a hop of 500 miles from Allahabad to Umbella and the same day made another short jump to Multan. July 3 they flew 475 miles to Karachi, their last stop in India, where they were again delayed by engine trouble. Leaving Karachi July 7 they made Charbar, Persia, 330 miles away, proceeded to Bender Abbas, another flight of the same distance. A total of 875 miles were covered July 8 in flights to Bushire and thence to Bagdad. The next day 450 miles brought them to Aleppo, Syria, and on June 10 they winged it approximately 600 miles to reach Constantinople.

A day out of the planes was taken in Constantinople and then successive day flights of 300 and 650 miles each landed them in Vienna July 13, an overnight stop having been made at Bucharest and a short stop at Budapest en route to Vienna. The fliers went July 14 from Vienna to Paris, a distance of 650 miles. In the French capital they received one of the most enthusiastic welcomes of the trip and after a day proceeded to London, where a stay of ten days was scheduled to prepare the machines for the hop across the Atlantic.

From London the schedule arranged to bring the aviators to the Atlantic coast of the North American continent included stops at Hull, England, then [illegible] Hornafjord, Iceland, 300 miles; Reykjavik, Iceland, 2[illegible] miles; Angmagsalik, Greenland, the m northerly point touched in the Atlant 500 miles; to Ivigtut, Greenland, miles, and to Indian harbor, Labrad 572 miles.

Back in United States

The remainder of the trip will tak the fliers to Cartwright harbor, Labrador, 40 miles; thence to Hawkes ba Newfoundland, 290 miles, and on Pictou harbor, Nova Scotia, 420 mile From the last point the aviators wil begin to think of home, which to then after such a trip will be the entir United States. A flight of 530 mile will bring them down along the Maine coast to Boston, with only two more hops left, one of 185 miles to Mitchel field, and another of 220 miles to Washington.

Originally it was intended to have the flight end at Washington, but a short time ago officials of the air service announced that they favored Clover field, Cal., as the finishing point in order that the air route around the world actually would be completed. It is proposed to have the fliers leave Washington for the cross-continent flight, following the route to Moundsville, W. Va., Dayton, Ohio, and then along the air mail line as far west perhaps as Sacramento, Cal., before turning south to Clover Field.

Air officials plan to have the trip west made as expeditiously as possible in order that efforts to beat the record of the American fliers, which are expected to be started generally may be made as difficult as possible.

One Grateful Mother's Tribute

"I would not be without the famous

Dr. True's Elixir

for it is a faithful friend all year 'round. At first signs of dull feeling, fatigue or restlessness I give my children a few doses and then rest assured that everything will be all right."—Mrs. Flora Desaults, Worcester, Mass.

The "kiddies" LIKE Dr. True's Elixir—grandmothers call it

The True Family Laxative

Will relieve every member of the family of constipation. $1.20; 60c; 40c.

Successfully used for over 73 years

A Doctor of Many Years' Experience Says

After a Severe Illness of Flu, Grip Pneumonia, or Other Weakening Diseases, There Is Nothing That Brings Back Health and Strength So Quickly as Nuga-Tone

After such weakening diseases you should try Nuga-Tone. It will more than surprise you how quickly you begin to feel the return of health and strength. Readers of this paper will find Nuga-Tone a wonderful remedy in such cases. It is a simple, pleasant remedy that increases strength and vigor and builds up the blood and body quickly. Nuga-Tone brings refreshing sleep, fine appetite, stimulates the kidneys and liver and regulates the stomach and bowels so nicely. Try it and you will begin to feel better in a few days. The manufacturers of Nuga-Tone know so well what it will do in such cases that they compel all druggists to guarantee it and refund your money when you are not satisfied. See guarantee on each package. Recommended, guaranteed and for sale by all druggists.—Adv.

SO EASY TO GET RID OF HEADACHES

"Fruit-atives" Smoothes Away the Pain

Headaches are always the result of poisoned blood. If food is not properly digested; if the bowels are not regular; or if the kidneys are weak and irritated; then impurities are taken up by the blood and carried to the nerves of the head causing dreadful headaches.

The Fruit Treatment is the most effective means of keeping the blood pure. "Fruit-a-tives," the wonderful combination of the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes—intensified and combined with tonics—are a complete fruit treatment for Headaches, whether the headaches are due to Neuralgia, Nervousness, Biliousness, Indigestion, Constipation or Irritated Kidneys.

Just try the Fruit Treatment for your Headaches, in the form of "Fruit-a-tives." Your druggist has them. 25c. and 50c. a box—or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ogdensburg, N. Y.—Adv.

HOW TO PRESERVE

All of the short cuts and recipes for Fall preserving—and Autumn housekeeping hints known to New England housewives—are printed in the household columns of the Boston Daily and Sunday Globe. Read the Boston Globe today.

$2.50 Per Day and upward

is one reason for the rapidly growing popularity of the Hotel Martinique.

Another is the consistent economy of the entire establishment. Here you may enjoy a Club Breakfast at 45c., consisting of Fruit or Cereal, Bacon and Egg, and Rolls and Coffee —Special Luncheon and Dinners of superior quality are also served at the most moderate possible prices.

No location can be possibly more convenient than that of the Martinique. One block from the Pennsylvania Station (via enclosed subway)—Nine blocks from Grand Central—one block from the greatest and best Shops of the City—half a dozen blocks from the Opera and the leading Theatres—and directly connected with the Subway to any part of the City you wish to reach.

"The BEST without extravagance"

Hotel Martinique

Affiliated with Hotel McAlpin

Broadway—32nd to 33rd Sts. NEW YORK

A. E. Singleton, Manager.

Quick Safe Relief

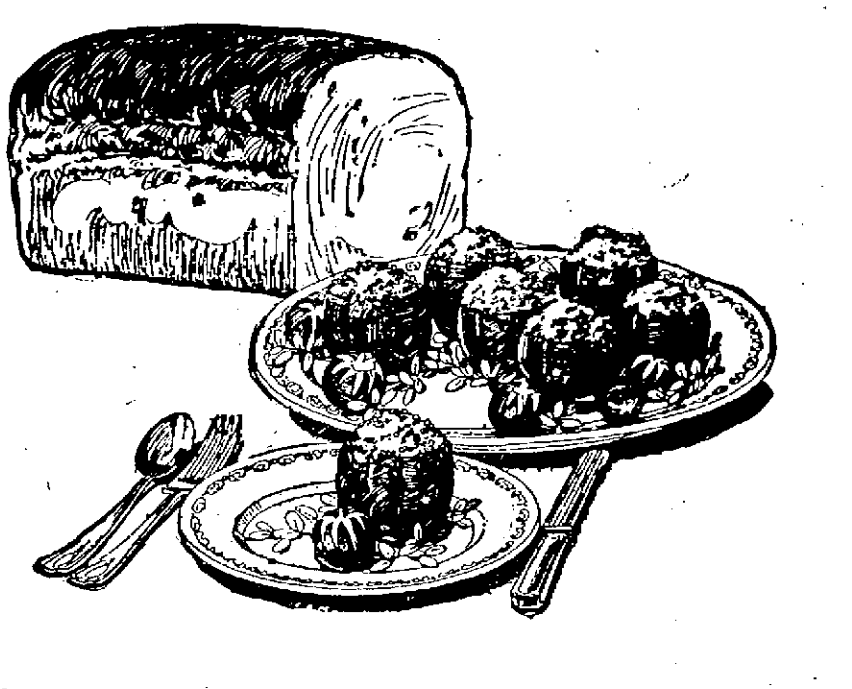
CORNS

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads stop corns hurting instantly. Remove the cause—friction and pressure. They are thin, medicated, antiseptic, waterproof. Absolutely safe! Easy to apply. Get them at your druggist's or shoe dealer's.

Three Sizes—for corns, callouses, bunions

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

"Put one on—the pain is gone".



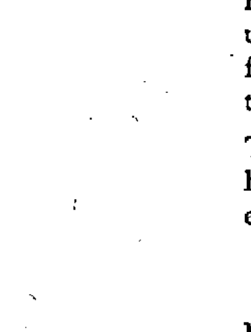
Better for Bread Dishes

BETSY ROSS bread offers you unlimited possibilities for giving variation to your meals. It can be made up into any number of delightful dishes—many of them easy to make, and all so good that your family will like them. Serve Betsy Ross regularly in the usual way, and make it a part of some other food in the meal. It makes all bread dishes taste better.

The fine quality of Betsy Ross is well known here. It can be depended upon to give a liberal measure of real bread goodness.

Old Home Potato Bread

Mother's own bread is our pattern in making Old Home Potato Bread. It is made as she herself would make it, and it has the same delicious taste the bread she made always had. Such flavor is seldom found in bread nowadays, but you'll find it in Old Home.



Betsy Ross

MOREHOUSE BAKING CO.

[illegible]

George Legrand of the Indian Head Construction company gave an outing to his employes, numbering about 35, at a camp in Lakeview on Sunday afternoon, and the affair proved a great success. The participants were conveyed to the outing grounds in automobiles and immediately upon their arrival activities began. A fine list of sports, followed by a lobster-turkey dinner with all the fixins' made up the regular program. An event not listed followed which proved a big feature of the day. With the inner man well taken care of, one of the party arose and after paying a glowing tribute to the host, not only for his kindness on "outing day," but for his fair and honorable treatment of his employes at all times, presented him a beautiful token, expressing the wish that it will always serve as a slight reminder of the pleasant occasion and of the esteem in which he is held by his employes.

BUILDING PERMITS REPRESENT $130,000

Building permits for construction work estimated to cost approximately $130,000 were issued in the lands and buildings department at city hall late Saturday.

The larger of the two was issued to the City Institution for Savings for the construction of a new bank building in Central street at an estimated cost of $75,000. William Drapeau of this city is the contractor.

The second permit was issued to the Genoa club for the reconstruction of the Knights of Columbus home in Dutton street which was destroyed in the Associate building fire early in April of this year. Frederick F. Meloy is the contractor and the cost is estimated at approximately $55,000.

POLLING BOOTH LOCATIONS CHANGED

Three changes in the location of polling booths, affecting ward 1, precinct 2; ward 3, precinct 3, and ward 8, precinct 4, were announced this morning by the election commission.

The booth for ward 1, precinct 2, was for years located adjacent to the corner of Bridge and First streets. This has been moved to the junction of First street and the Lawrence boulevard, opposite Read street.

Voters in ward 3, precinct 3, will find their polling booth at Pine street next to Willis' market instead of in the Morey school, as in previous years.

In ward 8 the polling booth for precinct 3, formerly located in the car barn in Middlesex street, is at the corner of Foster and Middlesex streets.

PINES COMMUNITY HOLDS FIELD DAY

Success attended the banners of the Pines Community association of Billerica, which conducted its annual field day last Saturday. Water sports and track events were featured on the entertainment program. Special ceremonies were conducted during the raising of a new flag on the community grounds pole.

Little children took prominent parts. Hundreds of small flags were released from the larger American emblem when it was flung to the breeze from the top of the pole at the close of the patriotic ceremony. There were appropriate addresses, followed by a band concert and dancing.

SLIGHT ADVANCE IN PRICE OF COAL

Prices for various grades and sizes of anthracite coals, will be advanced from 10 to 15 cents per ton to consumers, beginning tomorrow. All local coal dealers will list the new figures on their price lists.

With the increase in effect, the prices for anthracite will be as follows: Egg coal, nut, $15; buckwheat, $12.50; Jeddo egg, $18.50; Jeddo stove and nut, $19; all sizes of Franklin will be $19.50 a ton.

These price will be subject to a discount of 50 cents a ton for cash within 10 days.

WILL REMAIN IN NORWICH

Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the Norwich, Conn. chamber of commerce, who had accepted an offer to become secretary of the Fitchburg chamber, has decided to remain in Norwich. The executives of the organization where Mr. O'Rourke has been performing excellent service since Nov. 1, 1920, after leaving a position as assistant secretary of the Lowell charmber, insisted that he change his mind about accepting the Fitchburg offer, and he has done so.

The directors of the Norwich organization announce that they cannot afford to lose an executive who has accomplished a great deal in the way of securing road improvements, better street lighting systems and the establishment of a recreation commission, since his advent to the wide-awake city.

The following are the duly elected and qualified officers of the Washington Savings Institution:

PRESIDENT
WILLIAM A. HOGAN

VICE-PRESIDENTS
PATRICK O'HEARN
CHARLES H. HANSON
JOHN E. DRURY

TREASURER
FRANK A. GROVES

ASSISTANT TREASURER
MARGARET R. CASSIDY

BOARD OF INVESTMENT
WM. A. HOGAN, PATRICK O'HEARN, CHARLES H. HANSON, JOHN E. DRURY, WM. F. FARRELL, ROBERT E. CROWLEY, CORNELIUS E. COLLINS.

TRUSTEES

One Year—Cornelius E. Collins, William L. Gookin, Frank A. Groves, William A. Hogan, Thomas B. O'Hearn, Frederick F. Meloy.

Two Years—Robert E. Crowley, John E. Drury, William F. Farrell, Charles H. Hanson, Patrick O'Hearn, Paul Vigeant.

Three Years—P. Noe Brunelle, Patrick H. Daley, Frank D. Donovan, Harry S. Drury, John J. Healey, Daniel E. Hogan.

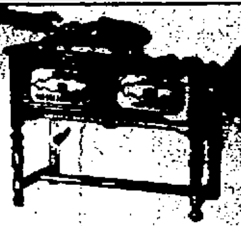
The following are members of the Corporation: P. Noe Brunelle, Cornelius E. Collins, Eugene F. Crane, Robert E. Crowley, Patrick H. Daley, Frank D. Donovan, John T. Donehue, Harry S. Drury, John E. Drury, William F. Farrell, William L. Gookin, William A. Gourley, Adam Groves, Frank A. Groves, Charles H. Hanson, John J. Healey, James F. Hennessey, Daniel E. Hogan, John J. Hogan, William A. Hogan, Frederick F. Meloy, Patrick O'Hearn, Thomas B. O'Hearn, Albert E. O'Heir, Humphrey O'Sullivan, Frederick H. Rourke, Daniel T. Sullivan and Paul Vigeant.

Signed:
WILLIAM L. GOOKIN, Clerk.

KITCHEN DEPARTMENT SPECIALS
WEAR-EVER ALUMINUM
Preserving Kettles
10 Quart Size
$1.95
COVERS .... 60c Each

ROBERTSON'S
82 PRESCOTT STREET

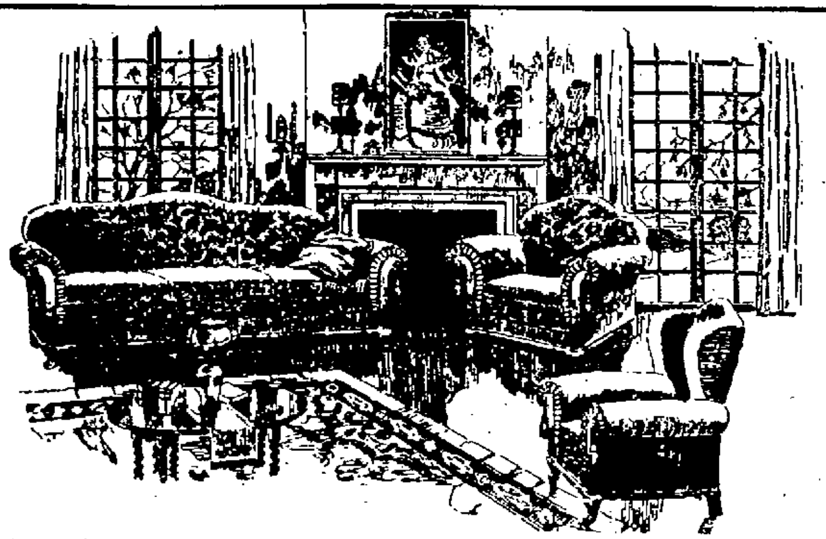
Serving Table
Suitable for Radio Cabinet. Priced....... $25



September Furniture Values

GOOD FURNITURE LOWER IN PRICE THAN FOR SEVEN YEARS

Without Sacrific— Quality, We Can Offer You Honest Built Furniture at These Low Prices. Piece for Piece—Quality for Quality Our Prices We Guarantee Are the Lowest Absolutely.



SPECIAL

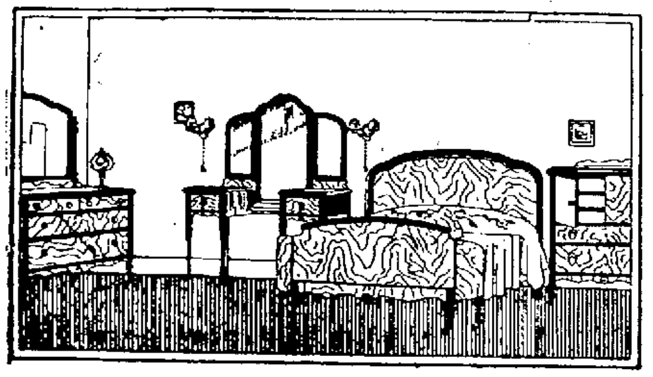
Upholstered Living Room Suites

THE MOST IMPORTANT ITEM OF ALL—Will these suites hold their shape—their coverings wear? Are they good values? These suites we guarantee to endure. Every one of them is built with the most necessary webbing supporting the springs and underframe. The coverings are all of good grade material.

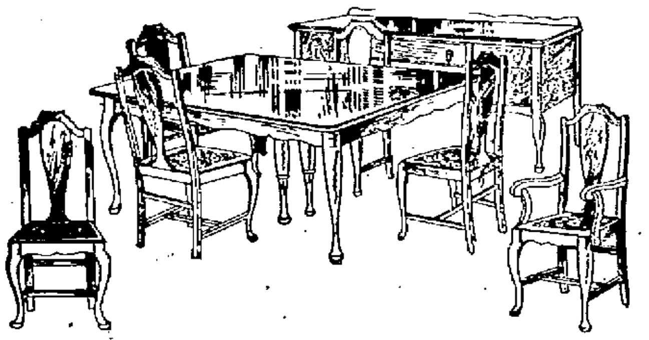
GROUP I
Suites in this group formerly sold at prices varying from $150 to $195. Suite consists of divan, chair and wing chair. All have the high grade web seat construction. Priced..... $135

GROUP II
This group comprises suites that formerly sold at prices ranging from $200 to $250. Suites consist of divan, chair and wing chair. Choice of tapestry or velour covering. Built with web seat construction. Prioed $175

GROUP III
Group III comprises suites formerly priced from $275 to $350. Divan, chair and wing chair. Choice of tapestry, velour or mohair covering. Suites priced at $250

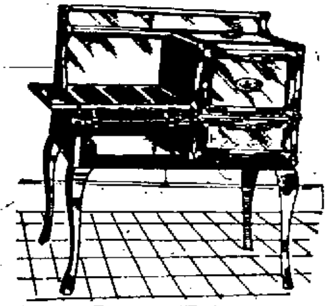


4-Piece Chamber Suite
New French Walnut Finish
THIS SUITE IS AN UNSURPASSED DOLLAR-FOR-DOLLAR VALUE—For the money you'll see nothing finer anywhere! The new light finish on this suite is especially attractive. Never have we had four pieces of furniture that would equal this value. Good sized dresser, chiffonier, dressing table and bow-end bed. Special price.......... $145



A COMBINATION OF PRICE AND QUALITY HARD TO EQUAL!—8 pieces—60-in. buffet, oblong table, and set of five chairs and master's chair. Suite is sturdily built of combination walnut. Priced $145

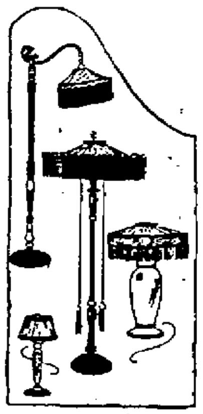
QUAKER GAS RANGES



Just like Quaker Ranges, "Built to Bake." Priced
$40 to $75

SPECIAL PRICES—LAMPS

THIS FLOOR LAMP $17.50
THIS BRIDGE LAMP $11.95
BOUDOIR LAMP $4.00
TABLE LAMP $15.00



Better Bedding at Low Prices
Lowell's Largest Bedding Dept.

FOR SEPTEMBER SPECIAL
COTTON FELT MATTRESS—
Rolled Edge $18

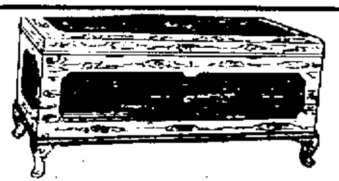
ALL RUGS ARE PURCHASED DIRECT FROM FACTORY

SPECIALISTS IN ODD SIZE RUGS

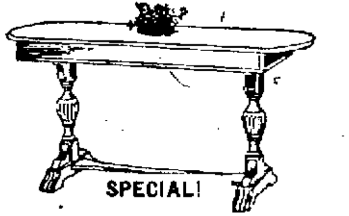
STILL LOWER IN PRICE

AXMINSTER HEAVY		WILTON		TAPESTRY
Size 9x12	$42.50	Size 9x12	$87.50	Size 9x12	$21.50
Size 8.3x10.6......	$39.00	Size 8.3x10.6	$82.00	Size 8.3x10.6	$18.50
Size 6x9	$27.00	Size 6x9	$62.00	Size 6x9	$14.50

LARGEST RUG DEPARTMENT IN MIDDLESEX COUNTY



THE CEDAR CHEST STORE OF LOWELL
Always a large assortment from which to make selection.



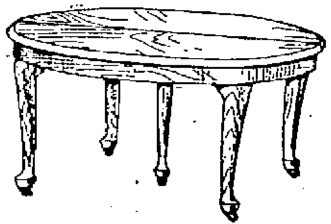
SPECIAL!
DIVAN TABLE COMBINATION
Mahogany—(Like cut) $30.00

GIFT SHOP
Second Floor
GLASSWARE
BOOK ENDS
MIRRORS

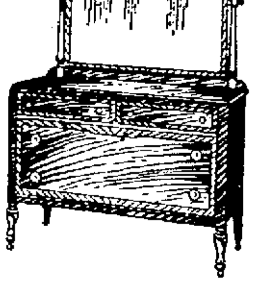
PICTURES
TEA SETS
CANDLESTICKS

"A GIFT FOR EVERY NEED"
SPECIAL FOR SEPTEMBER
Three-piece Colored Glass BUFFET SET $2.50
Colors—Blue, Amber, Green
BUFFET MIRROR $13.50
Three panes

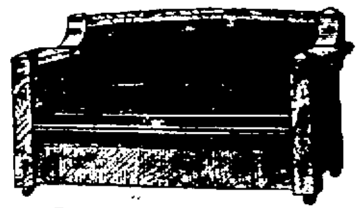
ODD PIECES—DINING TABLE



Queen Anne design—combination walnut 48-inch.
Priced $35.00



WALNUT FINISHED DRESSER
Price $35.00



DAVENPORT BED
$45.00
Mattress extra

[illegible] HARRINGTON, Proprietor
[illegible]DING. LOWELL, MASS.
[illegible] Member of the Associated Press
[illegible] Press is exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches [illegible] to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published herein.

NATIONAL DEFENSE DAY

Whenever any demonstration of patriotism is called for, Lowell always stands in the front ranks as she always has done. When Lincoln called for troops to save the national capital in 1861, Lowell was the first to respond and it was three Lowell men, Ladd, Whitney and Taylor who became the protomartyrs of that memorable struggle, having fallen in the first battle of the war when attacked on the streets of Baltimore on their way with a Lowell company to Washington.

We are to have a National Defense day on the 12th instant, when our citizens are expected to turn out in public parade as a proof of their loyalty and their readiness to respond to any call for service in defense of the country or the flag. Whether there is any need for such a demonstration is not our business to discuss. The call is issued and we should respond. Arrangements will be made for the enrollment of civilians for their appearance in line on that occasion. This is not a military enlistment, of course, but it is a means of ascertaining the readiness of the masses to respond to a government call in an emergency. There is no military necessity for such a call at the present time; but this Defense day is to be carried out for reasons similar to those for which a fire drill is ordered in schools. It calls for no special sacrifice on the part of civil or military bodies; and yet a prompt and general response for a public demonstration on this occasion will offer assurance that our citizens are on the alert and ready for service when their country calls. The assurance that such is the case, is all that the government wants and a big turnout will offer convincing proof that in any emergency our people can be mobilized for service at short notice. That means preparedness and preparedness means national security.

THE CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

We are heartily in favor of any proper step to abolish the abuses of child labor throughout the land; but we do not believe that to accomplish this end it is necessary to invest congress with the power to usurp parental authority and even prohibit the labor of all minors under 18 years of age, as provided in the proposed amendment to the constitution submitted to the states for ratification.

The text of the amendment is as follows:

> Section 1. The congress shall have power to limit, regulate, and prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age.
>
> Section 2. The power of the several states is unimpaired by this article, except that the operation of state laws shall be suspended to the extent necessary to give effect to legislation enacted by the congress.

It will be seen from the first section that this amendment would unequivocally invest congress with the power to prohibit the labor of all minors under 18 years of age, something that would be utterly intolerable and a revolutionary invasion of the people's rights. It is difficult to understand why such language was included in the amendment, the purpose of which is, or at least was believed to be, merely regulative.

But the meaning of this provision is unmistakable. It would empower the federal government to exercise absolute control over all persons of school age and up to the age of 18 years. It would evidently call for a horde of inspectors, perhaps far more numerous than those now engaged in the enforcement of the liquor law. It may easily be imagined what a spirit of resistance would be aroused against a law that would compel persons of 18 years of age to remain idle, even though their parents needed their support or wished to have them employed in any legitimate capacity to which the government objected. The fact is, that this amendment more than any other ever proposed, would grant the federal government sweeping and unprecedented power over the youth of the land. It would result in a revolutionary transformation of the traditional relation between local and federal authority. It would also usurp to a very great extent the right of parents to direct the activities of their children during the school age as they might desire within the long established provisions of law.

It is plain that every humane person will strongly oppose child labor and all the abuses to which children are subjected when employed in factories while under 14 years of age. The evil of child labor has become so objectionable and so serious, especially in the southern states, that something must be done to wipe it out. Already congress has passed two distinct laws intended to abolish or prevent such labor, but both have been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court of the United States. The result is that several members of congress submitted bills providing for an amendment of the constitution, and the text of the amendment was finally adopted in the form quoted above.

It is most unfortunate that the actual prohibition of labor by all persons up to the age of 18 years, has been embodied in the amendment as this provision has already stirred up vigorous opposition to the measure even outside the southern states. In this connection it is well to remember the warning of John Fiske, the eminent historian, who made this very truthful statement:

> "If the day should ever arrive when the people of the different parts of our country should allow their local affairs to be administered by prefects sent from Washington, and when the self-government of the state shall have been lost . . . On that day the progressive political career of the American people will have come to an end, and the hopes that have been built upon it for the future happiness and prosperity of mankind will be wrecked forever."

Before the amendment was framed it was represented to congress that there were more than one million children under 16 years of age gainfully employed in the United States; and the impression was conveyed that the employment was so continuous and so laborious as to threaten their health, prevent their proper educational training and at times to bring them under immoral influences. All this may have been true, but yet it would not justify an amendment to the constitution prohibiting any father from requiring a proper amount of work from his boy of 17 years of age or a widowed mother from asking her children of 16, 17 or 18 years of age to assist her in obtaining a livelihood in labor suited to their years.

It is hardly to be expected that the government would compel persons between the age of 16 and 18 to remain idle if their labor was required for the support of their families; but the amendment conveys the power to do so, regardless of any circumstance or condition that may exist.

This amendment was originally proposed to overcome the advantage which the south has over New England in obtaining the labor of children of tender years in the textile industry for a mere pittance. The amendment is necessary, but it should not have been submitted in such objectionable form. It is likely that the southern states will vote solidly against it, and this objectionable provision relative to the excess of power that would be placed in the hands of congress will probably cause its defeat even in other states. Indeed it would seem that the wording of the amendment has been dictated by socialists and communists. Thus it is unfair to New England and unfair to the country. The adoption of the amendment would revolutionize the control of all minors under 18 years of age, taking such control not only away from the parents but also from the states. Possibly the federal authority would pass a law making it compulsory to keep children at school till the age of 18; but that, too, would be an unwarranted invasion of state rights.

The expense of enforcing such an amendment may be judged from the expense of enforcing prohibition. At present the children's bureau has charge of infancy and while its appropriation in 1912 was but $30,000, the amount for the present year is $1,554,000, or an increase of 5000 per cent. The bureau to enforce the child labor amendment would be in a position to secure large appropriations on the plea of conducting a great moral reform. It seems, in fine, that a close examination of this amendment shows it to be but a step toward the communist idea of nationalizing the children of the country so as to take them out of control of the parents and even of state authority. The children's bureau, so-called, that put out so much fulsome propaganda for the maternity act in 1921, is pushing this amendment, and this alone is sufficient to condemn it with fair-minded citizens.

TO DISPLAY N. E. PRODUCTS

Our local merchants are doing the right thing in arranging for the display of the products of local factories with proper labels.

It is a regrettable fact that the consuming public has never been made familiar with the products of the local textile factories by seeing them displayed on the counters of local stores and properly labelled. If New England week accomplishes nothing more than a change in this respect, it will be helpful alike to the merchants and the factories.

In years past, we presume, the local mills did not consider it worth while to bother with local markets and sent all their products to their selling houses in New York and elsewhere; but times have changed and the lack of a brisk foreign market calls for a more effective plan of appealing to the home market.

This is part of the work of the New England week and if the factories and the merchants make proper exhibits of New England factory products, the purchasers will undoubtedly do their duty in liberal purchases.

SECRET RADIO

Privacy in radio communication is claimed by John Hays Hammond, Jr., the famous inventor. He says his new broadcasting invention completely isolates sender and receiver from interference or listening in. Marconi and others claim similar devices.

Pocket radio phones may not be as far in the future as you believe. The tendency in radio is toward simplicity and usefulness.

The world fliers will get a well deserved welcome on reaching Boston. They are making a record that will endure in history.

Happily the auto casualties over the double holiday were less numerous than usual.

The time has arrived for everybody to buckle down to business.

[illegible] is designed to trav- [illegible] hour, which is almost [illegible] come in.

The [illegible] thing about committing a murder [illegible] having so many people argue about your sanity.

You would think the two Chicago murderers were running for office, the way their past has been dug up.

A Thought

Love can hope, where reason would despair.—Lyttleton.

Worth Photographing

A verger was showing a visitor round a church. The passage through the wooden altar rail was flanked by two stout posts with particularly large and round wooden knobs on top. Nothing interesting about them. No one would think of photographing one of them. But he would after hearing the verger. "A little while ago, sir," he said, "we had a very short-sighted bishop here, and he confirmed one of them knobs."

Never Satisfied

In many parts of Mexico hot springs and cold springs are found side by side. One can see native women boiling clothes in a hot spring, rubbing them on a flat rock and rinsing them in a clear cold spring. A visitor watched this process for some time, and then said: "I suppose the natives think old Mother Nature is pretty generous, eh?" "No, senor," replied the host. "There is much grumbling because she supplies no soap."

Getting Square

He was a smart boy—the newspaper lad. One of those youngsters who will one day make his mark in the world—become perhaps a cabinet minister, or at least an M. P. He was crying his wares in the main street of the town one evening when he came up to one of the big shopkeepers standing in the door of his shop. "Buy a paper, sir?" he asked, his voice hoarse from shouting. "No!" replied the man abruptly. "Clear off!" "Local footballer shot," went on the boy. In a moment the other was all excitement. "Give me a paper—quick!" he said, holding out a penny. "Local footballer shot, did you say?" "Yes," replied the boy, moving away. "But he never scored."

To My Dog

You greet me with the breaking light
And bound to meet my outstretched hand;
My every step from morn till night
You watch and seem to understand.
At all such work as dogs can do
I find in you a helper true;
In all my sport, too, you must share
And help to drive away my care.

If other beasts about the place
Get mean and vicious too,
All I must do to teach them grace
Is merely call on you;
I sleep secure when you stand guard—
No foeman dares to cross our yard—
No time so rough but if I call,
You bravely come and dare it all.

Regardless what my fortunes be
And whether men shall scoff or praise,
You're still the same good friend to me
And change not with the changing days.
And every night when I come home—
Sometimes with less of joy than gloom—
Beside my gate you waiting stand
To hail me with a welcome grand.

Unfailing friend! To me so true!
While I have shelter, bread and meat,
Beside my fire there's room for you,
Nor shall you want for aught to eat.
Ere human hands bring harm to thee
They first must do away with me.
For since to me you're always true,
I'll be the same good friend to you.
—ARTHUR T. BRIDGES.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Market stalls and vegetable "bins" along the aisles close up to the counters in grocery and provision stores large and small without number, are filled with foods in seasonal offerings and some that are out of season, but still purchasable. The stores supplying the citizens of Lowell and many country towns with food supplies the year around, have had little trouble this summer obtaining copious supplies of almost any wanted and desirable garden product, from strawberries to cantaloupes, apples to tomatoes, and squashes to Lima beans. The farmers have had good luck; the season was rather dry, but the recent rains prevented a drouth that would have burned up vegetation completely. Farm gardens are now producing the best growths of the season. Tomatoes are coming in from the country gardens in large quantities. Best qualities sell for as low as 8 cents a pound, and small gradings, 5 cents a pound. Saturday, the local markets doing the catering to the down-town trade, showed novelties like California Tokay grapes, blue Turban squash, fresh-killed green geese and infertile pullets' eggs. In the fish markets, prices are higher for cod, swordfish, fillet of sole, green shrimp, shucked clams and salt mackeral. Lobsters are fairly cheap—the small ones, commonly called "chickens," being very plentiful. If you like the Muscat hothouse grapes, you will find plenty at low prices. Apples are selling in some instances so low that it doesn't pay to handle them, dealers say. The quality has not always been the best, farmers shipping most of the A No. 1 fruit to Boston where it can be disposed of quicker than it can be peddled and sold in Lowell at the present time.

On his recent trip to Buffalo, N. Y., where he attended the fire chief's convention, Chief Edward F. Saunders of the local department noticed that in several of the fairly large Empire state cities, adequate water pressure is provided for the city mains by means of a large steel tank mounted on an elevation within the city limits. This method, he says, is the best he has seen and he believes that a large steel tank capable of holding several million gallons of water, mounted on the top of Christian Hill and elevated about 25 or 30 feet by the use of steel "legs," would give ample water pressure for fire supply at any hydrant in the city. He believes the tank system would be considerably cheaper than building a new reservoir and would prove much more satisfactory.

TEL. 679
McNabb Brothers
Lowell Laundry
For All Kinds of Laundering
McNABB TOWEL SUPPLY
Individual Towels for Clubs
TOWELS AND APRONS FOR ALL OCCASIONS

SOCIET[illegible]SSUMPTION HOLDS ANNUAL CONVENTION HERE

Pierre Leblanc of Lowell Re-elected President-General—Convention Opens With Mass at St. Joseph's Church—Sermon by the Grand Chaplain

Pierre Leblanc of this city was re-elected president-general of the society of L'Assumption (Acadians) at the 10th annual convention held in this city Sunday and yesterday.

The convention was opened with the celebration of a solemn high mass at St. Joseph's church at 10.30 o'clock Sunday morning. Rev. J. Fortier, O.M.I., was the celebrant and he was assisted by Rev. A. Ducharme, O.M.I., as deacon and Rev. Armand Baron, O.M.I., as sub-deacon. The choir under the direction of Mr. Telesphore Malo, with Miss Lena B. Camire at the organ, rendered Victor Hammerel's mass in honor of Our Lady of Good Counsel. An orchestra, augmented for the occasion, played the "Grand March," Tannhauser, as the body of over 250 delegates entered the church and as the congregation left the edifice "Victory March" was played. The altars were prettily arranged with cut flowers and lighted candles while in the sanctuary the American and French banners were placed, making an appropriate background for one of the most auspicious religious ceremonies ever held locally.

Rev. J. Rabel, S.M., of North Cambridge, grand chaplain of the organization, delivered the sermon. The reverend clergyman said in part: "We may today truly say, 'God sees me.' Surely He must be cognizant of your good act today!; your act of love for Him, shown by the numerous delegates here present at the Holy Sacrifice of the mass; your spirit of charity and the good motive which today prompts you to meet and in convention discuss ways by which you may promote the general welfare of your organization and your country. As a body you must act as authorized by the church. You must heed the words of our Lord, 'Love one another as I love you.' You, members of this grand organization of Acadians, must aspire to great things. But to aspire is not to accomplish. You must act. You must in your actions see that the law of charity sees no bounds. As God preached the doctrine of truth and charity, so you, too, must be His apostles and live up to His command: 'Go teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost.' To do good, we must desire to help our brothers. When we have that conviction well in our hearts we can go out into the world and in a charitable spirit, and with desires coached by religious and patriotic motives, led by God and our conscience, help the weary and succor the weak. We must act in the living present, however. The world today is filled with people who exploit principles and who, when the time arrives for action, withdraw and leave the field to the other man. He who is dictated by his convictions is the man who will face all difficulties; who will walk with his head uplifted and meet the adversities of life. But the secret of prosperity in the face of adversity is sacrifice. The two outstanding qualities in the life of our Lord, are the stepping stones to charity and love of brother. You, the sons of martyrs, must surely have the blood of the hero within you. But to be a martyr does not necessitate death, we can be martyrs little by little, by sacrifice. Valiant sons, be true to your church and her offerings; uphold the sacred interests of the family; the sanctity of marriage; favor justice. By so doing you will nobly serve your God and your country. God is your judge and if He accepts your acts, what matters the decree of the world?"

At the offertory Jules Morissette sang the "O Salutaris." The solos during the mass were sustained by Miss Margaret Turgeon, Miss Rose Lusier, Fred Ducharme, Mrs. Boudeau, Miss Stella Latour, Alberic Ducharme, Wilfred Lajeunesse, Arthur Leveille, Miss Banche Larue and Mrs. Eva Michel.

Reception at C.M.A.C.

At the conclusion of the religious services the body marched to the C.M.A.C. hall in Pawtucket street, where a reception was held. At 12.30 o'clock a banquet comprising the choicest viands, appetizers and other delectables that served their purpose well to the inner man was served by the Lydon Catering Co. The hall was prettily arranged with American and French colors with a centerpiece of tiny flags from which were draped blue, white and red streamers. Among the after-dinner speakers was Aime Gionet, president of the local branch and acting toastmaster. He welcomed the delegates, thanking them for the fine showing made and urged them to continue in their spirit of co-operation that the organization might flourish in its work throughout the country. Among the other speakers were Very Rev. J. E. Turcotte, O.M.I., Rev. Fr. Rabel, S.M., of North Cambridge; Rev. J. B. Labossiere, pastor of St. Louis' church, and Mayor Donovan, as well as several officers of the society.

Business and Entertainment

Following the banquet the members repaired to the rooms of the Centralville Social club, where a business session was held. In the evening at 8 o'clock in the C.M.A.C. hall, a varied and entertaining program of addresses, musical numbers and recitations was given. Among the entertainers was Master A. Saulnier, youthful violinist, whose name has already been established locally and throughout New England. The little master was at his best, Sunday evening, and accompanied by his mother, he provided much of the evening's entertainment. The program in full follows:

Piano selection,
Miss A. Leblanc.
Trio,
Morissette Brothers.
Address,
E. Leger, of Fitchburg, financial secretary.
Violin selections,
Master A. Saulnier.
Recitation,
P. L. Vouteur.
Cornet solo,
A. Desrosiers, accompanied by Miss G. Desrosiers.
Address,
Pierre Leblanc, president-general.
Address,
Orille Malliott, of New Brunswick.
Address,
J. B. Leblanc, of Leominster.

Election of Officers

The other officers elected are: Grand spiritual director, Rev. A. Rabel, S.M., of North Cambridge; chancellor general, Joseph Gallant of Fisherville; first vice-president general, Rosanna Duguen of Methuen; 2nd vice-president general, Albanie Bourgeois of Westbrook, Me.; recording secretary general, P. Levainvautour of Leominster; treasurer general, Philias Richard of New Bedford; conductor general, Valentino E. Blinn of Haverhill; second conductor general, Sylvian Thomas of Shirley; first director, Alphonse Phiasson of Cambridge; second director, Joseph McLaughlin of Haverhill; third director, Elphege Leger of Fitchburg; executive council, Pierre Leblanc, Philias Richard, Alexandre Phiasson, Emmanuel Godin and Valentine Blinn.

TOM SIMS SAYS

"Shot by Suitor"—headline. The suitor didn't suit her so he decided to shoot her.

In Bulgaria, the king works his own garden plot, which is much better than working international plots.

Nothing is as high as the high cost of loafing.

We would hate to be rich enough to have our daughter want to run away and marry the chauffeur.

You hear a lot about old maid reformers, but who wants to reform an old maid?

New York society woman wants divorce, saying she doesn't know where he is, but maybe she hasn't looked at home.

Agency finds married men make the best collectors, perhaps because they know all the excuses.

Nothing hurts your luck like thinking it is bad.

A snail travels a foot in four minutes, reports an investigator. But contrary to rumor, this is not as fast as a street car.

700-pound shark killed by New York bathers may have been looking for Wall street.

Chicago woman asking divorce, says her husband beats her every now and then, which, of course, is too often.

In Indiana, a janitor stole $3000 from a bank and it was the best he ever cleaned up.

The stone-age man had his wife at his feet. The modern man has her at his heels.

In Scotland, 2000 barrels of booze burned, but prohibition prevents such horrors here.

Train almost ran over a senator in Washington, showing you can't get by a railroad crossing on your reputation.

Reports of women being indicted for election frauds prove the theory that women couldn't learn politics a mistake.

Two Boston girls walking home from California should have gotten out of the auto sooner.

"Beauty is an accident," say psychologists. And we say it often results in internal injuries, such as heart trouble.

(Copyright, 1924, The Lowell Sun)

The most expensive chair in the world—made of solid silver and worth about $60,000—belongs to the pope.

ACADEMY OF HAIR and BEAUTY CULTURE
A School of Wide-Ranged Specialization
CONDUCTED BY IRENE HARKINS
116 CENTRAL STREET
STRAND BLDG.
Tel. 3846. Three Evenings a Week
Starting the Evening of Sept. 8th
We specialize not in one, but all Beauty Culture Arts—Scalp, Massage, Manicuring, Marcel Waving, Hair Coloring, Scientific Beauty Culture, Hairdressing, etc.

BEECHAM'S PILLS
for Sick Headaches

The Bell
Is About to Ring on Straw Hats
BRING IN YOUR FELT TO RYAN the Hatter
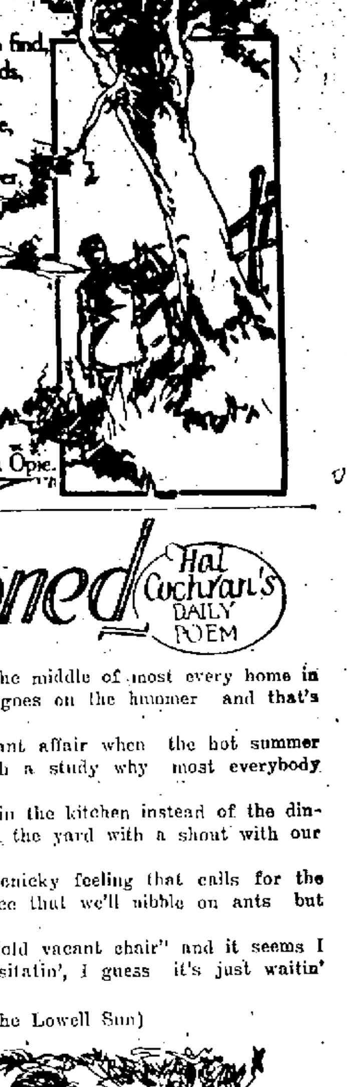
Bradley Building

FOR SALE

A real nice 6-room cottage, electric lights, brand new two-car garage, one fare on the Lawrence Boulevard, opposite Dudley street, ready to occupy; a little money down; I will finance you for the rest. See Kelley, 3 City Hall ave., opposite J. C. Ayer Co., off Middle street.

FORGET ME NOT



Go, youth beloved, in distant glades
New friends, new hopes, new joys to find,
Yet sometimes deign, 'midst fairer maids,
To think on her thou leav'st behind.
Thy love, thy fate, dear youth, to share,
Must never be my happy lot,
But thou mayst grant this humble prayer,
Forget me not, forget me not!

Yet should the thought of my distress
Too painful to thy feelings be,
Heed not the wish I now express,
Nor ever deign to think on me;
But, oh, if grief thy steps attend,
If want, if sickness be thy lot,
And thou require a soothing friend;
Forget me not, forget me not!
—Amelia Opie.

Abandoned

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

It sure is a riddle, that room in the middle of most every home in the land. For always, in summer, it goes on the hummer and that's what I can't understand.

The dining room square is a vacant affair when the hot summer months come around. 'Tis well worth a study why most everybody would rather eat out on the ground.

It seems we're all itchin' to dine in the kitchen instead of the dining room table. Or else we go out in the yard with a shout with our suppers, and eat what we're able.

Perhaps comes a-stealing that picnicky feeling that calls for the great open air. We're taking a chance that we'll nibble on ants but it's fun, so we don't seem to care.

The dining room's bare like the "old vacant chair" and it seems I can hear it, ho, hum. With time, hesitatin', I guess it's just waitin' for cold days of winter to come.

(Copyright, 1924, The Lowell Sun)

"UKULELE NIGHT" AT LAKEVIEW

No doubt a large attendance will be on hand this evening at the Lakeview ballroom for another one of those popular ukulele nights will be held and an excellent opportunity is offered the patrons to procure one of these musical instruments absolutely free. Special dance numbers will be announced and every one entering the ballroom will have an equal chance of securing a ukulele. A large shipment of brand new ukuleles has arrived for the affair and the number to be distributed surpasses all similar events.

"Broderick's Entertainers" will feature their latest music and the dancing will be by check.

CHELMSFORD'S TAX RATE

Chelmsford's tax rate for 1924 will be $28.50—an advance of 50 cents per thousand over last year's rate. The assessors announce that $33,000 more was raised by the voters this year than was shown by last year's receipts. There have been increased valuations of property in a number of instances, resulting in advantage to the town by providing additional funds with which to meet town expenses.

MOVIES ON COMMON

A program of out-door "movies" will be shown on the South common this evening under the direction of the park department. Monday night is usually "movie" night on the South common but the schedule for this week was rearranged owing to mass meeting which was held there last evening. The pictures were shown last night on the North common. The schedule for the remainder of the week remains unchanged.

Tourists often refer to the smell of decaying seaweed on the south coast of England as ozone, but as a matter of fact ozone may not be encountered until after a climb of 8000 feet.

PRECINCT OFFICERS

A meeting of precinct officers will be held this evening at 7.30 o'clock in the councilmanic chamber at city hall. The meeting was called by the board of election commissioners and precinct officers will receive final instructions there in regard to the state primaries, which will be held next Tuesday.

Why you'll like Lifebuoy
The thing that will make you loyal to Lifebuoy for life is its abundant, creamy, soothing, antiseptic, health-protecting lather. From no other soap can you get such lather.
LIFEBUOY
HEALTH SOAP

C. B. Coburn Co.
63 Market St.
CE-BE-CO MOTOR OIL—
Medium Grade, is free flowing and of excellent lubricating body. Gal....... 70c
5-Gal Lots, Gal 65c
COBURN'S SPECIAL FORD OIL stops chattering, will relieve the Ford owner of much annoyance.
Qt. 23c
Gal. 75c
TRY COBURN'S POLISH on your car. Fine for furniture, too. Cleans, brightens, polishes, restores.
16-oz. bot. 50c
Est. 1837
Paints, Oils and Glass
Acids and Chemicals

EPIDEMIC OF SLEEPING SICKNESS SPREADS

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The epidemic of sleeping sickness which began in England and Wales at th ebeginning of the year shows little signs of abating and its seriousness has been brought home to everybody by the deaths of several well known persons.

The epidemic has extended without a break from the beginning of February until now, the only redeeming feature being the comparatively low death rate. During this period the number of cases in England and Wales amounted to more than 4000.

The death rate was 12 to 21 per cent. as compared with 40 per cent. of the cases in former epidemics.

ANOTHER DRUNKEN DRIVER SENTENCED

Louis Larouche, who was arrested in Merrimack street by Traffic Officer Daniel Brennan on August 4, was fined $100 and sentenced to serve 15 days in the house of correction when he was found guilty, in district court this morning, of operating an automobile while he was under the influence of liquor. He was also fined $5 for drunkenness, and $20 for operating a motor vehicle without a license. Appeals were taken and Larouche was ordered to recognize in $500 for his appearance in superior court.

The only other drunken driver case to come before the court this morning was that involving Arthur H. Nadeau of 57 Beech street, who was continued to Sept. 13. He was arrested last night by Patrolmen Francis O'Loughlin and Joseph Clark in Rogers square.

"ON GUARD" GOES TO BERKSHIRE ATHENAEUM

BOSTON, Sept. 2—By the will of Thomas Allen, member of the Boston Artillery commission, filed today, a picture painted by him entitled "On Guard" is given to the Berkshire Athenaeum of Pittsfield.

HOME FROM VACATION

See your newsdealer and order the Boston Daily and Sunday Globe for the Fall and Winter months.

WOMAN AND CHILDREN HELD IN DEATH CASE

DEROIT, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Irene Ballanger, 38, twice divorced, was held with her two children today for questioning in connection with the killing of Clyde Keller, 45, a butcher employed in a shop in the same building in which Mrs. Ballanger lives.

Keller's body was found in an automobile truck at the rear of the shop. He had been struck over the head with a hammer which was found beside him.

The body had been dragged some distance and the trail led to the stairway of the Ballanger apartment, police declared.

RICH FINDS MADE BY EXPEDITION

MACON, Saoine-et-Loire, France, Sept. 2.—The Franco-American expedition investigating pre-historic deposits near here continues to make rich finds, the latest being four complete and well preserved skeletons, one of a child ten or twelve years old.

Judging from the preliminary examination the skeletons are from seven to eight thousand years old, though some experts are inclined to the opinion that they date from a much earlier period, possibly the Moustierian epoch, 25,000 years ago.

MAN STRUCK BY CAR DIES AT HOSPITAL

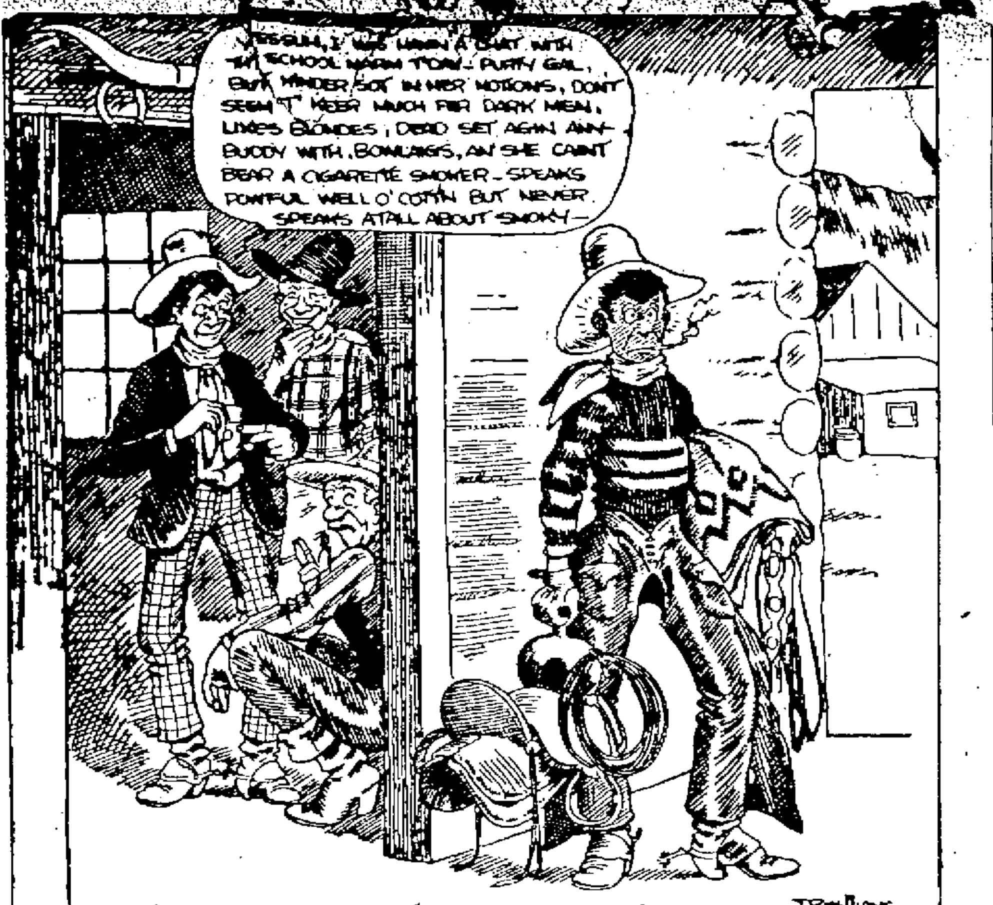
Peter Vielicko of 251 Fayette street died at the Lowell Corporation hospital late Saturday afternoon as a result of injuries received when struck by an electric car in Collinsville on the evening of the previous Sunday.

Vielicko, whose name was also given as Zilicke, was struck by an electric car operated by Joseph Shea near St. Mary's church, Collinsville, at about 10 o'clock in the evening of Aug. 23. According to Shea's account of the accident he walked directly in front of the car, headless of the fact that Shea was sounding the car whistle and gong. He was hit by the right front of the car and thrown to the street.

A passing automobilist took him to the Corporation hospital. He was unconscious when he arrived there and remained in that condition until his death late Saturday afternoon.

HUSBAND IN COURT WIFE IN HOSPITAL

A Saturday night assault on his 20-year-old wife, Helen, landed Frank Wojcik in district court this morning and the wife in St. John's hospital with painful injuries to her face and head. She was removed to that institution, following an alleged brutal beating by her husband, who is charged with assault and battery. When arrested Saturday night, he was bailed in $200, but upon learning the circumstances, Judge Enright increased the bail to $500 this morning, and continued the case to Thursday.



YESSUH, I WAS HAVIN A CHAT WITH TH' SCHOOL MARM T'DAY — PURTY GAL, BUT KINDER SOT IN HER NOTIONS, DON'T SEEM T' KEER MUCH FER DARK MEN, LIKES BLONDES, DEAD SET AGIN ANY-BUDDY WITH BOWLAIGS, AN' SHE CAIN'T BEAR A CIGARETTE SMOKER — SPEAKS POWFUL WELL O' COTTIN BUT NEVER SPEAKS ATALL ABOUT SMOKY—
J.R.WILLIAMS

FOR THE BENEFIT OF THOSE NOT PRESENT

(Copyright, 1924, by NEA Service, Inc.)

CRUISER RALEIGH TO UNDERGO REPAIRS

BOSTON, Sept. 2—With her two starboard propellers torn away in battling ice floes in northern waters, the cruiser Raleigh was bound for this port today for repairs, according to word received at the Charlestown navy yard. The Raleigh met with her mishap while acting with other navy vessels as a convoy to the round-the-world flight. She is expected here tomorrow or Thursday.

SEARCH FOR STOLEN CAR

Search for a Ford sedan, the property of George Murray of 412 Stevens street, which was stolen from a parking space at Merrimack park last evening, has been instituted by police throughout the Merrimack valley.

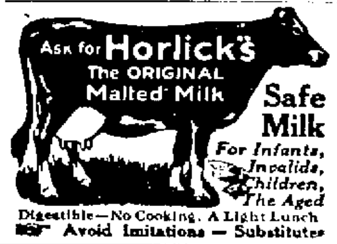
DIES OF HER INJURIES

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 2.—Anna Pascone, 63, wife of John Pascone, 36 oodbridge street, aHrtford, injured in a collision of motor car and electric car in Olneyville square on Sunday, died this morning at 2.50 in the Rhode Island hospital.

WALKER-ROGERS POST TO BE REPRESENTED

Walker-Rogers post, No. 662, V. of F.W., will be represented officially at the national convention of the order, to be held at Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 8-12 inclusive. Junior Vice Commander Shea is prepared to attend the affair as a delegate from Lowell.

Commander David F. Caddell of No. 662, reports an increase in membership since the last business meeting was held before the summer "vacation." He has been informd that "Black Jack" Dunn, who has just retired from the commanderhip of the Massachusetts V. of F.W., has been vigorously pushed for the next national commander.



Ask for Horlick's
The ORIGINAL
Malted Milk
Safe Milk
For Infants, Invalids, Children, The Aged
Digestible—No Cooking. A Light Lunch
Avoid Imitations — Substitutes

Walker-Rogers post commander has urged all comrades and ex-service men in general to familiarize themselves with the Reed-Johnson veterans' bill, which was recently enacted by congress. Many benefits are coming to both World war and Spanish war veterans, as well as to former soldiers who served in other national campaigns.

National Commander Frank J. Irwin of the Disabled American Veterans of the World war, was recently obligated to membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars by Commander-in-Chief Gen. Lloyd M. Brett.

Comrades of Walker-Rogers post have been requested to remember the new dates for coming organization meetings. The post members are planning to conduct a busy campaign along fraternal and patriotic lines during the next six months.

LOYAL WAMESIT LODGE

A regular meeting of Loyal Wamesit lodge, I.O.O.F., M.U., was held last evening in Grafton hall with N.G. Geo. Everett in the chair. The meeting was given over to the transaction of routine business.

[illegible] FOUNDED BY ST. PAUL

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—Details of the uncovering on the site of Antioch of Pisidia, in Asia Minor, of the foundation of a large Christian church, which it is said may represent a successor of the church founded there by St. Paul, have been brought here by Professor Francis W. Kelsey of the University of Michigan expedition which is excavating under the direction of Professor David M. Roberts.

The existence of such an edifice had been previously known, but its date and character could only be determined by excavation. The church was of the basilica type and more than 200 feet long. The nave was 160 feet long, measured from the middle of the apse to the doors, and approximately thirty-five feet wide. The aisles on either side of the nave had a width of 150 feet, and were separated from the nave by columns.

Eighteen inches below the floor level of the nave was found a Mosaic floor which clearly belonged to a much earlier church. The floor contained several Mosaic inscriptions in the Greek language, two of them referring to the Bishop Optimus, who lived about 375 A. D. The floor was carefully laid in small cubes of stone about a half inch square, arranged in geometrical pattern in five colors—red, yellow, blue, rose and white.

The significance of the discovery may be far-reaching in the opinion of the excavators. Professor Kelsey said:

"While the excavation has not yet been completed there is a probability that the congregation which had the resources to build such a massive church at such an early date represented the principal ecclesiastical organization in the city.

"It is natural to suppose that this church organization grew out of a group of the faithful converted by the preaching of Paul and that the structure itself may stand on the site of the house in which they first assembled or in which Paul preached."

CAR AND TRUCK COLLIDE, 25 PERSONS INJURED

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Twenty-five persons, many of them women and children, bound for an outing at Coney Island, were injured today when a trolley car collided with a large motor truck in Brooklyn. The motorman, James Diana, was so seriously injured that he may die.

The motor truck, owned by a milk company, was overturned but the driver escaped with only slight injuries. The car's forty passengers were thrown into panic by the crash. The vestibule was smashed and many were hurt by flying splinters, and glass.

MacDONALD OFF FOR GENEVA

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Premier MacDonald left this morning for Geneva where he is to head the British delegation in the fifth assembly of the League of Nations, now in session there.

START [illegible]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 2.—[illegible]azilian government's knowledge of a revolutionary movement planned to start in Rio Janeiro on the [illegible] Crown Prince Humbert's arrival [illegible] on his return trip to Italy is set forth in a lengthy note addressed to the Italian ambassador in Rio Janeiro by Brazilian Foreign Minister Pacheco, the text of which has been received from La Nacion's correspondent in the Brazilian capital.

The note requested the good offices of the Italian embassy toward postponement of the prince's visit in the fear of untoward incidents. It alluded to the recent bomb explosions in Rio and expressed the most profound regret at the circumstances.

Advices from Rio Janeiro through Buenos Aires last Saturday said the Brazilian government had requested the Italian government through its ambassador, to postpone the projected visit of Prince Humbert in view of the abnormal circumstances created by the recent rebellion. Mutinous minority elements were said to be "moving in the dark, continuing their task of discrediting the country."

DAWES IS PREPARING SERIES OF ADDRESSES

EVANSTON, Ills., Sept. 2.—Preparation of another series of campaign addresses was begun today by Charles G. Dawes, while republican campaign managers set to work mapping out another speaking trip for the party's vice-presidential candidate.

The number of speeches to be made during September and in which cities will be discussed at a conference within a few days between Mr. Dawes and Representative Sanders of Indiana, head of the republican national committee's speakers' bureau.

Mr. Dawes is leaving to the national committee, almost complete supervision of his speaking itinerary, but he has determined to make one request, and that is that he speak within the next few weeks in Wisconsin, the home state of Senator La Follette. Dawes hopes through such an address to be made probably in Milwaukee, to carry into the acknowledged stronghold of he La Follette movement, his attack on the principles espoused by the Wisconsin senator.

JOS. M. DINNEEN
Optometrist Optician
206 Bradley Bldg., 147 Central St.
TELEPHONE 1043

One of the Greatest Washing Machine Values Ever Offered—

A SUPERIOR Vacuum Cup Type Electric Washer

Made by the THOR Company

FOR Only $2.50 Down

Balance Small Weekly or Monthly Payments.

And best of all—you buy this machine at a REDUCTION OF $5 From the regular selling price

If You Act Now

Madam! You have always wanted an Electric Washing Machine. You have doubtless kept promising yourself that sooner or later when the proper opportunity arrived you would own one. You do not have to wait one minute longer. The right time is here. Just read our wonderful offer

Equipped With Reversible Swinging Wringer With Special Soft Rubber Rollers.

You merely telephone 821 now. Tell us the most convenient time when we may demonstrate the SUPERIOR to you in your own home. YOU are the sole judge. You do not place yourself under the slightest obligation of any kind. You simply provide the clothes to be washed and we do the rest.

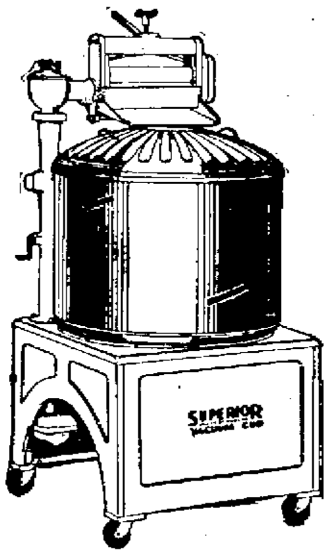
If, after the demonstration is over, you are not convinced that the SUPERIOR is just the machine you have been looking for---that it will do all the hard work of washing and wringing quicker and better than you could ever do it by hand---and that it will save your strength and your money---we will gladly take it away on our truck without arguing or pressing you to buy.

Act Now

The Superior connects to the ordinary lamp socket (no extra wiring needed) and uses only two cents' worth of electricity an hour.

Save Money

The Lowell Electric Light Corporation 29-31 MARKET ST.



League Race Becomes Closer Than American League Pennant Derby

BELLEVUES TRIM ST. PETER'S CADETS IN LABOR DAY GAME ON COMMON

Hotly Contested Clash Won By City League Champs By 3-2 Score—Bradbury and Lawson Break Up Game With Doubles in 9th Inning

The feature attraction of the Trades and Labor afternoon program on the South common was the nine-inning ball game in which the Bellevues, champions of the City Twilight league, defeated the strong St. Peter's Cadets by the close score of 3 to 2. Jack Lawson and Ducky Bradbury were the heroes of the game as it was their two-baggers that put the winning run across after the teams had gone into the ninth and final frame with the score deadlocked at two all. Bradbury started the last inning by whacking a double into deep right center field and scored on Lawson's crack of like dimension to the crowd in left.

A crowd approximating 15,000 fans watched the sport. The Trades and Labor committee saw to it that the game got under way at scheduled time, one o'clock sharp and both teams took the field as Aitkin's band struck up a lively tune. Snubber Trask started on the rubber for the Fleming contingent, but gave up after twirling two innings. Trask was all in because of the fact he had pitched a hard game in Groton the day previous. Hank Garrity assumed the burden and lasted until the ninth when the hot rays of a bright sun got the better of him. Garrity was also pitching under a strain as he had worked nine innings Saturday in Chelmsford. The Bellevues were certainly up against it for pitchers. Jack Livingston was in uniform on the bench, but he was reserving himself for a game later in the afternoon in Derry, N. H. He won a close game in that town Labor Day morning.

Francis Reagan all this time handled the St. Peter's pitching proposition alone, and he handled it well. In the nine frames that he performed, the heavy Bellevue batters were able to get but seven hits, and three of these were credited to Lawson. Reagan walked only one man and sent five back to the dugout via the strikeout method. It was a tough game for him to lose.

The game in detail:

First Inning

St. Peter's—Onanian shot a single into center, but was nipped while attempting to steal second, O'Day flied out to Buckley. Duke Barron popped to Bradbury.

Bellevues—Jenkins walked for a starter. Purtell was out, O'Day to D. Barron. Livingston flied out to O'Day. Buckley made it three down on a fly to Scully.

Second Inning

St. Peter's—Crowe struck out. Ryan flied out to Jenkins. Scully was safe when O'Brien dropped Gath's throw from short. G. Barron singled, sending Scully to third, where he was stranded when Carr flied out to Trask.

Bellevues—Bradbury flied out to Onanian. O'Brien was thrown out on his grounder, Crowe to D. Barron. Gath flied out to D. Barron.

Third Inning

St. Peter's—Reagan struck out. Onanian went out, Bradbury to O'Brien. O'Day was extinguished at first, Gath to O'Brien.

Bellevues—Lawson singled past third, Garrity sacrificed him along. Jenkins was out, O'Day to D. Barron. Purtell strolled to G. Barron and was retired at first.

Fourth Inning

St. Peter's—D. Barron was thrown out at first by Bradbury. Crowe whiffed. Ryan flied out to Gath.

Bellevues—Williams went out, G. Barron to D. Barron. Buckley grounded to Crowe and was declared out at first. Bradbury breezed.

Fifth Inning

St. Peter's—Scully waited and was passed. G. Barron fanned the ozone. Carr walked. Reagan made it two down by striking out. Onanian laced a single into center and Scully crossed the pan with the first run of the game. Carr also tried to make the plate on the same play, but was caught between home and third, being finally tagged out by Williams.

Bellevues—O'Brien singled through short and third. Gath struck out. Lawson singled to right. Trask went in to run for O'Brien and scored on an error at third by O'Day on Jenkins' teaser. This was after Garrity had struck out. Lawson scored on Purtell's timely single to right and the Bellevues were leading, 2 to 1.

Sixth Inning

St. Peter's—O'Day and Barron struck out. Crowe was out, Williams to O'Brien.

Bellevues—Buckley singled into center. Bradbury hit into a double play, Crowe to G. Scully to D. Scully.

Seventh Inning

St. Peter's—Ryan got a single into left. Scully fanned. G. Barron was passed. Carr connected for a peach of a hit down short and third base way and Ryan came home with the tying run. G. Barron also attempted to register on Jenkins' peg over Lawson's head, but was tagged out by Garrity who had backed up his catcher. Reagan went out, Williams to O'Brien.

Bellevues—Gath grounded out, Crowe to D. Barron. Lawson flied out to Crowe in short left field. Jenkins flied out to Onanian.

Eighth Inning

St. Peter's—Onanian walked but was nipped stealing second. O'Day walked. D. Barron flied out to Buckley. Crowe flied out to Gath.

Bellevues—Purtell lifted a high fly to Scully. Williams followed suit. Buckley grounded to G. Barron and was thrown out at first.

Ninth Inning

St. Peter's—Ryan walked. Scully flied out to Purtell. G. Barron walked. Carr went out, Gath to O'Brien. Reagan rolled to Bradbury.

Bellevues—Bradbury doubled to deep right center. O'Brien took three lusty swings. Gath foul flied to Carr. Lawson banged a double to left and Bradbury scored with the third and winning tally.

The score:

BELLEVUES	ab	r	1b	po	a	e
Jenkins, lf	3	0	0	2	0	0
Purtell, 3b rf	4	0	1	2	1	0
Livingstone, rf	1	0	0	0	0	0
Buckley, cf	4	0	0	2	0	0
Bradbury, 2b	4	1	1	2	4	0
O'Brien, 1b	4	0	1	6	0	1
Gath, ss	4	0	0	3	3	0
Lawson, c	4	1	3	8	2	0
Trask, p	0	1	0	1	0	0
Williams, 3b p	3	0	0	0	2	0
Garrity, p rf	2	0	1	1	0	0
Totals	33	3	7	27	12	1

ST. PETER'S	ab	r	1b	po	a	e
Onanian, lf	3	0	2	3	0	0
O'Day, 3b	3	0	0	1	2	1
D. Barron, 1b	3	0	0	11	0	0
Crowe, ss	4	0	0	1	5	0
Ryan, rf	3	1	1	0	0	0
Scully, cf	3	1	0	4	0	0
G. Barron, 2b	2	0	1	1	4	0
Carr, c	3	0	1	6	0	1
Reagan, p	4	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	29	2	5	27	11	2

St. Peter's ....0 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 0—2
Bellevues ....0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 1—3

Two-base hits—Bradbury, Lawson. Hits—Off Trask 2 in 2 innings; off Garrity 3 in 6 innings. Sacrifice hits—Garrity. Stolen bases—Onanian, Jenkins, G. Barron, Scully, Ryan. Double play—Crowe to G. Barron to D. Barron. Left on Bases—Bellevues 5, St. Peter's 7. First base on balls—Off Reagan 1; off Trask 0; off Garrity 6; off Williams 1. Struck out—By Regan 5; by Trask 1; by Garrity 3. Time—2.21. Umpires—McManus, Fitzgerald.

HOW THEY STAND

AMERICAN LEAGUE STANDING	Won	Lost	Pts.
Washington	76	55	.580
New York	73	55	.570
Detroit	69	60	.534
St. Louis	67	62	.515
Cleveland	61	60	.504
Boston	58	70	.453
Philadelphia	58	73	.443
Chicago	55	72	.433

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

New York 3, Boston 0 (a. m.)
New York 12, Boston 2 (p. m.)
Detroit 1, Chicago 5 (a. m.)
Chicago 10, Detroit 2 (p. m.)
Washington 5, Philadelphia 3 (a. m.)
Washington 4, Philadelphia 3 (p. m.)
St. Louis 11, Cleveland 8 (a. m.)
Cleveland 13, St. Louis 2 (p. m.)

GAMES TOMORROW

Boston at New York.
Cleveland at St. Louis.
Detroit at Chicago.

NATIONAL LEAGUE STANDING	Won	Lost	Pts.
New York	76	50	.603
Pittsburgh	75	51	.595
Brooklyn	74	54	.578
Chicago	68	59	.555
Cincinnati	69	62	.526
St. Louis	54	76	.415
Philadelphia	49	77	.389
Boston	46	82	.359

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Boston 5, New York 4 (a. m.)
New York 10, Boston 2 (p. m.)
Brooklyn 7, Philadelphia 2 (a. m.)
Brooklyn 6, Philadelphia 3 (p. m.)
Pittsburgh 5, Chicago 4 (a. m.)
Pittsburgh 4, Chicago 3 (p. m.)
Cincinnati 5, St. Louis 0 (a. m.)
Cincinnati 9, St. Louis 0 (p. m.)

GAMES TOMORROW

New York at Boston.
Brooklyn at Philadelphia.
St. Louis at Pittsburgh.
Chicago at Cincinnati.

TILDEN AND JOHNSTON CLASH FOR TITLE

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 2.—America's famous rivals for premier tennis laurels—"Big Bill" Tilden, champion for the past four years, and "Little Bill" Johnston, twice former champion—will stage another duel for national titular honors this afternoon on the turf courts of the West Side Tennis club.

They have met in four of the last final round matches, besides one battle that came before the finals, and Tilden has been victor four times. On past performances, the reigning king of the courts is a favorite, but today's struggle promises to be one of the most keenly waged of any they have had.

The chief reason for enthusiasm on the part of Johnston's followers is that while the little Californian was sweeping through to an astonishingly easy victory over Gerald Patterson, Australian champion, in yesterday's finals, with the loss of but two games, Tilden was extended to a sensational five-set battle to dispose of Vincent Richards.

Tilden, in fact, besides dropping the first and fourth sets, came within a point of losing the third set, before he finally rose to the peak of his characteristic brilliancy to sweep Richards back in the fifth set. The scores of this match were 4-6, 6-2, 8-6, 4-6, 6-4.

32 GOLFERS REMAIN IN BIG TOURNAMENT

NAYATT, R. I., Sept. 2.—Thirty-two golfers, out of 98 entries and 89 starters in the qualifying round, remained in the annual tournament for the women's national championship as it entered the first round of match play today.

One feature of the sixteen matches on today's program was the contest between the former golf champion, Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson of Greenwich, Conn., and the former tennis champion, Miss Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica, Calif., who made her debut in national golf competition by qualifying with 96, despite ten sixes.

Two former national golf champions were matched in the persons of Miss Marion Hollins of New York and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia. An eighty by Miss Hollins in the qualifying round, one stroke more than the score that won the qualifying medal, has made her one of the favorites for the title.

Miss Collett, who won the medal with a 79, the lowest score ever made in the tournament and the first time eighty has been broken, was regarded as having an easy match today with Miss Ruth Batchelder of Weston, Mass.

AMATEUR BASE BALL.

The Cardinals challenge the Iroquois to a game on Thursday evening. They also challenge the Victorias to a game with a $10 purse. Game to be played Sunday on the Aiken street grounds. Call 5932-X, Manager Bevins.

MURPHY WINS, BOYER KILLED

Thrills Mark 250-Mile Race at Altoona, Pa.—Winner's Time 2 Hours, 11 Mins.

Boyer, Going at 129 Miles an Hour, Plunged Through Guard Rail to His Death

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 2.—Two deaths among automobile drivers in the three 250 mile races run in the wooden bowl since its opening a year ago is the record of the Altoona speedway where Joe Boyer of Detroit, was fatally injured yesterday.

Boyer was driving his machine at a rate of 129 miles an hour in an effort to overtake Jimmy Murphy, the winner, and was in second place and within a few laps of the finishing line when the machine plunged through a guard rail at the top of the bowl. The machine hung suspended over the top of the wooden bowl with Boyer pinned beneath the wreckage. Both his legs were crushed and he suffered loss of considerable blood. He was unconscious when taken to the hospital and failed to recover from the effects of his injuries, despite two blood transfusions.

The speedway's death toll started with its inaugural race in the fall of 1923 when Howdy Wilcox of Indianapolis, was killed. Another accident marked the spring race this year when Jerry Wonderlich was injured.

Murphy's time was two hours, 11 minutes, 58 2-5 seconds. Tommy Milton, in the running from the outset, was second and Fred Comer, third.

While the fortunes of the race alternated from time to time, Murphy, through his ability to keep up a constant never-slackening pace of more than 100 miles an hour, virtually was assured of victory at the half-way mark.

The grind was featured by the driving of Antoine Mourre. Out-distanced at first he soon passed most of the contestants and at 200 miles, was in second place.

Just before the race closed Mourre's car shot down the track to a small sun baked section of mud. A moment later Mourre was given a thunderous ovation when he drove his machine back on the track.

Bernie Hill, with valve trouble, Ernie Ansterberg with motor trouble and Peter De Paolo with a frozen motor, were forced out of the race before the half way mark was reached. De Paolo came to grief when a flying newspaper wrapped itself about his radiator.

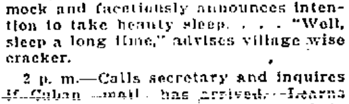
The other drivers finished in this order:

Phil Shafer, fourth, Earl Cooper, fifth; Mourre, sixth; Harlan Fengler, seventh; Red Carlens, eighth; Bob McDonough, ninth; Harry Hartz, tenth.

Murphy, by his victory, took a firmer lead for the 1924 national championship and won the first prize of $9000. Milton won $4500 and Comer, $2500.

Boyer Signed to Race Oct. 25

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 2—Joe Boyer who died early today of injuries received on the speedway at Altoona, Pa., had signed a contract yesterday as one of eight automobile racers to participate in the opening program on Charlotte's new automobile speedway Oct. 25. Other drivers who have signed for the opening races are: Jimmy Murphy, Tommy Milton, Earl Cooper, Antoine Mourre, Bennie Hill, Fred Comer and Harry Hartz.



A DAY WITH FIRPO

10 a. m.—Alarm clock shrieks violently. Firpo demands to know what all the shooting is about. "You said set the alarm for Thursday," explains a sparring partner. "Yes, but I said Thursday a week, you sap."

11 a. m.—Light breakfast consisting this morning, Mrs. Jenkins, I'll try and tough it along on this."

12 m.—"Do you think this is a good day to run 20 miles?" Firpo asks trainer . . . . "I do, good senor." . . . . "Well, go ahead and run 25, I'm not selfish."

1 p. m.—Crawls into porch hammock and facetiously announces intention to take beauty sleep. . . . "Well, sleep a long time," advises village wise cracker.

2 p. m.—Calls secretary and inquires if Cuban mail has arrived. Learns only mail is letter from young lady in Centralia, Mo., who writes, "Please send me one of your front teeth and a lock of your eyebrow. I think you are too romantic for words."

3 p. m.—Audience with newspapermen. Refuses to denounce the klan by name. Thinks prize fighters ought to be original even if presidential candidates aren't.

4 p. m.—Recreation period. Parlor tricks, pinochle, mah jongg, egg rolling, clock golf, riding to the hounds and postoffice. Isn't this the darndest stuff you ever read!)

5 p. m.—Poses for photographers. Obligingly stretches out full length on ground at request of camera man who asks him to look natural.

6 p. m.—Responds reluctantly to dinner bel, and partake sparingly of (1) side of beef, (3) slabs of bacon, (14) pecks of turnips and (9) gallons of ice cream. "Never mind the finger bowl, Mrs. Jenkins, I'm in training, you know."

7 p. m.—Public reception. Visitors wishing to take sock at bull's chin form in line to the right. Children are asked to refrain from feeding the animal peanuts, tin cans and other forms of tasty debris.

8 p. m.—Bedtime stories. "And Little Red Riding Hood peeled off a case note and said shoot the works."

CUTS-SORES
Cleanse thoroughly—then, without rubbing, apply—
VICKS VAPORUB
Over 17 Million Jars Used Yearly

VICTORY FOR WISE COUNSELLOR

Beats Epinard, French Champion, by Half Length at Belmont Park

Heart-Breaking Finish of Six Furlong International Event

NEW YORK, September 2—Epinard, beaten half a length by Wise Counsellor in the six furlong race which inaugurated the series of three international events, remains the pivotal point of speculation as trainers prepare their stars for the next engagement over a mile at Aqueduct, September 24.

In the stretch at Belmont park yesterday, when Wise Counsellor came up on the outside to challenge Baffling, Zev and Epinard, which had been running in that order, it was the French horse which furnished the contest as the other two fell back. Stride for stride they struck off 100 yards as sixty thousand people, including the Prince of Wales, cheered them on. The impetus with which Frankie Keough brought the chestnut son of Mentor by Rustle up from fifth was stronger by half a length than the power Everett Haynes gathered with his mount when the chestnut menace appeared on his flank.

Following a statement made before the special race by Trainer Eugene Leigh than he thought Epinard needed a competitive race and based further upon the general opinion that the European champion would perform better at the longer distances, the chance of Pierre Wertheimer's chestnut colt to win the mile at Aqueduct and the mile and a quarter at Latonia on October 11 will be rated better than his status before yesterday's race in which Wise Counsellor was a 13 to 5 favorite.

Until the winner circled the outside in the stretch and drove into the race, it appeared that the owners of Zev and Epinard, champion three-year-olds of two continents in 1923, would realize an ambition of last year to with Epinard at 3½ to 1, looking good have the two colts meet. Zev, quoted at the post, hung only a head behind Baffling and kept a neck beyond Epinard until Wise Counsellor set the killing pace which brought him to the wire in 1:11 4-5 ahead of both.

In the finish the greatest money winner of all time was passed by August Belmont's Ladkin, which finished third, three lengths behind Epinard, and Snob II, which took fourth, Zev, pulling up in the stretch, was fifth, and Wilderness sixth. Baffling dropped to seventh just ahead of Miss Star, the only filly in the race, and Goshawk which trailed. Rialto, Worthmore and Little Chief had been scratched.

The race carried a money value of $29,000 to the victor.

SILESIA MILLS TEAM WINS IN LAWRENCE

In a big holiday game at O'Sullivan par, Lawrence, yesterday afternoon, the Silesia mills team of North Chelmsford turned the tables on the Lawrence Independents, winning out by a score of 9 to 2. Rube Greenhalgh pitched for the Silesians and held the down-river men to five hits, while Silesia banged Queen and Pierotti for 13. The millmen scored thrice in the first, once in the fourth, twice in the fifth and three times in the sixth. Fied continued his terrific batting by slamming out two home runs. The score:

SILESIA	ab	r	bh	po	a	e
Driscoll, lf	5	1	2	5	0	0
Faulkner, ss	4	1	1	0	6	0
Conley, 2b	5	2	2	3	1	0
Feld, cf	4	4	4	1	0	0
Ashley, cf	0	0	0	0	1	0
Lynch, 1b	5	1	2	6	1	1
Forsythe, 3b	3	0	0	3	1	0
Greenhalgh, p	4	0	1	0	1	0
H. Sullivan, c	3	0	1	8	0	0
Steinhilber, rf	4	0	0	1	0	0
Totals	37	9	13	27	11	1

LAWRENCE	ab	r	bh	po	a	e
E. Sullivan, cf	4	0	0	0	0	0
Duncan, c	4	0	0	0	0	0
Duval, 2b	3	0	0	3	7	0
Tyler, 1b	4	1	1	15	0	1
Barcroft, rf	4	1	2	0	0	0
Bradbury, lf	3	0	2	2	0	0
Kennedy, 3b	3	0	0	1	3	0
Desrosiers, ss	4	0	0	3	5	0
Queen, p	2	0	0	0	1	0
Pierotti, p	1	0	0	0	1	0
Sweatt, x	1	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	33	2	5	27	17	1

x—Batted for Kennedy in 9th.

Silesia ....3 0 0 1 0 2 3 0 0—9
Lawrence ....0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—2

Two base hits: Driscoll, Feid, Barcroft. Home runs: Feid 2. Stolen bases: Sweatt. Sacrifice hit: H. Sullivan. Double plays: Duval to Desrosiers to Tyler; Kennedy to Duval to Tyler. Left on bases: Silesia 5, Lawrence 6. Hits: Off Queen 7 in 6, off Pierotti 6 in 3. Bases on balls: Off Greenhalgh 2, off Pierotti 1. Struck out: By Greenhalgh 7, by Queen 1. Hit by pitcher: By Quinn (Faulkner), by Pierotti (Feld). Wild pitch: Greenhalgh. Umpires: Lynch and Curtin. Time: 1.40.

NORTH ENDS TRIM THE SHU-FIX BOYS

The Dixon Shu-Fix boys received one of the finest beatings of their career Sunday when the North Ends slammed them with everything except the water bucket and won 15 to 9. This is the second time that the Shu-Fix boys have come to grief at the hands of the North Enders. The winners corraled more than 25 smashes for many extra bases in addition to a round trip clout delivered by Klutka. St. Jean hammered out five hits and Klutka, besides getting a homer ran up a single, a double and a triple. Long will the Shu-Fixers remember their Chevey Chase.

TIGER FLOWERS KAYOS JACKSON

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 2—Tiger Flowers of Atlanta, Ga., scored a technical knockout over Tut Jackson of Washington Courthouse, O., in the eighth round of a scheduled ten round bout at League park, Martins Ferry, O., last night.

MANY UPSETS IN LOCAL BALL

Abbots Drop Second to Cantabs—Third Game Tonight—Mitchell to Pitch

Busy Week-End Brought Reverses to Many Local Nines—List of Games

A lucky Texas leaguer with the sacks loaded was responsible for the second Abbot reverse at the hands of North Cambridge at Russell field, Cambridge, Saturday afternoon, the Cantabs winning out in the ninth chapter by a 5 to 4 score. Cleary was the hero of the fray from a Cambridge standpoint, for it was he who took hold of one of Eddie Boyce's southpaw slants and sent the pill sailing to the short outfield just out of reach of the three Abbot outfielders, St. Angelo, Gordy Urann and Walker.

It was a heart-breaking game for Abbots to lose as they were leading the Cantabs 4 to 0 up to the sixth. In this inning, North Cambridge drove two runs over the plate and pushed a couple more over in the eighth for a tie. In the ninth with two down, Cote singled past Ellie Urann and went around to third on Woods' single to left, scoring on Cleary's Texas leaguer.

So. Boston Loses

In the Sunday game at Graniteville, the Abbots walloped South Boston by a 10 to 6 score. Heck and Boyce pitched, and the Abbots slammed Shea of the Southies for 14 bingles. St. Angelo got a homer, Dameron a triple, and Ellie Urann a double. Walker connected for four hits out of five times up.

Third Series Game

The third Abbot-North Cambridge series game will be staged at Russell field, Cambridge, this evening. If the Cantabs win, they will have the right to contest the Lawrence Independents for the league championship. The Abbots are not out of the running, however. They will start Babe Mitchell on the rubber in this big game. Mitchell made the Cantabs behave to his liking a couple of weeks ago, and may repeat this evening.

Independents There

Donovan was too much for the Silesia mills outfit at North Chelmsford Sunday afternoon, and Lawrence Independents walked away with a 4-1 win. Silesia got but two hits off the big Lawrence moundsman, while Ashley was touched up for five hits by the Independents, including a two-base hit by George "Lefty" Tyler. Fied registered a home run for Silesia's only tally.

Saturday afternoon the Silesians split a twin bill with Manchester by winning the second game, 3 to 0, and losing the first, 6-0.

St. Peter's Cadets

Sunday afternoon on the South common, the Chelmsford A. A. came to town and defeated St. Peter's Cadets by a score of 9 to 8. The Cadets rallied in the ninth frame but fell one run short of deadlocking the count. Netto and Regan performed in the box for the Cadets.

Bellevues-Americans

The Bellevues and Marie's Americans of the City league are considering a three-game series at Alumni field for a purse of $100 a side. The first game may be staged next Saturday afternoon, and should be a hummer.

Lowell Twi League

At Silesia park in North Chelmsford Saturday afternoon, the Chelmsford A. A. went into a tie with the C. M. A. C. for first place in the Lowell Twilight league by defeating the Centralville Princetons, 15 to 10. Hank Garrity was on the mound for the locals, but was not in the best of condition, being nicked for 14 hits, including three-sackers by Conlon and Desmarais, and a double by Zollinger. He was relieved by Moylan, who got three hits during the pastime. Chelmsford will now arrange a game with the C. M. A. C. to decide the league championship, and the winner may play a post-season series with the Bellevues, winners of the City Twilight league.

City Twi League

City Twilight league ball will be resumed on the common this evening with Ricard's Belmonts meeting the Centralville East Ends. The Belmonts and Pawtuckets will play tomorrow night; the Pawtuckets and Americans, Thursday night, and the Belmonts and Americans Friday night. There were no week-end games.

Harps Turn Tables

The Harps of Lawrence were too good for Marie's Americans on the South common Saturday afternoon, turning the tables on the locals by a score of 5 to 2 in twelve innings. The down-river men got three runs in this frame, Herb Mulno waivering under the strain. McCarthy pitched a good game for the Harps.

COOL
NIGHTS and MORNINGS
which will be with us most of the time from now on can be made comfortable with a
Perfection Oil Heater
Burns little fuel; it's odorless, and it's portable; can be used to heat any room.
We all, no doubt, dread the thought of having to start any kind of heat in our homes, never-the-less we know at this time of year we are very apt to need some heat to take the morning and night chill out of the rooms.
PERFECTION HEATERS
Will do the job nicely.
ADAMS HARDWARE & PAINT CO
351 Middlesex St.

PIRATES ADVANCE TO WITHIN ONE GAME OF NEW YORK GIANTS

Brooklyn Follows Two Games Behind Pittsburgh—Washington Maintains Game and a Half Lead Over Yankees—Detroit Slips Back Another Game

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Washington and New York are fighting the main bout in the American League with Pittsburgh and Brooklyn challenging the Giants in the National.

The world champions, following the loss of three of the first four rounds to their younger rivals after stubborn fighting, kept even in the next two yesterday and are still given an equal chance to retain their title because of experience which is expected to count in the last stages.

The Giants were the only main-bout team to falter in the Labor Day double headers. Washington took two from the Athletics by scores of 5 to 4 and 4 to 3, but the Yankees kept within a game and a half of the lead by trimming the Red Sox 3 to 0 and 10 to 2.

For the first time in months the National League race became closer than the American as Pittsburgh advanced to within one game and Brooklyn surged to within three contests of the Giants in first place. McGraw's boys lost a decision in the 11th to Boston, 5 to 4, but came back with a 10 to 2 victory.

The Pirates went into extra rounds but came back with a 10 to 2 victory. to win from Chicago 5 to 4 and dropped the Bruin again for a count of 4 to 3. Brooklyn swung a mean right and a left for a double knockout of the Phillies 7 to 2 and 6 to 3.

Detroit slipped another game away from the rank of contender by splitting with Chicago, winning the first 16 to 5 but losing the second 10 to 2. Cleveland and St. Louis also divided arguments as the Browns won the first 11 to 8 and lost the second 13 to 2. With Hornsby still out of the game, the Cards took two on the chin from the Reds and were counted out 5 to 6 and 9 to 0.

BIG CROWD SEES GAME ON NORTH COMMON

JUNIOR TWILIGHT LEAGUE STANDING	Won	Lost	Pts.
St. Joseph Cadets	7	1	.875
Pawtucket Blues	5	3	.625
P. A. C.	4	3	.572
Emeralds	4	4	.500
Iroquois	4	4	.500
Victorias	4	4	.500
Buffaloes	2	5	.286
Mysteries	1	7	.125

TONIGHT'S GAME

St. Joseph's Cadets vs. Victorias.

Before one of the largest crowds of baseball fans ever seen on the North common, the St. Joseph Cadets last evening practically clinched the Junior league pennant by defeating the Pawtucket Blues, 4 to 2. Only extreme ill-luck can possibly disappoint them.

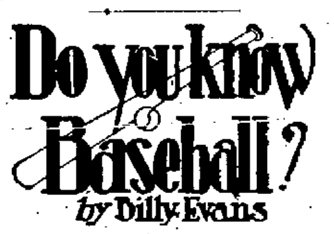
The game was simply a session of thrills galore. Four fast double plays featured, of which two were in the first inning when each team got one. The league leaders were unable to get the number of Pitcher Sullivan, Blue batteryman, and went hitless for the first five frames. The Blues had corraled a tally in the second and another in the third stanza, but it was not until the sixth that the Cadets brought in their first run, which was followed a few minutes later by a second one. From then on until the ninth inning the teams were deadlocked. In the ninth Sullivan walked, Frechette and Chateauneuf muffed Ginivan's long fly to centre. Frechette went home and Ginivan reached third safely. A short time later he came home on a ball passed by the catcher. The Blues were unable to score in their half of the inning and the game ended 4 to 2. The score:

ST. JOSEPH'S CADETS	ab	r	bh	po	a	e
Poudrier, c, ss	4	1	1	2	1	0
Martineau, cf, lf	4	1	0	2	0	1
Parks, p, cf	1	0	0	2	1	0
Paquin, 2b	4	0	0	6	2	1
Frechette, lf, c	4	0	1	7	2	0
Monthleau, 3b	2	1	0	1	1	0
Desauiniers, lf	4	1	0	7	1	0
Richards, ss, p	3	0	0	0	3	0
Totals	29	4	2	27	11	2

PAWTUCKET BLUES	ab	r	bh	po	a	e
Chateauneuf, cf	1	0	0	0	0	1
Doran, 2b	2	0	1	2	3	0
Turcotte, 3b	4	0	1	2	5	0
Sylvester, ss	4	0	0	2	5	0
B. Sullivan, p	4	1	2	0	3	1
Mahoney, lf	4	0	0	0	0	0
Coalter, rf	4	0	0	0	0	0
P. Sullivan, c	4	1	1	5	2	1
Fells, 1b	3	0	1	16	0	2
Totals	30	2	6	27	18	5

St. Joseph Cadets 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 2—4
Pawtucket Blues 0 1 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—2

Two base hit: Frechette. Three base hits: B. Sullivan. Stolen bases: Mahoney, Sylvester, Martineau, Montbleau 3. Sacrifice hits: Doran, Desaulniers, Parks. Double plays: Doran to Sylvester to Fells; Sylvester to Fells; Paquin to Ginivan; Frechette to Ginivan. Left on bases: St. Joseph's Cadets 6; Pawtucket Blues 6. Hits: Off Parks, 4 in 3 innings; Richards, 2 in 6 innings. Base on balls: Off Parks 2; off Richards 3; off B. Sullivan 7. Struck out: By Parks 1; by Richards 6; by B. Sullivan 6. Umpire: Manning. Time: 1.45.



Questions

1. There are runners on first and second and one out. Batsman hits a fly ball which the umpire immediately calls an infield fly. There is a strong wind blowing that finally carries the ball foul, without any fielder touching the ball. Is the batter out because the umpire first ruled it an infield fly?—B. D. F.

2. When the umpire is of the opinion that the ball and the runner have arrived at the base at exactly the same time, is it customary to favor the runner in rendering a ruling?—F. G. G.

3. It is the last half of the ninth, two out and the score 2 to 1 in favor of the visiting team. There are men on first and second and two out. The batsman hits a ball that goes between the centre fielder and the right fielder, rolling to the extreme corner of the field. The two men on the bases, as well as the batsman, cross the plate before the ball is returned to the infield. Is the batsman credited with a home run and what is the final score of the game?—D. D. K.

Answers

1. It is impossible to rule infield fly on a foul ball, as was the case due to the high wind blowing over the field. The umpire, who first called the hit infield fly, must reverse himself and simply declare it a foul ball.

2. If in the opinion of the umpire the baserunner has tied the play, he rules him safe.

3. The batsman is not entitled to a home run. The game ends when the runner on first crosses the plate, the final score being 3 to 2. The batsman gets credit for a triple, having advanced the winning run that many bases on his drive. If the ball had been batted out of the playing field, over the fence or into the stands, the batter would have been credited with a home run and the final score would have been 4 to 2.

VIOLATING THE FISH LAW

State Game Warden Urges Jail Sentences for Unscrupulous Fishermen

State Game Warden James A. Peck, who works from his Fitchburg headquarters to all quarters of this part of Massachusetts, has declared war anew against all fish and game law violators. Secretary Fred W. Barrows has just been notified. Warden Peck generally means what he says, when he charges that many citizens and non-citizens of New England arrogantly violate many laws protecting fish and game out of season.

Lowell district is today very free from violators of the laws, according to Mr. Peck and Secretary Barrows. The new complaints do not come from this territory, although there have been several "raw" instances of non-citizens fishing for white perch in nearby ponds and taking more than the lawful day allowance, 40 bag limit.

Game Warden Peck is after jail sentences now, he told Lowell fish and game association members, last week. Secretary Barrows says the campaign may clean up some of the law violators in this territory before it is over, although the Lowell clubmen are keeping regular patrols out daily and Sundays in the ponds most popular with fishermen all.

The chief offenders in this vicinity, according to Mr. Barrows, and the worst of all because they know the law and don't care a hang, are the cheap sports who fish for the fun of getting everything in sight. Recently, reports have come from favorite fishing ponds to the south and west of Lowell, indicating that vast quantities of white perch, many of them undersized, have been taken by fishermen who apparently have no sympathy for the law or the pleasures of law-abiding fishermen who are to come after them and find many of the best angling grounds depleted of the finny tribes.

The local sportsmen handling the stocking of brooks and ponds, have given a wonderful performance in the Lowell territory, during the past few years, as is well known. Secretary Barrows and active pond-stockers have been busy this season, with large quantities of favorite "fins" distributed in best locations. All will agree with Mr Barrows that it is a disgrace for anyone to remove undersized fish from the rural streams and ponds. The veins of good sportsmen of the rod and line run hot when they hear certain stories of "basketfuls of perch and hornpout" hauled to shore from popular fishing grounds that are fully covered by the state conservation laws.

Game Warden Peck is having trouble in the northern Worcester section of his district at the present time. More serious work to perform than he has ever had to do in the Lowell district. Mr. Peck is convinced that in the not distant future, jail sentences must come for violators of the fish and game law, instead of small fines. Campers in both Worcester and Middlesex counties are complained of. Some of them "delight to slip something over on the game wardens," said Mr. Peck, discussing the matter with a Fitchburg newspaper reporter one day last week.

"We have been fair, have posted the rules conspicuously in the proper places on rivers and ponds and have also been lenient with foreigners who are not, perhaps, familiar with our laws, but the time has come for us to act, and we shall do so.

"Of course, we do not want the public as a whole to think that the department does nothing but prosecute offenders, for we have other things to do regularly. Preservation and conservation is one side of our work. The other side is the stocking of brooks and ponds with fish and the woods with game.

"Did you know that about 6000 trout are released in Worcester and Middlesex counties each week alone? Sportsmen's clubs like the Lowell Fish and Game association have given us wonderful support in this work, for it is for real sportsmen we do it."

Secretary Barrows said that the local organization would continue to work hand in hand with the state authorities, as in the past, and redouble efforts if necessary to clean up violators of the law. Mr. Barrows believes, however, that no section of Middlesex county is better policed than the territory in and about Lowell. The constant attention given to the matter at hand, has cleaned up illegal cases of fishing and put a damper on the aspirations of men who thought they could evade the law and get away with it.

Few violations that called for arrest and appearance in court, have occurred in the Lowell vicinity during the past two years, and the reason for this reputable condition of affairs in outdoor sportsmanship fields is the constant, energetic campaigning on the part of Lowell Fish and Game association for strict upholding of the laws of the commonwealth and federal government combined.

EMERALDS DEFEAT WONDERS

The Emeralds defeated the Wonders, 13 to 5, on the Aiken street grounds yesterday morning. F. Gauthier and Lamb starred with the wand, each getting a two-bagger. Beauregard and Normandin worked in the box for the winners, and Noel and Barrabe for the losers. The game was called at the end of five innings.

BROTHER AND SISTER ON LOCAL TENNIS COURTS

It was "Douglas" day on the local tennis courts yesterday for both the ladies' and men's singles titles went to members of the Douglas family; Queena, playground champion for the past two years, winning the former and Bruce, singles title-holder a year ago, repeating this year.

In the title match for ladies' singles

BRUCE DOUGLAS

Miss Douglas was opposed by Miss Alice Sheehan at Shedd park. Miss Douglas was in tip-top form and took the first set 6-0. Her opponent got into stride in the second set and put up a battle that made the set very interesting. Her service was especially good and on several occasions Miss Douglas was unable to connect for a return. The set went deuce and was then won by Miss Douglas, 7-5.

QUEENA DOUGLAS

Wasaburo Inowoka, a Japanese, opposed Bruce Douglas in the finals, and the match went five sets before the necessary three had been won by Douglas. "Wassa," as the Japanese is best known, played a lobbing game throughout and at times countered with well directed base line shots that found Douglas out of position. Douglas won the first and dropped the second, 6-1 and 2-6. The third was easy for Bruce and the fourth was dropped, 3-6. The final match found Bruce in the pink of condition and Wassa tired. This set went the same score as the first, 6-1.

Both winners were presented silver loving cups and Miss Douglas was also the recipient of a large basket of gladioli, Miss Ellenor Trull being the donor.

Hugh F. Downey and John McSorley were referees and Daniel McDonald, John Dwyer, Leo Devilio, John Stackpole, Herbert Armstrong and James McKay were linesmen.

LOWELL FISH AND GAME CLUB TRAP SHOOT

Lowell Fish and Game association's first trap shoot of the fall season, held yesterday afternoon at the Flaherty health farm in Wamesit, was a complete success. About two dozen members took part in the contests. Secretary Fred W. Barrows was high man.

Features of the program were the remarkable shooting done by Frank Brady, jr., and "Billy" Brady, sons of Dr. Frank Brady. The boys easily won places in the winners' list. Secretary Barrows' record was 21 birds out of a possible 25.

The winners and results:

FIRST EVENT

First—
Frank R. Brady, jr.	16
Berry Simpson	16
Charles Dancourse	16
Second—
Fred W. Barrows	15
Third—
Dr. Frank R. Brady	14

SECOND EVENT

First—
Frank R. Brady, jr.	20
Second—
Berry Simpson	18
Fred W. Barrows	18
Dr. Frank R. Brady	18
Third—
E. Simpson	16

THIRD EVENT

First—
Fred W. Barrows	21
Second—
Berry Simpson	20
Third—
Gaudette	15

FOURTH EVENT
(Special Doubles)

Winners—
Dr. Frank R. Brady	18
Berry Simpson	18
Runners-up—
"Billy" Brady	17

The trap shoot was held under the direction of the trap shoot committee, with President James E. Burns, chairman, assisted by Henry Boynton.

THIRD CONSECUTIVE WIN FOR GAR WOOD

DETROIT, Sept. 2—With a margin of less than two seconds, Gar Wood, of Detroit, drove Miss Detroit VII, to a victory over Cigarette, Jr., New York, in the second international motor boat sweepstakes here yesterday. It was the third consecutive win for Wood.

The race, which concluded the gold cup regatta program that began here last Friday, was one of the closest fought finishes of the program. Of the 14 boats that started only half that number finished the race.

The official time for Miss Detroit VII, was given as 3:04:11.63, while Cigarette, Jr., covered the 10-mile course in 3:04:43.18. Baby Gar IV., owned by Wood, finished third.

LOWELL HORSES IN ATHOL FAIR RACES

Several Lowell horsemen appeared in the Athol fair race track program contests arranged for Labor day afternoon. The 2.25 trot and pace for $500 was split, each division carrying the same size purse. In the first, Aquila D., owned by Dimodana brothers of Lowell, got seventh place in a field of eleven horses. In the second division, Service Flag, owned and driven by I. E. Wolton, was marked fourth place. Bracelenia, 2.18½, owned by David Bruce and driven by Ernest Pelletier, captured one first in a two-heat race.

Lowell horses racing today are Maxwell, a Wolton speeder, and Mauriss, owned by Ernest Daigle.

TENNIS THIS EVENING

This evening's matches in the men's doubles championship will be as follows: Highlands—A. Liddell and Dr. N. A. Pulsifer vs. C. Conley and J. Locke; R. Crowley and D. Connors vs. R. Doeg and Wasaburo Mowoka; P. Molloy and E. Rostler vs. R. Merrill and H. Armstrong; R. Smith and H. Gleason vs. W. Turnbull and R. Littlefield. Shedd park—D. Murphy and T. Kelly vs. F. Price and E. Mahoney; E. Murphy and H. Parent vs. J. McSorley and B. Douglas; S. H. Dodd and L. Gay vs. J. McLaughlin and H. Manning; J. Dwyer and J. Stackpole vs. J. Graham and H. Landis.

SOUTH COMMON TRACK MEET BIG EVENT

The track meet on the South common, sponsored by local labor organizations, proved to be one of the big drawing cards of yesterday afternoon's program and between twelve and fifteen thousand persons thronged the stands and banks of the common to watch the various events.

The first event was started a few minutes after 3 o'clock and at this time the running track was baked hard by the hot sun and waves of heat dancing from the ground made running a sport for only the iron-hearted.

Three of the events proved to be of exceptional interest, the one mile open, the three mile open and the 100-yard dash for girls.

In the mile open a field of 12 started and within two laps the race had settled down to McCarthy, Costa and J. Ryan, with the first named in the lead. For five laps McCarthy had things his own way and it appeared to be his race, but on the final tour around the track Ryan spurted. McCarthy couldn't match Ryan's stride and the latter won by quarter of a lap. It was a real race.

The 100 yard for girls 12 to 15 years was the most attractive race of the group from the number of entries, there being 39 entries. Owing to the extreme heat it was decided to run all entries in one race, rather than run heats, and the 39 lined up across the common awaiting the starting signal. Girls in bloomers and running shoes, girls in ordinary street dress with sneakers and girls in their Sunday best with tight fitting heavy leather shoes contested. The race was close, Marion Burns taking first by about 3 yards, C. Pendergast winning second by about half a stride, and Rosella Cutress third.

The three-mile event was the banner number. There were eight entries but only three finished, the others falling out gradually from the first to the 17th lap. Coutu, winner of a number of events on the common during the past six or seven years, was the favorite, and jumped into the lead during the first half mile. Lawrence, a young chap whose face was new to attendants at local track meets, dogged his steps, apparently very willing to let him set the pace. For ten of the 18 laps, Coutu set the pace and lagged and spurted as he tried to shake Lawrence. Lawrence wouldn't be shaken, however, and by the start of the eleventh lap Coutu was worried. He side-stepped on several occasions in front of Lawrence and did everything he could to get his opponent into the lead, but Lawrence was still content with second.

Then came the final lap. Coutu lengthened his stride a little, but he was tired. Lawrence, however, not only lengthened his stride but also b... and C... second honors. A pro... against Coutu for alleged unfair sportsmanship and was taken under advisement. Tommy Leonard, well known local boxer, entered the three-mile for road work and went to the finish for third money.

The summary follows:

100 yard dash, open, 8 entries, won by McCarthy; second, Barraby; third, W. Clarke. Prizes, $5, $3, $2.

One mile, open, 12 entries, won by J. Ryan; second, McCarthy; third, Costa. Prizes, $5, $5, $3.

One-quarter mile for local union men only, won by J. O'Connor; second, J. Finnegan; third, Toupin. Prizes, $7, $5, $3.

Shot put, open, won by A. Rogers; second, M. Ryan; third, P. McGovern. Distances, 45 ft., 11 in.; 38 ft., 1 in.; 36 ft., 6 in. Prizes, $5, $3, $2.

100 yard dash for ladies, 7 entries, won by M. Rourke; second, J. Soucy; third, M. Kenney. Prizes, $5, $3, $2.

One-quarter mile for boys 12 to 15 years, 12 entries, won by C. Trudel; second, J. R. Rogers; third, P. Quinn. Prizes, $3, $2, $1.

Fat men's race for men 200 lbs. or over, 6 entries, won by J. Buey; second, A. Benedict; third, Mr. Rynn. Prizes, $5, $3, $2.

100 yard dash for girls 12 to 15 years, 39 entries, won by M. Burns; second, C. Pendergast; third, R. Cutress. Prizes, $3, $2, $1.

Relay race, open, 4 teams entered, won by Red Wings; second, Ricard's Belmonts; third, O.M.I. Cadets. The teams were made up as follows: Red Wings, Darrigan, Barraby, Mahan, McCarthy. Belmonts, Ouellette, Finnegan, Bradford, Clarke. O.M.I. Cadets, Crowe, W. Ryan, J. O'Connor, Nelligan. Prizes, $10, $6, $4.

Three mile race, open, 8 entries, won by Lawrence; second, Coutu; third, T. Leonard. Prizes, $10, $5, $3.

Running broad jump for local union men only, won by J. O'Connor; second, Finnegan; third, Reardon. Distances, 15 ft., 5 in.; 11 ft., 8 in.; 11 ft., 9 in. Prizes, $5, $3, $2.

Officials: Starters, Michael J. McGoohan and Patrick Fels. Judges, Michael Regan and Michael Wrenn. Timer, Patrick Bagley. Announcer, Joseph Convery.

The sports committee consisted of the following: Michael Regan, Thomas Crowe, Joseph Convery, Patrick Bradley, James Rourke, Michael McGoohan, Timothy Finnegan and Frank Horn.

ST. PETER'S CADETS

To prevent future misunderstanding or disappointment, the director of St. Peter's Cadets wishes to quote the ruling made last year relative to football eligibility. To become a member of the Cadet squad a cadet must be enlisted one month, and attend all meetings. If he be absent without legitimate excuse he forfeits the right to play until the next meeting that he attends.

RIFLE

National guardsmen's ... at the Westford street barracks ... lay, Camp Devens forgotten for the ... once, is the annual state range rifle competition scheduled for October 12 next.

The closing of the military services' competition at Wakefield two weeks ago, did not wind-up the open-air target practice work by any means, and Lowell expert riflemen are entirely happy about it.

The greatest matches of the year for national guardsmen exclusively, are billed for the brown October days at Wakefield. Lowell's military organizations used to be very largely represented several years ago, and before the World war. The numbers of contestants in state matches have fallen off considerably during the past three years, however.

No reasons have ever been given for the meager Lowell competitive lists, except men expert in target practice have complained that wage-earning vacations in everyday life prevented them from giving proper time and attention to the duties required of them in preparing for both preliminary and final matches.

Lowell may not have a long list of entrants from Westford street army barracks this year, but it will have a squad of sharpshooters of "good eye" quality, led by the champion of them all—Second Lieut. James A. Tourtlott, of Machine Gun Company D, 182nd infantry, M. V. M.

The date for the Wakefield wind-up of the M. N. G. season on the ranges, falls on Sunday, and already objections are heard and many more will doubtless reach the adjutant-general's office. Local military circles show a strong feeling against holding state military competitions of this sort on the Sabbath day. It is claimed on the other hand, that Sunday is favored by military comrades in the western part of the state. However, the date has been set and there is no likelihood that it can be changed.

The orders direct the commanding officers of the following organizations to participate by sending representative marksmen from "the line:" 101st, 104th, 181st and 182nd infantry; 241st coast artillery, 211th coast artillery, 2nd separate battalion infantry, 101st engineers, 110th cavalry and the 26th division train, Q. M. C., with teams consisting of 10 firing members, one team captain, one team coach and one alternate.

The course to be fired will be as follows:

First stage—200 yards, slow fire; position standing; without aid of the sling; 10 shots for record; target A; time limit, one minute per shot.

Second stage—300 yards, slow fire; position prone, without sandbag; 10 shots for record; target A; time limit, one minute per shot.

Third stage—600 yards, slow fire; ... The ... United States service ... Ammunition as supplied at the ... points.

The regulations are a little stiffer at Wakefield this October. The instructions covering team personnels are as follows: No officer or enlisted man shall be eligible for a place on a team who has not been a member of the Massachusetts national guard for at least three months preceding the date of competition, or who has not performed at least 10 days of camp duty during 1924. No officer of rank higher than captain, shall be eligible as a firing member of the team. At least six of the firing members of each team shall be enlisted men: At least five of the firing members of the team shall be men who have never before been firing members of a team in an outdoor state competition. A bugler and pit officers will be selected from the ranks of the 182d infantry.

To the winning team will be given the state tri-color; to the 10 men making the 10 highest individual scores, silver cups; to the 10 men who have never before won state distinguished marksmen medals, making the highest individual scores, medals will be given.

Off to Camp Perry, O.

Lowell militiamen are today enroute to Camp Perry, O., to participate in the national target matches, arranged annually for rifle experts from all branches of the service. The competitions are sure to be livelier than ever this year.

The following named officers and men will constitute the personnel of the Bay State team, with Lowell prominent in the official crack riflemen's lists:

Maj. C. David Berg, 182d infantry, team captain; principals, Second Lieut. James A. Tourtlott, Company D, 182d infantry; First Sergt. John T. Dingle, Company D, 182d infantry; Capt. Harry R. Marshall, ordnance department; Capt. Wallace L. Darling, range officer; other principals, Second Lieut. Herbert P. Whittemore, 101st infantry; First Sergt. John C. Speaker, Company L, 182d infantry; Second Lieut. William C. Martin, 101st infantry; Sergt. Clarence E. Landry, Company F, 182d infantry; First Class Private Joseph Pellerin, Company F, 182d infantry. Alternates: Sergt. Ernest A. Bengston, Sergt. John J. Healy, Company F, and Corp. Warren J. Gleason, Company F, all of the 182d infantry regiment.

Lieut. Col. Stanchfield, who has had charge of the Bay State team in training at Wakefield, believes that he has an aggregation of military riflemen that will continue the fine record that Massachusetts has regularly maintained in national matches in the past. The enthusiastic entrants from Lowell are prepared to perform to the very best of their ability, anyhow.

... held ... feature event of ... was the Foresters' ... race, which was won by ... of the Posse club, who ... ver trophy donated by Mayor James Curley of Boston.

Lowell athletes starred in the ... yard race, Ernest H. Latham winning first position and his brother, ... second position. T. Lindahl captured third place. Ernest Latham's time was 1m. 59 3-5s. Both boys are members of Lowell high school.

FAREWELL PARTY

Miss Margaret N. O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael F. O'Brien of 62 West Third street, who left today for St. Catherine's convent, Kentucky, was tendered a farewell party at the home of her parents Sunday evening. An entertainment program in which the Misses Alice Carroll, Dorothy Mitchell, Mary O'Brien, Alice O'Brien, Veronica Kelley, Dorothy Durkin participated, was given during the course of the evening. Refreshments were served by Miss Durkin, the Misses Mary and Nellie O'Brien, Mrs. William Mitchell and Messrs. James Durkin and Edward Gray.

MISS CLOUREY HONORED

A reception was tendered to Miss Catherine Clourey last evening at the home of Mrs. M. Sullivan, 451 Gorham street. Miss Clourey is about to begin training at St. John's hospital. Miss Mary Connolly, as spokesman for her friends, presented a silver watch to Miss Clourey. During the evening a buffet lunch was served and a varied musical program rendered. Miss Clourey played several violin selections and Mrs. John Fryer sang several solos. About sixty guests were present.

BRIDAL SHOWER

On Friday evening a very pretty bridal shower was tendered to Miss Cora Veracunda Davis at the home of her mother, Mrs. Fred L. Davis, 40 Roberts street. A program of fancy dances was carried out under the direction of Miss Catherine Boyle. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Georgeliana Davis and Mrs. Arthur Thursby. Later in the evening a buffet lunch was served. About 70 of Miss Davis' friends were present.

Prague is becoming the airway capital of Europe, because of its central location.

Adorable New HATS

For "Little Miss School Girl"

A hat is such an important thing in the wardrobe of the schoolgirl! No matter how smart is the outfit she possesses, if the hat is badly chosen, the entire chic effect vanishes.

In our special Children's Millinery Section you will find one lovely variation after another in Felt, Silk and Velvet Hats, priced as moderately as

$1.79 $2.49 $2.98 $3.98

Fourth Floor

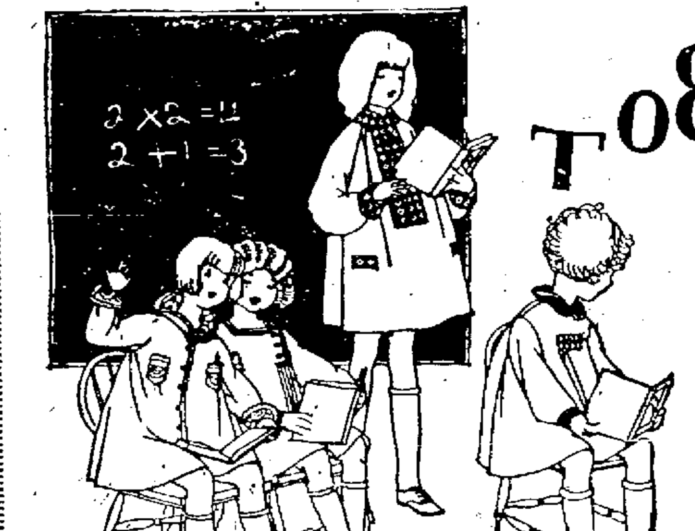
Cherry & Webb Co

FREE!
A Fine School Pencil To All Children Accompanied by Adults

Cherry & Webb Co

Children's Department—Third Floor

Togs For School Days



Ding Dong! Ding Dong!

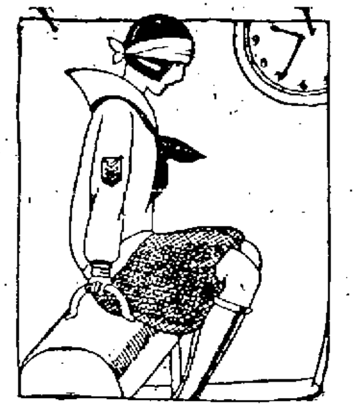
THE SCHOOL BELL WILL SOON BE RINGING

Vacation almost over. School doors soon to swing wide open. Lowell children ready on tiptoe to enter for the Fall and Winter term.

But Are They Really Ready, Mother?

Be sure they are properly outfitted in the togs they like if you would have them successful in their school careers.

Visit our Children's Department and choose from the exceptional values there to be found in Back-to-School Apparel for girls.



GIRLS' GYMNASIUM MIDDIES

The Regulation and Slope Style Models in Saratoga and Man-O-War makes. All sizes. Short and long sleeves, $1.49

For Example

Girls' Gingham Dresses

500

Sizes 7 to 14 Years

All fresh new Fall styles in better grade Amoskeag, Parkhill and Kilburnie Ginghams, Bloomer Styles, Sash Models, Jacket Styles and the new long waisted effects. Short and long sleeves, silk and wool embroidery. Made to sell at $1.98 and $2.49. For School Sale Week Only $1.45

GIRLS' RAINCOATS

Smart belted styles that you can be assured are thoroughly waterproof. Sizes up to 16 years........ $6.98

GIRLS' BRUSHED WOOL SWEATERS

In buff color. Every schoolgirl simply must have one of these. They are wonder values at $3.98

Extra Special Gingham Dresses

Good Quality Ginghams in smart checks and plaids. Sizes 7 to 14 years. Included are the wanted jacquette styles and pleated models. The regular $1.49 and $1.98 kind for 95c

GIRLS' GYMNASIUM BLOOMERS

All Wool Navy Serge, reinforced crotch, concealed pocket. Full pleated, in sizes 6 to 22 years. The regular $3.98 kind.. $1.98

Girls' Bloomer Dresses

$1.95

In better grade ginghams. Made in the different styles that mother would make for the growing girls of 6 to 10 years. For School Sale Week.

Girls' Wool Dresses

$5.98

In crepes, checks, tweeds and serges. New tailored, mannish styles in one and two-piece models.

CHERRY & WEBB CO. CHERRY & WEBB CO.

TRIMS

T, R. I., S... neat Bucklin ... found in the Pawtucket ... were pictures of some girls and a clipping referring to Gladys Hurn, a 16-year-old girl who has been missing since Aug. 23. While the police say they believe Gladys Hurn's picture is among those found on the body, relatives of Bucklin say they are pictures of other girls. They account for the newspaper clipping by saying he was a friend of the Hurn family and was naturally interested in her disappearance. Bucklin, who was 40 years old, had been ill for some time and was said to be despondent. The missing girl is 16 years old.

Superior Court Opens Here

Continued

street neighborhood and his subsequent confession at Lowell police headquarters. He produced an overcoat said to belong to the defendant which was found on the sidewalk in front of the building in which fire was discovered and a key, found in one of its pockets, which he alleged is a key to the Tsaffaras house. He charged Courembis with offering money to Tsaffaras to burn the building and said the motive was insurance collection.

The fall term of the superior court for the transaction of criminal business opened at the county court house in Lowell this forenoon and after the trial of one case will adjourn tomorrow at 10 a. m. to East Cambridge for the remainder of the session.

Judge Richard T. Irwin was on the bench today and court was opened by Sheriff John R. Fairbairn, with invocation pronounced by Rev. John T. Ullom, pastor of the Matthews Memorial P. M. church.

The case to go to trial today was that of John Tsaffaras and Peter J. Courembis, both of Lowell, the former charged with arson and the latter with being an accessory before the fact to the same complaint. A jury was empaneled shortly before noon and 13 witnesses were sworn in for the government which was represented by Assistant District Attorney Bushnell.

Tsaffaras is indicted on a charge of attempting to wilfully destroy by fire on the morning of March 6, this year, a building in Race street owned by Courembis and the latter is charged with full prior knowledge and with enticing and hiring Tsaffaras to commit arson.

The government will argue that the motive behind the alleged crime was the collection of $1000 insurance money by Courembis. Attorney Bushnell also declared in his opening that the government would produce a confession signed by Tsaffaras, in which it is alleged that he admits entering the building on the morning in question and applying a match to gasoline-soaked rags and other refuse.

Just before the fire was discovered a patrolman stopped Tsaffaras, who was running through Race street without coat or hat. He eventually slipped away but later was arrested in the vicinity of the Courembis house in outer Varnum avenue. A coat, alleged to be the property of Tsaffaras, was found by police on the sidewalk in front of the Race street building and a key in a pocket is said to be for a door of the Tsaffaras house. The coat and key will be offered as evidence and exhibits.

The two defendants are represented by Attorneys Albert S. Howard, Edward J. Tierney and Benjamin Silverblatt.

Patrolman Frechette, who first saw the defendant, Tsaffaras, running through Race street just before the fire was discovered, was the first witness called. He testified to stopping Tsaffaras and asking him where he was going.

Tsaffaras told him he was running away from a fight, the patrolman testified. When fire was discovered, Tsaffaras slipped away. He was without hat or coat, the patrolman testified.

Sergt. Peter McMannon testified to an investigation made by him at the scene of the fire. He told of finding in the building a can that smelled strongly of gasoline.

Patrolman Charles Sharkey testified to finding a key to the Race street building about 25 feet distant from the location and later fitted a key found in a pocket of an overcoat alleged to be the property of Tsaffaras and found on the sidewalk near the door of the Tsaffaras home in Varney street.

James T. Kane, an insurance broker, was called to testify as to insurance carried by Courembis on the Race street property.

Attorney Howard objected on the grounds that it is no crime for a man to burn his own property unless for the purpose of defrauding an insurance company and the indictment against Courembis includes no such charge.

After a conference of counsel the court allowed the questioning.

Captain David Petrie was the next witness. He testified to conversation with Tsaffaras at police headquarters the morning after the fire.

"His hands were burned and were covered with blisters," he testified.

He told of the entrance of the wife of Tsaffaras and said she addressed her husband as follows:

"I knew that man would get you into trouble sooner or later. I knew that it meant trouble when he came to the house so many times."

Capt Petrie told of further conversation with Tsaffaras and with Courembis as well. Later Tsaffaras made a statement which was taken down by a stenographer.

Miss Cutler, stenographer, read the statement made by Tsaffaras at police headquarters, telling of visits made to the Tsaffaras home by Courembis, the latter's promise to pay for the destruction of the Race street property.

Several cases in which lower court pleas were retracted and pleas of guilty entered were heard and disposed of before the Tsaffaras case began.

Frank DeFoe, charged with carrying a dangerous weapon, changed his plea to guilty and was ordered to pay a fine of $100.

Three Fitchburg young men, facing statutory charges, were placed on probation for one year. They were Rene Richards, Edward Collette and Edward Hosdley.

Mary B. LaRose, charged with adultery, pleaded guilty and was placed on probation.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 2—Dr. W. F. Kuhn, 75, grand high priest of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of the United States, was found dead in bed today. Death was due to apoplexy. He was born in Lyons, N. Y., in 1847.

WINS FIRST ROUND

AYATT, R. I., Sept. 2.—Miss Glenna Collett of Providence today defeated Miss Ruth Bachelder of Weston, Mass., in the first round of the woman's national golf tournament, 4 and 3.

Mrs. C. E. Letts, Jr., of Chicago, was overcome by the heat today after playing nine holes in the woman's national golf tournament with Mrs. J. R. Enwich of New York. Mrs. Letts was six up at the time and was unable to continue the match and thereby defaulted. She was brought to the clubhouse for treatment.

In defeating the former national golf champion, Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson of Greenwich, Conn., by the decisive margin of 6 and 4, Miss Mary K. Browne, Californian, who long held the national tennis championship, demonstrated that she has acquired great skill on the links as well as on the courts. Miss Browne went out in 41 and was six up in the turn. Her drives and putts were the best part of her game. But for two topp mashie shots, a club with which she is having trouble, she might have broken forty.

Several experts who watched her play her first match in a national golf tourney, predicted that with more experience Miss Browne will be champion.

Miss Marion Hollins of New York, one of the favorites for the title, was eliminated by another former title holder, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia, 4 and 3. Two stymies and the missing putt of a yard which cost Miss Hollins three holes and Mrs. Hurd's excellent recoveries from trouble were the main factors in the match. Each went to the turn in 41 and Mrs. Hurd was one up there.

Miss Audrey Faust of St. Louis defeated Mrs. E. F. Shay of Providence, 8 and 7.

Miss Elizabeth Gordon of Providence, defeated Miss Margaret Curtis of Manchester, 3 and 2.

Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck of Philadelphia defeated Mrs. J. Laroque Anderson of New York 2 and 1.

Mrs. Quentin F. Feitner, New York, defeated Mrs. Sydney R. Small of Detroit, three and two.

Miss Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, O., defeated Mrs. Isobel Harris of Providence, four and two.

Miss Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia defeated Miss Marion Hollins of New York, 4 and 3.

Miss Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica, Calif., defeated Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson of Greenwich, Conn., 6 and 4.

Miss Edith Cummings of Chicago defeated Mrs. E. R. Baker, Jr., of Boston, 6 and 4.

Mrs. Henry R. Watson of Canton, Mass., defeated Miss Priscilla Maxwell of Hartford, Conn., 4 and 3.

SOCIETY OF MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS MEET

PLYMOUTH, Sept. 2.—Examination of the line of descent of those claiming ancestry with the Mayflower's passengers was provided for in an amendment proposed today at the tenth triennial general congress of the General Society of Mayflower Descendants, which began its business sessions here today.

The constitution as it now stands provides that "no person shall be a member of the general society who is not a member in good standing of a state society." The amendments add the words:

"And no person shall be a member of a state society until his or her line of descent shall have been approved by the historian-general."

The election of officers, including a successor to Governor-General John Parkwood Tilden of New York city, was to be taken up today or tomorrow. This evening the 150 delegates will be given a reception by the governor-general.

PRINCE OF WALES IN BED AT 11 THIS MORNING

SYOSSET, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The Prince of Wales began his day this afternoon, having retired in the early morning hours after an evening spent at the home of one of his Long Island neighbors. It was the second occasion since his landing when he has left the J. A. Burden home to spend an evening in company of only Major E. Metcalf, his equerry and one or two American friends.

The members of his staff who were with the prince last night were in bed at 11 o'clock this forenoon, according to members of the household. The prince had not arisen at that hour.

On previous visits to the country the prince often went out accompanied only by one of his equerries. His other aides sometimes waited anxiously long after midnight for his return.

Inspector Charlton of Scotland Yard, who guards the prince closely except when he goes on one of his trips of diversion, said today that the crush at the races yesterday was the first time the prince ever has been in such close contact with a crowd.

EX-PROF. HAU PARDONED

KARLSRUHE, Germany, Sept. 2.—Karl Hau, one-time professor of Roman law in George Washington university, Washington, D. C., who has been serving a life sentence here for the murder of his mother-in-law, Frau Molitor at Baden-Baden in November, 1906, has been pardoned.

Trial of Hau in 1906 created a tremendous sensation because of his prominence socially in university circles in the United States and Germany. He was originally sentenced to death, but this sentence later was commuted to life imprisonment by the Grand Duke Baden. Some months after the trial began, Hau's young wife and daughter committed suicide by drowning themselves in a lake near Zurich, Switzerland.

The former professor intends to settle down in Berlin and to write his memoirs.

STATE INSPECTORS

Freeman D. Dickinson of Boston has taken the place of Henry F. Devine as boiler inspector in the local division of the state department. Mr. Devine goes to Greenfield. A second addition is made in the local ranks in the appointment of George B. MacIntosh. Chief Inspector E. A. Mores remains here in his same capacity, as does Joseph F. Cobb, chief building inspector.

MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Reports of good business conditions and the progress made in putting the Dawes plan into effect infused fresh strength into the stock market as trading was resumed today. Several large blocks changed hands, among them 4000 shares of Chile Copper at 35. More than a half dozen railroads and industrials reached new high prices in the initial dealings.

Early buying centered principally in the popular industrial issues and a wide variety of specialties which were responsive to pool operations. United States Steel rose almost a point to 110¼ on a large turnover and good headway was made by American Can, Baldwin and Mack Trucks. Gains of 1 to 2¼ points were scored by Texas Gulf Sulphur, American locomotive, Stromberg, National Lead, American Ice, Foundation Company, American Sugar preferred and Pressed Steel Car preferred. Interborough Rapid Transit was an exception to the general trend, falling back a point. In the flock of new high records were Maxwell "A" and "B" issues, Fleischmann, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Frisco, Missouri Pacific preferred and "Katy" preferred. Foreign exchanges opened steady.

When the accumulation of weekend buying orders had been absorbed, the upward price movement came to a temporary halt with the result that profit-taking sales and short selling again made their appearance and brought about a moderate reaction from the early highs. American Can Maxwell Motors "A", United States Cast Iron Pipe and General Electric were among the popular industrial shares to fall back a point or more. Bullish demonstrations continued, however, in a few special stocks, Nash Motors moving up four points to a new 1924 high at 132 and Jersey Central and National Enamelling preferred soaring four and five points, respectively. The first hour's sales approximated about 250,000 shares. Call money again renewed at two per cent.

A flurry in low-priced railroads in the afternoon, notably St. Louis & San Francisco, Texas & Pacific and Eries, which improved one to two points halted the selling movement elsewhere, and there was a gradual hardening in the principal issues. Delaware & Hudson Tobacco Products, Manhattan Guaranteed, Sears-Roebuck and International Business Machine spurted two to four and a half points.

The closing was irregular. Active selling of American Can, which yielded more than two points, brought another widespread recession of prices of industrial shares in the late dealings. Baldwin, Crucible Steel, United States Cast Iron Pipe and Marine preferred were among the many issues to sell one to 2½ points below Saturday's closing quotations.

Money Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Foreign exchanges irregular; Great Britain demand $4.48 5-16; cables $4.48 9-16; 60-day bills on banks $4.45 9-16; France, demand 5.40¾; cables 5.41¼; Italy demand 4.42½; cables 4.43; Belgium demand 5.08½; cables 5.08; Germany demand (per trillion) .23⅝; Holland demand 38.50; Norway demand 13.84; Sweden demand 26.56; Denmark demand 16.36; Switzerland demand 18.82; Spain demand 13.25; Greece demand 1.81; Poland demand 19¼; Czecho-Slovakia, demand 3.00; Jugoslavia demand 1.28½; Austria demand .0014½; Rumania demand 49¾; Argentina demand 35.00; Brazil demand 10.00; Tokio demand 41; Montreal 99 31-32.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Cotton futures opened steady: Oct. 21.58; Dec. 24.33; Jan. 24.26; March 24.45; May 24.62.

NEW YORK MARKET

	High	Low	Close
Allis Chal	65	64	64
Am Beet Sug	42	41⅝	42
Am Can	135¼	132½	133¼
do pfd	115	115	115
Am H & L	11	11	11
do pfd	63	63	63
Am Loco	82⅜	82	82
Am Smelt	77¼	76⅝	77
Am Sug	49⅜	47⅝	48¼
Am T & T	128	127⅞	127⅞
Am Wool	76⅛	75¾	75¾
Anaconda	41	40½	40½
Atch	105¾	105	105
At Gulf	16½	16	16
Baldwin	125½	123⅞	124¾
B & O	63⅞	63½	63½
Beth Steel	46¼	45⅝	46
B R T	25½	24⅞	25½
Butte & Sup	18¾	18¾	18¾
Cal Pete	22⅛	21⅞	21⅞
Can Pac	149	148	148
Ches & O.	86⅝	85⅝	86⅝
C R I & P	32⅞	32⅝	32⅝
Chile	35⅝	35	35
Col G & E	40⅞	40⅜	40⅜
Col Fuel	38⅞	36¾	36¾
Con Gas	71⅝	71	71½
Corn Prod	33⅞	33⅝	33⅝
Cru Steel	22¼	21⅛	21⅛
Cuba Cane	14½	14¼	14½
Del & Hud	126	126	126
ERIE	30	28⅝	29¾
do pf	41¾	40	41
do 2d	41¼	40	41
Gen Elec	276½	272	272
Gen Motors	15	14⅞	14⅞
Granby	20½	20	20½
Gt No pf	67⅜	67	67
Gt No Ore cff	50	50	50
Int Mer Mar	10½	10¼	10
Kennecott	49⅛	48⅝	48¾
K City So	21½	21½	21½
Lehigh Val	54⅜	54½	54½
L & Nash	100	100	100
Maxwell	62¾	61⅛	61¼
do 1st	17⅜	16½	16½
Mother Lode	8¾	8⅝	8⅝
Mo Pac	19⅞	19¼	19¼
Nat Lead	158½	158	158
Nevada	15⅜	15⅜	14⅜
N Y Air B	42⅝	42⅝	42⅝
N Y Cent	109½	108⅛	108⅛
N Y & N H	24⅞	24½	24⅝
Nor & West	125¾	125⅝	125⅝
No Pac	66⅞	66	66½
Ont & West	21	21	21
Pan Am	54⅞	54½	54⅞
Penn	45½	45¼	45¼
Pere Marquette	63⅞	61¾	63
do pf	73½	71	73½
P W V	63¼	61⅞	63¼
Pres Steel	47¼	47¼	47¼
Pullman	129½	127⅞	127⅞
Ray Con	13⅝	13⅝	13⅝
Ry St Sp Co	126¾	126⅝	126¾
Reading	62	61⅞	62
Rep I & S	49⅝	48¾	48¾
Royal D	43½	43	43½
Sinclair Oil	17⅝	17½	17½
Sloss	74	73¾	74
So Pac	96	95¼	95⅝
So Ry	68⅞	67⅞	68⅛
Stewart	55	54⅝	55
Stude	39½	39⅛	39⅜
Tex Pac	37⅝	36¾	37⅝
U Pac	143½	143	143
U S I Al	73	72⅞	72⅞
U S Rub	36½	36¼	36¼
do pf	89	88⅞	88⅞
U S Steel	110¼	109⅛	109⅝
Wab	15¼	15¼	15¼
do A	43⅜	43	43
Willys	9	8⅝	8⅝
Wes'house	64½	63¾	63⅝

BOSTON MARKET

	High	Low	Close
Am Wool pf	100¾	100¾	100¾
Ariz Com	11½	11½	11½
Bos El	77	77	77
Bos & Alb	153	153	153
Bos & Me	15	15	15
do B	26	26	26
Cal & Ariz	53	52½	52½
Cal & Hec	17½	17½	17½
Cop Range	28	27½	27½
Edison Elec	187½	177	177
Int Cement	50	45	45
Isl Cr Coal	133	132	132½
Mohawk	36¾	36¾	36¾
Nat Leather	3⅝	3⅝	3⅝
New Cornelia	22	22	22
N E Tel	108	107½	108
No Butte	1⅞	1⅞	1⅞
Old Dom	24	21	24
Shannon	70	70	70
St Mary	39	39	39
Sup & Bos	15	40	42
Swift Intl	27	26	26
U Apex	3	3	3
U Metal	35	35	35
U Sh M	35⅝	35½	35⅝
do pf	26½	26¼	26½
U S Smel	36	31½	31½
Ventura	21	20⅞	21
Waldorf	15	15	15
Wickwire Spencer	1½	1½	1½

RADICALS IN TOKIO

TOKIO, Sept. 2.—(By The Associated Press)—Police today were rounding up known radicals of this city and endeavoring to connect other followers of the late Sakae Osugi with the attack yesterday on General Masataro Fukuda.

The revolver taken from Kyutaro Wada, who was arrested immediately after he had fired a shot at General Fukuda, contained one blank and five ball cartridges. Only the blank cartridge was fired. The wadding from the cartridge struck General Fukuda on the left shoulder blade and inflicted only a slight injury. Wada, a known folower of Osugi, the socialist leader, who was killed by a police officer soon after the earthquake last year for delivering a radical address while Tokio was under martial law, was seized by police before he could fire a second shot.

After his arrest, Wada declared to the police that he intended to kill General Fukuda in revenge for Osugi's death, for which he believed him responsible.

DETERMINE WEIGHT OF LA FOLLETTE SUPPORT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 2.—The weight of the endorsement of Senator Robert M. La Follette will be determined today in the Wisconsin primary which is a republican contest.

Gov. John M. Blaine, seeking renomination, has the endorsement of La Follette and is opposed by Arthur R. Hirst, former state highway engineer, and George B. Comins, lieutenant-governor. Both are La Follette supporters, but are running without his endorsement.

ROTARIANS HOLD NOON-DAY MEETING

Called upon to "say a few words" to local Rotarians, who had no official speaker listed for today's dinner and social hour program, conducted as usual in the Boys' club on Dutton street, former Assistant District Attorney Gardner W. Pearson said a few words that carried a number of vigorous admonitions concerning American citizenship duties and neglects.

The attendance at today's meeting was up to expectations, nearly every table being filled with members and guests. President Arthur G. Spalding presided.

Plans for attending the Poland Springs, Me., northern Rotary district convention in October, are progressing nicely.

President Spalding introduced new guests and some old familiars. An unannounced attraction was "Billy" Cole, a member of the "Meistersingers," appearing this week at Keith's theatre. "Billy" came in to dinner as the guest of Manager Ben Pickett, partook of choice club viands at a side table with Ben, and was compelled to warble a few favorite songs for the edification of his hosts.

Former Assistant District Attorney Pearson's appearance in the speaker's role was unexpected. He emphasized the necessity of taking more interest in the candidates who present themselves for approval via the ballot box designation. In no other way can the people expect to have good laws unless they make them themselves, the attorney declared. Some men say they are too busy to take any interest in political affairs of the city, state or nation. This attitude is wrong. No citizen can be too busy to have the government that controls placed in the hands of men who don't belong there.

Mr. Pearson declared that he was making no political speech and cared not for which party anyone present voted, but he did insist that too many so-called citizens are today sheerly neglecting their civic duties by failing to interest themselves in movements to elect only reputable men to public office. Agitation of the right kind, to awaken real, genuine interest that will result in the enactment of legislation will bring us good laws said the former assistant district attorney in closing.

DECREASE IN INTERNAL REVENUE COLLECTIONS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Internal revenue collections for July, the first month when all of the tax reduction features of the present law were effective, amounted to $110,814,885, a drop of $21,885,605 from the receipts of July last year. Tax payments in June were $112,165,251, but this included the regular quarterly payment of income and profits taxes and does not therefore furnish a basis of comparison with July.

There was a sharp cut in the amount of taxes collected in July under the two main classifications—income and miscellaneous—as compared with July a year ago. The comparative income payments were $30,023,624 for July and $38,102,010 for July, 1923. Miscellaneous payments dropped from $97,568,449 in July, 1923, to $80,791,261 last July.

MID-WEEK SOCIAL

A mid-week social will be held at the Commodore ballroom on Wednesday evening with Leo Daly's orchestra furnishing the music for dancing. This orchestra has been busy during the present season and everywhere it has played it has made a most favorable impression. All the latest hits are featured and while the team is comparatively young they play exceedingly well. The admission for this event is 30 cents with dancing free.

DAY" COMMITTEE

Lowell "National Defense Day" committee will meet tonight in the old Courier-Citizen building in Kearney square, to complete plans for the local observance of Sept. 12. It is expected that this date will become an annual national institution, if the coming first test proves successful. Chairman Dana Palmer will preside at tonight's meet- civic ... fraternal organizations of Lowell. Several active committees will report, and it is expected that Commander Colin C. MacDonald of the local American Legion organization will have a special report to make.

DECISION IN FIRPO CASE NEAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—There were indications today that the department of labor, which is in charge of en- ... on the charges made by ... are demanding the deportation of Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine pugilist.

BURNS PROVE FATAL

FREEPORT, Me., Sept. 2—Arthur Gorton died this morning as the result of burns sustained late last night when an oil stove in his home here exploded, scattering burning oil over his clothing, enveloping him in flames and setting fire to the house.

At Fidler's You Save More

After Labor Day Reductions Throughout the Entire Store

Special Sale of Early FALL COATS
High Grade Garments, Usually Sold Up to $25.00.
$12.00
Main Floor

Every garment full silk or crepe lined—many are luxuriously fur trimmed. Every new fabric, color and style is here represented. Buckskin Suede—Waffle Chinchilla—Downy wool fabrics—shadow plaids, etc. Sizes to 48.

500 Slenderizing Stylish STOUT DRESSES
Sizes 46½ to 54½
Specially purchased at about ½ to cost of the making.
Wednesday and Thursday Only
$4.70
Basement

High grade frocks that the maker fully intended should be sold at $15.00, but backward season and other adversities made this price concession possible and we are passing it on to our friends. Silk Voiles—Genuine Clarkson Voiles, etc.—new popular dark patterns—neatly trimmed—vestee, panel and other effects. Come early, while the 500 last.

WOMEN'S SILK HOSE
Odds and ends of $1.50 and $2.00 kinds, all colors, some glove silk, all sizes but not all colors in sizes. A wonder value for one day and a half.... 49c

COSTUME SLIPS
Fine quality batiste, shadow-proof skirt, lace and medallion trimmed, white only; $1.50 value. Special each, at.... 89c

WOMEN'S SILK HOSE
In all the popular shoe shades, service improved ankle, fashioned toe and heel, very fine looking. Specially priced 93c

With Two Pair of Pants!
A Boys' School Suit
The kind you generally pay $8.50 to $10.00 for.
Our School Boys' Opening Sale Price
$5.00 Third Floor

Think of it parents! A boys' suit and an extra pair of pants all for $5.00. Good strong wearing materials and plenty of styles and all sizes. Come early for we cannot guarantee how long they will last.

Third Floor

A Timely Offering of FALL DRESSES
Actual Values to $35.00.
150 in the lot—"Stylish Stouts"
$14.75 MAIN FLOOR

Advanced fall styles, developed in hosts of stunning new creations, representing America's foremost style modes in every conceivable color and material, a few of which are crepe back satin—satin crepe—canton crepe—French flannel—newest Poiret twill, etc. Regular and extra sizes.

Girls' Gingham School Dresses
Crisp new gingham frocks especially designed to meet the girls' demand for an economical dress for school yet nice looking and well wearing. There are hosts of very pretty styles in checks and plaids, some with bloomers, neatly trimmed, all colors, conveniently priced in 2 groups, at $1.69 and $2.89.
Third Floor
$1.69 and $2.89

"Cousin Cy" Says; There'll Be a Surprise When You See These Cy-Prize Bargains in SURPRISE BASEMENT
REMNANTS
In the Surprise Basement For Wednesday Only
1-3, 1-2 and Even Greater Savings Are Here Represented

SILK REMNANTS
1 to 5-Yard Lengths.
$2.50 to $3.50 Values
87c Yard
Basement
40 in. Roshanara Crepe, 40 in. Crepe de Chine, 40 in. Satin-back Crepe, Panne Velvet, Silk Velvet, Devonshires, Figured Crepe, Brocaded Silks, Novelty Silks—all colors.

REMNANTS
Values 39c to 75c
1 to 8-Yard Lengths
27c Yard
Silkette, 36 in. Pongee, 36 in. Lingette, 36 in. Silk Crepe, 36 in. Shantung, 36 in. Ratine, 36 in. Foulardines, 36 in. Satines, 36 in. French Voiles.

White Goods
REMNANTS
1 to 10-Yard Lengths
25c to 35c Values
14c Yard
36 in. Longcloth, 36 in. Madras, 36 in. Nainsook, 36 in. Dimity, 36 in. Gabardine, 36 in. Bleached Muslin.

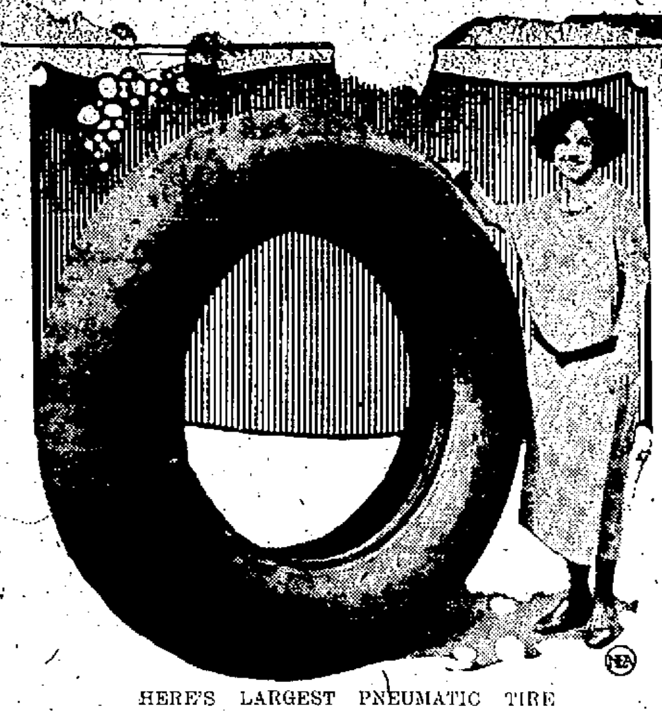
Remnants of 36 Inch
OUTING FLANNEL
Striped or checked; 39c value. Special, yard 19c

Remnants Bleached 9-4
SHEETING
Regular 75c value, best known brands, 81 inches wide 43c

About 800 Yards
REMNANTS
MARQUISETTE
½ inch hem, 36 inches wide, 1 to 12-yard lengths. Special, yard 7c

FIDLER'S Inc.
BOSTON LADIES OUTFITTERS
92-100 MERRIMACK ST.
45-49 MIDDLE ST.

Buy Where Your Dollars Count



HERE'S LARGEST PNEUMATIC TIRE

Uncle Sam's air service again excels—this time in the size of airplane tires. The young lady is just as tall as the tire, which will be used on a special type of airplane now being perfected. It is a 64 by 14-inch balloon type cord and will sustain a load of 20,000 pounds at an inflation pressure of 75 pounds. The tire was made at Akron.

Copyright, 1924, by NEA Service
GIT FER HOME BRUNO!
10¢ FEED BARN
SUNDAY RIGS TO HIRE RUBBER TIRED IN GOOD WEATHER - MUD BUGGIES FOR DRUMMERS
NO-NO-I SAY THEY DONT SEEM TO BE NOTHIN' WRONG WITH THEM HIND FEET!!
YOU SAY FOR A WEEK SHE'S BEEN TOO SICK TO EAT?
SO FAR SHES KICKED HIM WITHIN TEN FEET OF DOC POLKS OLD RECORD
I RECKON SHELL DO BETTER TH' NEXT TIME-
STANLEY

THE HORSE DOCTOR CALLED IN ON A CASE AT WHITTAKERS LIVERY STABLE, FORGOT TO CLOSE THE STABLE DOOR BEHIND HIM — MAYBE ITS JUST AS WELL —

Legal Notices

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—
Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

Whereas Alfred Ashline Cropper of Lowell, in said County, has presented to said Court, a petition praying that his name may be changed to that of Alfred Ashline Bedell for the reasons therein set forth:

All persons are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the eleventh day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any they have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this thirty-first day of July, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS,
Register.

a22-25-s2.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—
Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To all persons interested in the estate of Alexander Dube, otherwise known as Alexander Dubee, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased:

Whereas Joseph Dube, the administrator of the estate of said deceased, has presented for allowance, the first account of his administration upon the estate of said deceased:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County, on the fifteenth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed.

And said administrator is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to all persons interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, post-paid, a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this eighth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS,
Register.

J. E. Markham, Atty.
a26-s2-9.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—
Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Margaret Maloney, late of Dracut, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Frederick T. Maloney, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the sixteenth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this thirteenth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS,
Register.

James E. O'Donnell, Attorney.
a19-26, s2.

TRAINS TO AND FROM BOSTON
(Daylight Saving Time)

Southern Division				Portland Division
To Boston		Fr. Boston		To Boston		Fr. Boston
Lve.	Arr.	Lve.	Arr.	Lve.	Arr.	Lve.	Arr.
5.20	6.40	2.30	3.10	6.33	7.36	a6.36	8.21
6.23	7.26	6.00	7.08	10.54	12.21	10.35	11.53
b6.30	7.50	7.35	8.38	5.14pm	6.35	3.20	4.36
6.56	8.00	b8.15	9.30	7.12	8.25	5.14	6.18
7.56	8.37	9.00	9.39	10.20	11.33	6.55	8.14
8.01	8.53	10.00	10.39			9.59	11.17
8.13	9.08	12.30	1.11	Sunday Trains
9.01	9.43	a1.06	2.03	Portland Division
10.03	11.05	a1.30	2.40	12.07	1.22	3.29	4.45
12.07	1.01	2.16	3.15	3.56	4.55	5.10	6.46
12.18	1.06	2.50	3.41	5.26	7.10	8.45	9.50
1.51	2.38	4.00	4.42	8.56	10.06
2.46	3.48	b4.05	5.24	Sunday Trains
a3.30	4.12	5.00	5.43	Southern Division
4.00	4.45	b5.21	6.42	8.04	8.53	8.45	9.55
4.12	5.26	5.38	6.35	8.12	9.03	10.00	10.39
5.36	6.40	5.50	7.17	8.30	9.40	11.30	12.40
b6.05	7.28	6.14	7.22	9.13	10.10	1.00	2.04
7.56	8.41	8.00	8.41	10.30	11.17	5.30	6.24
8.49	9.33	8.30	9.11	2.52	3.35	7.15	8.25
10.56	11.50	10.30	11.43	4.59	5.54	8.00	8.41
		11.26	12.43	7.05	8.41	8.30	9.11
				8.35	9.56	9.25	10.35
				8.40	9.33	10.45	12.03
				10.55	11.50

b via Lexington; a via Wilmington Junction; n not holidays; e Saturdays only.

THE SUN IS ON SALE AT BOTH
NEWSSTANDS
NO. STATION, BOSTON

Legal Notices

SHERIFF'S SALE
Lowell July 24th, A. D., 1924.

Middlesex, ss.

Taken and seized on Execution and will be sold at Public Auction on Saturday the 13th day of September A. D., 1924, at 10 o'clock a. m., at my office, Room 304 Central Block 53 Central Street in Lowell in said County of Middlesex all the right, title and interest which George L. May and Vitaline May, formerly Vitaline De Forge, both of Billerica in said County of Middlesex had (not exempt by law from attachment or levy on Execution) on the 24th day of July, A. D., 1924, at 15 minutes past 3 o'clock p. m., being the time when the same was seized on Execution, in and to the following described Real Estate to wit:

The land in Billerica in said County of Middlesex, with the buildings thereon situated on the northeasterly side of River View Avenue, and being Lots Forty-one (41), Forty-two (42) and Forty-three (43) on a plan of land entitled, "Plan of Concord River Park, North Billerica Mass.," dated January 25 1911, Whitman & Howard, Civil Engineers, which plan is recorded with Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds Plan Book 28, Plan 49, to which reference may be had for a more particular description of said premises.

BERNARD F. GATELY,
Deputy Sheriff.

a20-27-s2.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—
Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Escel Greenberg, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Jennie Greenberg, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the sixteenth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twenty-first day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS,
Register.

a27-s2-9.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—
Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Stephen Fadigan, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Thomas J. Garrity, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the eighth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, of any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this thirteenth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS,
Register.

a18-25-s2.

A German telegraph operator died several years ago from asphyxia after swallowing stones, grass, leaves, wood and scrap-iron, on a bet.

The biggest policeman in the world is believed to be George Klingensmith of Springdale, Pa. He is six feet six inches tall and tips the scale at exactly one-eighth of a ton.

Legal Notices

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—
Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law and all other persons interested in the estate of Guilford L. Stark, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased, and to the Treasurer and Receiver of said Commonwealth:

Whereas, Albert O. Hamel, public administrator, administrator of the estate of said deceased has presented to said Court his petition for license to sell at private sale, in accordance with the offer named in said petition, or upon such terms as may be adjudged best, the real estate of said deceased.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the eighth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to all persons interested, who can be found within the Commonwealth, fourteen days, at least, before said Court, and if any one can not be so found, by publishing the same, once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by delivering a copy of this citation to the Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth, fourteen days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twelfth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS
Register.

a19-26, s2.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—
Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Celanire Forget, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Alice Forget, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the sixteenth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this fourteenth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred, and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS,
Register.

a19-26-s2.

Washington Savings Institution

Pursuant to Section 20, Chapter 167 of the General Laws, notice is hereby given that Book No. 23042, issued by the Washington Savings Institution, is lost or destroyed, payment has been stopped thereon, and application has been made for payment of the amount.

Legal Notices

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—
Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, creditors, and all other persons interested in the estate of Benjamin J. Johnson, who died in Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, intestate, leaving estate in said County of Middlesex to be administered, and not leaving a known widow or heir in this Commonwealth, and to the Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth.

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant letters of administration on the estate of said deceased to Albert O. Hamel, public administrator in and for said County of Middlesex:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the eighth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the said public administrator is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and is further directed to deliver to the Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth a copy of said citation fourteen days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twelfth day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS,
Register.

a19-26, s2

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—
Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Mary E. Roark, sometimes known as Mary E. Burns, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Elizabeth M. Roark, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the sixteenth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twenty-seventh day of August, in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS,
Register.

a29-s2-5.

IF YOU
WANT HELP
IN YOUR HOME
OR BUSINESS
GET THE SUN
CLASSIFIED AD
HABIT

WALTER E. GUYETTE......Auctioneer
53 CENTRAL ST. Tel. 6996 and 6997

Announcements

LOST AND FOUND 2

GOLD PIN with blue sapphire lost Sunday a. m. between Hampshire st. and St. Michael's church, Sixth st. Please return to 37 Hampshire st. Reward.

DISCHARGE PAPERS lost. Good only to owner. 11 Irving street.

Automobiles

AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE 11

POSTOFFICE GARAGE
Several good used cars at low prices. Official headlight focusing station.
Expert auto repairing on any make of car.
WASHING GREASING
First class battery station.

USED PARTS
For all makes and models, 1910 to 1923; 4, 6 and 8 cylinders, motors, rear ends, transmissions, magnetos, generators, tires, rims, windshields. We also buy burned and wrecked cars. Kassell's Auto Co., 188 Water st., Haverhill, Mass. Tel. 4190.

TAXI SERVICE

HENRY'S TAXI—Tel. 7280. Cars for anywhere at anytime.

SERVICE STATION 12

SPECIAL PRICES on oiling and greasing cars. Simonizing a specialty. Tubes repaired. Mayhew Auto Supply, 531 Merrimack st. Tel. 3392.

AUTO CYLINDER REGRINDING
Renew your old motor, power and speed.
W. B. ROPER
19 Broadway Tel. 4304

Business Service

ELECTRICIANS 33

J. M. RICHARDS, electrician. Estimates given on large and small jobs. 206 Appleton st. Tel. 6830 or 6766-J.

PLUMBING AND STEAMFITTING 35

PLUMBING AND HEATING—Estimates given. Thomas Keyes, 277 Westford st. Tel. 1121-R.

Legal Notices

Commonwealth of Massachusetts—
Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, creditors, and all other persons interested in the estate of John D. Grant, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased, intestate.

Whereas a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to Mary J. Grant of Lowell, in the County of Middlesex, without giving a surety on her bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the tenth day of September, A. D., 1924, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.

Witness, George F. Lawton, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this eighteenth day of July in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four.

CHARLES N. HARRIS
Register.

A18-25, s2

RAZOR BLADES—[illegible] sharpen kind of safety razor blade, also razors right. Howard, 200 Cent

PLUMBING AND HEATING

QUIGLEY & HARRINGTON, Tel. 6374. Plumbing and heating, all branches.

CHIMNEYS CLEANED

CHIMNEYS SWEPT, $2.50 a flue. J. M. Kelley, 191 Appleton st. Tel. 4711-M.

FOR CHIMNEY REPAIRS phone 7481-M. Twenty years' guarantee with each job.

ELECTRIC SERVICE

COTE ELECTRIC COMPANY
AUTOMOTIVE ELECTRIC REPAIRS
531 DUTTON ST. TEL. 6373

PROFESSIONAL SERVICES

ACTIVE AND HEALTHY—All but my feet. We specialize in the manufacturing and adjustment of mechanical appliances. Special agents for DR. JENSEN'S foot appliances. Competent fitters always at your service. Come in and talk it over. No charge.
THE FRYE & CRAWFORD DRUG CO.
474 Merrimack St.

STORAGE

STORAGE FOR FURNITURE and pianos, large enough for two-horse load. M. A. Mahoney, 340 Central st.

MATTRESSES AND SPRINGS

EXTRA SPECIAL—For a short time only. We will make your old mattress like new, with a new cover, for $5.00. Mattresses called for and delivered. Ideal Furniture Co., 278 Bridge st. Manufacturers of Everrest Mattresses. Tel. 2570.

MONEY TO LOAN

CASH waiting for 2nd and 3rd mortgages. Apply P. O. Box 1057.

SMOKERS' SUPPLIES

PENNANTS, Lowell, North Chelmsford, Billerica and Elks, various colors. P. K. Shop, 242 Central st.

PAINTING AND PAPERING

PAINTING. Decorating and Paperhanging. All first class workmen. Dwyer Co., 23 Sydney st. Tel. 1177-W.

ROOFING

FITZGERALD CORP. for roofing of highest quality and efficiency at reasonable prices. Estimates freely given with terms to suit all circumstances. Call 7373, 21 Middle st.

ASPHALT SHINGLES—Slates, gravel and roof leak repairing. Get our estimate and compare with others. Jackson & Manning, roofers, 153 Summer st. Tel. 2139-M or 7107-M.

ROOFING AND ROOF REPAIRING—Asphalt shingles, slate, gravel, tar, metal, all kinds of new roofing and roof-leak repairing. All work guaranteed. Estimates free. King the Roofer, 7 Leverett street. Phone 1369-W.

MAXIME GEOFFROY, contractor for shingle, gravel and tar roofs. All kinds of sheet metal work. Roofer of 19 years' experience. Estimates given free, 703 Merrimack street. Tel. 2690.

CHIMNEY AND SLATE ROOF repairing; smoky chimneys a specialty. J. M. Kelley, 191 Appleton street. Tel. 4711-M.

UPHOLSTERING

$20

$20 IS OUR PRICE to upholster a 5-piece set in tapestry, velour and leather. Springs repaired and frames polished. Our work guaranteed. Write or phone and we'll gladly call. Lawrence Upholstery Co., 351 Broadway, Lawrence. Tel. 467-J.

FURNITURE UPHOLSTERED and refinished. All word guaranteed. Lowell Furniture Repair Shop, 5 Lincoln square. Tel. 6665.

UPHOLSTERING—Furniture repairing. G. Gott, 334 Bridge st. Tel. 6070.

MOVING AND TRUCKING

WILLIAM ODDIE—Local and long distance trucking. Freight forwarding. Residence 62 Hampshire street. Tel. 7419.

J. WOOD & SON—Piano and furniture moving, long distance general trucking. 78 Hampshire st. Tel. 2324-W.

M. J. FEENEY—Piano and furniture moving. Parties a specialty. 19 Kinsman st. Tel. 5475-W.

LEO GAGNE—Piano and furniture moving. General trucking, hard wood, coal for sale. 14 Hall street, Tel. 2833-J.

SAND, GRAVEL and cinders for sale. All kinds of trucking. Alex Mailloux, Broadway, Dracut Centre. Tel. 4044-W.

J. BURKE & SON—Furniture and piano moving, local and long distance, reasonable rates. 94 Lilley avenue. Tel. 2696.

MEDICAL SERVICE

DR. ROONEY
Dental Surgeon
Strand Bldg. Central St.
Telephone 2080

FREDERICK DUGDALE, M. D.
— Specialist —
SKIN, BLOOD AND NERVOUS DISEASES
RHEUMATISM, neuralgia, neuritis, lumbago, sciatica, rheumatism, arthritis, gout, catarrh, epilepsy.
CANCER, TUMORS, PILES, Fistula and rectal diseases WITHOUT THE KNIFE.
EYE, ear, nose, throat, stomach.
LOWELL OFFICE, NEW LOWELL FIVE CENT SAVINGS BANK BLDG., JOHN ST., WED. AND SAT., 2-3, 7-8
—Consultation Free—

STOVE REPAIRING

QUINN STOVE REPAIR CO., 140 Middlesex street, sells linings, grates and other parts to fit stoves and ranges. Work promptly attended to by expert repair men. Tel. 1170.

HAVE YOUR STOVE TRIMMINGS polished and nickel plated. Regan & Kirwin, 37 Shattuck st. Tel. 2657.

Nadeau, [illegible]
Tel. 6932-X.

Employm

HELP WANTED—FEMALE

EXPERIENCED SALES LADY on [illegible] and woolens wanted by progressive store that appreciates ability and effort. State age, experience, etc. Write P-15 this office.

WANTED—Women to paint Lamp Shades for us at home. Easy, pleasant work. Whole or part time. Address Nileart Company, 3014, Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

SALESMEN AND AGENTS 33

ADVERTISING MAN—22-28 years of age, clean-cut, ambitious and good personality. One with sufficient executive ability and initiative to be able to take charge of a crew of men within a few weeks. Must be willing to do some traveling. Position permanent with a guaranteed salary of $160-$200 per month. See Mr. Hartwick, between 6 and 8 p. m., Hotel Farragut, Room 21.

CAN USE 2 MORE MEN to complete sales force. See Mr. George, at Hotel Farragut, between 6 and 7 p. m.

HELP WANTED—MALE 34

ONE GOOD LASTER and beatter out on children's turn shoes wanted at once. 25 Pine Hill avenue, Nashua, N. H., N. F. Paquette.

Merchandise

ARTICLES FOR SALE

LIGHT OAK BUFFET, round table and six chairs for sale. Phone 2886-J.

CONCRETE BLOCKS, 8 in. and 12 in. Cloutier Brothers. Tel. 2814-W.

FURNITURE for sale. Four rooms, almost new, including Cabinet Victor Victrola, seventy records. 1081 Middlesex street, lower bell.

FURNITURE—Second-hand and stoves of all kinds, bought and sold. Quality Furniture Co., 329 Middlesex st. Tel. 5231.

MIRRORS RESILVERED, new ones made to order. All work called for and delivered free of charge. Lowell Mirror Mfg. Co., 253 Mammoth Road. Tel. 4656-R.

SQUARE SHOE FIX—Men's rubber heels, 40c; ladies' rubber heels, 35c; men's sewed taps, rubber heels, $1.25; ladies' sewed taps, rubber heels, $1. Basement Store, 11 Merrimack st.

CLOTHING—Men's new and second-hand clothing bought and sold. Students' Clothing Store, 310 Mid'l'x. st.

YOUR LAST YEAR'S STRAW HAT needs a cleaning. Try the Prescott Shine Shop, 14½ Prescott st. Straws 35c, panamas 75c.

HIGHEST PRICES paid for old gold, diamonds, etc. R. T. Mower & Sons, 7 Kearney sq.

LEATHER for shoe repairing; fresh, clean stock. Prices from 25 pound up. Stillwell, 171 Church st.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

PIANOS, special sale, low prices and easy terms at Hounsell's, 704 Bridge street, near 10th street.

LARGE OAK CABINET VICTROLA for sale. Cost $185, will sell reasonably. 69 Coburn street.

Rooms—Board

ROOMS FOR RENT 91

FURNISHED ROOM to let. Call 4515-M.

FURNISHED STEAM HEATED ROOMS to let. Electricity. Also parlor furnace for sale. 164 Merrimack st.

FRONT FURNISHED ROOM to let, in Belvidere. Gentleman preferred. Tel. 3608-R.

MISCELLANEOUS

GENTLEMAN PIANIST, teacher, long experienced, accredited, skilled, trustworthy, will exchange teaching services for furnished room with good family. Enquiries invited and solicited. Address P-60, Sun Office.

Real Estate For Rent

APARTMENTS—TENEMENTS 94

4-ROOM TENEMENT to let. 145 Salem street. Rent reasonable.

TWO TENEMENTS to let. Up and down stairs, six rooms each, at 31 Pleasant street. Inquire at 573 Central street.

6-ROOM FLAT to let. 484 Wilder st. Back and front piazzas. Key at 111 Westford st.

5-ROOM FLAT to let. Modern improvements. 201 Smith st.

WILL BUY PIGS. All sizes. Phone 1882-W.

5-ROOM TENEMENT to let. Gorham street. Electricity. 33 Tyler street.

Real Estate For Sale

HOUSES FOR SALE 101

7-ROOM HOUSE for sale. Near Gorham and Blossom streets. In good shape; steam heat, bath, open plumbing; three-car garage and stable. Price $4200. Call 3315-W.

BUSINESS PROPERTY

I HANDLE CITY and suburban property; also farms. Howard 64 Central st. Rooms 24-25.

NEW STORE to let. Gas and electricity. 52 Charles st. Tel. 2697.

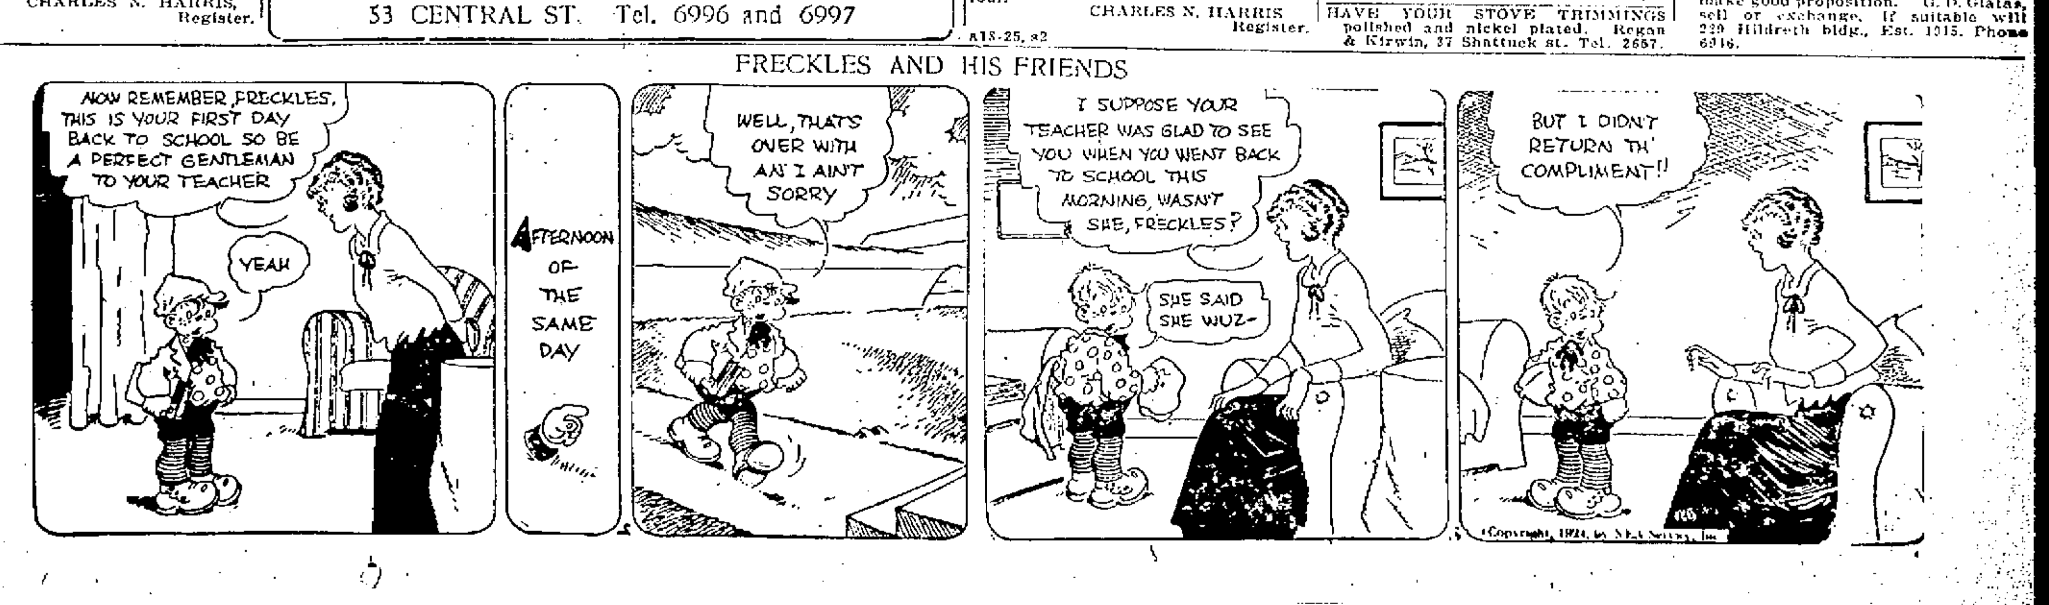
STORE to let; large, pleasant, good location; suitable for any line of business. Rent reasonable. 482 Lawrence st. Inquire rear 480 Lawrence st. after 6.30 evenings

I MAKE A SPECIALTY of business chances. See me if you want to buy or sell. Howard, 64 Central street, Room 24-25.

WANTED—REAL ESTATE 102

WANTED—To hear from parties having property in Lowell and vicinity to make good proposition. G. D. Glatas, sell or exchange, if suitable will 229 Hildreth bldg., Est. 1915. Phone 6916.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS



NOW REMEMBER FRECKLES, THIS IS YOUR FIRST DAY BACK TO SCHOOL SO BE A PERFECT GENTLEMAN TO YOUR TEACHER
YEAH
AFTERNOON OF THE SAME DAY
WELL, THAT'S OVER WITH AN' I AIN'T SORRY
I SUPPOSE YOUR TEACHER WAS GLAD TO SEE YOU WHEN YOU WENT BACK TO SCHOOL THIS MORNING, WASN'T SHE, FRECKLES?
SHE SAID SHE WUZ-
BUT I DIDN'T RETURN TH' COMPLIMENT!!
Copyright, 1924, by NEA Service, Inc.

ABOLISH
WAY LABOR BOARD

Setting Up Of More Flexible Machinery Under Government Direction for Handling R. R. Labor Disputes in Speech at Wheeling, W. Va.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 2.—Abolition of the railroad labor board in its present form and the setting up of more flexible machinery under governmental direction for handling of railroad labor disputes was advocated yesterday by John W. Davis, the democratic presidential candidate.

Moreover, Mr. Davis, in a Labor day address to the Ohio valley trades and labor assembly subscribed to the broad principle that because of the widespread effect industrial disputes have upon commerce and industry, it is the duty of the government to lend its aid and encouragement in every possible way to their settlement.

Two Fundamentals

Mr. Davis expressed the view that in the setting up of machinery through which there could be "fair and calm discussion," of their subjects at issue with "thorough-going publicity," there were two fundamentals, first, that the boards be composed of representatives of the employers and of the particular crafts concerned—this would leave out public representation such as there now is on the railroad labor board—and, second, that such boards, instead of being fixed in their personnel should be filled by appointments made from time to time as the controversies arise.

The democratic nominee declares that whether legal machinery exists to compel the submission of labor disputes to the railroad labor board or whether its decisions could be enforced were of minor importance if the board itself enjoyed the confidence of the parties to the dispute and if it realized that its chief function was to encourage a spirit of co-operation and friendship between employer and employe.

Laugh and Applaud

Nr. Davis' statement with regard to the settlement of labor disputes came in the course of a general exposition of his views regarding labor. He announced at the outset that he did not "intend to make a political speech, but his audience alternately laughed and applauded when he make several veiled thrusts at his opponents in the presidential race.

He also was liberally applauded as he concluded with a call to the laboring men and women of America to lead their countrymen in a movement to have "America take her rightful place in the councils of humanity," and to see "that she becomes the first among the nations in the service of mankind."

"Those who counsel isolation in any part of government policy, taxes, tariff or foreign affairs," Mr. Davis said, "are blind leaders of the blind. We shall have world peace and world disarmament if we are willing to work for it, to struggle for it, to risk for it. I have great sympathy with the slogan, 'America first,' but I want to make my own definition of it."

Three Great Duties

Adaption of the political and commercial policies of the nation to the new conditions in the modern world so as to make the country secure against war, was declared by the democratic nominee to be one of "the three great constructive duties before the American people" if labor is to hold the ground that it has gained in centuries of struggle. He enunciated as the others the preservation of the equality of right.

In his treatment of the last two subjects, Mr. Davis declared himself as follows:

For the strengthening of the public school system, but against the proposed federal department of education as an entry "on the fatal path of a state monopoly of education."

For ratification of the child labor amendment so that "human greed" may not again close the doors to education that has been opened.

Against any "trifling with" the natural rights of freedom of speech, freedom of the press and freedom in matters of religious belief and practice.

Against proposals to curb the power of the courts to protect the weak against unwise and unjust laws.

For the writing in plainer terms of the law against the use of injunction in labor disputes, if that be necessary to make the courts stay within the limitations already fixed by act of congress.

Not a Political Speech

At the outset of his address Mr. Davis said he would not make a political speech.

"We meet as Americans on an American holiday," he said. "We can afford for the moment to forget political parties and the issues that divide them, and speak of things concerning which all true Americans should agree."

Reviewing then briefly the struggles of labor against "the forces of human greed and avarice" to come to its present position, Mr. Davis said:

"If labor is to hold the ground that it has gained, which is another way of saying that if America is to remain American, there are three great constructive duties before the American people.

"The first is to preserve equality of opportunity and make the nation secure against any tendency to harden into a system of caste. We do not want men and women in this country to remain tied to the stations which their fathers occupied. We wish all fathers and mothers to nurse the hope that their children may lead happier and broader lives than they themselves have known.

Equality of Right

"The second duty is to so arrange and so administer our government as to preserve equality of right. Whether we are dealing with the tariff, with taxation, with finance, with the railroads, with agriculture, with industry or what subject soever, we must make sure that there is no discrimination in our laws, either for or against the farm or the factory, the countryside or the city, the east or the west. All our laws must be so framed and so applied as to leave all men every liberty which is consistent with the equal liberties of others. This was founded as the land of freedom. We must keep it so.

"And in the third place, we must make the nation secure against war or the threat of war by adapting our political and commercial policies to the new conditions that exist in the modern world.

"Equality of opportunity, however, is an empty phrase unless all men are left free to grasp it. Not only must laws be just and equal, but we must see that they do not evade those natural rights which neither congresses nor legislatures, presidents nor governors, courts nor commissions, may rightfully restrict.

"Freedom of speech—which means the right to say things that displease as well as the things that please those in power; freedom of assembly, freedom of labor, freedom of the press, freedom in matters of religious belief and practice—these are rights too sacred to be trifled with. There is no danger in their exercise. It is the attempt at their suppression that leads to excess or explosion.

A "Red" Around Every Corner

"I do not envy the frame of mind which causes some men to charge all who disagree with them with plotting the destruction of the republic. To judge from some recent utterances there are those in this country who see a conspiracy whenever three workmen meet together, a riot when their number grow to 10, and a revolution if it reaches 100. Around every corner lurks a 'Red,' and nothing but the utmost vigilance of these self-appointed saviors will rescue the country from the destruction he is plotting.

"Of course, in a country so diversified as ours, many mistaken ideas are set afloat. Wild theories of government and of society are thrown up in a population that contains so many sorts of men. But I am one of those who continue to believe that the best disinfectant, moral or physical, is fresh air.

"The best defense against the tyranny of the few, or the despotism of the many, is free and open debate. I prefer liberty with all its perils, including the liberty to make mistakes, to any system by which the government seeks to set itself up as the universal shepherd of us all.

Right of Free Contract

"Not the least of these natural rights is the right of free contract. Towards grown men and women, responsible citizens of the republic, we cannot and we should not take a paternalistic and protective attitude.

"If government can fix the limit of a day's work in ordinary industrial and commercial pursuits, it can, at its own discretion, make those limits long or short. It should attempt to do neither, but leave the parties to all such contracts to bargain with each other as their mutual benefit requires. The wag contract of the adult, no less than any other contract, should be a voluntary agreement. Anything other than this I believe to be impossible, undesirable, corrupting and tyrannical. It is only when contracts rest upon consent that those who make them are bound in morals to their observance. When labor bargains on equal terms with its employer, both parties to the contract owe it to themselves and owe it to society to keep and perform with scrupulous honesty the contracts they have made.

Settlement of Disputes

"While I believe employer and employe should be left to bargain with each other in such manner as they see fit, it must not be forgotten that violent disputes between them are not only the source of great loss to both, but are disastrous to the industry and commerce of the country. In view of these facts, it is the duty of the government to lend its aid and encouragement in every way possible to settle such disputes. It should provide machinery through which there may be fair and calm discussion of the subject of dispute by both employer and employe; mediation if necessary by nonprejudiced persons and thorough-going publicity of all the facts.

"Two things seem to me to be fundamental in setting up such machinery. Of these the first is that the adjustment board when created should consist of representatives of the employers on the one hand, and representatives of the particular craft concerned in the controversy on the other. The second is that it is better in every way that boards of adjustment or boards of investigation and review, instead of being fixed in their personnel, should be filled by appointments made from time to time as controversies arise.

Deal With Human Nature

"Nothing is more difficult, as recent experience has taught us, than for a permanent board to retain the confidence of employer and employe. Each decision it is called upon to make exposes it to the charge of having unduly favored one side or the other and is pointed to as a precedent when subsequent decisions are to be made. Human nature is quick to charge other men with preconceived opinions—and labor disputes deal not with fixed rules of law; they deal with human nature.

"Whether or not legal authority exists to compel the submission of labor disputes to such a board, or whether or not the decision of any such board may be enforced, is of minor consequence, if the board itself enjoys the confidence of the parties to the disputes, and if it realizes that its chief function is to encourage a spirit of co-operation and friendship between employer and employes.

"It is in the light of those principles and of our accumulated experience that we should rewrite these provisions of the Esch-Cummins Transportation act that deal with the settlement of labor disputes."

Abuse of Injunctions

"It is because I believe in a liberty that is above and beyond all governmental control that I cannot sympathize with those who would give to congresses and legislatures, or even to a popular majority, the power to do whatever they might see fit. There is no such thing in America as government at discretion. It is not the strong who need protection against unwise and unjust laws, nor against the encroachments of power; it is the weak on whom the burden of such things is most apt to fall.

"They have the right to call upon the courts to say to every governmental autocrat, great or small, 'thus far shalt thou go and no further.' I know judges are human and that they make many mistakes, men do not cease to be men simply because you put them in a black silk gown and set them in a judicial chair, but on the other hand they do not become prophets or peers or sages simply by being elected senators or members of congress or delegates to the state legislature.

"There is one complaint, however, which labor has had cause to make against judicial process which is well founded. In my judgment there have been many cases in the past where the writ of injunction has been abused in connection with labor disputes. Injunctions have been issued which by their terms went beyond any proper limit and sought to deprive men of a lawful exercise of indisputable rights. . . It is not well for society, it is not well for the courts, it is not well for the parties themselves, that these things should be so.

"When I was your representative in congress I was given opportunity to take part in framing and defending legislation intended to correct these evils. . . . If the legislation already passed in not sufficient guidance in this matter we must write it in plainer terms."

Conference at Chicago

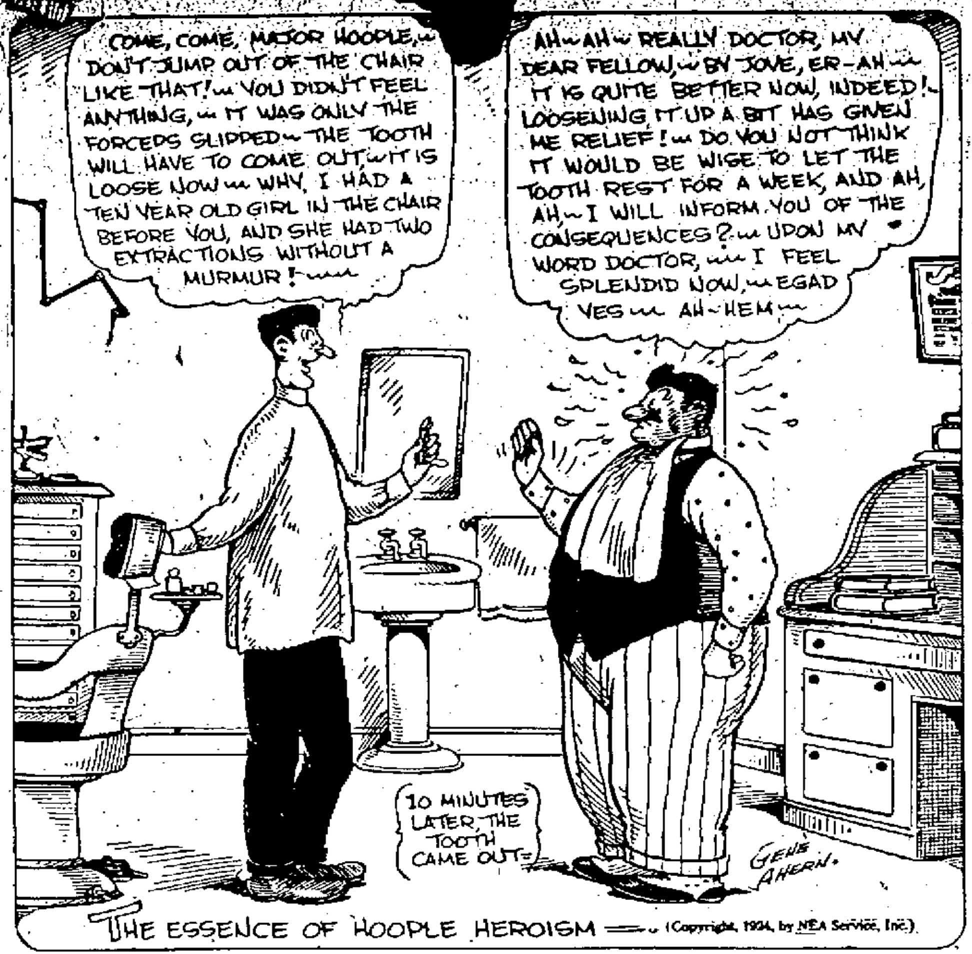
ABOARD THE DAVIS SPECIAL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO CHICAGO, Mount Vernon, Ohio, Sept. 2.—(By the Associated Press)—Having declared in his Labor day address for a new deal in the handling of industrial disputes and for the ratification of the child labor amendment, John W. Davis came into the west today to state more fully his position with respect to farm relief, the tariff, conservation and other issues.

Beyond the trip to Denver and the return journey through Missouri, the itinerary for the western campaign still is undetermined. It will be considered further at conferences in Chicago today between Mr. Davis and his advisers.

Mr. Davis had the most strenuous day yesterday of any of his campaign. Besides his set address at Wheeling, W. Va., he made about a dozen rear platform talks.

EXCURSIONS TO REVERE BEACH
SUNDAYS, TUESDAYS AND THURSDAYS
Round Trip $1.00
Cars leave John St. at 9.15 a. m.
Return leave Beach at 7.00 p. m.
EASTERN MASS. ST. RY. CO.

EXCURSIONS TO SALEM WILLOWS
Round Trip $1.25
Via regular cars between Lowell and Lawrence connecting with Special Through Cars at Lawrence.
SUNDAYS—Leave Paige St.—9.00 a. m. Return from Willows—7.00 p. m.
WEDNESDAYS—Leave Paige St.—12.00 noon. Return from Willows 9.00 p. m.
SATURDAYS—Leave Paige St.—1.00 p. m. Return from Willows—9.00 p. m.
EASTERN MASS. ST. RY. CO.



OUR HOUSE
COME, COME, MAJOR HOOPLE,~ DON'T JUMP OUT OF THE CHAIR LIKE THAT!~ YOU DIDN'T FEEL ANYTHING,~ IT WAS ONLY THE FORCEPS SLIPPED~ THE TOOTH WILL HAVE TO COME OUT,~IT IS LOOSE NOW~ WHY, I HAD A TEN YEAR OLD GIRL IN THE CHAIR BEFORE YOU, AND SHE HAD TWO EXTRACTIONS WITHOUT A MURMUR!~
AH~AH~ REALLY DOCTOR, MY DEAR FELLOW,~ BY JOVE, ER-AH~ IT IS QUITE BETTER NOW, INDEED!~ LOOSENING IT UP A BIT HAS GIVEN ME RELIEF!~ DO YOU NOT THINK IT WOULD BE WISE TO LET THE TOOTH REST FOR A WEEK, AND AH, AH~I WILL INFORM YOU OF THE CONSEQUENCES?~ UPON MY WORD DOCTOR,~ I FEEL SPLENDID NOW,~ EGAD YES~ AH-HEM~
(10 MINUTES LATER, THE TOOTH CAME OUT=)
GENE AHERN.
THE ESSENCE OF HOOPLE HEROISM =

(Copyright, 1924, by NEA Service, Inc.)

REQUEST TO HAVE PIPE AND TOBACCO BURIED WITH HIM GRANTED

KULMBACH, Bohemia, Sept. 2.—Old Werner Bauer, farmer of Ebersbach, near here, enjoyed smoking so much that in his will he requested that his pipe and tobacco pouch be buried with him. When he died the other day his wife honored his wishes and of her own accord added a box of matches.

TWO KILLED IN HAVERHILL FIRE

State Police Join in Investigation to Determine Cause of Explosion

12-Tenement House Destroyed—Two Killed, Five Firemen Gassed

HAVERHILL, Sept. 2.—State police, aided by local inspectors, today began an investigation to determine the cause of the explosion which practically destroyed the 12-tenement building at 210-218 Washington street early yesterday morning, causing the death of Frank Erenzo and Zony Trucci, gassing five firemen, injuring two others and driving 40 men, women and children to the streets. Both state and local officials discredit the theory that gas or still explosions are responsible.

The crater of Katmai volcano, which is now a part of the United States national monument, has a circumference of 8.14 miles.

Rust spots on metal should be rubbed with a cork that has been dipped in paraffin.

CASES DISPOSED OF IN THE DISTRICT COURT

James Looron of Westford, who was arrested in the square by Patrolman Owen Conway and Traffic Officer Paul Spillane while attempting to ride a horse through heavy traffic, was arraigned in district court this morning on a charge of drunkenness. He said he had just purchased the animal and was proceeding to Westford when interrupted. The case was filed.

Three Nova Scotian youths, apprehended in a railroad box car by Sergt. Howard Simonds and Officer Thomas G. Graves of the Boston & Maine railroad while stealing a ride through this city last night, were given suspended sentences of one month each in the house of correction.

As the result of a liquor raid by Officers Aldrich and Killoy in the tenement of Peter Allferakis in Adams street yesterday, the latter was arraigned in court this morning on a charge of illegal keeping. He pleaded not guilty and the case was continued to Sept. 13. The raid netted 25 half-pints of liquor and 150 pints of alcohol "split."

Stanley Konieczny of Dracut, charged with receiving the stolen automobile of Robert C. Bryan of Chelmsford, was continued to Sept. 12.

A statutory offense, preferred against William J. Cates was continued to Friday, defendant being placed under $1500 bonds.

Most auto fires are due to short circuits and back firing.

WEDNESDAY SPECIALS
STORE OPEN ALL DAY
—OUR LOW RENT LOWERS THE PRICE—
VEIN STEAK 25c lb. Good Quality
RIB PORK CHOPS 18c to 22c lb.
Squire's Cooked CORNED BEEF 22c lb.
Fresh Cut HAMBURG 9c lb. 3 lbs. 25c
Sugar Buy now before another advance. Limited with other goods. 5 lbs. 37c
ROASTING PORK 17c to 19c lb.
BONELESS POT ROASTS 13c to 16c lb.
Red, Meaty SPARE RIBS 11c lb.
CORNED THICK ENDS CABBAGE FREE 15c Lb.
EGGS 3 doz. $1 Good Western
Large Pkg. RINSO 19c Reg. price 23c
Bradt's Common CRACKERS 11c lb. Reg. price 13c
PAN BISCUITS 6c Pan Reg. price 8c
J&M BRAND PRIZE FLOUR WEDNESDAY SPECIAL SAVE 10c PER BAG $1.14 (Milled from Old Wheat)
Fresh Dug POTATOES, 10 lbs. 19c
SUPPER SALE—4 TO 6 ONLY
Fresh Churned BUTTER 38c lb.
Good Old CHEESE 19c lb.
Fresh Made TOMATO or BLOOD SAUSAGE, lb. 15c
SAUNDERS PUBLIC MARKET
Wholesale and Retail
Call 6600 161 GORHAM STREET Free Delivery

FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE
REBUILDS STRENGTH
NO DRUGS
OVER 60 YEARS OF SUCCESS

OVER 10,000 PEOPLE ATTEND LABOR DAY EXERCISES ON COMMON

Events Arranged by Trades and Labor Council Are Thoroughly Enjoyed—Baseball Game, Band Concert and Track Meet in the Afternoon—Evening Program

In keeping with a country-wide custom dating back a number of years, Lowell yesterday observed the first Monday in September—and an unusually hot one at that—as Labor day, the one holiday of the year dedicated solely to the interests of that vast army of toilers who keep in motion the wheels of busy industrial life.

Paradoxical as it may seem, labor had a capital day. That is, the day was generally observed with a cessation of business in the workshops and factories, where labor plays the title role in the continuous performance of work. It was, in short, labor's day off and all hands joined in to make it a memorable occasion.

Lowell's program, arranged and supervised under the direction of the local Trades and Labor council, was carried out in detail on the South common, beginning with a baseball game at 1 o'clock and concluding with an open-air meeting and band concert in the evening. To vary the day's events, a track and field meet followed the ball game.

A crowd of more than 10,000 people were assembled about the South common bandstand when Aitken's military band heralded the beginning of the evening program. The principal speakers, Rev. Jones I. Corrigan, S.J., of Boston college, Rev. Robert A. Bakeman of Peabody, and the mayor arrived shortly before 8 o'clock, having previously been the guests of the Trades and Labor committee at dinner in Marie's restaurant.

James D. Breen, president of the Trades and Labor council, presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers, first the mayor, who extended a note of welcome, and then Rev. Fr. Corrigan, who predicted that "the future of labor in this country is brighter than in any country on the globe, and the American worker will come into his own in the very short, near future.

"We are gathered here to celebrate labor's day," he said, "that day dedicated throughout the length and breadth of the land to the twenty-five millions of actual workers and the fifty or sixty thousand others dependent upon them for support. It is America's Labor day.

"The worker's labor is the only means by which he can support his wife and children and give them a better opportunity than he himself had. Work is the expression of manhood, and the true dignity of labor, then, comes from this fact. It is not recognized here as it should be, because labor is not paid as it has a right to be. There is a concentration of wealth here that is even greater than in Great Britain, and it seems to be the recognized thing in this country that industry is for profit and wealth and not for the worker. The true idea is that industry is for all people, for the upbuilding of a nation, and no nation can be prosperous unless wealth is equitably distributed. It is a fact that the dignity of labor, based upon manhood, has not been recognized.

"Labor's three great complaints against industry as organized today are as follows: First—It makes a man insecure. He is not sure of his job from one week to another. His job is not his. Second—Insufficiency of pay for work performed. Two-thirds of the fathers of families in this country do not get a living wage, and they will never be content unless they do. And they shouldn't be content until they get enough to support a wife and family with a fair day's work done. It is man's God-given right that he get a living wage. Third—Inhumanity of treatment. No man should be obliged to work more than eight hours a day, or seven days a week. It is against God's law, which says there shall be one day of rest at least.

"What then are labor's claims? A living and a savin wage, decent hours and human conditions, eternal rights, and labor has it in its hands to get them.

"The day of labor, believe me has come at last in this country. In one, two or three years, there will be tremendous changes come to pass. And so I say to labor, push on. Stand for the right and work for it according to prudent methods. You don't need the red flag of radicalism to accomplish the end."

Rev. Mr. Bekeman

The third speaker to be introduced was Rev. Robert A. Bakeman of Peabody, probation officer of that city and one of its mayoralty candidates.

"I am not primarily a friend of labor," he began, "but rather an enemy of tyrants and a friend of justice. Why is Labor day? Is it an opportunity for politicians to give you the pre-election hand, or is it a day that says labor is fundamentally dignified?

"My friends, I tell you it is the latter, and to get out here and talk shows that labor is becoming more conscious of its dignity. Think, talk and act, that's what we're doing, acting politically and acting industrially. We are under the universal law today of cause and effect. Carpenters, weavers, etc. distinguish themselves from others because they have learned their respective trades skilfully.

"Man is not a mere machine. He is bore, because he is made in the image of God. The first charge of labor, therefore, is the well-being of the employe. The second charge is an equality of opportunity to education, and in this respect, I favor a state university that will allow children to go as far as their talents will allow. Thirdly, demand a share in management. Be a partner in industry, its production and prosperity."

At the conclusion of Mr. Bakeman's talk, the Honey Boy quartet entertained with a series of favorite selections, accompanied by the band.

The Trades and Labor committee in charge of the meeting consisted of the following officers: President, James D. Breen; vice president, Michael McGoohan; secretary, Parker F. Murphy; assistant secretary, Mrs. Rachael Campbell; financial secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Annie Reagan. Trustees, Patrick Fell, Frank Horn and Thomas Crowe. Sergeant-at-arms, Daniel Moynihan.

SUN BREVITIES

Watson Bros., Printers, 243 Dutton st.

Rebuilt batteries, $10. Postoffice Gar.

Catering, the best. Lydon, Tel. 4934.

Tailors' trimmings and dressmakers' supplies. Bertrand, 24 Middle street.

Eat Cameron's Ice Cream—Callahan and O'Malley, props. Tel. 6487-6438.

Fire and liability insurance. Daniel J. O'Brien, Wyman's Exchange.

J. F. Donohoe, 222-223 Hildreth bldg., real estate and insurance. Tel.

Miss Mary Clancy of 560 Broadway is spending the holidays at Newfound Lake, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Bernier have returned after enjoying a pleasant trip to New Hampshire.

A regular meeting of the city council will be held this evening in city hall at 7.45 o'clock.

The budget and audit commission will meet tomorrow morning at 11.30 o'clock in the city auditor's office to approve weekly payrolls.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan D. Parker of this city announce the birth of a son, Allan D. Jr., in Boston early yesterday morning.

Dr. and Mrs. A. S. McLeod of 134 Westford street have returned from a pleasant trip to the Maritime Provinces.

Special State Police Officer William H. Shields and daughter Gladys have returned from a two weeks' vacation in Sherbrooke, P. Q.

Mr. and Mrs. David Parthenais and daughter Crescence of 30 Phillips street have returned home after an enjoyable vacation spent at Hampton beach.

Miss Virginia Blanchard of Woonsocket, R. I., has returned home after spending the holidays with her sister, Mrs. Thomas Rainville of 653 Broadway.

Mrs. J. K. Farnum of 53 Westford street has returned after an enjoyable auto trip through Vermont, New York and Canada.

In the Quarter-Century column in Saturday's paper, Francis O'Hare, agent of the board of health, was listed among those who were married 25 years ago. It was a different Francis, however, whose name is not now in the directory.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Knight of 185 Grand street with Miss Winifred Whelan and Miss Grace Meade are enjoying a motor trip through New York and New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Le Riche of 26 Robinson street and family are spending their vacation in Montreal, Canada.

Helen G. McQuesten has spent two and one-half weeks with her grandmother, Mrs. John McQuestion, at Middletown, R. I.

Thomas Edison's diet consists of spinach, tomatoes, carrots, sardines and milk three times daily.

Commodore CHECK DANCING
TONIGHT—Battle of Music
"MAL" HALLETT VS. MINER-DOYLE'S ORCH.
GIFT NIGHT 100 Powder Compacts to the Ladies
Admission 10c—Latest Dance Music

MID-WEEK SOCIAL
COMMODORE BALLROOM
WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 3
Leo Daly's Orchestra Admission 30¢

MERRIMACK PARK — TONIGHT
OLD TIMERS' NIGHT—Every Other Dance a Waltz

LAKEVIEW TONIGHT Ukulele Night
Check Dancing
Ukuleles Free to Lucky Winners
BRODERICK'S ENTERTAINERS